DARWIN TULIPS

These tulips should be grown by the florists either for late forcing or for outside planting, for blooms during the latter part of May. The varieties here listed are the cream of the best varieties. This is a rare opportunity for the florists to at least try a few hundred to get better acquainted with these, the MOST POPULAR TULIPS.

Autocars Quickly Build Up New and Valuable Trade for The George Wittbold Co.

Average 50 miles a day each, making deliveries to South Chicago, Chicago Heights, Lake Forest, Highland Park and Des Plaines

RAPID and economical business expansion—this is a result which makes itself apparent almost immediately to those who adopt the Autocar Delivery Vehicle. It is not so much the lower costs of motor delivery (though these soon prove themselves less than horse equipment) as it is the increased business and ability to take care of it that make the Autocar a wise investment.

Take the case of The Geo. Wittbold Co., florists, who have an extensive trade in all parts of Chicago. In discussing the advantages of motor delivery at his place of business, 737 Buckingham Place, Mr. Wittbold said:

"We bought our first Autocar nearly two years ago and it gave such splendid results that another was added five months later. The two cars have been a revelation in quick and reliable service. They average 50 miles a day each and carry not only the heavy plants and other decorative products, but cut flowers and lighter goods as well.

"With our Autocars we reach South Chicago and Chicago Heights (20 miles south), Lake Forest and Highland Park (18 miles north), and Des Plaines (22 miles west) without any difficulty at all. Before we had motor trucks it was very hard to develop business in those places.

"Formerly to go to South Chicago on a decorating contract we would have to go a day ahead with a team, and bring the team back the next day. Or else we would send the goods 'by express.' Now one of our Autocars starts about 7 o'clock in the morning, getting to South Chicago by 9 o'clock and getting back at noon, ready to make another similar trip in the afternoon.

"We have had no repair expense at all on the cars. Some previous motor trucks we had were not satisfactory. They were stalled all the time. The Autocars are never held up and we always know they are on the job. It is no exaggeration to say that our Autocars have widened our territory and are building up our business every day. They reach customers we never reached before and by taking advantage of their greater delivery possibilities we are looking forward to continuous business expansion."

The Autocar

"Used in Every Line of Business"

What the Autocar is doing for The Geo. Wittbold Co. it can do for YOUR delivery system. There are more than 1700 Autocar owners to testify to this

Ask for "Suggestions in Evergreens." It's a beautiful little booklet that we want you to have. Ask for your copy today.

At the right is a photographic reproduction of our Standard Smilax shipping cases, Nos. 1 to 6, inclusive.

Our greens are shipped in light, strongly manufactured, paper-lined veneered shipping cases, and great care is exercised in our packing department to insure the stock reaching our customers in absolutely first-class condition, fresh, crisp and clean. Practically all of our evergreens are shipped by express. Our express rates, however, are 25 per cent less than regular merchandise rates.

TERMS

Where customers are unknown to us and not rated in the mercantile books, we ask for satisfactory references or cash with order. We guarantee safe and timely delivery of all express shipments, but consider our responsibility at an end for all freight shipments when receipt is taken from the railroads. Telegraphic orders are shipped on the day of their receipt, but we urge that all orders be sent in as early as possible, and, in all cases, please be particular to tell us the day you want the goods to arrive. We are familiar with all the express schedules and can gauge the time to ship so that you will surely receive the goods on time, and at the same time we shall be sure they arrive fresh.

CHAMPION. Everywhere acknowledged to be a money maker in scarlet Carnations. $6.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000. In lots of 5000, at $45.00 per 1000.

Chrysanthemums

In exhibition varieties our list includes all the newest and best varieties. In commercial varieties our list includes all that are worth growing.

Novelties of the Season

EARLY FROST. (Dorner.) A pure white, early, coming about Oct. 1. Incurved type.

MT. GREENWOOD. (Johnson.) A seedling of W. H. Duckham. In form resembles Chadwick, maturing midseason. Very fine pink in color. $1.50 per doz., $12.00 per 100.

The Cream of 1914

INDIAN SUMMER. The bronze sport of Chadwick.

MRS. E. A. SEIDEWITZ. An unusually fine late pink.

OCONTO. Our finest early white.

SMITH'S IDEAL. Midseason white; an excellent shipper.

MISTLETOE. Very late white, with trace of pink.

GOLDEN EATON. Dark yellow sport of Yellow Eaton.

Rooted Cuttings: $7.00 per 100, $60.00 per 1000.

CHIEFTAIN. The pink that everyone needs. Rooted Cuttings: $3.00 per 100, $20.00 per 1000.

Our list of Commercial Varieties will be mailed on application.

Prices quoted in this advertisement for The Trade only.

Pompons

More popular than big Mums, and just as profitable. Our list of varieties will cover the season in each color. Our novelties of last season have raised the standard and are varieties you need if you would grow the best.

PEACE. The variety which won the Silver Cup at the Chrysanthemum Show at Indianapolis. Blush white in color. The finest novelty of the season. $2.00 per doz., $15.00 per 100.

HARVEST MOON. A companion to the collection sent out by us last season, but earlier than Golden Climax. Pure yellow, maturing Oct. 20. $2.00 per doz., $15.00 per 100.

GOLDEN HARVEST, GOLDEN CLIMAX, GOLDEN WEST and WESTERN BEAUTY, our novelties of last season, and the early pink, NESCO, are the finest in their colors and seasons. These we offer at $5.00 per 100.

Our new Catalogue will be ready about January 1, but we are ready to quote you on your requirements at any time.

HOOSIER BEAUTY

THE NEW ROSE FOR 1915

If you need a more profitable red rose than the one you are growing, HOOSIER BEAUTY is your variety.

It is as fragrant as Richmond;
Has more petals;
A stiffer stem;
A texture like velvet;
In color, glowing crimson-scarlet, with darker shadings.

The bud is of good length, ships well in the close-cut state, and opens into a magnificent bloom, quite dazzling in velvety brilliance.

As soon as thoroughly established in the soil, it sends out long, stiff growths with a bud on every shoot.

It does not need to be pinched like Killarney or Richmond, but produces, naturally, stems 2 to 3 ft. in length; each plant keeps up a very close succession of bloom, and again, unlike Richmond, it is a good summer rose.

It is a clean grower, and shows very little inclination to "spot" or mildew; indeed the variety is quite clear of both. It is an easy doer, grows side by side with Richmond and Killarney, and has become instantly popular and in heavy demand in the four cities where blooms have been sold; flower buyers through the section calling for it by name.

We are describing the rose very fully in response to questions asked us by intending purchasers.

So free in both growth and production of bloom is it, that it is already recognized as having the qualities of a great commercial cut flower variety.

We have splendid own root stock propagated in September, while our grafted stock is worked on the highest grade of British Manetti procurable.

PRICE

Own Root..$30.00 per 100; $250.00 per 1000
Grafted.... 35.00 per 100; 300.00 per 1000

Our New Rose, Mrs. Moorfield Storey

Has a strong, upright growth, the wood being very stout and smooth, with large, handsome, dark green foliage, practically mildew or black-spot proof. The flowers, which are freely produced, are of good size and substance with abundant petals, opening freely. The color is a shell pink, deepening toward the center, with the large smooth petals tipped deep rose. It will be a fine, yet distinct, companion for the Mrs. Charles Russell rose.

THE TALE OF THE TANGO BOUQUET

EVERYBODY knows what the tango did to the trade—it brought the beaux so close to the bouquets the flowers, and then the florists, got hurt.

The new style dances cut a big hole in the business of the city florists. There are plenty of stores that, during the social season, send out, each afternoon, dozens and dozens of corsage bouquets. Still send them out, but fewer last season than in recent years, for one by one the dancers passed them up. But now the tide is turning.

With the multiplication of material for corsage bouquets, the sale for this class of cut flower arrangement increased tremendously. With a variety of flowers to match any costume, it got so that corsage bouquets were one of the most important items for city retailers who cater to the high class trade. Many of the ladies on their lists never went out of an evening without flowers.

How Orders Dwindled.

Then came a sudden falling off in the orders for flowers for evening wear. The cheaper corsages for afternoon wear still were selling as well as ever, but the popularity of flowers for evening wear suddenly was on the wane. It particularly affected the demand for cattleyas.

One retailer who was at a loss to explain the loss of business made bold to ask one of his customers, who was a dancing man, why he no longer ordered bouquets for his wife. The answer was:

"Why! It is awfully awkward. If I dance, I want to dance right, but the lady screams, 'Look out for my flowers!' Now, I would much rather dance and know that I am dancing these new dances right, instead of taking care that I do not squeeze some flowers. So my wife agrees that she will wear her flowers at times we are not going to dances."

And that was absolutely all there was to it. People simply were tired paying a dollar or more apiece for orchids to either be careful or smash them up.

The new close style of dancing had brought the change.

Your up-to-date florist doesn't sit passively and watch some passing fad cut a hole in his business—he gets busy devising ways and means of holding the trade, getting up something new and novel to turn the whim of the moment into a feeder of the cash register.

The New Ideas.

So it came about that last season we began to read in the society columns about the new style of bouquet that Miss So and So wore to Mrs. Whatyemacallit's dinner dance. Somebody usually gave the new bouquet a name. And names count for a lot. If they have the right hook, they catch on—the barb clings in the memory.

A Device for Keeping the Beau Away from the Bouquet.

First it was the bunny hug bouquet—that was a good one. The only trouble was the name was better than the bouquet. The flowers were placed with the stems within one of the little plush or fur-covered figures of a rabbit that the novelty stores sell for children's party favors; ribbons were attached for hanging the bouquet from the dancer's arm. With the center of gravity taken into consideration, so that the bouquet would hang right side up, the arrangement had some vogue with those who tried it, but its use did not spread over the country as happens when a real success is achieved.

Then an ingenious florist conceived a corsage arrangement that he called the tango because of its floppiness—he put some light steel spring wires in the center of his bunch after having tied on the ends such small flowers as valley or sweet peas, using narrow ribbon for bows and for wrapping the wire where it might show. This was good, but if the lady wore the bouquet too low it was in the same danger as corsages made in the ordinary manner. It also was tried hung from the arm, but the tango bouquet made no hit until a florist here and there began fashioning the flowers so they could be worn high, out of the way of the dancers.

Flowers for Shoulders.

Perhaps it was the advertising that made it go, for when Miss Wilson appeared at a White House dancing party last season with her flowers on her shoulder they got a notice in practically every newspaper that takes the Associated Press report. Now one begins to see flowers on the ladies' shoulders almost everywhere one goes—and they never fail to attract attention, which is a good thing for florists.

With many minds busy with the problem of evolving flowers for the shoulders, something good is sure to result. Max Schling got his idea of flowers on both shoulders from seeing a clerk throw a spray of fine Sprengeri around her neck—and worked out the arrangements shown in the accompanying illustrations.

At first these light spray arrangements were used only for the tango, and therefore came to be known as tango bouquets, but soon they were employed for other social affairs, anywhere that the gown is cut to leave the shoulders and neck free; in many instances the heavier part of the bouquet on one side, with just a little spray peeping over the other shoulder, making them up in two separate pieces, but looking as though in one.

When Mr. Schling put a figure in his window showing the tango bouquet it quickly caught on. Speaking of the materials used, Mr. Schling said: "In winter we utilize violets, sweet peas, rose buds, gardenias, lily of the valley, cattleyas, cypripediums, pansies and almost any other kind of small flowers and we always find our patrons well satisfied. We can arrange just as pretty sprays with fewer flowers, where the patron wants to save, and we can also make something elaborate where the price is not considered. But the main fact stands that all patrons are satisfied, no matter what they spend, and our corsage business is steadily increasing.

"This new corsage we use at weddings where the bride carries a prayer book with a shower, which could not possibly be made as showy as a bouquet would be. For dinners, balls or receptions, where the flowers are often in the way; we have no more complaints that dresses get spoiled. One can always afford to have a corsage and even if there are not so many orders as we used to have at the higher prices, the wearing of corsage bouquets is becoming more and more general and we notice on our books a substantial increase in sales."

Another florist has devised a tango bouquet that is worn on the lady's arm. He makes it a bit flatter, narrower and longer than ordinary corsage arrangements, with the stems carefully wrapped with ribbon and covered by the flowers. Ribbons are sewed into the bouquet so that they can be passed around the arm and tied in such a way as to hold the flowers close to the outer side of the arm between the elbow and the shoulder. The bunch must be light and the stems reduced to the minimum, but it makes a taking dance arrangement—conspicuous, and the beau and the bouquet do not come in contact.

With the dancing season now on, there will be much good new business for the florist with ingenuity enough to work up a tango bouquet that will meet the situation as it already has been met by some of those who use their heads as well as their hands in running their flower stores.

OPEN LETTERS from READERS.

OUTDOOR STOCK FOR CUTTING.

The Review's information has always been so helpful to me that I can't resist the impulse to "butt in" when I feel that an unsatisfactory answer has been given to a question. I refer to a letter from E. H. in The Review of November 26, asking what to plant on an acre of land in order to have cut flowers for funeral work and the market when greenhouse stock is short. The answer sounds like a page from a seed catalogue rather than from personal experience. E. H. does not specify perennials and yet the entire list is composed of perennials, most of which would give no results before the summer of 1916.

Were I planting an acre for such a purpose, I should prepare my ground now, making trenches for sweet peas, so that they could be put in early in the spring. I should plant them in rows running north and south on the east end of my land. Next to them I should have dahlias, then gladioli, then lilies—a great many, of different varieties, as nothing sells better for funeral work. Next I should have iris—German and Japanese; not too many—then antirrhinums, mignonette, hardy chrysanthemums, pyrethrums, Shasta daisies (Alaska), delphiniums—the Chinense is especially good for funeral work, the gold medal hybrids and Belladonna for cut flowers. Dianthus pinks and gaillardias might be used, but I have not found them as good sellers as some others. Outdoor asters have been a poor crop with us for a number of years, but if well grown will always sell.

All of these perennials will bloom next summer if seed is sown soon after Christmas or even as late as February. I have not included peonies, because nothing would be gained by planting them until next fall. C. M. B.

THE ROSES OF THE FUTURE.

In a recent issue of The Review I note a paragraph which reads as follows: "What do you think would happen to the price of other roses if someone should send out a variety of the size of Russell and the floriferousness of Killarney? Wouldn't such a variety make everything else unprofitable?"

Now, I am at a loss to know why rosarians have not already bred roses of this capacity, with the added qualities of hardiness, resistance to rust and mildew, etc. The time is not far distant when we shall see such wonderful progress as The Review's query points to. In the breeding of gladioli, hemerocallis, corn, etc., I have observed certain principles and results that go much farther into the aspects of breeding than the questionable Mendelian law. If the good Abbe Mendel had first read Darwin, he might have gone deeper and seen some things differently.

With the roses now in hand, and with the employment of the methods or principles we have, there is no reason why we should not see roses and other plants with the maximum of desirable qualities. In the culture of the hemerocallis there has been remarkable improvement in size, color, freedom and hardiness, and the season of bloom has been greatly extended. The gladiolus has become taller or dwarfer, earlier or later, as desired; its blooms have acquired purer color tones and are decidedly larger, with an increased number to the spike and with greater resistance to disease and to the extremes of natural conditions. In the work on corn there have been still greater surprises in experimental results.

Why not the same advancement in the field of rosarians? In Nature's workshop we can see Nature beckoning and saying: "Come; here is the material. Observe my methods and plan accordingly. Then you will behold the results—a rose without thorns, superior to Russell, freer than Killarney, in foliage superior to Wichuraiana, with the richest perfume and with all the hardiness of Persian Yellow." Such will be the rose of a not remote future. At least, such is the view of

STOCKS FOR MEMORIAL DAY.

When should the seed of stocks be sown to have them in crop for Memorial day? What night temperature do they require after they are benched?

J. H.

Sow the seed of such varieties as Giant Ten Weeks in February. A night temperature of 50 degrees suits them, but they will stand 10 degrees higher late in spring, provided air is freely given.

C. W.

FORCING SPIRÆA VAN HOUTTEI.

Can bridal wreath be forced for Easter? If so, what temperature is required?

T. R. G.

I suppose you refer to Spiræa Van Houttei, which is often called the bridal wreath spiræa. This shrub is occasionally forced, although it is not considered as desirable as some others for this purpose. For blooming as early as Easter you should have plants which have either been pot-grown or were potted up early in the fall and have somewhat established themselves. Start the plants eight weeks before Easter. A temperature of 50 degrees at night at first will suffice; later, 60 to 65 degrees can be given. Spray the plants freely. Move them to a cooler house as the flowers open. You will find lilacs, deutzias and several other deciduous shrubs better adapted for forcing than this spiræa.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS

Propagation of Begonias.

If leaf cuttings of Lorraine and Cincinnati begonias have not yet been put in, lose no time in placing a good sized batch in the cutting bench. Well matured leaves are necessary and these should be cut off with the leaf stalk and placed so that the leaf just touches the sand. Use sharp sand, with good drainage below it. If the sand happens to be somewhat too fine and water does not pass quickly through it, add some finely broken charcoal, brick or even coal ashes to make it more porous. A brisk bottom heat is absolutely necessary. Without it propagation will be slow and uncertain, but if you can keep your sand at 80 to 85 degrees you are all right. Those unable to give a good bottom heat would do better to buy young plants from growers who specialize in these plants and handle them in large quantities.

The new variety Melior promises to be a decided acquisition and I expect to see it taking quite a prominent place next year. The new variety Nancy, which M. Lemoine, of Nancy, France, would have offered this season but for the war, is also destined to be a grand novelty. B. Baumannii, a tuberous sort with large, pink, sweet-scented flowers, is the pollen parent of Nancy, while B. Dregei was the male parent of Lorraine, also raised by M. Lemoine over twenty years ago. The flowers of Nancy are from two to three and one-half inches in diameter, of a rich, rosy carmine color, and are carried on erect stems. When Cincinnati became well known, the total eclipse of Lorraine was predicted, but this has not come about. The older variety sells at a lower price than Cincinnati, which proves a somewhat better keeper in the house, but Lorraine is still heavily grown. Small plants propagated in August, now blooming in 3-inch pots, are proving useful and are in excellent demand for small receptacles. Such plants are $12 to $15 per hundred, pay better than the large ones and are worthy attention from more growers.

Cinerarias.

This is the season of rapid growth of cinerarias. They are impatient of heat and are soon ruined by it. Give them 42 to 45 degrees at night and not too sunny a location and they will revel in it. Be sure to fumigate regularly. Green aphis has a marked fondness for cinerarias and will soon ruin them if not fought persistently. Plants may be flowered in from 5-inch to 10-inch pots, but commercially 6-inch and 7-inch sizes are the most profitable. They like a fairly rich compost of two-thirds fibrous loam and one-third old cow manure, with some sand, broken charcoal and a little fine bone added. Cinerarias are not an early winter-flowering plant. Their natural blooming period is from the end of January to the end of March. Occasionally small plants are seen at Christmas, but it certainly does not pay to attempt to flower them so early. They will not sell in competition with poinsettias, begonias, azaleas, cyclamens and primulas, but toward spring, when a greater variety of flowering plants are available and the demand more spread out, they sell moderately well.

Freesias.

Christmas freesias are always sold at good prices and for this reason it pays to take special care of a good sized batch and endeavor to flower them at that time. We have had, until mid-November, a warm fall, and this has favored the early flowering of freesias. A carnation house or one of similar temperature, where the plants can have 55 degrees at night, is the ideal place for these, and if no shelf is at disposal, let them have a sunny bench. Remember that they are not heavily rooted and copious supplies of water are necessary. Be careful in feeding, however. Light doses twice a week are all right, but any heavy feeding will assuredly cause the ends of the leaves to turn brown.

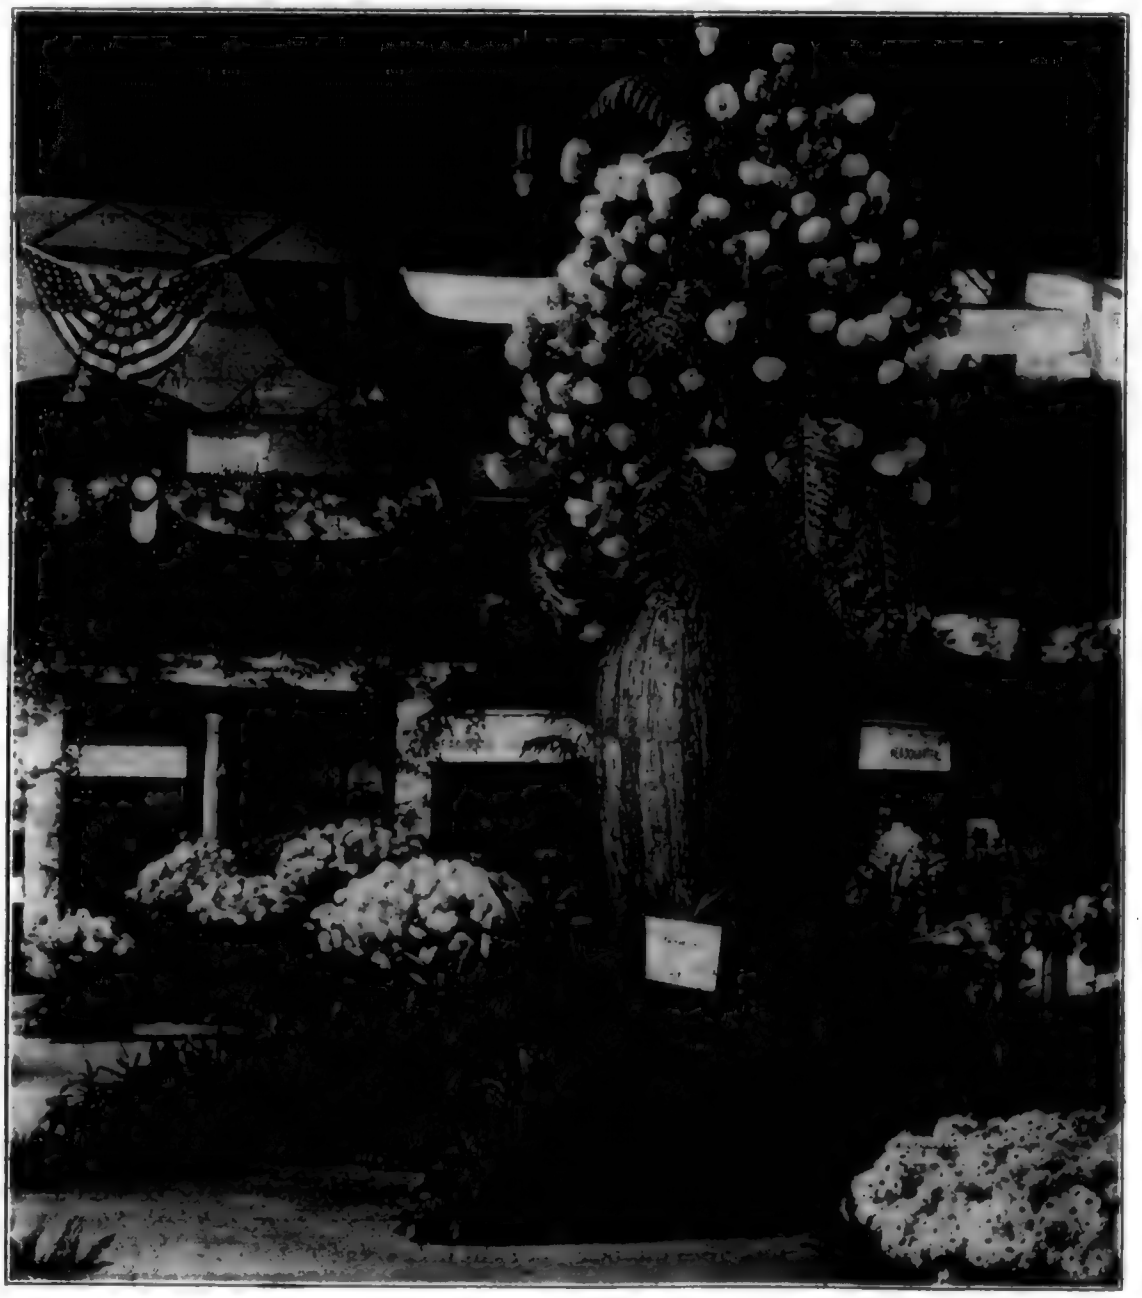
Sweet Peas

WINTER-BLOOMING SPENCERS.

Is it too late to sow sweet pea seed in pots, to be benched about December 10? Would it be advisable to plant the ordinary Spencer type, or winter-flowering varieties? J. H.

It is too late now to sow peas to be planted out December 10. The plants, however, will be all right by Christmas. Do not grow the ordinary Spencers, as they flower too late. Get some of the winter-blooming Spencers. The seed is still high-priced, but these bloom when quite small, while the ordinary sorts will do nothing until spring. C. W.

AMERICAN SWEET PEA SOCIETY.



A meeting of the executive board of the American Sweet Pea Society was held at the offices of Peter Henderson & Co., New York city, Tuesday afternoon, November 24, with W. Atlee Burpee in the chair.

The principal business before the board was the arrangements for the shows to be held during the coming summer. It has been arranged that two shows be held, one in San Francisco, the other in Newport, R. I. The dates for the San Francisco show have not yet been fixed. The Newport show, which is to be held under the auspices of the Newport Garden Association and the Newport Horticultural Society, in the Newport Casino, will open July 8 and continue through July 9. A liberal preliminary premium list has been prepared and issued by the Newport organizations, which includes a large number of open classes. Copies of this preliminary schedule may be obtained from the secretary, Harry A. Bunyard, 342 West Fourteenth street, New York city. The preliminary schedule of the American Sweet Pea Society will be issued about January 1.

CLUB VASE AT BALTIMORE SHOW.

In the center of the accompanying illustration is shown the club vase at the flower show held in the Fifth Regiment Armory, Baltimore, November 17 to 24, under the auspices of the Maryland Horticultural Society, a full account of which appeared in The Review of November 26. This enormous vase, which was ten and one-half feet high, stood on a base thirty inches high. It contained 350 chrysanthemums and was designed and erected by William Feast. The vase was the especial contribution of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club of Baltimore. The blooms were contributed by R. L. Graham, Samuel Feast & Sons, Halliday Bros., S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co., Harry Ekas, I. H. Moss, Chas. Siegwart, M. J. Hannigan, James Hamilton, E. A. Seidewitz, J. J. Cummings, G. A. Lotze, John Cook, Geo. Morrison and A. S. Richmond. The vase had been standing three days when the photograph which is reproduced herewith was taken and therefore does not appear quite so well as it did when first staged. W. F. E.

The Club Vase, the Special Feature of the Baltimore Show.

A TIP TO EXHIBITORS.

There were several noteworthy things at the Houston flower show. One of these, which will be of particular interest to retailers who exhibit their work, was the use of dressmakers' models to show bouquets to better advantage. The illustration on page 21 tells the whole story better than words can do. This particular bouquet was the one exhibited by the Forestdale Flower Shop, of Houston, Tex., which took first prize. It was the work of Mrs. E. B. Richard, as was also the arm bouquet with which the firm took a second prize. Additional prizes were taken, two for specimen palms and one for the best mantel decoration. Credit for the latter belongs to John J. Boyle, manager of the store, to whom is largely due the concern's success, through his care and painstaking effort. It is only due to the fact that Mr. Boyle made no more entries than he did, Gus Radetzki, proprietor of the store, believes, that the firm took no more prizes. Its record at the show was three firsts and two seconds out of seven entries.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS

Care of Stock Plants.

Thanksgiving has practically cleaned up the chrysanthemums. There are all kinds of ways for wintering stock. Where the climate is not too severe it can be planted in coldframes, held practically dormant for several months, and when opened in early spring, the plants will soon give a grand crop of strong cuttings, better than are to be had in any other way. The best method for the average commercial grower, who may need to start propagating early to increase his stock of special varieties, is to plant in benches in a cold house; a violet temperature of 40 degrees at night will answer admirably. Place large labels on each sort, so that there will be no danger of their becoming mixed.

While it is much too early to propagate for next season's crop, those who may have a limited stock of any new or specially desirable kinds would do well to start taking cuttings now. This will permit of a large batch being secured before late spring.

While the large blooms do not seem to find purchasers as they did a few years ago, more moderate sized flowers being generally preferred, they have not lost favor altogether and still attract a lot of attention in the exhibitions. The pompons, anemones and singles have all advanced in favor and every grower, especially such as cater to retail trade, should plant good batches of them. In design work of all kinds, for late decorations or as pot plants they are excellent, and many prefer them to the large blooms.

The Standard Varieties.

Few new varieties appear and stand up as commercial sorts. This is specially true of the large exhibition sorts. The most largely grown and popular chrysanthemum still is the old reliable Bonnaffon. Growers are nearly unanimous in stating that there is still more money in this than any other. Other favorite yellows are Golden Glow, the leading early; Chrysolora, Roman Gold, Golden Chadwick, Yellow Eaton, Golden Eagle, Halliday, Ramapo and Colonel Appleton.

Coming to whites, Smith's Advance continues the leader among earlies. Others which find much favor are Polly Rose, October Frost, Clementine Touset, Charles Razer, Miss Alice Byron, Eaton, Ivory, Jeanne Nonin and Chadwick. Ivory seems to be losing favor; its constitution is waning. As fancy whites, some good William Turner and Mrs. Drabble have appeared this year.

Turning to pinks, Glory of Pacific is still heavily grown, as is Pacific Supreme. Chieftain looms up as a winner among midseason sorts. Patty, Winter Cheer, Enguehard and Wells' Late Pink are all in favor. The last named is fine for Thanksgiving if grown cold. The old Maud Dean is grown quite a little. Alice Lemon has proved a good early light pink.

The call for other colors than pink, white and yellow is not great. In crimson the leaders are still Shrimpton, the old Collingfordii, Intensity and Pockett's Crimson. Glenview is a fine bronzy red. Ethel Fitzroy is the good bronze for the country florist. Mrs. O. H. Kahn is fine if a fancy bronze is wanted.

Good Culture Necessary.

Give the stock plants a good position if strong cuttings are desired. Too often we see them in pots and boxes on the walks or even below the benches, exposed to drip and every unfavorable condition. Cuttings taken from such plants cannot be expected to give flowers at all equal to those grown well up to the light in a cool house. Whatever we grow we should aim to grow as well as possible. Good flowers always will sell. Therefore it should be the aim of every grower to produce flowers of as good a grade as possible. There are too many growers of second and third rate flowers. These always drag, especially in times of glut. Therefore, produce a better article and it is sure to sell.

Novel Staging of Bride's Bouquets.

THRIPS ON BONNAFFONS.

I am sending you a bloom of a Bonnaffon mum which is turning brown on the under side of the petals. In fact, the blooms turn brown before they are fully developed. I have them in the same house with a lot of white and other colors, which are all right. If you can tell me what the trouble is, I shall appreciate it. H. L. H.

The flower sent had been ruined by thrips. You cannot do anything to help your flowers at this late date, but another season, by more careful fumigating and spraying, you should be able to keep this pest in check. C. W.

VARIATIONS IN BONNAFFON.

We have found four Major Bonnaffon mum plants on which the leaves are different from the rest. The leaves are finely cut. One plant has formed a small bud; the other three will come on later. We took cuttings about three inches long from the plants with the changed leaves, and put the cuttings in the sand to root. Will these be new varieties? The four plants will bloom about a month later than the other Bonnaffons. L. V. & F. C.

I doubt if you have any new variety. I think it is more probable that some other sort has got mixed with your Bonnaffons. You should soon be able to see whether this is so. C. W.

CHRYSANTHEMUM SOCIETY.

The examining committees have returned reports on new varieties as follows:

At Cincinnati, November 14, Kewanee, light yellow, bronze shadings, Japanese incurved, submitted by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., scored 89 on exhibition scale.

At Cincinnati, November 14, Tekonsha, bronze, Japanese incurved, submitted by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., scored 81 on commercial scale and 85 on exhibition scale.

At Chicago, November 9, Mount Greenwood, light pink, Japanese incurved, submitted by Mount Greenwood Cemetery Association, Morgan Park, Ill., scored 82 on commercial scale.

At Madison, N. J., October 28, B. Pulling, yellow, Japanese reflexed, submitted by C. H. Totty, Madison, N. J., scored 93 on exhibition scale.

PROPAGATING ADIANTUMS.

I have several maidenhair ferns and have tried time and again to propagate them, but have been unsuccessful. Will you kindly tell me the proper way to do this? E. M. C.

Two methods of propagation are in common use for the maidenhair ferns; namely, by division of the crowns or by means of spores. Division is the method used for Adiantum Farleyense, A. hybridum, A. Croweanum and some few other species and varieties that are in the list of trade sorts. The work is preferably done in the spring, when the plants are starting into growth. The divisions are potted into small pots and kept shaded and rather warm until they get a start.

Spores are sown on the surface of the soil in pots or pans. The soil is well watered before the spores are sown. Then the seed pots are placed in a shaded greenhouse, preferably in a propagating frame, to protect them from drying out, and are kept there until the seedlings are large enough to be pricked out. They are potted off into small pots when they are large enough to handle. W. H. T.

TOO COOL FOR MAIDENHAIR.

Please tell me how to grow maidenhair ferns. I have tried Adiantum cuneatum on the bench in a carnation house and also in more shade, but have not succeeded well. S. M.

Maidenhair ferns will not make a satisfactory growth in a carnation house, as the carnation temperature is too low for the ferns. They may be grown without shading during the winter, either in pots or planted out on a bench in four to five inches of good carnation soil, provided the night temperature is kept up to 60 degrees and the plants are given water enough to keep the soil moist but not sodden.

W. H. T.

NOT A GOOD POT FERN.

I am sending today by parcel post some fern fronds. Will you give me the name of the variety? It is a hardy fern and I think it is decidedly pretty. Would it not make a pretty pot plant? I can furnish several thousands of them and, if you think they would sell, I want to advertise them in The Review.

C. M. W.

The fern in question is Pteris aquilina, a handsome, strong-growing, hardy species that is common in many parts of the United States. It is a good fern for outdoor planting, but not so well adapted for pot culture, from the fact that it is a deciduous species, and I would not advise offering it as a pot plant for that reason. A better species for trade use is Pteris tremula, which is not a native, but an easy sort to manage and one that is easily raised from spores. W. H. T.

WHITE SCALE ON FERNS.

Enclosed you will find a fern frond that is infested by a white insect with which I am having trouble. Please inform me what this is and what must be done to get rid of it. I have been fumigating with nicotine paper and have also sprayed with Fir Tree oil, but neither remedy seems to have much effect. Possibly I have not made the applications strong enough.

C. W. P.

The insect in question is one of the scale tribe, and one that has caused much trouble and loss to fern growers. It is not an easy matter to exterminate this pest, but the most satisfactory method is to go over the plants and cut out the worst fronds first, being careful not to allow these fronds to remain in the house with the plants. Then either dip the plants in nicotine solution or spray them with it, repeating this nicotine treatment at intervals of about a week until several applications have been given. It is best to protect the plants from the sun while they are wet with the nicotine solution, or the fronds may suffer, particularly the tender tips of the young fronds.

W. H. T.

WHITE INSECTS ON FERNS.

Please tell me the common and scientific names of the small white mite on the accompanying fern leaves. I should like, also, to know the life history of the insect—it turns into a small fly—and how to get control of it. There is no trouble in cleaning the plants by syringing, but the pest comes back. Where does it come from and how can it be kept away? C. S.

The insect in question has caused much trouble to fern growers, especially to those growing nephrolepis, and is not an easy one to control. The best treatment is to cut off and burn the badly infested foliage and then to spray with nicotine solution at regular intervals. The nicotine treatment may disfigure the tips of young fronds if used too strong, and it is safer to shade the plants from sunshine while they are wet with the spray solution.

It would be more satisfactory to write to your state entomologist for the technicalities regarding this insect, sending him specimens and all the information you have as to the habits of the insect.

W. H. Taplin.

CARNATIONS GO TO SLEEP.

Can you give me any information as to why my carnations go to sleep before they are fully open? The trouble started early in October, when the first blossoms were cut, and it is getting worse. The plants were benched during the first week of August and made a good start. The soil is a somewhat heavy loam, with no fertilizer of any kind except a liberal layer of partly decayed cow and horse manure, mixed, at the bottom of the soil. The roots reach well down to the bottom now. I have twice given liquid manure, which seemed to aggravate the trouble. I have ventilated freely every day and the temperature is kept at 50 degrees at night, with a rise of 10 to 15 degrees in the daytime. Before firing was started, however, the temperature went down to 45 degrees, and even lower. A. H.

Your letter does not disclose anything that would suggest the reason for your carnations going to sleep. The description you give of your soil eliminates it as a possible cause of the trouble. Your temperature seems correct, too. I have known instances where leaking gas mains were the cause of sleepy carnations. If there is a gas main running past your houses, you might be able to trace the trouble to that source. I have also known carnations to open up poorly and remain sleepy as a result of the soil being dry at the bottom. This usually occurs during midwinter, when hard firing is kept up continuously and the pipes under the benches cause the soil to dry out. These are about all the suggestions I can offer, in view of the nature of the information you give in your letter. A. F. J. B.

SELECTION OF CUTTINGS.

Of how great importance is the selection of strong, vigorous cuttings in the improvement of a strain of plants, such as carnations? Has the improvement in carnations been entirely a result of crossing and improved methods of culture, or has the selection of cuttings played an important part also? What is the origin of Enchantress Supreme? Generally, in the growing of greenhouse plants, of how great importance is the selection of stock plants and the care which they receive? L. R. G.

I do not know that I would care to subscribe to the assertion that a variety might be improved by careful selection of the cuttings when propagating in that manner. I do know, however, that the vitality shown in a seedling plant can be preserved only through the most careful selection of the cuttings. I know, also, that after a variety has lost more or less of its original vitality, it can be built up again by selection of the cuttings. Whether the vitality may be made to exceed that shown in the original seedling plant, I am not prepared to say, but I doubt it seriously.

I feel certain that the improvement in the present-day carnation, as compared with the carnation of ten or twenty years ago, is mainly due to breeding, accompanied, of course, by improved cultural methods. There is no question in my mind that our best growers of today would grow better blooms of Daybreak and show the variety in its best form earlier in the season than the growers of twenty years ago, notwithstanding the occasional statement from some old-timer of having cut forty-eight blooms per plant from Daybreak, etc. I would not expect, however, that anyone could grow as good blooms on Daybreak as he would cut from Enchantress under identical cultural conditions; nor could I imagine anyone showing blooms of Silver Spray that would be equal to the blooms we see every day from White Wonder, and so on through the whole list of colors.

Enchantress Supreme is a sport from Enchantress. It was disseminated by Dailledouze Bros. in 1912.

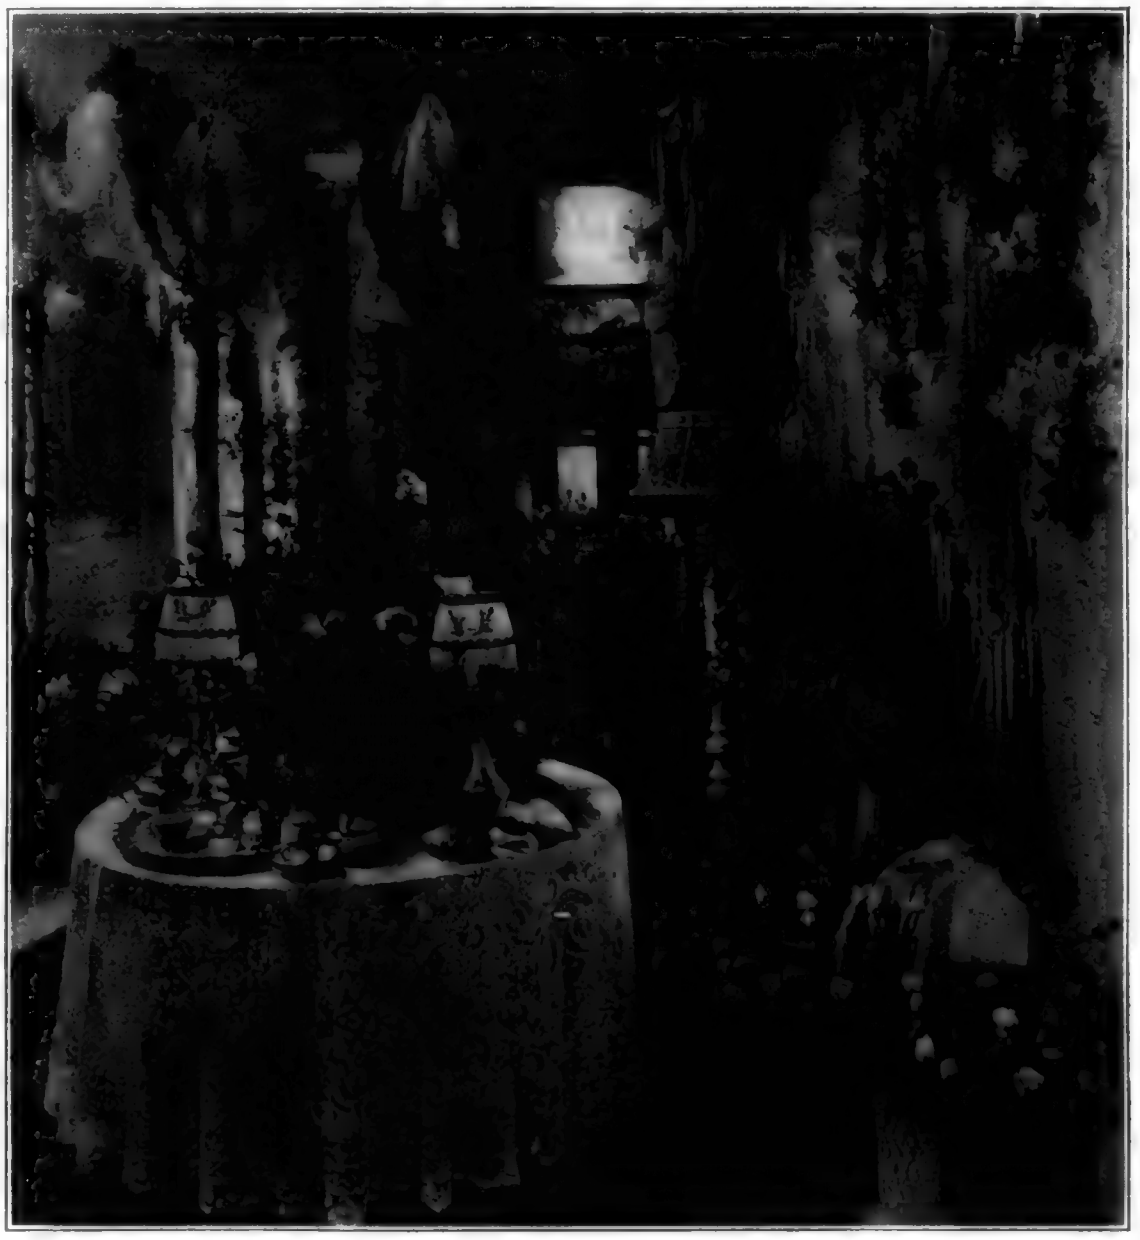
CUTWORMS ON CARNATIONS.

We are enclosing some tops and buds of carnation plants that have been eaten by some insect. We should like to have your advice as to what is the best way to get rid of these insects. They have eaten the tops or young green shoots of about half of our carnation plants. We pick up the broken tops, but cannot find the insect which has done the damage. We notice in the tops of some of the blooms a brownish looking worm, which is also inside the calyx and eats the blooms. There are also some insects that bore holes inside the buds and then disappear. We notice a good many brown moths and white and yellow butterflies flying around the carnations and lighting on the plants. We think these lay the eggs that produce the worms which destroy our plants. Please tell us at once of a remedy for these insects.

We do not use steam pipes in our greenhouses, but use oil stoves only in freezing weather. We spray with Aphine about once a week. We have fumigated with To-bak-ine papers once since the plants were put in the benches. They have been housed about a month. The carnations were field-grown plants, some from Chicago and some from Colorado Springs. S. F. C.



The pest that is chewing up your carnation crop is undoubtedly one of the several varieties of cutworms or larvæ common in greenhouses. Sometimes they are hard to get rid of, and handpicking must be resorted to.

You will seldom find them exposed to view during the daytime, as they keep out of sight from daylight till dusk. By the aid of a strong light, however, you can catch them feeding at the buds or tips any time after dark, especially after midnight.

The most common remedy is poisoned mash, made as follows: Take bran or shortening and mix with it enough molasses to make a mash. Then add to the mixture enough Paris green to make it deadly. Lay this around where the worms have been working. In most cases this remedy is found effective.

A. F. J. Baur.

La Fayette, Ill.—The heating apparatus has been installed in the propagating house erected this summer at the Home Nursery. Irvin Ingels has had some fine carnations and chrysanthemums in the greenhouses. His second son, Gar Ingels, is in charge of this department of the concern.

REIMERS' RECENT ADDITION.

At the range of E. G. Reimers & Son Co., Louisville, Ky., known as the Cemetery Greenhouses, a store and office has just been erected. The building is shown in the accompanying illustration. This site is opposite the widely known Cave Hill cemetery, in the eastern part of Louisville, which is rapidly becoming the preferred residential district. Here was established the original business of E. G. Reimers in 1880, which was incorporated in 1913. The range now includes about 30,000 square feet of glass. The extension work going on at present is under the personal supervision of Milton A. Reimers, who is secretary and treasurer of the company.

MOTT-LY MUSINGS.

A. C. Oelschig & Son, Savannah, Ga., are much pleased with the Shawyer rose, which will in future take the place of the Killarney family. It produces good flowering shoots without the necessity of pinching back. Bessie Brown is their choice for an outdoor variety. They have a fine show of chrysanthemums, especially pompons. Golden Star and E. G. Hill's Mensa are leaders. There are some promising kinds sent out from Washington through P. J. Berckmans Co., of Augusta, Ga. Carnations are doing well, considering that they are planted in a black, sandy soil, the third year in use.

The Griffing Bros. Co., Macclenny, Fla., is offering inducements to the farmer and fruit grower by taking cotton and turpentine in exchange for trees. This gives the opportunity for diversification of crops, and is being taken advantage of by many would-be planters.

Chas. T. McIntosh & Son, Charleston, S. C., are established in their new seed store, rebuilt upon the site occupied by the founder, William McIntosh, father of the present owner. The new building is double-fronted and arranged for both wholesale and retail business. It is thoroughly up-to-date in convenience and decorations. A conservatory in the rear is used for plants, for which they have good sales, although they do not handle cut flowers. There is ample warehouse room and storage. Poultry supplies occupy a large share of space and are a valuable asset. Fall sales of both seeds and bulbs are satisfactory. Deliveries of peas are good and beans are on the way.

The managers of the Rose Hill Greenhouses, Columbia, S. C., are among the large army of optimists, although calls for their finely grown mums are somewhat slow. The mums are the product of Mitsu Tokunaga, for several years the grower here, and they demonstrate his native skill. He is a constant reader of The Review.

The Heidtsch Seed Store and Ligon's Seed Branch, at Spartanburg, report excellent business in seed, which brings the cash the farmer is parting from reluctantly. The merchants blame the politicians for agitating the holding of cotton at 10 cents a pound, as this has given all an excuse for not paying their bills.

The Charlotte Cut Flower Co., Charlotte, N. C., justly claims to have the largest area of glass in the state. When Robert Lockerbie came here several years ago as grower, little else was seen except cotton and a few hardy "scrubs." Now the best stock grown is appreciated. Such chrysanthemums as Bonnaffon, Golden Wedding, Eaton and Jeanne Nonin are the favorites. It does not pay here to grow earlier kinds. Carnations do best in solid concrete raised beds, owing to the hot summers. Stem-rot is seen here in the Enchantress family, while Beacon is perfectly free from it. Formalin has been used, but with little appreciable result. Poinsettias with asparagus in pans are attractive. I understand these are kept mulched with manure and not allowed to get dry; hence the handsome, deep green foliage and not a lost leaf. Cyclamens a la Craig, from whose well known establishment Mr. Lockerbie is a graduate, speak for themselves.

W. M.

Liege, Belgium.—The once splendid De Massanges establishment is now a pile of ruins. Most of the other ranges, however, have escaped destruction, according to latest report.

Brussels, Belgium.—M. Gentil, of the botanical garden of Brussels, is safe and sound, and his establishment is in good shape. The same good report applies to the Peeters establishment and its proprietor.

Ghent, Belgium.—According to offers being made, it looks as though there will be plenty of azaleas for 1915 delivery. Prices have declined and many growers are anxious to make sales even this early. Few nurseries are injured in any way and, as there is practically no market elsewhere, America must stand the surplus, whatever it may be. The Germans occupy the city, but they have not molested the nurseries in the surrounding country.

Yokohama, Japan.—The giganteum crop is reported to be about twenty-five per cent short, or about four million bulbs. Shipments of bulbs via Panama canal to New York are on the way. It takes from thirty-five to forty days en route to New York and the cost is about 70 cents less per case in freight. This difference is largely offset, however, because the bulbs must be packed heavier to stand the climate—more soil and less rice chaff and, in some varieties, such as auratums, no rice chaff at all.

Vilvorde, Belgium.—Professor Ambroise is reported to have been killed at Waremme by a bullet. It is hoped that this will prove to be untrue, although it is feared that the fact is as reported.

Ghent, Belgium.—The establishments in this vicinity, in common with those about Brussels and Bruges, have for the most part escaped damage at the hands of the military forces. At Melle, however, where most of the fighting in this part was done, one of the greenhouses of Bier & Ankersmit was destroyed by a shell. At Meirelbeke, Jules de Cock has suffered no loss whatever. No word has been received from the son-in-law of Raphael de Smet, who is an army surgeon; his family has fled to Folkestone.

Yokohama, Japan.—The British steamer Troilus, of the Blue Funnel line, from Yokohama, August 26, to London, was sunk by the German cruiser Emden in the Indian Ocean. This steamer carried over 2,000 cases of giganteum bulbs from Seitaro Arai, Yokohama Nursery Co. and Boehmer & Co. for the English market. The news arrived too late to duplicate the shipments via Suez and it is expected part will be duplicated via New York. Considerable loss has been sustained this season by Yokohama bulb exporters, especially in the earlier shipments of Formosa bulbs, not all of which was covered by war insurance.

PELARGONIUM EASTER GREETING

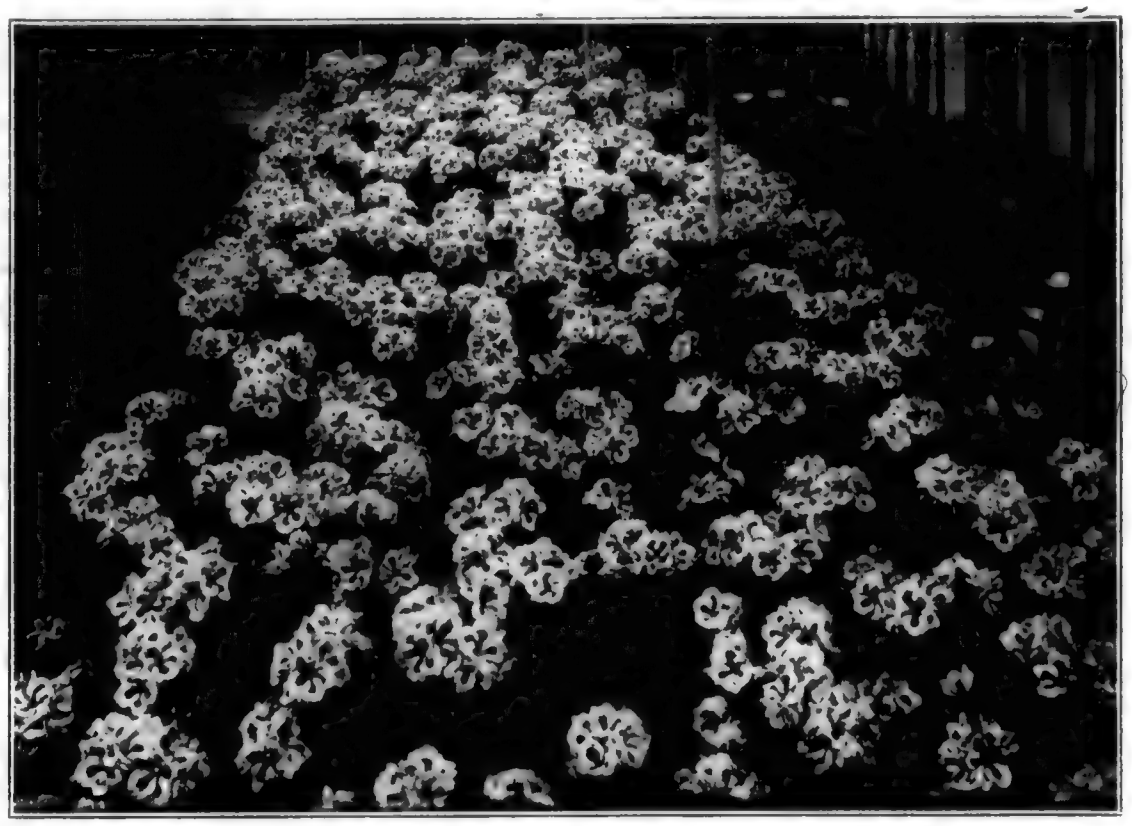
Is Its Propagation Difficult?

Having received inquiries from a good many florists in regard to the propagating and growing of Easter Greeting pelargoniums, I concluded that the most satisfactory way of replying to the questions would be to tell my experience to the whole trade through the columns of The Review. In my opinion, there is nothing else on the market today that is so easily grown and at the same time so beautiful as Easter Greeting.

I have heard that when Easter Greeting was first brought to America, the growers had trouble in propagating it. For this, I think, climatic conditions were largely to blame. After Easter Greeting became acquainted with America's climate and soil, and America became acquainted with Easter Greeting, the difficulty in propagating was practically ended.

One grower says that Easter Greeting is, without a doubt, one of the best pot plants in America, but that its great flowering qualities make it a poor producer of cuttings. Here are the facts which show what success we had in that respect last summer: We put 800 5-inch stock plants in the field. Owing to our busy season and the weather conditions, we did not get these planted until June 20. We cultivated them in the same way as we would any other plants in the field. We got three crops of cuttings. The first cuttings were taken July 31 and the last ones September 25. From these three crops we got 17,500 cuttings and we rooted an average of ninety per cent of them. As judged by that record, is Easter Greeting a poor cutting producer or not? We did not have an imported expert employed as a propagator, but just an ordinary, American-born florist.

The secret is this, if it may be called a secret: You must keep the flowers off your stock plants. After the cuttings are in the sand, no one is likely to have much trouble about rooting them if he just uses a fair amount of what is known as good, common, horse sense.



Keep the Plants Growing.

After they are potted, care for them as you would any other plants. When they have taken hold of the soil, keep them going. If you let them get too dry, the stems will become hard and you cannot produce nice plants. If they are properly cared for, you do not need to top them to secure satisfactory plants. Give Easter Greeting a chance and you will be surprised at what it will do for itself, but do not forget for a moment that all of your plants must be kept in a healthy, growing condition all the time. If they need repotting, do it at once. In the case of large stock plants that cannot be repotted, you can feed them.

We think a temperature of 45 to 50 degrees will produce the best plants. In a higher temperature the plants are liable to make a soft growth, which may mean trouble later. We have had no trouble with disease. As to insects, you can keep them at bay by following the old adage, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." Hydrocyanic acid gas is the cure.

To have nice plants in bloom for Easter, you must have good plants to shift to 4-inch pots in November. Then keep them going and you will not need to worry about their not being in flower in time.

The plants shown in the illustration are in 5-inch pots. The cuttings were taken late in August. The photograph was taken April 1. J. N. Spanabel.

KANSAS CITY.

The Market.

The florists of this city have two things to be thankful for. We may not be contented with conditions as they have been for the last three months, but we should be thankful that an increase of business was done at Thanksgiving. It was noticed, also, about ten days before Thanksgiving, that business in general made a jump to the old standard of a year ago and has kept going along nicely ever since. This is the general report. The florists have made every effort to attract attention. Window displays were a big improvement over those of last year.

Thanksgiving day practically cleaned out all the chrysanthemums for this year, as there are only one or two growers who have any left. November 23 everybody thought there were plenty, with some to spare. No one had any idea chrysanthemums would retail as high as 75 cents to $1 each, which they did just before noon. Yellow mums were cleaned up entirely, only a few white and pink remaining. It is thought the latter were not far enough developed to sell.

With chrysanthemums out of the way, carnations will make some advance within a few days, as the prices now asked are below those of last year. Carnations are showing better quality, have stiffer stems, are better in color and larger in size. Roses are not so plentiful as they were, especially in red. Last week there was a shortage of Beauties and Mrs. Chas. Russell. A shortage also was noted in Milady and Richmond in the better grades. Killarney and White Killarney were plentiful. Killarney is losing its color and it means that the call for other roses will be heavier. Yellow roses are in little demand. Good violets are scarce. Peas are plentiful and of good quality. Stevia and narcissi are more plentiful. A good many cattleyas are grown in this city, but the trade seems to keep the market cleaned up on them.

Various Notes.

L. C. Fields, Tenth street and Spitlog avenue, Kansas side, had quite an experience November 23. A man of prosperous appearance, driving a fine car, stopped at the Fields store and ordered $2.50 worth of flowers to be delivered to 741 Washington boulevard. He presented a check for $14.50, pocketed $12 cash change and departed. Afterwards $10 was missing from Mr. Fields' pocketbook, which was on the counter, and the check was found to be bogus. The address given was found to be a vacant lot. The police say the car was stolen.

A. F. Barbe is cutting some nice carnations and stevia and says business has been all that could be expected.

W. J. Barnes reports Thanksgiving shipping business as a big increase over that of last year. He was sold out of chrysanthemum plants.

The Geo. M. Kellogg Flower & Plant Co. reports a clean-up on all cut flowers. Prices were better than expected.

The Rosery sold out on everything and reports business better than last year.

For one decoration Samuel Murray used 125 orchids for the table alone. He reports business good for Thanksgiving. Mr. Murray's window display included two large standard azaleas, in full bloom and about six feet high.

A. Newell had a big run on yellow chrysanthemums and sold them at a price above what he expected.

T. J. Noll & Co. received a heavy consignment of stock for Thanksgiving, but by noon everything was disposed of.

W. L. Rock Flower Co. had two houses, 27x225, filled with mums this year, which gave an exceptionally fine crop of flowers.

J. E. Murray & Co. report a big increase of business in the last ten days.

Mrs. T. A. Mosely, across the state line, had a splendid business last week and could have sold a great deal more stock. W. J. B.

BUFFALO, N. Y.

The Market.

The weather last week was cold and clear, warming up just a little before Thanksgiving day. Business was good, because of the favorable weather. Chrysanthemums were fairly well cleaned up, with the exception of poor varieties that were scarcely salable. Large chrysanthemums did not seem as good this year as last, but the pompon varieties were excellent. Carnations sold well and brought a fair price. Roses were abundant, but the prices were only fair. Paper Whites, marguerites, stevias and cosmos are to be had. Cattleya orchids are plentiful, with firm prices. Lily of the valley is excellent and there are some good sweet peas. Violets sold well at Thanksgiving. Plants, such as begonias, primroses, cyclamens, etc., were plentiful. Ferns, Asparagus plumosus, smilax and galax are plentiful. Black alderberries, boxwood and Christmas greens have arrived.

Various Notes.

Jacob B. Wiese reports Thanksgiving trade as good and on a par with last year.

The Lenox Flower Shop had a fine holiday trade and Mr. Alberts is well pleased with results. This firm is introducing dainty little bunches of satin rosebuds in pink and red, with delicate foliage. These are used on the handles of baskets, etc., and can afterward be worn, since they are non-perishable.

Will Greever, at Palmer's branch store, had a big trade for Thanksgiving. It was as good as last year, it is reported.

Peter Hoffman found business good last week.

Wm. F. Kasting has purchased the Newman Greenhouses, at Akron, N. Y. He will grow carnations for the Buffalo market. He also does a small retail business there. He expects to use the residence on the estate for a summer home.

S. A. Anderson's Thanksgiving window was a most unusual feature. The display consisted of the "Pumpkin family" at their Thanksgiving feast. Father and Mother Pumpkin, sonny and sis, all made of tiny pumpkins with eyes of cranberries and legs of carrots and parsnips, were seated around a miniature table laden with goodies. In the background were baskets of fruits and flowers in endless designs. The window was much talked about. Holiday trade at this store was excellent. Mr. Anderson is running a splendid new delivery car, which is attractively painted in light green.

J. H. Rebstock had a fine Thanksgiving trade and was completely sold out of cut stock. November 27 he had a great deal of funeral work, which kept all hands busy.

The week-end trade at the Colonial Flower Shop was good. The proprietors were much pleased with the volume of business, which gives promise of a prosperous winter.

The Hoyt reception, November 26, gave a great deal of work for all the leading florists. Large quantities of cut flowers were used, in baskets, bouquets and bunches of all sorts.

J. Benson Stafford reports business as having been much better than last year. All kinds of flowers sold well. He arranged the flowers for the Hoyt reception.

W. J. Palmer & Son had so large a Thanksgiving trade that it seemed like a forecast of the Christmas rush.

Stephen J. Mahoney is again at his post with S. A. Anderson, after being out of town the greater part of the summer and fall.

Barney Myers, of Lancaster, is cutting some extra fine carnations. His Ward carnations are especially good.

Some excellent stevia is being grown at Wm. C. Stroh's greenhouses, in Attica. It is sold to the city florists.

J. T. Stiles, of Wm. B. Lake, Philadelphia, called on the trade here last week.

Begonias Lorraine and Cincinnati are in fine condition at the Anderson greenhouses, where Joe Streit presides. They sold well for Thanksgiving.

E. C. A.

Aldan, Pa.—Clement S. Levis has erected a boiler house in order to take care of his additional glass. The building is of stone and concrete. Above the boilers will be rooms for storage purposes.

Eagleville, Pa.—A defective flue and a high wind combined to destroy the greenhouse of Furst Crider near here November 16. It was only with difficulty that the flames were prevented from spreading to the dwelling and barns nearby.

St. Peter, Minn.—Emil Samuelson, of McKenzie, N. D., who recently purchased the St. Peter Greenhouses, is making extensive improvements in the property. He has already replaced the old boiler with one twice as large in heating capacity.

La Crosse, Wis.—Mrs. Anna Guillaume was awarded a verdict of $500 damages against the Wisconsin-Minnesota Light & Power Co. in the Circuit court November 19. She sued for $1,200 on the charge that all the plants in her greenhouse were killed through the negligence of the company.

Sioux City, Ia.—John N. Nordstrom, of the firm of Eubank & Nordstrom, has bought Peter Reard's greenhouses, at East Morningside, comprising about 35,000 feet of glass. He is growing cut flowers, pot plants and vegetables, and will cultivate about sixty acres for outdoor varieties in addition to his greenhouse crops.

Detroit, Mich.—The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Detroit Florists' Club gave a dancing party November 12 at Strasburg's academy to add to the fund for the new sleeping porch at the Van Leuven-Browne School for Crippled Children. The porch was erected from funds raised at the last year's ball of the Ladies' Auxiliary, but cost more than the amount of the proceeds.

North Milwaukee, Wis.—The Sunny Point Floral Co., of which William Wiesner and H. Johannes were the proprietors, has sold out to the Eschrich Floral & Nursery Co. The proprietors of the Sunny Point Floral Co. started in business about a year and a half ago by leasing from William Eschrich his three greenhouses and an acre of land. Since that time Mr. Eschrich has devoted himself to his nursery of nine acres adjoining the greenhouses. Mr. Wiesner has moved to Milwaukee, where he is located at 1784 Eighth street.

Denver, Colo.—W. C. Walter has obtained a permit for the erection of a brick office at his greenhouses, at 484 Columbine street, to cost $1,000.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Mrs. M. D. Waters has found that a gift of a few plants, bulbs or seeds to a family paying for a home has been the means of making steady customers. Once given a start, they "got the habit."

Bessemer, Ala.—A sudden drop in temperature at the beginning of the week of the coldest weather for November in the recollection of the proprietor caused the loss of a number of 5-foot and 6-foot poinsettias at the Colonial Greenhouses, owned by Mrs. W. D. Brown. Trade here is better than it has ever been at this time of the year.

Delray, Fla.—The business established here a short time before his death by Frank R. Faulk, whose obituary appeared in The Review for October 22, will be carried on by his widow, Mrs. Bertha Faulk, under her own name and personal management. After leaving Pittsburgh, where he was a member of the firm of Faulk Bros., and coming here, Mr. Faulk improved so much that he built a home and started a business before the final relapse that resulted in his death.

West Allis, Wis.—Jacob J. Finger is just getting into shape again after the tornado of last June, which demolished his greenhouses. Mr. Finger had barely repaired his greenhouses after the hail storm of May 30 had broken three-fourths of his glass, when, June 24, a tornado swept them off the ground, leaving nothing but splinters and broken glass. Although he had no insurance, Mr. Finger took courage and erected about 20,000 feet of glass, and is building up his business again.

Houston, Tex.—At the annual meeting of the Houston Florists' Club, at the close of the flower show, the holding of an annual exhibition was discussed and found much favor with the members. This will be independent of the state association's show, and will probably be set for a later date than this year's, as many growers found it too early for the display of the best stock. Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Robert C. Kerr; vice-president, C. L. Brock; secretary, A. L. Perring; treasurer, R. L. Carroll; executive committee, H. H. Kuhlmann, Jr., R. G. Hewitt, Henry Blecker and I. M. Johnson.

OBITUARY

James Mallon.

James Mallon, junior member of the firm of James Mallon's Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y., died December 1, of pneumonia, after a brief illness. A widow survives.

The Mallon business is one of the oldest in the trade, having been established by the father of the two energetic and popular men who have conducted it in recent years. It will be continued by John Mallon.

Franz Schramm.

Franz Schramm, one of the pioneer growers of cut flowers for the Chicago market and a director of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association, died November 25 at his home in Park Ridge, Ill., after having been ill nearly a year with heart trouble. He was in his seventy-fourth year.

Mr. Schramm was born in Germany and had been growing flowers for the Chicago market since 1890. He is survived by a wife and six children, Frank, Mrs. Minnie Prebs, Charles, Mrs. Bertha Koehler, Frederick, Mrs. Pauline Hammerl.

Mr. Schramm's funeral, which took place at his home November 29, was attended by many friends and members of the local market. Interment was in Park Ridge cemetery.

Olof Olsson.

Olof Olsson was born at Kirshanstad Len, Hjernap, Socken, Sweden, April 23, 1864, and died at Austin, Tex., November 20, aged 50 years.

He went to Denmark on his twentieth birthday and began his trade as a florist, serving his apprenticeship of four years at Fredriksdal and Lyngby, working at the latter place three years, at the Royal Gardens. In 1887 he left Denmark, going to England, where for a year he worked in the establishment of Geo. Poulton, Castle Garden and Edmonton, London. In 1888 he arrived at Galveston, Tex., and went direct to Austin, where for three years he worked for his board and room while learning English. Then he began as head gardener for a wealthy wholesale merchant, serving in this capacity for fifteen years.

About thirteen years ago he purchased property near the edge of the business district, gradually enlarging it until lack of room forced him to move to the suburbs, about seven years ago. Here a plant of about six acres and 40,000 square feet of glass was conducted, giving him at the time of his death the proprietorship of the next to the largest wholesale and retail establishment in the state.

The great burden of responsibility resting upon him broke him down physically and mentally, and for the last six weeks he had been confined to his room with a complication of diseases. Gradually a state of melancholia overcame him, due to this, his first, long illness and the incessant pains, and on the night of Friday, November 20, he took his own life. There are left to mourn his loss, his widow, one sister and two brothers.

He was well known among the florists of the state, was one of the officers of the local florists' association, and although not active in the affairs of his city, was considered a man with a future before him.

The funeral took place Monday, November 23, at his home, the house being decorated with palms and ferns. The casket rested in a bower of palms and snow-white mums, surrounded by the flowers he loved, silent tributes from his many friends all over the state. H. B. M.

CROWN IMPERIALS.

Please let me know how to handle Crown Imperials outdoors. Also state how to force them, if it can be done, as I have never handled them. F. S.

Crown Imperials, known botanically as Fritillaria Imperialis, are not of much value for forcing purposes. They are useful, however, in flower borders containing a mixture of plants and as they bloom early and make quite a bold show while in flower, they are worthy of a place in every garden. Borders of mixed perennials and bulbs are the ideal place for them. Give them a light and well drained soil. Plant them six inches deep, placing some sand below and above the bulbs. Give them a light winter mulch. The plants are hardy and need no fussing over. They will come up for several years where the soil conditions are suitable. If the ground is too wet and retentive, however, they may entirely disappear after the first year. For early flowers, give the bulbs a place near the house. C. W.

CANDYTUFT FOR MEMORIAL DAY.

When should seed of candytuft be sown to have it in crop for Memorial day? What night temperature do the plants require after they are benched? J. H.

Sow the giant white candytuft early in February. White candytuft does best in beds in a cool house. It can be given a temperature of 60 degrees at night early in May if the crop seems at all late, but must be kept cooler and aired freely as the flowers open. C. W.

Mainly About People

Greensboro, N. C.—S. N. Griffith, of Pittsburgh, Pa., is now the head designer of the Greensboro Floral Co.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa.—Cornell is the name under which the successor of Ira G. Marvin does business at the Main street store, which Mr. Marvin recently sold.

Peoria, Ill.—C. F. Becker, formerly in the grocery business at Springfield, Ill., has sold his business there and come to Peoria to engage in business with his brother, Louis J. Becker, who has been in the florists' trade at 914 Blaine street for a number of years.

Canton, O.—A. T. Pollard, who occupies one of the stores on the ground floor, joined in the celebration of the opening of the new T. K. Harris building Saturday, November 14. Owners and tenants held open house to visitors. Music was furnished by an orchestra and chrysanthemums were given to the women visitors.

Brampton, Ont.—Frank Franzen, of Dale's, regretted the abandoning of the Toronto show possibly more than anyone else, as he had planned to show some roses with record stems. Last year The Review printed a picture showing him with a 6-foot Sunburst. This year he had Richmond and Killarney with 8-foot stems and Hadley with a stem nine feet six inches long, and he wanted to show them.

Cadiz, O.—John T. Timmons, proprietor of the Birdlawn Conservatory, failed to obtain relief from the eye trouble for which he went to Davenport, Ia., for treatment last June, and fears he will be blind for the rest of his life. He and his wife, however, will continue the greenhouse business, and he will continue to write articles on the culture of vegetables and flowers by amateurs for the metropolitan papers.

Sturgis, Mich.—John W. Vogt was married November 25 at Rochester, N. Y., to Miss Olive Carolyn Disney. The couple are now at home here.

Nanticoke, Pa.—J. F. Wampa, formerly with Ira G. Marvin, of Wilkes-Barre, is now manager of Cornell's flower store on East Main street.

Beacon, N. Y.—The Fishkill Standard prints a column article, "School Gardening and Welfare Work," by Benj. Hammond, being a paper read before the Ontario Horticultural Association, November 12, at Toronto.

Monticello, Ill.—J. C. Shield has worked up a large set of single and semi-double chrysanthemums, all seedlings of Garza. His range of colors covers pretty nearly everything known in the chrysanthemum.

Galena, Ill.—As B. F. Vandervate not only allows visitors to go through his greenhouses, but accompanies them as a guide and explainer, he is kept busy Sunday afternoons, when the promenading public finds his place a most interesting one.

Joliet, Ill.—Mrs. Joseph Labo, who recently returned from Germany, has many harrowing incidents to relate of her experience of the war. Substituting for her sister for a time, she served as a Red Cross nurse in a hospital at St. Goarshausen on the Rhine.

Boone, Ia.—J. Loehrer, proprietor of the Boone Greenhouses, who lost his eyesight about two months ago, has taken into partnership his son, J. A. Loehrer, who will in future conduct the business. The latter has had several years' experience in growing flowers and plants and in making up funeral designs, etc. The concern will in future be known as the Boone Greenhouses, J. Loehrer & Son, proprietors.

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS.
Incorporated by Act of Congress, March 4, 1901.

Officers for 1914: President, Theodore Wirth, Minneapolis; vice-president, Patrick Welch, Boston; secretary, John Young, 53 W. 28th St., New York City; treasurer, W. F. Kasting, Buffalo.

Officers for 1915: President, Patrick Welch, Boston; vice-president, Daniel MacRorie, San Francisco; secretary, John Young, 53 W. 28th St., New York City; treasurer, W. F. Kasting, Buffalo.

Thirty-first annual convention, San Francisco, Cal., August 17 to 20, 1915.

RESULTS.

We give them. You get them. We both have them.

A LOT of space heretofore given to American Beauty will be devoted to Mrs. Russell rose next season.

AN immense quantity of Christmas plants is in the hands of the specialists, to be distributed to the trade the next two weeks.

THE new rose, Ophelia, gives every first season indication of making good. The reports are unanimous and come from all parts of the country.

THE Thanksgiving trade reports, quoting individuals, are, of course, the best ever; the man who has had bad business usually doesn't care to be quoted.

S. C. JOHNSTON, of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, recently made a tour of inspection of the leading growers of America and has published Bulletin 224 of the departmental series, descriptive of the better types of greenhouses. He makes a strong brief for the wide iron frame house.

THE list of prizes to be offered by the Newport Garden Association and the Newport Horticultural Society at the seventh annual exhibition of the American Sweet Pea Society, to be held July 8 and 9, 1915, at the Casino, Newport, R. I., has been issued. The final schedule will be issued by the American Sweet Pea Society and may be obtained by application to Harry A. Bunyard, secretary, 342 West Fourteenth street, New York city.

PERSISTENCY.

"One step won't take you very far,
You've got to keep on walking;
One word won't tell folks what you are,
You've got to keep on talking.
One inch won't make you very tall,
You've got to keep on growing;
One little ad won't do it all,
You've got to keep 'em going."

COLLECTIONS EASIER.

November was marked by a distinct improvement in collections. October always is a slow month for money in this trade and was not so much worse than usual as some people seem to suppose, but November was much better, especially the latter part. December should be good. Excuses should not be necessary.

In the florists' trade the character of the collections rests entirely with the retailers—if they sit back and wait they get in little money, can not pay their bills, and the whole trade slows up in the matter of meeting obligations.

HONORABLE MENTION.

Not a few subscribers save themselves the bother of annual renewal by sending The Review $2, $3, or sometimes $5, instead of the dollar-bill that insures fifty-two visits of the paper. Among those who have this week enrolled themselves for more than one year in advance are:

FIVE YEARS.

Missoula Nursery Co., Missoula, Mont.

TWO YEARS.

Winter Floral Co., Charleston, W. Va.
Kind, Hugo, Hammonton, N. J.
Voltman, H., Crown Point, Ind.
Merritt, Joseph S., Baltimore, Md.

The Review stops coming when the subscription runs out. The green notice with the last copy tells the story; no bills are run up; no duns sent.

BUSINESS TERMS.

One of the weakest features of the flower business is that scarcely anybody in it has any real, recognized business terms—there is no set time that money is due and its payment insisted upon.

In most lines of merchandising goods are sold subject to certain well understood terms. Bills are due on a certain date. Perhaps a discount is allowed for prior payment, but in any event the due date is not permitted to pass without a settlement. But florists, as a rule, are afraid to ask for their money.

The few houses that refuse to sell except to buyers who settle regularly should be supported; their example is one that is in the best interests of the whole trade.

PROSPERITY FROM EUROPE.

Nobody doubts that florists get at least their share of the general good times, so it is important to note that Europe, after giving us a setback in August, is handing us what promises to be a long continued period of prosperity. The United States government states the facts:

The exports from this country in the month of November were around $60,000,000 greater than for the month a year ago. Sixty million dollars! Think of it! An inconceivable sum to most of us. And all increase!

Just how wonderful the record is can not be fully appreciated until it is considered that the October exports were $78,000,000 behind those of October of 1913.

To turn a decrease of $78,000,000 into an increase of $60,000,000 within one month shows the prodigious strides business is making.

It spells prosperity for florists.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

Last week was by far the best the market has enjoyed this season. Not all houses are able to report sales in excess of those of Thanksgiving week last year, but this is because some of them did not have so much stock as a year ago; also, it is because carnations constitute a large part of the receipts in certain houses and the carnations did not bring as good prices, on the average, as in 1913. On the whole, however, the Thanksgiving business was not only satisfactory but extremely gratifying. The vigor of the demand was in delightful contrast to the spasmodic call for flowers in previous weeks. Not many advance orders had been booked, but when the demand awakened it was strong. Beauties, roses and chrysanthemums cleaned up at excellent prices, the best stock commanding a premium over quoted rates.

Nearly all the growers cut out their chrysanthemums during the week. The supply was large, but apparently Chicago was better fixed than many smaller cities, for the demand was general. All good stock sold well, but there was considerable poor stock that most buyers did not think good enough for their trade. Pompons sold splendidly, though at no high prices.

Beauties sold excellently, but there is general comment that the strongest demand was for the novelty roses, so called. The supply of Mrs. Russell was nowhere near large enough to go around. Milady and Richmond, while in much greater supply, also were short of the demand. Bulgarie, Sunburst, Ward, Shawyer and Hadley all were called for in greater quantity than the market could furnish at any price. Killarney Brilliant cleaned up nicely, but quite a few had trouble getting a price for Killarney, the color being too poor. White Killarney was not in large supply or special request.

Violets sold better than at any time since last Christmas and cattleyas were short. There was an abundance of valley. Sweet peas, when good, sold nicely. All the odds and ends of stock cleaned up in good shape.

After Thanksgiving the market is so bare of stock and the demand was so strong that everything was brisk to November 30, when stock again began to come in heavily. Roses became abundant and carnations overabundant. The supply of carnations was so much larger than usual for Thanksgiving that this flower was the one item that was not held stiff and at the beginning of this week the supply had become so heavy that prices were on the down grade while other stock was holding up to seasonable values. Not only are the carnation cuts large but the quality everywhere is specially good. The values are so unusual that sooner or later the buyers must realize money is to be made pushing carnations. Also the pompon mums are about gone, which should help the carnations.

The week opened with four days of sunless weather and temperature about 20 degrees above normal, unfavorable conditions for selling flowers and still more unfavorable for quality in the stock. Everything is softening. It is to be hoped the weather man is correct in predicting cooler conditions and brighter skies.

Club Will Dance.

President French announces that the Florists' Club will have its annual ladies' night at the Sherman House, Friday evening, December 11, when a substantial luncheon will be served and the Crystal room used for dancing. December 10 will be election night at the Bismarck.

November Weather.

November was an unusually favorable month for growing. In general the month was characterized by warm, sunshiny weather and a marked absence of precipitation; in fact, the total fall for the month was but 0.33 inch, the least amount of precipitation recorded in any November during the period of official records with the exception of that of 1904. The only cold weather occurred from November 16 to 23. The remaining days averaged much above the normal. There were ten days during the month with 100 per cent of sunshine, and the monthly percentage of possible,

Various Notes.

Many members of the trade were among the guests at the wedding of Miss Adelaide Louise Amling and the Rev. Jean M. Bailey, on the afternoon of Thanksgiving day, at Trinity Lutheran church, of which the groom is pastor, in Oak Park. The decorations were in charge of John Michelsen, who had a long training in the use of flowers with C. Frauenfelder. Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Amling, 708 Forest avenue. The couple are on a honeymoon trip east.

That the trade has not awakened to the money-bringing qualities of Mrs. Russell rose is the belief of John Zech, who says many florists are selling the rose too cheaply. He adds that the extra money they would get by asking for it would be profit.

The gastronomic feats of George Rozakles, of Rozakles & Sgoros, 19 West Madison street, with special emphasis on the size of his Thanksgiving dinner, occupied considerable space in the magazine section of the Pittsburgh Press November 22. An illustration and the menu of his holiday dinner accompanied the article.

One-half of the $20,000 worth of bonds issued by the Yorkville & Union Grove Greenhouse Co., of Union Grove, Wis., to liquidate its outstanding liabilities, is being taken over by the Lord & Burnham Co. through its Chicago office. The remainder of the bonds, of the sum of $100 each, drawing interest at seven per cent, are being offered to residents of Union Grove and vicinity. The 3-year lease of Guy W. French and Richard Salm on these greenhouses does not begin till next March.

One of the latest additions to the equipment of Poehlmann Bros. Co., at Morton Grove, is a nailing machine for the box factory. It cost $650, but is expected to be a worth-while economy.

After a little more than a month's absence, Ernest Oechslin is again able to attend to business. He was in an automobile accident October 28, suffering a broken collar bone and other injuries.

The will of Emanuel E. Pieser, deceased president of Kennicott Bros. Co., was filed for probate November 27. It designates Helen Pieser, the widow, as executrix and sole beneficiary. The value of the estate was stated to be $23,000.

According to C. L. Washburn, this was the best Thanksgiving Bassett & Washburn have experienced in years. Beauty orders showed a large increase over last year. Roses also moved exceptionally well, but carnation orders were much smaller than was expected.

S. Y. Bloom, who recently opened a store at 822 East Sixty-third street, says good mums met with an excellent call in his neighborhood, for the holiday.

Thanksgiving morning the Woodlawn Floral Shop, 871 East Sixty-third street, Sullivan Bros., proprietors, had an unusually heavy stock of flowers in antiseems to be an increasing demand for low priced bouquets, 50 cents being as high as many customers wish to pay. Mrs. Opitz says that she has a list of rose customers who buy regularly. She says the reason for her steady rose sales is the good quality stock she secures from J. A. Budlong, which is nice of her, don't you think?

King of Plumes, a late yellow pompon, made big money last season for H. Wehrman, of Maywood, and he is again sending in a fine lot of it that is selling well, although not at last year's prices.

Emil Reichling, chief of Peter Reinberg's greenhouse staff, says that valley will be forced again this winter, a supply of cold storage pips having been procured and some of them already in the sand. Mr. Reinberg, with his chiefs of staff, made a tour of the establishment Sunday and expressed himself as well pleased with the prospects.

A. T. Pyfer says the bronze pompon named after the late Mrs. Beu is the best seller on the market in its season.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Wanzer, of Wheaton, announce the engagement of their daughter, Alice Finch, to Douglas Tweedie. The wedding will take place in February.

John Michelsen says the E. C. Amling Co. handled more chrysanthemums last week than in any seven days in the history of the business, and that the better grades brought more money than ever before in Thanksgiving week.

Statice from Germany arrived in quantity November 30. The market is full of it, but much of it is low grade stock.

Hal Kennicott, secretary of Kennicott Bros. Co., has returned from Florida.

Old-timers in the market read the Sunday murder mystery story with special interest because the murder took place where the old exchange was located, on Lake street. The body was found on the spot where the Bassett & Washburn icebox stood in those days.

E. H. Montgomery, of Fairfield, Ia., has been in town this week to confer with the bidders on the contract for two iron frame houses that shortly will take the place of the five houses he now is using.

J. H. McNeilly reports having had four weddings Thanksgiving day and many retailers say there was an unusual run of wedding work for the feast day.

Herman Niednagel, son of Julius Niednagel, a prominent retailer of Evansville, Ind., and his bride have been at the Fort Dearborn hotel this week on their wedding trip. Mr. Niednagel was formerly employed by Paul Blome, on North Clark street, and his old friends in town have enjoyed meeting the charming little lady who is his bride.

The death of F. Schramm, of Park Ridge, one of the veterans, is reported in this week's obituary column.

O. W. Frese reports the first Roman hyacinths of the season.

ket and getting a line on local retail systems. Mrs. Lord agreeably mixed business with pleasure, as she visited Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Washburn.

T. E. Waters comments on the big sale for pine cones; the retailers are using them extensively for wreaths and in baskets of ruscus and boxwood. Some of the Rocky mountain cones are a foot or more in length.

In its issue of October 29 The Review gave notice that commission houses would be taxed $20 under the new revenue law going into effect December 1, but nearly all put it off until the afternoon of November 30, when they joined the line-up at the collector's office. Beginning December 1 the shipper was required to affix a penny revenue stamp every time he took an express company's receipt, but the stamps could not be procured.

The first Christmas trees of the season were hauled through the streets November 28, to the store of the W. W. Barnard Co., and got a nice note in some of the evening papers.

N. J. Wietor and a party of Rogers Park friends are at Clifton, Ill., for a few days' shooting.

Harry E. Philpott, of Winnipeg, arrived in town November 30, to remain possibly until Christmas.

The flower show at the County building next Monday morning, December 7, will be worth going to see.

Charles Erne, of Erne & Klingel, says the retailers have the Christmas business in their own hands. His idea is that the florist who wins must: (1) stock up; (2) make a show; (3) advertise.

It is the duty of every jobber and wholesaler to encourage the retail trade to prepare for a big Christmas, according to Frank M. Johnson, of the A. L. Randall Co., who points out, what everybody will recognize as a fact, that a big holiday business can not be achieved without ample preparation.

as the weather turns cool again. He ascribes the recent lack of demand to the abundance of pompons.

O. Johnson, of the Batavia Greenhouse Co., says the volume of business at Thanksgiving was a surprise to him, exceeding expectations. Beauties sold specially well.

L. H. Winterson, of Winterson's Seed Store, reports as visitors November 30: Gus Fredrickson, St. Joseph, Mich.; J. W. Lyon, Belvidere, Ill.; C. B. Knickman, with McHutchison & Co., New York.

Christmas red and green are displayed in profusion in the show rooms of Oscar Leistner. Theodore Kirchen believes the sale of prepared foliage will far exceed that of any previous year.

J. E. Pollworth has joined the sales staff of the Chicago Feed & Fertilizer Co.

Ruscus and boxwood baskets are to be more popular than ever this year if the present sales are to be taken as an indication. The Raedlein Basket Co. reports an unprecedented call for baskets of suitable character.

FORT WAYNE, IND.

The Market.

The Thanksgiving business here exceeded all expectations. The cold snap, which lasted over Sunday and Monday of last week, suddenly gave way to a mild temperature, with the result that the stock for Thanksgiving increased substantially in quantity, besides being of good quality. On Tuesday and Wednesday the orders came in thick and fast, and the majority of florists had an extra force on hand Thursday morning to fill and deliver orders.

Some fine Eaton, Chadwick and Bonnaffon chrysanthemums were in for Thanksgiving and sold like hot cakes. The Notre Dame vs. Friars football game, played here on Thursday afternoon, created a demand for chrysanthemums. Among the roses, Rhea Reid, Richmond, Killarney, Killarney Brilliant, Shawyer, Ophelia, Aaron Ward and Russell were the best in the market and brought good returns. A great many of the medium-sized roses were used in corsage work. Violets were plentiful and of excellent size and color.

It was a noticeable fact that the calls were mostly for cut flowers and corsages, comparatively few blooming plants being asked for. Some splendid chrysanthemum plants were offered, as well as narcissus plants, Begonia Glory of Cincinnati, cyclamens, primroses and ardisias.

The Market.

Thanksgiving business, on the whole, was not up to expectations by any means. The wholesalers found the demand not nearly so heavy as last year. Stock was plentiful and prices were much lower this year on fancy grades of roses, chrysanthemums, carnations and sweet peas. November 23 the consignors failed to send in much of anything, which made the retailers think a shortage was at hand, but stock arrived in abundance the next three days and the prices eased off.

Chrysanthemums are showing that their time is about over. The consignments are not nearly so heavy as they were. Yellow Jones, Chadwick and Eaton are the varieties still with us. These sell well. Roses are not overplentiful and it seems as though our local growers are somewhat off crop. This should bring them in right for the holidays. Carnations, too, are a little off in supply, but no shortage is expected. The market is fairly well supplied with sweet peas, violets, Paper Whites, stevia, valley and lilies. There is a fairly good supply of all kinds of greens.

Various Notes.

The annual banquet given by the Missouri Botanical Garden took place November 27, at the University Club. Covers were laid for nearly 300 guests. The tables were nicely decorated with ferns and Begonia Lorraine. Dr. Geo. T. Moore was toastmaster and the speakers were Prof. J. C. Whitten, Prof. A. T. Erwin and Arthur W. Gross. W. C. Smith, W. S. Wells and J. J. Beneke were the florists present.

PROVIDENCE.

The Market.

Thanksgiving week brought the queen of autumn into the full glory of its sway and everywhere the chrysanthemum was the dominant feature of decorations. The football game at Brown with the Carlisle Indians increased the demand for the big blooms and caused considerable hustling among the florists. There was a general clean-up, and on all sides were heard reports of good business. Roses, carnations, Paper Whites, bouvardias, orchids and valley all came in for recognition and prices were practically normal.

Various Notes.

The Hampden Meadows Greenhouses have had an unusually good cut of the hardy chrysanthemum, Souvenir d'Or, and it has sold quickly.

H. C. Neubrand, representing A. N. Pierson, of Cromwell, Conn., was a business visitor here last week.

Barney Bros. are the latest bidders for local business in the flower trade, having opened a retail store at 337 Weybosset street. They were formerly in another line of business at Warren.

Louis J. Reuter, of S. J. Reuter & Son, Westerly, was a business visitor in New York recently. The firm's new rose, Prince d'Arenberg, is maintaining the high expectations of its producers.

John Burke, of Burke & Burns, rose growers, is making a visit to relatives in the vicinity of Denver, Col.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

The condition of the cut flower market, December 2, somewhat resembles that of the country when political change is upon us. Those who have belonged to one party are going over to the other. So it is today, after the first week of the social season. Those who were producers for their own needs and the general market, are becoming consumers. Although the individual may not be a large factor, the changes assume importance when added together, turning the tide toward greater demand. This illustration shows why conditions are improving; add to it the effect of the wane of the chrysanthemum and the fact that the winter flowers are not yet in full crop and the situation is clear.

The Thanksgiving demand was excellent. Great quantities of flowers were used, at prices lower than those of last year except in a few instances. Yellow chrysanthemums and violets were most in demand. The market was strong on both until November 28, when it broke quite badly on violets in spite of the great crowds brought here by the Army and Navy football game. Violets that brought from $1 to $1.50 per hundred in the middle of the week then receded to 75 cents, but returned to $1 on the following days of business. Bonnaffon held its popularity, though it took a better flower to bring last year's prices. Eaton and Chadwick, both in yellow, brought good money, the white varieties selling for an average of at least 50 cents per dozen lower. Pink was not so much in evidence. Pompons sold freely. The rose crop was not heavy. Beauties were less in favor than usual at this holiday. Excepting when fine, the shorter grades of roses were preferred to the longer. The novelties and the yellows were most in demand. Carnations were fine, quite plentiful, and sold well. Easter lilies were in fair supply and in good demand. Perhaps this was due to the fact that Jeanne Nonin, the great late white chrysanthemum, has disappointed growers and buyers alike, showing signs of lack of vitality. Cattleyas were not overplentiful and sold well. White orchids were scarce. There was a fair supply of vandas, and lots of cyps, but few oncidiums. Gardenias were excellent. Valley was equal to the demand. Paper Whites and stevia were abundant. There were few sweet peas.

Poinsettias can be had, but are not yet in request.

The market this week has one important feature: There are plenty of Eatons, Chadwicks, Cranes, Nonins, Jones and Dolly Dimples and some pompons and singles, an unusual condition for the first week in December. The market is not strong, perhaps owing to the return of mild weather.

few years, that have been described each season in this column. There is the same mass of color with a view to harmony and the same rich, tropical verdure bordering and between the two pictures, relieved by an occasional specimen of the autumn queen. The effect is lovely and unique. The guards assert the crowds have been smaller this season than in former years, a statement that, if correct, leads to the assumption that the management must be up and doing if they wish to bring the throngs away out from the center of the city as they have so successfully done in the past.

Ferns and Flowering Plants.

A visit to the greenhouses of Aschmann Bros., on the Second street pike, one day this week found Edward and Howard Aschmann hard at work packing an order for shipment. It was in the middle of the morning, but the work in the greenhouses was finished; all the plants had already had their bath and were enjoying the genial atmosphere that is secured by the proper mixture of warmth and moisture. The stock had evidently had good care all through the fall and was repaying it by excellent growth. There were Lorraine begonias which, to quote Mr. Aschmann, "the florists will want the moment they see them." They were beautiful stock, all in 6-inch pots, strong and full of bloom. Many other flowering plants, too, there were that seeing would mean wanting: Cyclamens and poinsettias, and Begonia magnifica and Erfordii. Then there was a great block of Azalea Mme. Petrick and a smaller one of Vervæneana, all for Christmas. The ferns were splendid, great big Teddy Junior, Scottii and the so popular Elegantissima compacta, considered the best of the crested varieties. There were table ferns galore, mostly of the hardy little pteris type, and some little asparagus by way of variety. The place looked so well that you couldn't help feeling that when business begins in earnest the stock will go out with a rush.

Various Notes.

The Robert Craig Co. has a beautiful show of Christmas flowering and foliage plants, rich in every hue and color, on view in the place at Forty-ninth and Market streets.

Recent visitors include representatives of Wadley & Smythe, Malandre Bros. and Schloss Bros., all of New York; J. Fallon, Roanoke, Va.; M. C. Ebel, Madison, N. J., who came to look after the interests of the National Gardeners' Association, which meets here December 9 and 10, and a delightful representative of C. C. Morse & Co., whose lodging calculations were upset by the Army and Navy crowds.

Paul Berkowitz's jolly smile is seen here this week, after a prolonged absence in the west, where, it is pleasant to record, he met with a hearty reception.

A. R. Bauer & Son, Chesilhurst, N. J., are sending fine Crane and Nonin to Berger Bros.

Joseph G. Neidinger has this week received heavy shipments of statice and ruscus.

Arthur A. Sheldon was the star attraction at the December meeting of the Florists' Club, where he spoke on business building and had a crowded house.

Henry A. Dreer, Inc., has invited the National Gardeners' Association to visit Riverton next week.

George D. Clark has had a great bulb season.

Edward Reid is receiving superb carnations in the leading varieties.

The Henry F. Michell Co. has an exhibit at the food show at the Reading terminal. F. J. Michell is pleased with the bulb season.

The M. Rice Co. has a clever little novelty in the form of red auto wreaths, on which they have been flooded with orders of late. This is a small wreath, six inches in diameter, which is designed for use in automobiles at Christmas time, decorated with some red ribbon. Phil.

Ashton, Ill.—Oscar Schade has erected a greenhouse, 24x100 feet. Only vegetables will be grown the first year; flowers may be added later.

SOWING SHASTA DAISY SEED.

I should like to know whether I can sow Shasta daisy seed now in the greenhouse, then pot the seedlings in 2½-inch pots and put them in coldframes until spring, when I would set them out. I should like to start about 5,000 plants with as small an outlay as possible. If you know of a better way to go about this, your advice will be appreciated. P. J. G.

Yes, you can start the Shasta daisies now if you wish, but I would prefer to wait until January 1. You can pot them off as suggested and the plants can go into coldframes by the middle or end of March, especially if you place a few inches of warm manure, well tramped, below them. You will get good plants before spring sales begin. Chrysanthemum maximum King Edward VII is the finest of the Shasta daisies, and I would advise you to try at least some of it; Alaska is also good. C. W.

Beatrice, Neb.—The opening of the Dole Floral Co. was enlivened by a Victrola concert in the evening. The new icebox was filled and the store well decorated.

The Market.

Thanksgiving was an agreeable surprise, inasmuch as it was better than expected; weather perfect, shipments about equal to the demand, prices reasonable, and everybody satisfied.

The general demand in the retail department of the business was quite beyond expectations. The call for baskets of flowers for the Thanksgiving table decorations taxed the genius of the floral artists to their capacity. American Beauties brought excellent prices for the holiday, but fell rapidly when it was over, the best of them falling, November 28, to 30 cents. These carried the other thirty varieties with them, so that all roses had to share in the retreat. There can be no fault found with the quality of the roses. They are at their best. There are not enough of the newer varieties, and Hadley, Shawyer, Sunburst, Russell and Taft are running a close race for largest recognition, with Ward, Mock and the double Killarneys close behind.

The mum has had its day. There will be a fair showing of the reserves until Christmas, but few now arriving command over $2 per dozen. Violets have held up remarkably well, 60 cents to 75 cents per hundred being realized November 28. This week considerable recession from this level is anticipated. Carnations are abundant and prices fell after the holiday, stock that brought 4 cents and 5 cents November 25 selling at 2 cents and 3 cents November 28. Ward and Matchless were most in demand. Orchids are advancing. There is no surplus. Valley is firm and lilies of all varieties, including callas, about equal to the demand. Gardenias get better each week and prices are steady. Sweet peas are improving fast, and lilac, daisies, snapdragon and bouvardia are abundant. Christmas greens of all kinds are already displayed.

Various Notes.

The Florists' Club meets December 14, in the Grand Opera House building, on West Twenty-third street. It will be election night. The contest for the presidency is between two of the most popular members of the club, Messrs. Bunyard and Hendrickson. The usual turkey collation is promised by the house committee and there will be a display of new roses and other novelties.

Charles H. Totty continues to improve and will be able to enjoy his Christmas dinner at home. Messages of hope from all branches of the trade and almost every state in the Union have cheered him during his recovery. It is worth while being ill sometimes to realize the value of human friendship.

Walter Mott is in the city on his way home from a successful western and southern trip in the interest of B. F. Hammond.

A goodly number of the New York gardening fraternity will attend the convention of the National Association of Gardeners at Philadelphia, December 9.

The MacNiff Horticultural Co. will continue its Tuesday and Friday auctions at its present headquarters, 56 Vesey street, until after Christmas. Work on the big store next door is progressing and the doubled space will be available for the storage of Christmas supplies, all varieties of which will be handled in the concern's retail department.

The big windows of the Stumpp & Walter Co. already are attractive with Christmas suggestions. Business is booming with all the seed houses and everyone speaks assuringly as to the holiday demand.

WASHINGTON.

The Market.

The florists of the national capital are somewhat disappointed with the results of their Thanksgiving day business. The preceding days were warm and fair, causing the market to be overcrowded with stock. There had been a marked scarcity of Beauties at $3 and $4 per dozen, but on Thanksgiving day they were without a market at less than half those figures. Even chrysanthemums failed to bring the usual prices, for the average was $1.50 per dozen. Eaton and Bonnaffon, Chadwicks in all varieties, Dr. Enguehard, Golden Wedding and Maud Dean were the favorites. A few Jerome Jones were on the market and in fine condition. William Turner chrysanthemums are about off the market, although a few fine specimens are still to be had. Carnations moved better, bringing up to $4 per hundred, but this price has since receded to $2 for the best. Roses, while not strictly Thanksgiving day flowers, sold well, especially the yellow varieties, which were not in sufficient quantity to fill all demands. Aaron Ward was the most popular. The orchid-flowering sweet peas are exceptionally good. Stevia is to be had at 50 cents per bunch, but is in limited demand. The mignonette now to be had at $4 to $6 is as fine as has ever been seen here and the same applies to valley, which brings an average of $4. There is still a great scarcity of violets. For some reason, during the last ten days this flower has ceased to bloom and the dealers are forced to depend upon the Rhinebeck production of doubles, whereas the local demand is for singles.

The present week started with overclouded skies and the prospects for cool weather are good. These are indications of a shorter supply of stock and naturally of increased prices. With the market far from normal, this will be welcomed by all of the growers.

The European war is having a marked effect on business here. With the differences existing between the diplomats of the belligerent countries, it is impossible to give the elaborate state dinners of former years. There is to be a general curtailment of entertainments during the coming season and it is said that society leaders will this year content themselves with simple affairs. There will be the usual number of debutante teas, but the large balls and receptions will be few. The recent bereavement of President Wilson eliminates all possibilities of social activities at the White House and there will be no entertainments at which he will be the guest of honor.

Various Notes.

Gude Bros. Co. had the decorating of St. Patrick's church on Thanksgiving day, on the occasion of the celebration of the famous Pan-American mass, and of the dining and reception rooms of the rectory which adjoins, where about eighty men prominent in official affairs were guests. The church was magnificently decorated with huge palms, ferns and quantities of yellow chrysanthemums, and at different places doves of peace were suspended from the ceiling. At the luncheon, at which were present the diplomats from the twenty-one Pan-American republics, representatives of the European nations, officials of our own government and a sprinkling of American professional and business men, among them William F. Gude, all to the number of eighty, the sixteen table decorations consisted of centerpieces in green and yellow, surmounted in each instance by a white dove. The room was decorated with palms, ferns and smilax.

Among the visitors here during the week were William Rehder, of Wilmington, N. C.; W. Mott, with Hammond's Paint & Slug Shot Works; Harry Balsley and wife, from Detroit, Mich., and Frank Hargett, of Frederick, Md.

C. L. L.

HARTFORD, CONN.

The Market.

Thanksgiving business was about normal. With winter weather the week previous, the supply of roses greatly decreased and red was particularly scarce. Both stevias and poinsettias were in the market. In Thanksgiving mums, Chadwick still holds the field. Some pompons were seen. Mums are now about past. The present indications are that the supply of roses will be on a steady increase up to the holidays. Greens are rather scarce.

Various Notes.

The Connecticut Horticultural Society, at its meeting December 11, will nominate officers for the ensuing year.

Walter Miller, formerly gardener for Dr. Williams, has returned to Pennsylvania, his former home.

At A. N. Pierson's, valley pips are arriving from Europe; so a regular supply for the season is assured.

Wolfgang Schwartz was in Cromwell last week, moving his household goods to Holyoke, Mass., where he is engaged as foreman for Gallivan Bros.

R. C. S.

Webster, N. Y.—Mr. Mossgraber is building another house, 21x75 feet, for pot plants.

Ada, Okla.—A flower show held by the Patrons' Club of the Ada schools aroused considerable interest in flowers and plants, and W. E. Pitt, proprietor of the Ada Greenhouses, who placed an exhibit at the show, expects good results from the preparation for a larger exhibition next year. Mr. Pitt has found business excellent in the eighteen months he has been here.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

Mountain View, Cal.—Wilkins, East & Co. is the name of a new firm that has started in business near here. They will open a store in San Francisco and expect to grow most of their stock. John M. Eva has charge of the nursery. The address is Box 136, R. F. D.

Chico, Cal.—The Chico Floral Co. has opened a store at 434 Second street. The company has purchased a tract of land and will erect a range of greenhouses. The concern is reported to have an establishment at Eugene, Ore., from which supplies will be furnished until the greenhouses here are completed.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Review would like to print one or two columns of San Francisco news every issue. Who would like to supply it?

The correspondent should be on the buying side of the market, not connected with any wholesaler. If his business brings him into contact with the trade he will find the news comes easy. He also can add appreciably to his income by looking after subscriptions and ads.

LOS ANGELES.

The Market.

Orders for Thanksgiving have been good and this feast day is annually improving for the florist, though it is still far from coming up to the eastern standard here. The stores have a holiday appearance, with displays of red carnations, poinsettias and holiday baskets. Red cyclamens as cut flowers are extra popular now and it looks as though they would pay better as cut flowers than as plants. The deep reds and pure whites are most in demand. Violets, Cecile Brunner roses, orchids and valley are all good sellers. Cattleya Mossiæ, C. Trianæ, C. Percivaliana and C. labiata all seem to have overlapped here this year.

All kinds of Christmas greens are becoming plentiful, the northern woods being laid under tribute pretty heavily at this time. A much greater variety than formerly is being used. Azaleas are already in flower, principally left-over Petrick and Simon Mardner. The cyclamens shipped in from the north are extra good this year.

Various Notes.

Coolidge's Rare Plant Gardens, at Colorado and Hill streets, Pasadena, are always interesting to visit, as one is sure to find something a little different from what is seen elsewhere. Mr. Coolidge has been gathering a good-sized collection of ceanothus, both native and foreign, and they look like good subjects for this section. C. thyrsiflorus makes an attractive hedge plant or small shrub and several of the newer hybrids are especially good. Lespedeza rosea makes an especially pretty border plant, the name mosquito plant being given to others besides this. In the three or four years Mr. Coolidge has been established here he has done wonders.

ARE YOU SATISFIED?

Any florist on the Pacific coast not satisfied to do a local retail business can build up a prosperous wholesale trade by using space in The Review to let the buyers know where stock is to be found. This way:

We have found advertising in The Review to be very satisfactory. We have had orders from all parts of the United States, as well as from the Pacific coast, showing that your valued paper has a very wide circulation. At any time we have any special advertising to do we certainly shall send it to The Review.—Hogan & Kooyman, Oakland, Cal.

Wolfskills' & Morris Goldenson say business is booming. Seeing a large bunch of the new carnation H. W. Turner, Jr., I asked J. Gordon what he thought of it and he was loud in his praise of it. Incidentally I may remark that a bunch of it on my desk, picked ten days ago at Polder & Groen's nursery at Montebello, is still fresh and fragrant.

Christmas stock is coming along finely at Ed. Rust's nursery at South Pasadena. He has some of the finest cyclamens ever seen on the coast, while the ferns, begonias and other pot plants are elegant. Mr. Rust usually grows a big batch of cold storage spiræas for Christmas, and this year they are especially good. Big consignments of Holland and Belgian stock have arrived, the bulk of it in fine order.

George Reinberg, Chicago, and more recently connected with Domoto Bros., Oakland, has been ill and his doctor has sent him to Los Angeles to recuperate. He is considerably thinner and I hardly knew him, but of course it will only be a matter of time when he will get fixed up all right here.

Fred Sperry reports a fine shipping business at the store of the L. A. Floral Co. He is handling the pink seedling carnation, Mrs. Welsh, grown by Elgert & Martin, of Covina.

G. Newman, of S. Murata & Co., is on a business trip to San Francisco. Business keeps up well here.

Wright's Flower Shop reports a big week's business and several important wedding decorations for early in December.

The Germain Seed & Plant Co. is handling big lots of valley now, both cold storage pips and cut stock. The demand for pips for Christmas forcing has been away beyond expectations.

C. Gutting appears to have recovered from the shock of his near-electrocution and is dodging the traffic as nimbly as ever. He reports a fine demand for his Christmas plants.

H. W. Turner reports a big demand for roses, on some days more than can be filled from the big greenhouses.

Tony Tassano and his two brothers apparently put in a good deal of time at the store now, when business is booming. The quality of the green goods shipped in from their Glendale nursery is fine.

Big shipments of northern greens continue to arrive at the store of the California Evergreen Co. and are quickly cleaned up daily.

PORTLAND, ORE.

The Market.

The extra demand for flowers for Thanksgiving has tended to make conditions more nearly normal than they have been at any time this fall. This extra business was as brisk as was expected and all had stock of excellent quality to meet the call. While the volume of stock handled probably nearly equaled that of last year, the amount received from the sales was less by at least twenty per cent.

This decrease is divided between the grower and retailer in about equal shares. The public has had the benefit, getting extra fine flowers at low prices. This accounts, perhaps, for the large sales reported. Some retailers report good business from their regular customers; others think their large Thanksgiving sales were due to drop-in customers. There was a normal demand from outside points, and shippers were busy.

Potted plants sold well, cyclamens being the favorites. The beautiful weather Thursday brought people out and made trade brisk in corsages and boutonnieres. A few violets still come in from the vicinity, but the bulk of the stock is California-grown. Orchids are more plentiful, Cattleya labiata leading.

Various Notes.

Henry Clemmens, the sweet pea specialist of Newberg, was a visitor Friday. He reports having greatly enlarged his outdoor area of sweet pea stock and says it is his intention to

A step in the right direction, from a florist's viewpoint, has been taken by the Sunnyside camp of the Woodmen of the World. Under the auspices of this camp, with W. C. Dietz as chairman of the committee of arrangements, an amateur flower show was held at their hall, at East Thirty-fourth and East Yamhill streets, Tuesday evening, November 24. Several growers and retail firms had exhibits, but the contest was solely between amateurs, in outdoor blooms and home-grown house plants. J. Gould, Ellen C. Walker and Geo. L. Routledge were the judges. The contest was open to everyone and the show was free to the public. The florists supplied the prizes.

A special demand has arisen this season for large specimen shrubs of all sorts, including conifers. Upright cotoneasters in several varieties are attracting special notice this year. With their glossy green foliage and red berries, they are quite decorative, especially when used as specimen shrubs.

TACOMA, WASH.

The Market.

There seemed to be much doubt among the retailers as to what was to be expected for Thanksgiving day business, but there is no doubt now as to what they should have done. Many were inclined to light buying, with the result that they were short of stock when the rush came. Chrysanthemums sold well, the medium grades having perhaps the greatest call, although the fancy ones cleaned up well. Pompons sold well, as they have during the entire season. There was not nearly enough to meet the demand. Carnations are still slightly in excess of the demand, but are going off crop, and it looks as though there would be a shortage for the Christmas holidays. Paper Whites and Romans have made their appearance and are of good quality, with no great demand at this early season. Potted stock in bloom is still scarce, with a good call for ferns and small palms.

Various Notes.

The Florists' Club meets Thursday night, December 3. J. L. S.

SEATTLE, WASH.

The Market.

Thanksgiving business hardly came up to expectations, but, considering everything, there was little reason to complain. There seemed to be the usual crowds of flower buyers, but the sales were hardly so good as in former years and the cheap grades of flowers were in greatest demand. There was a bountiful supply of chrysanthemums of many varieties and the quality generally ruled high. As usual at this season, chrysanthemums were the flowers most asked for; consequently, though the prices of mums were in general lower than usual, they were well cleaned up. Carnations, owing to the recent slashing of prices, were not much sought for and the usual price of 75 cents was prevalent, though one store had them placarded at 50 cents a dozen. There were a few poinsettias in some of the stores, but they were little asked for. Roses are now at their best and large quantities are being sold. Valley is fairly plentiful and there are the usual unlimited quantities of California violets.

In potted stock, some mum plants sold well, but the greatest demand was for cyclamens, of which there were more than enough. Some cinerarias were offered, but the keeping quality of these plants at this season is none too good and they are far from profitable to retailers. The fibrous begonias are selling, but the prices are not comparable with those of former years.

The supplies of imported decorative stock for Christmas are coming to hand. Though the shipments are later than usual, there seems to be no shortage, any more than there is of other European stock. T. W.

CASH PREVENTS BANKRUPTCY.

"The trend of the times," said R. J. Roulston, in addressing a wholesale grocers' convention, "is 'Get the Cash,' that great economizer, conserver and distributer of human effort, which concretely designates tangible worth in every man, and makes available to the other that which he cannot or does not produce himself."

The way the wholesale grocer is urged to "get the cash" is by allowing a uniform discount of two per cent on all payments made within ten days of date of invoice—and to restrict their sales to buyers who do not take advantage of the opportunity to save the two per cent.

In the florists' business cash discounts are scarcely known—indeed, a commission dealer operating on fifteen per cent probably would think he could not afford it, although some of them have seen years when they would have been glad to have limited the loss on bad credits to that percentage of their total sales. The way the wholesale grocers figure it is this:

"It is not only reasonable and right to ask two per cent for cash—it is good, sound, business economy to grant it. It means a check on reckless merchandising—in the way of heedless speculation and careless giving of credit. It means wholesome and beneficial economy to the general community, as it tends to the lessening of bad debts, and lays the burden of paying for what you get more evenly upon the people as a whole. If our ideal is reached there will be no need of the bankruptcy law, as cash means no bankrupts."

PAGES OF RETAILERS' CARDS

THIS department for the cards of Leading Retail Florists—those florists who have the facilities for filling the orders sent them by other florists—has made possible the recent rapid development of this branch of the business, a branch of the trade now established for all time and so helpful that its volume will keep on increasing for many years.

Are you sending and receiving your share of these orders? You can send your share (and make 20 per cent profit without effort) if you let your customers know you can perform this service for them. To receive your share—well, The Review's department for Retailers' cards remains the one way of getting prompt action on the order in hand.

To be represented costs only 70 cents per week on a yearly order. This is for one-inch space. Other spaces in proportion.

Why not send your order today—now—before you forget it?

Florists' Review,
Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:-

During the SIX MONTHS from March 4 to September 4 I have received from other Florists, by mail, telegraph or cable, orders to the amount of $513.25 as a result of my advertisement in the Retailers' department of The Review. With the allowance to senders the record for SIX MONTHS is:

Value of orders received----------	$513.25
Less 20% allowed senders--------	102.60
Net value of orders for SIX MONTHS--	410.65

It should be noted that this showing covers the DULL SUMMER MONTHS, when any addition to a Florists's business is decidedly welcome.

Retail Florists not advertising in The Review should profit by this letter.

Respectfully,

F. H. Weber

The Market.

Everyone seems to have been satisfied with Thanksgiving business. The volume of trade agreeably surprised both wholesalers and retailers, and, although prices did not make the usual advance in some lines, the general verdict is that, all things considered, business was good. Roses sold out well November 25. Some select Beauties made $6 per dozen, but only a limited number could be sold at that price, $25 to $35 per hundred being a more general rate. The demand for mediums was better than that for long-stemmed flowers. Hadley and Richmond sold well at from $3 to $20, the latter price for specials. Russell, Ophelia, Shawyer, Killarney Queen, Sunburst and Ward all went well at from $3 to $12, some select flowers making more. Killarney and White Killarney sold at $3 to $10. Carnations were in short supply and made from $3 to $5; Gorgeous made $6. Violets averaged $1 per hundred.

Chrysanthemums were in heavy supply and sold well at moderate prices. The bulk made $5 to $12 per hundred. Only a few fancies made $2 or over. Pompons, particularly bronze, sold extremely well. There was little change in valley, lilies, Paper Whites or cornflowers. Snapdragons moved slowly, but yellow marguerites sold well. There was no special call for gardenias or cattleyas, although both cleaned up well. Plant trade was only moderate, with begonias, cyclamens and chrysanthemums leading. While business November 25 was excellent, on Thanksgiving morning there was little doing in wholesale quarters.

Since Thanksgiving, trade has held up well and a more optimistic feeling is abroad all around. There are still plenty of chrysanthemums, Bonnaffon leading all others in popularity. Carnations are cleaning up well, as most of the growers are off crop. Roses are lower and drag somewhat, especially Killarney and White Killarney. Single violets are of good quality, but there is general complaint of the crop being light. Snapdragons are not selling well, but will improve as mums get out of the way. Paper Whites are abundant and stevia is coming from several growers. Gardenias are of better quality; the best make $3 per dozen. Cattleya labiata is less abundant, but a good many C. Percivaliana are arriving. Plant trade as yet is somewhat quiet, but a good Christmas demand is looked for and all growers are well equipped to meet it.

Various Notes.

J. W. Simpson, of Woburn, sold 400 dozen Bonnaffons November 25. These were fine, heavy flowers, although grown three to a plant. He has a splendid lot of yellow marguerites coming along. His White Wonder and Pink Supreme carnations are doing well.

William Capstick, of Auburndale, has completed a house 20x150 and has planted it with double violets. His other houses are devoted to Asparagus Sprengeri.

William T. Walke, of Salem, has two splendid houses of poinsettias for Christmas. He also has a grand lot of cyclamens and Cincinnati begonias.

The landscape gardening classes of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club had their first session at Horticultural hall December 1. R. W. Aldrich and Paul R. Smith are again the leaders.

Harry Cedar, for five years with Wax Bros., is now manager for Harry Quint, 198 Tremont street. Mr. Quint says Thanksgiving trade was fine. He can sell more flowers at his present stand than at the one he vacated at 164 Tremont street, while he has more room and only a fraction of the rent to pay.

The Houghton-Gorney Co. reports an excellent Thanksgiving trade, with cash sales that far exceeded the total sales for 1913. They now have their new store in apple-pie order.

James Wheeler is this season growing 6,250 yellow marguerites, planted in solid beds, and is already cutting flowers in quantity. This seems to knock on the head the theory that for winter-flowering the root action must be starved. Mr. Wheeler had 30,000 chrysanthemums, which are now all cut.

The Sutermeister estate, of Readville, has a fine batch of Freesia Purity already in bud. They are cutting stevias and Paper Whites in quantity.

J. T. Butterworth has a splendid house of Cattleya labiata in flower, when most of the growers are cut out of this variety. He also has Cypripedium insigne in quantity.

Henry Penn says that Thanksgiving trade was a surprise, and a pleasant one at that. Business exceeded that of 1913. Chrysanthemums were the leaders among cut flowers, but all varieties sold well and a good many flowering plants were also sold.

The Waban Rose Conservatories cut a splendid lot of Russell, Hadley, Killarney Brilliant and White Killarney for Thanksgiving. Among the new roses, Mrs. Moorfield Storey maintains its popularity. Some Ophelia is being grown and it is doing well.

Peter Hylen, of Randolph, is now almost cleaned out of mums, but still has a nice lot of Bonnaffons and yellow baby pompons. He has Paper Whites in quantity, but will not have daffodils for Christmas.

The Fottler, Fiske, Rawson Co. is doing a considerable business in cyclamens, begonias and foliage plants, in addition to bulbs, which have cleaned up well.

James F. M. Farquhar is planning to spend the winter in southern California. A year ago he went to Porto Rico. He likes the climate there, but the food is not of the best.

H. A. Sim, who has been salesman for his father, has gone to Cuba on an extended visit and may go into the fruit growing business eventually. Mr. Sim, Jr., has had a splendid training and I am sure will make good in his new field. He certainly has the good wishes of everyone.

At Galvin's they report Thanksgiving trade as satisfactory, with the demand well distributed, though chrysanthemums took the lead in popularity. They had a fine orchid window November 28. A large basket of Ophelia roses was a feature in one window. This rose is wonderfully popular here.

Among the growers of superb single violets this season are William Spillsbury and Charles Sanborn, of Woburn, and Kidder Bros.

Many changes have been made in the schedule for the fall show of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, in November, 1915. The major portion of the fruit and vegetable classes from the annual October show are transferred to the November show, from which the name "chrysanthemum" will hereafter be dropped.

Wax Bros. report Thanksgiving business as ahead of 1913. In chrysanthemums, Bonnaffons and dark bronze pompons were the leaders. They had a beautiful casket cover of Hadley and White Killarney roses for a funeral in Middleboro, November 24; also numerous other designs. Their new delivery car is giving them good service. As proof of the value of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery, the writer was shown a large bundle of orders for Thanksgiving delivery from all parts of the United States.

F. J. Dolansky is cutting a fine crop of Cattleya Percivaliana. He had a good cut of long-stemmed gardenias for Thanksgiving.

P. J. Donahoe reports Ophelia rose as a good seller. He is getting splendid shipments of Killarney Brilliant, White Killarney, Hadley and Russell from the Montgomery Co. His Beauties from Paul R. Pierson are, as usual, of top-notch quality.

Welch Bros Co. had a good Thanksgiving trade, the shipping orders far exceeding their expectations, and they are optimistic as to the Christmas trade.

A. M. Davenport's stock of Christmas plants is in splendid shape. In addition to Lorraine and Cincinnati begonias, there is a grand lot of the new Florence Davenport. Azaleas are here in abundance, as well as camellias, cyclamens, poinsettias and numerous other plants. Special mention should be made of the grand stock of Asplenium Nidus-Avis and cibotiums.

The Boston Cut Flower Co. was well pleased with Thanksgiving business, which equaled that of a year ago.

W. N. C.

PITTSBURGH.

The Market.

Pittsburgh had a good Thanksgiving. Almost everything cleaned up, but prices were held down, as the demand was only for stock that could be sold at a reasonable price. About the only flowers on which the prices were jumped were Beauties, and the retailers just let them alone. Notwithstanding the warm, bright weather all fall and the prediction that there would be no chrysanthemums for Thanksgiving, there never were so many nor did they ever sell so cheaply. But, taking it all in all, it was a good day's business, with no shortage on anything, and the outlook is for plenty of flowers from now until Christmas. We still have mums and no special demand, so prices rule low.

Various Notes.

November 29 rain began and will be a blessing for those who are depending on cisterns, as they have had to be sparing with water. One grower said

November 28 that he had not watered his carnations for a week and was waiting for the promised rain to help him out.

Randolph & McClements, after they had completed a good Thanksgiving business, took an order for a blanket that called for a couple of thousand pink roses besides the valley. November 30 they made another of white roses.

Mrs. E. A. Williams, in connection with her regular trade, had several large social affairs and wound up with a large wedding Thanksgiving night.

Miss Emma Maxwell, of Wilkinsburg, Pa., says she can find no fault with business. Possibly her new store is partly responsible, but the fact that she always carries a complete line of good stock and gives personal attention is quite a factor.

Miss Nellie G. King says her first holiday surprised her; she was hardly prepared for the volume of business, but handled it nicely.

Geo. L. Huscroft, Steubenville, O., reports the florists' business in that city at least as good as any other line of trade.

West Virginia went dry, but Arthur Langhans says that cut flower business in Wheeling is better than most other lines of business.

Stanley Wehrley, manager of the new store of the Hayman Greenhouse Co., in Fairmont, W. Va., is making quite a success. The arrangement of the shop is unique. The windows are

The Market.

Business has steadily increased during the last week and a decided improvement is noticed. The Thanksgiving day trade was quite successful. According to the report from the wholesale house, business was larger than last year; there was no great increase, but they are well pleased. Excellent stock has been obtainable all the week, and lots of it. Chrysanthemums were in fine shape, especially those grown at home. Large quantities of Bonnaffon, Nagoya, Patty, Eaton, Chadwick and many other varieties were shipped in daily. The supply of Beauties was good and the color was rich. Fancy Beauties brought fancy prices. There was a large supply of other roses and a good demand, with better prices. Shawyer and Sunburst are two popular roses here and sell well. Small Wards and Cecile Brunner roses are used extensively in the making of the small, old-fashioned colonial corsages that are now popular.

These small roses, with stevias, Paper Whites and valley, make a pleasing combination.

Sweat peas were not nearly sufficient to meet the demand. The sale of violets was not nearly so good as usual. Easter lilies are fairly plentiful, but callas are scarce. A full supply of valley is on hand. The supply of carnations has increased in the last few days. There are plenty of cattleyas and oncidiums, but the price is rather low. There are some fine gardenias and bouvardias, but these do not move rapidly. The supply of greens is sufficient for the demand.

Funeral work has been heavy all the week. An increased number of corsages and decorations proves the fact that social functions, which are late in starting, are here at last.

Various Notes.

The Rochester Floral Co. reports a satisfactory Thanksgiving business.

Henry P. Neun says business is pretty good. He had an annex for Thanksgiving on West Main street, near the Club theater. Harry Brush managed it for him.

Visitors during the week included J. T. Stiles, representing William B. Lake, of Philadelphia, and John Bubach, of the McCallum Co., Pittsburgh.

Good, brisk business was done by J. B. Keller Sons during the whole week, especially for Thanksgiving day.

H. E. Wilson is well pleased with business for November 26. Orders from out of town were heavy, as well

Seed Trade News.

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.

President, Lester L. Morse, San Francisco, Cal.; Secretary-Treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

Thirty-third annual convention, San Francisco, Cal., 1915.

THE first 1915 general seed catalogue is due any mail now.

THE 1915 congressional free seed distribution starts this week.

ALARM on account of the European seed supplies has subsided. No serious delay is apprehended.

THE assignment of the Henry Philipps Seed & Implement Co., of Toledo, O., is recorded under the head of Business Embarrassments in this issue.

SEEDSMEN in Santa Clara county, Cal., have about completed the work of planting their onion crop for this season. Some 80,000 sacks of onions were used.

W. J. FOSGATE, L. M. Kimberlin, of the Kimberlin Seed Co., and Thomas Landrum, of C. C. Morse & Co., are among California seedsmen at present touring the east.

G. W. CUMMINGS, a stockholder in the Sioux City Seed & Nursery Co., Sioux City, Ia., and nephew of G. H. Cummings, secretary of the company, is receiving congratulations on his marriage, Thanksgiving day.

THERE is a tendency toward an easier market for nearly all seeds, perhaps in sympathy with general business conditions during the last three months, but probably also because the immediate effects of the European war as regards seed supply were overestimated.

IN their advance offer of sweet peas for 1915, issued November 23, W. Atlee Burpee & Co., say: "Never before was there a better prospect for a large and fine crop of sweet pea seed in America than during the spring of 1914, but unfortunately after the vines had started to run they were attacked by countless millions of aphis. Every attempt was made to save the crops by careful and constant spraying, but only a few fields out of the many planted survived, and we are therefore facing another short supply of seed."

POSTAGE ON PEAS AND BEANS.

A seedsman writes to The Review as follows: "We have read with interest the various letters published in The Review relative to cataloguing seeds, whether to offer them prepaid as in the past or to ask purchaser to add postage for parcel post charges. We believe that the only logical way is to list the seeds postpaid, as in the past, and thereby prevent considerable correspondence, as we find that only about one out of twenty-five will include enough postage. It seems that most people believe that they live in closer zones than they really do, and, besides, they seem to figure that the seller will hardly write, spending 2 cents, in order to collect 3 or 4 cents due.

"But what we want to get at is this: In the past we have always listed our peas and beans as follows: 'Pint, 15c (by mail, 23c); quart, 25c (by mail, 40c).' Now a pint weighs approximately one pound and a quart two pounds. By adding the postage as formerly we are really adding considerably more than the parcel post charges. Have any of your correspondents ever suggested anything to fit these items? By making a flat charge of 5 cents per pint and 10 cents per quart we would be protecting ourselves up to the fourth zone, but outside of this zone we would be drawing the short end. We would appreciate any information you can give us along these lines."

Make a Lily Profit this Winter

You can get a case or so of extra fine Lilium Formosum—Horseshoe Brand bulbs, suitable to plant at any time from now until next March. And you can get a case or so of Horseshoe Brand Giganteum, suitable to plant any time from now until next October. The price of size 7 to 9 inches in each variety is $18.00 per case of 300 bulbs. Formosum f. o. b. New York, and Giganteum f. o. b. New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Buffalo, Toronto, Cincinnati, Galveston, Minneapolis, Grand Rapids or Pittsburgh. $18.00 per case.

They are no doubt the best lily bulbs produced anywhere in the world today. If there are any better you can't get them for $18.00 a case. These you can. Now is the time to order.

effect seedsmen have been tabulating their mailings in the endeavor to see what zones their business covers. Of course scarcely any two houses make exactly the same showing. Some houses have a worth-while business in the sixth, seventh and eighth zones, but some important houses find they have nothing of consequence beyond the fifth zone. Consequently they can base their catalogue prices on fifth, fourth, third or local zone distribution as fits their individual situation. It was at once apparent, when seeds and catalogues were put under the zone rates, that it was in favor of the local seedsman as against the houses with nation-wide business.

PEA PACKERS CONVENE.

Wisconsin canners, who are said to pack over half the peas put up in the United States, are holding a record convention at Milwaukee this week, but reports on the second day indicate that the seedsmen, who are present in considerable force, are not booking the usual business. There is nothing which could well be called an exhibit by seedsmen, although everybody shows samples in one way or another. The seed houses and their representatives are as follows:

John H. Allan Seed Co., Sheboygan, Wis.; E. M. Parmalee.
W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago; W. W. Barnard, A. H. Goodwin, Arnold Ringler.
Everett B. Clark Seed Co., Milford, Conn.; Alex Mathers.
Wm. A. Davis Seed Co., Bozeman, Mont.; Wm. A. Davis.
G. H. Hunkel Co., Milwaukee; G. H. Hunkel.
N. B. Keeney, Leroy, N. Y.; J. McCrary.
M. G. Madson Seed Co., Manitowoc, Wis.; C. Kunz.
Manitowoc Seed Co., Manitowoc, Wis.; A. Guttmann.
Leonard Seed Co., Chicago; S. F. Leonard, Ed. Leonard, J. C. Leonard, A. H. Smith, J. Gerry, A. Holsington.
Peninsula Seed Co., Port Huron, Mich.; A. Brotherton, Wm. Eckholm.
Jerome B. Rice Seed Co., Cambridge, N. Y.; Wm. Langbridge, Chas. Guelph.

One or two of the papers read held interest for the seedsmen. R. B. Johns, of Antigo, had something to say about seed contracts and Prof. R. A. Moore and Prof. E. J. Delwiche, of the University of Wisconsin, told of the recent progress in developing strains of pea seed for canning purposes.

tiansand, via Christiania and Copenhagen, and it is from the latter port that the valley pips come. While on the subject it may be stated that the manifests show that quantities of German seeds are reaching this country by the same route.

The first large shipment of valley pips last year reached New York just one week earlier than the Oscar II came to port this year, but the consignments did not come steadily until about the time of the arrivals this season. So it will be seen that now the way is open and shipment started, receipts will be about the same as usual.

The consignments on the above-named steamers were as follows:

EMPTY SPACE!

The passing of mums gives every florist idle space. It also brings one of the best seasons in which to start a bench of snapdragons. If you have space we can supply the goods—fine, stocky, well branched plants of my famous SILVER PINK SEEDLINGS. They will give you more profit to the square foot than anything you can grow, and will furnish blossoms when you most need them. Price for immediate shipment, only $4.00 per 100; $35.00 per 1000. Less than 100, 5c each.

Pure seed of same, $1.00 per pkt.; 3 for $2.50; 7 for $5.00. It is not too early to begin sowing for spring sales of plants in blossom.

Remember, we grow snaps, and also offer plants of white at $4.00; of yellow at $5.00; and of our charming new one, Garnet Gem, $8.00.

Our stock is healthy and quality XX. Don't waste time and space growing cheap plants.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

THERE is no longer any alarm about the supply of burlap bagging for baling nursery stock.

THE Bowmanville Nurseries, Inc., Chicago, has been incorporated by Charles S. Brennan, Helen Brennan and Peter W. Flood. The capital stock is fixed at $2,500.

HENRY LEE, for many years connected with a leading Newark, N. Y., nursery, has purchased a farm of 121 acres near Sodus, N. Y., which he will use for nursery purposes. The price paid was $6,000.

UNUSUALLY heavy shipments of stock to California are being made by Oregon nurserymen, who are now at the height of the season's trade in Oregon-grown stock. Roses are being lifted in large quantities.

THE newest of the nursery concerns of Shenandoah, Ia., Cleveland & Morse are already well established and are making a substantial growth. The partnership comprises I. S. Cleveland and G. F. Morse.

NOTICE of the uninterrupted continuation of the ownership and management of the Spring Hill Nurseries, at Tippecanoe City, O., by W. Fletcher Bohlender and Harry N. Kyle, respectively son and son-in-law of the late Peter Bohlender, who founded the business, is given in a memorial containing his portrait and a few facts concerning his life, which is being sent out by the concern.

A SPARK from a passing engine of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co. started a fire at the nurseries of W. C. Reed, at Vincennes, Ind., November 24. The fire had gained so much headway before it was discovered that the large water storage apparatus was destroyed before it could be used to extinguish the blaze. Two large fumigating houses were totally destroyed and the storage house, together with a gasoline engine and other machinery, was considerably damaged. All the buildings were covered by insurance.

ON account of the dread of the foot and mouth disease of cattle, the state of Washington has prohibited the entrance of nursery stock packed in straw, and shipments must be packed in burlap only, or with moss for protection. This works an unnecessary hardship on nurserymen in neighboring states where no cases of this disease have been reported. Fortunately, the price of burlap, contrary to the prediction of the dealers last summer, has fallen. Action similar to that of the state of Washington has been taken in states where the need for it was more urgent.

RECEIPTS FROM HOLLAND LARGE.

Shipments of nursery stock from the port of Rotterdam reached New York last week on three boats. The Gorredyk arrived November 23, and the Rotterdam and the Sommelsdyk came to port the following day. The consignments were none of them large, but an unusual quantity of small ones brought the total number of cases to a high figure. The consignments of trees and shrubs on the three steamers were as follows:

RECOVERING OVERPAYMENT.

A buyer of nursery stock who has made an overpayment arising from the fact that all the trees called for by his contract of purchase have not been delivered, is entitled, on discovering the mistake, to recover the excess paid, although the contract gives the seller the right to supply the deficiency during a certain unexpired period, if the language of the agreement shows that payment was not to be made until actual delivery. This rule was laid down by the North Dakota Supreme court in the case of Scheer vs. Clinton Falls Nursery Co., 124 Northwestern Reporter 1115.

Plaintiff sued to recover an excess paid for a shipment of willow trees before he discovered a shortage in the delivery. In allowing recovery, the Supreme court said:

"It is first contended that the complaint fails to allege facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action; the point being that the complaint discloses upon its face that the action was prematurely brought, for the reason that it is therein alleged that this nursery stock was to be delivered sometime during the planting season of 1906, and there is no allegation as to when such planting season commenced and terminated. In other words, the contention is that no cause of action could accrue to plaintiff until such planting season terminated, as, up to that time, defendant had the contract right to supply the deficiency in such shipment. Such contention is manifestly unsound, and is based upon a clearly erroneous conception of plaintiff's rights. Plaintiff, as before stated, was not to pay for any trees until delivery, and any shortage in shipment was to be deducted from the total agreed purchase price. This being true, a cause of action immediately arose in plaintiff's favor upon discovery of such shortage to recover the excess payment, as money had and received by defendant to plaintiff's use. While defendant had the right to deliver such trees and to collect therefor at any time during such planting season, it had no right to retain money paid to it by plaintiff through mistake in excess of the price of the trees actually delivered." ported in The Review for November 19, will be read with interest by the trade, though it deals more with the importer than the goods imported. P. Ouwerkerk imported 165 cases of plants and shrubs, nineteen of which were invoiced as Rhododendron Ponticum. The latter were assessed for duty at the port of New York under the tariff act of 1909 at twenty-five per cent ad valorem as nursery stock. The importer claimed that they should have been admitted free as evergreen seedlings and appealed from the decision of the customs collector to the judgment of the United States Board of Appraisers, which announced its decision in an opinion by General Appraiser Waite, as follows:

"No testimony was taken, either upon the part of the importer or the government, and now the importer asks in his brief that a finding be made in his favor as to a certain percentage of these goods, on the report of the appraiser, which was to the effect that between sixty and seventy per cent of the goods were produced by grafting, from which the importer assumes that thirty per cent were not grafted, and hence would be seedlings and therefore free.

"We think there is no question that a separation of goods may be made so as to make each variety bear the rate of duty provided by the statute. We are not disposed, however, to make a finding upon the report of the appraiser in this case. In the first place, he examined only one bale out of the nineteen; he does not appear to have reported the amount of grafted stock for the purpose of having it accepted as a basis for the separation of the goods, but merely to justify his action in assessing the importation as an entirety, assuming evidently that where goods of different kinds are mingled on entry, he had a right to assess all at the highest rate applicable to any of them. Hence we are not disposed to accept this report in the place of proof which should have been furnished by the importer. In other words, the presumption prevails that the finding of the collector is right. There is nothing in the case, in our judgment, to overcome that presumption. The importer makes the claim in his protest that all the goods are free, and then without a struggle expresses himself willing to accept free entry upon thirty per cent of them. If he expected a favorable finding in this case, he should have shown in some way his good faith and furnished some proof to justify his action in entering all these goods as free, which is now open to criticism. We are not disposed to disturb the finding of the collector. The protest is therefore overruled."

GARDENERS' CONVENTION.

A meeting of the executive committee of the National Association of Gardeners, consisting of its trustees and directors, will be held at the Hotel Walton, Broad street, Philadelphia, Pa., on Wednesday forenoon, December 9, at 11 o'clock. Attention is directed to the following resolution adopted at the executive meeting of the association held in Philadelphia, April, 1914: ". . . As it is essential that every member of the executive board should take an active interest in the welfare of the association and should have opportunity afforded him to make suggestions in connection with, and offer opinions upon, the policy of the association; therefore, be it resolved, that an invitation be extended to the members of the board, that, when they cannot attend the meeting, they submit any suggestions they may have to offer in writing that can properly be brought before the meeting, and that it shall be given the same consideration as though the member offering it were present in person."

The bowling committee announces that all members intending to enter the bowling tournament at the convention of the National Association of Gardeners must register at the business meeting in Horticultural hall on Wednesday afternoon, December 9. The business meeting will be called to order promptly at 2 o'clock. The bowling tournament will take place Thursday forenoon, December 10.

The dinner committee has set the price at $2.50 per person for the annual banquet of the association, which will occur in Horticultural hall on Wednesday evening, December 9. David Rust, Horticultural hall, Philadelphia, Pa., should be advised without delay by those members who will attend the banquet, so that proper provision can be made for them.

Exhibits of novelties, specimen plants and cut flowers of the newer varieties should reach Horticultural hall before noon on Wednesday, December 9. They should be sent, express prepaid, to National Association of Gardeners, care David Rust, Horticultural hall, Broad and Locust streets, Philadelphia, Pa.

Several of the prominent horticultural firms in and about Philadelphia are arranging to entertain the visiting members at their establishments during the members' stay in Philadelphia.

The Hotel Walton will be the official headquarters of the association during the convention. M. C. Ebel, Sec'y.

KNOXVILLE, TENN.

The Market.

We have had ideal weather conditions for the last week, bright, sunshiny days and cold nights. Thanksgiving trade was far better than was expected, partly due to the Thanksgiving football game between the University of Tennessee and Kentucky State. Orange and white being the U. of T. colors, white and yellow chrysanthemums were in great demand, and everything of these colors was sold. The Kentucky colors, blue and white, were furnished by tying white carnations and chrysanthemums with blue and white ribbon.

Various Notes.

The last week has been a good one for A. H. Dailey. Besides having his share of Thanksgiving day business, he has been doing a large amount of funeral work. Roses are fine, and sweet peas are beginning to bloom heavily. Bulb business, which has been fine this year, is beginning to decline.

Mrs. Rosa Hall Ryno has been turning out an abundance of funeral work the last week. She also had a splendid Thanksgiving day trade. Her main crop at present is carnations.

Addison J. McNutt is cutting some of the finest sweet peas ever grown in Knoxville. The orchid-flowering sorts are the largest and most prolific and seem to have made a hit with the public.

C. W. Crouch reports a heavy Thanksgiving day trade. This, in addition to funeral and wedding work, has kept the force in a continuous rush for the last week. They are cutting large quantities of stock, but not enough to supply the demand at all times. Mr. Crouch, who has been in Louisville, Ky., for some time, has returned home and is preparing to spend the winter in Florida.

C. L. Baum had a good Thanksgiving day trade. He sold out all yellow and white chrysanthemums and could have sold several hundred more. Chrysanthemums have been fine, but will soon be a thing of the past. Carnations and orchids are blooming in profusion, while roses are only fair. R. E. M.

The Market.

Thanksgiving business in general was as good as could be expected, considering what we have been up against for some time. The holiday seemed to put a little new life into the trade and almost everything but white carnations was cleaned up. There were some fancy chrysanthemums, however, that did not move as well as might have been expected.

There was the usual strong demand for Wisconsin violets, but these, while in fine condition, were not nearly sufficient to supply the demand. Roses sold exceptionally well and were cleaned up every day. They were in fine shape, but decreased in quantity daily, until finally the demand was greater than the supply. Carnations, on the whole, were good and the prices were better than heretofore. The supply of chrysanthemums was steadily decreasing and the quality might have been better, but they sold fairly well and were almost cleaned out. They are about gone for the season.

There are no lilies in the market now, nor will there be any for a few weeks. Some callas are seen, but the quantity is negligible. Valley has been fairly plentiful during the last week, but, being of fine quality, it found a ready sale. Beauties are in fair supply, but the stems are longer than the demand calls for.

Various Notes.

Paul Boomer, of Boomer Bros., Beaver Dam, Wis., spent some time in Milwaukee last week. While he did not neglect his florist friends, his sojourn here was of a social nature.

Mrs. J. T. Hinchliffe, of Racine, Wis., was in this city November 20, looking things over for Christmas.

A. Zender, of Rogers Park, Ill., visited Milwaukee from Tuesday to Thursday of last week. He was the guest of F. H. Holton, whose hospitality is well known. H. J. S.

DES MOINES, IA.

The Market.

Thanksgiving day brought a large demand for cut flowers. Chrysanthemums were eagerly sought for. The football game created a big demand for yellow mums and every florist's stock was cleaned up.

Various Notes.

Poinsettias at the Iowa Seed Co. greenhouses are opening their bracts, some reaching fifteen to sixteen inches in diameter. They are unusually tall this season, but give promise of a great crop.

The J. Wilson Floral Co. cleaned up pretty well on their chrysanthemums, Jeanne Nonin, their late white, coming well behind the Timothy Eaton family. There is a big demand for baby pompons, Zenobia leading.

G. L. Kurtzweil, of the Iowa Seed Co., was in an automobile accident and sustained a broken nose and severe bruises. He was returning from town with relatives, and as they crossed the car tracks to turn in to his home, another automobile hit the car amidships, completely wrecking it and pitching out the occupants. Mr. Keeyes, owner, had a badly cut hand, Mrs. Keeyes a broken rib, and Sonny Keeyes a cut chin. Grandma Keeyes was rushed to the hospital, but her condition was grave and she died November 26.

The Alpha Floral Co. displayed a fine show of mums, cyclamens, azaleas, valley and violets, and everything helped toward an excellent Thanksgiving trade. W. D.

ARAUCARIA—THE SUBSTITUTE FOR A CHRISTMAS TREE.

Just look at the picture above. Doesn't it look nice? It is an Araucaria Excelsa in Christmas attire, out of Godfrey Aschmann's Araucaria house. A beauty, it's everlasting green will please and will amuse the dear little ones. It will take less room than a Christmas tree and will serve two purposes; first, on the Christmas table, second, as an ornamental tree in the parlor after the holiday.

ARAUCARIAS, well shaped and good color: Araucaria Excelsa, 5½ and 6-in. pots, 14, 15, 20, 25 in. high, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50. Excelsa Glauca and Robusta Compacta, large plants, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00.

All goods must travel at purchaser's risk only. Cash with order, please. Please state if you want stock shipped in or out of pots. All plants 25 at 100 rate.

The Market.

Thanksgiving day business was a surprise to many; to a few of the always optimistic, it was just what they expected. Compared with previous years, some of which have been quite good for the florists' trade, it did not break any records. With some, this year was a small percentage ahead; with a few, it ran behind some good years they have had. On the average, it was good, and considering the way business has been for the last few months, it was wonderful.

Stock was good. Choice mums brought 12½, 15 and 18 cents. We have seen years when they brought 20 and 25 cents, but this year's prices satisfied the growers. Pink roses were scarce, as were yellow mums of the better grades. Pompons, pink and white mums and miscellaneous stock were equal to the brisk demand. White roses were about the only slow-selling stock.

All hands have now begun to get their breath and to realize that Christmas is going to be one of the Christmases of old. Preparations for an enormous quantity of stock are being made. Everyone I have seen, grower, wholesaler or storeman, is convinced that this year's holiday business is going to be all he can handle. The supposition is that many will buy flowers or plants this year instead of more expensive presents. Other lines may suffer, but the outlook for the florist seems good. Look out for a plant and basket Christmas.

Various Notes.

The Smith & Fetters Co. had the Winslow-Devereux wedding, November 28, one of the society events of the year. Large quantities of fancy mums and long Beauties were used.

Chas. Schwake, of C. Schwake & Co., New York, was a visitor last week.

The committee of the Florists' Club will meet next week to arrange matters for the exhibition of the Chrysanthemum Society of America, which will be held here November, 1915. A large trade show, with a liberal premium list, taking in carnations, roses, general stock and retail work, in addition to the mum entries, is planned. F. A. F.

NEW "MUMS"

The fall shows are now past, and you have no doubt jotted down the names of some varieties you will add to your stock next season. That is the way to keep abreast of the times. If you have not already done so, be sure you include our "Yellow Sport from Mrs. Chas. Rager." It will eventually be as widely grown as the white variety from which it sported. You run absolutely no risk in buying it.

Send for our price list, which also includes Carnation cuttings and Geranium plants. We have both in large quantity and top quality.

CINCINNATI.

The Market.

Thanksgiving business proved good. There was enough stock to go around at reasonable prices and some surplus. The surplus was mostly in white flowers and carnations. Since that day the call for stock has been active.

The rose supply continues heavy and is meeting a better market than before. The carnation supply, also, is heavy, but the call for this flower is not up to normal, and there is a surplus. Lilies are plentiful. Callas meet with a fair request. Both valley and violets have only a fair sale. The chrysanthemum cut is about at an end. Only a limited number of late blooms and stragglers are coming into the wholesale houses. Other offerings include stevia, orchids, narcissi, forget-me-nots, baby primroses and wallflowers.

Various Notes.

Richard Kootz, formerly with the Fleischman Floral Co., Chicago, is now with the E. G. Hill Floral Co. This concern has put into use a new delivery car.

C. E. Critchell reports a big demand for wild smilax.

E. G. Gillett has just received a shipment of nice, clean boxwood sprays.

The Cincinnati Cut Flower Exchange has been receiving some excellent valley.

L. H. Kyrk reports an excellent business for Thanksgiving and the close of last week.

Recent visitors were: Fred Lembke, representing the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, Ill.; Paul Berkowitz, representing H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia; B. H. Klus, Anderson, Ind.; Joseph Hill, Richmond, Ind.; G. M. Bird, Sidney, O., and Mr. Weltz, Wilmington, O. C. H. H.

Greenhouse Heating.

THE PIPING AND THE STACK.

Please inform me how to heat my five greenhouses, as shown in the enclosed sketch, to a night temperature of 65 degrees, using hot water. I am located, you will notice, near Puget Sound, in the state of Washington. I have an 8-section boiler, bought from the Kellogg-Mackay Co., Chicago, Ill. I also have on hand the following pipe, which I wish to use: 400 feet of 3½-inch, 700 feet of 2-inch and 900 feet of 1½-inch. The houses run east and west. The north house and the next one south are each 12x100; the other three houses are each 15x100. The houses are five feet high to the gutters and twelve feet high to the ridge. The north and south walls of the range contain eighteen inches of glass; below the glass the walls are double-boarded. The boiler will be in a pit at the southeast corner of the range and will be six feet below the lowest greenhouse. I intend to use wood as fuel. Please tell me, also, in what proportions to use the materials in building a concrete smokestack. I. O.

For piping the two houses which are 12x100, I would use a 2½-inch flow pipe in each ridge and three 2-inch returns on each side wall, underneath. In two of the houses 15x100 use a 3½-inch flow on each plate and three 2-inch returns on each wall. In the south house place a 2½-inch flow upon each plate and run five 1½-inch returns on the south wall and four on the north wall. In the foregoing suggestions, of course, the intention has been to enable you to use as largely as possible the piping you have on hand.

For the chimney use sharp sand, gravel and Portland cement. The number and size of the reinforcing rods will depend upon the size of the chimney, but half-inch round or square rods will probably answer. They should be placed in the center of the wall, about one foot apart, and there should be a horizontal ring every three feet. For the chimney use one part of cement, two parts of sand, finer than ¼-inch, and four parts of gravel, ¼-inch to 2-inch, reducing the amount of gravel and sand one-half for the lower five feet and the upper foot of the chimney.

CAPACITY OF HEATING SYSTEM.

I have a range of four connected houses. Three of them are each 24x85 and twelve feet to the ridge; the other is 10x85 and eight feet to the ridge. The small house is enclosed by a glazed partition. The two houses to the right of the small house have three 2½-inch overhead flows in each, and six 2-inch returns under the benches. The single house to the left has four 2½-inch overhead flows, with eight 2-inch returns on the walls, as solid benches are used. The small house has two 2½-inch flows

The Value of a Thermostat
LET A FLORIST TELL IT

HERE is what a greenhouse man said in a letter to The Review: "The value of a thermostat in a greenhouse may possibly interest you, so I take the present opportunity of explaining its advantages. Three weeks ago I installed a Standard thermostat, made by the Standard Thermometer Co., putting it in my rose house, 200 feet from the residence. After sundown each day I set the low contact hand at 57 degrees and the high contact hand at 65 degrees. The black temperature hand, to record 60 degrees, plays between these figures. Should the temperature rise or fall, the alarm bell, just over my bed, rings loudly. I consider this instrument a boon to any florist with a medium-sized range, for it dispenses with the services of a night fireman. With correct firing, I can keep a steady temperature of 60 degrees at night in the rose house and also in four other houses, in all about 5000 feet of glass."—Thomas E. Towerson, Spring Station, Ky.

ONE POUND PRESSURE

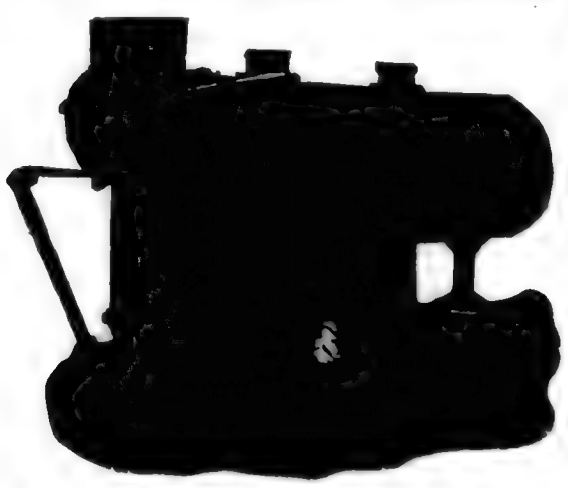
and four 2-inch returns under the bench. The whole system of piping is fed by a 6-inch main and there is a return of the same size. The north ends of the houses are connected to the service building. The boiler used is a 9-section Giblin, with a grate area of 2,592 square inches, and it is assisted by an Ideal circulator.

What temperature can be maintained in each of the houses? In this part of Washington state the outside temperature seldom goes below zero. How many more of the 24-foot houses can be heated by this boiler? G. D. R.



The temperature which can be maintained in a greenhouse depends to some extent upon the amount of glass in the exposed walls, as well as upon the construction of the house and the exposure to cold winds, and none of these points is made perfectly clear in the inquiry.

Under favorable conditions and provided the houses in which there are three 2½-inch pipes have only one exposed wall in each house, and this does not contain more than three feet of glass, I would expect to maintain a temperature of 50 to 55 degrees with the amount of radiation stated, and by heavy firing and the use of a circulator it should be possible to make it 60 to 65 degrees, when it is zero outside. If the single 24-foot house has two walls, with three feet of exposed glass in each, I would expect to keep it at 60 to 65 degrees, and by running the system under pressure the temperature could be raised 10 degrees. In the narrow house, provided it is a lean-to with only one exposed wall, it should be possible to keep the temperature at 55 to 60 degress, and even higher with heavy firing.

I have never used a Giblin boiler of the size mentioned and do not know just how much may be expected from it, but from the amount of grate surface I would consider it safe for 4,500 square feet of radiating surface, or fifty per cent more than in the present houses. This estimate is for heating one-half of the houses to 60 degrees and the balance to 50 degrees, in zero weather. If temperatures above or below these are required, the capacity of the boiler will be materially changed.

The Market.

A thankful Thanksgiving is remembered by the florists, as business was unusually fine. A complete clean-up was experienced by most of the florists, making a scarcity of stock the day after Thanksgiving. Narcissi are arriving in large quantities, as the florists planted more than usual. Good violets continue scarce. Fine cyclamens are beginning to come to the market. Azaleas are good, but high priced.

Various Notes.

In a runaway, Mrs. F. G. Lemke, of New Brighton, sustained a bad fracture of the right leg about two weeks ago. On the return from Minneapolis, the horse became frightened and bolted. Mrs. Lemke, in jumping from the buggy, received the injury referred to.

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS.

Affiliation.

At the S. A. F. convention held in Boston last August, the following recommendation of the executive board was adopted, and added to the constitution and by-laws of the society:

1. That clubs, societies or kindred organizations of professional florists, gardeners and horticulturists, having a paid-up membership of 100 or more members in the S. A. F., shall be entitled to one representative on the board of directors of the S. A. F.
2. Such representative shall be the president of such organization and must be a member of the S. A. F.
3. Any elective officer or appointed director of the S. A. F. shall not be eligible as a representative of such organization.
4. When the president of any such organization is already a director, the vice-president shall be eligible for the office.
5. Any organization applying for representation shall submit to the secretary of the S. A. F. a complete list of its membership. It shall be the secretary's duty to confirm same and submit it to the president for final confirmation. Such list shall be in the hands of the secretary by December 1 of each year. Announcement of such director shall be made by the president-elect January 1 of each year.

Many florists' clubs and horticultural societies having a membership which would allow of their becoming affiliated with the society have already made application for affiliation, and have filed the necessary list of membership. Any eligible organization not already affiliated should lose no time in complying with the above rules.

Department of Registration.

Public notice is hereby given that Charles Borrman, 338 High street, Buffalo, N. Y., offers for registration the seedling geranium described below. Any person objecting to the registration, or to the use of the proposed name, is requested to communicate with the secretary at once. Failing to receive objection to the registration, the same will be made three weeks from this date.

Description—Seedling geranium, La Favorite x Detroit; color, the same shade as Bridesmaid rose; habit, dwarf; leaves, stocky, having a deep zone.

As no objections have been filed, public notice is hereby given that the registration of Begonia Mrs. J. A. Peterson, by J. A. Peterson, Cincinnati, O., becomes complete.

The Market.

Thanksgiving brought a fairly good demand in all lines and, while no exceptional prices were noted, a good lot of stock was moved. There was no special demand for any one variety during the week, except, possibly, white roses and carnations. There still are plenty of Chadwick and the later varieties of mums, which are being moved at fairly good prices. Roses are to be found in quantities large enough to take care of all business, with some few over. Carnations are beginning to resume their midwinter quality, increasing in length of stem and size of flower, and are bringing a fairly good price. The slow movers of the week were Paper Whites and lilies, of which large lots were offered. Violets were in good demand and at one time during the week they were rather scarce.

Business has been brightening up gradually and a well known commission man says there is every prospect for a fairly good winter, all things being considered.

Club Meeting.

The club meeting November 23, with President Johnston in the chair, brought out no record-breaking attendance but proved interesting. The show, which closed November 21, came in for quite a discussion. Robt. L. Graham, as president of the Maryland Horticultural Society, congratulated the members on the fine showing made and thanked them for their coöperation in making the show the successful one it was. Richard Vincent, Jr., spoke on the earlier days of the shows. A vote of thanks was given to Jas. Glass for his decoration of the clubrooms on the occasion of our last social evening.

Various Notes.

Plans are already being formulated for the next show, to be held in 1915.

Stoll Bros. have purchased a Ford auto with express body to carry their stock to market. Leopold Stoll says the streets have become too smooth for horses.

Grip-tight, Bolted-through Column Fitting

IT WAS OVER 25 years ago that we originated and began using a Column Fitting that was "bolted through." We had seen houses equipped with the usual clamp fittings, that had their roofs lifted by the wind. So we made up our minds that the only way to make a fitting that could be absolutely depended on was to discard the friction, or clamp, grip and just plain bolt the fitting to the column. So, ever since, this has been our way of building our Half Iron and Full Iron Frame Houses. You may think this is a very little thing to devote an entire ad to, but we do it, simply to show you how every little detail always has been, and still is, looked after with the greatest care. It's because of this that we have earned the saying, "You can depend on depending on Hitchings." And we go anywhere for business—or to talk business. Want to see us? Want our new circular on the Reconstructed Construction?

This Illustration of the Plant, as it will be when completed, was made from a water color drawing. A track owned by the Davis Co. goes right through the center of the layout and connects on one end with the railroad and on the other with the trolley.

Further Interesting Facts About the New Davis Plant at Terre Haute.

A SHORT TIME AGO, when I had a chat with Mr. Davis, at Davis Gardens, his new plant at Terre Haute, Indiana, he mentioned a matter which strongly reflects the frank and fair type of the man.

He said, "Some time ago I noted a cleverly worded statement, in the ads of one of the Greenhouse concerns, which would lead its readers to think that all the houses of a proposed mammoth range, said to be 'the largest in the world,' were to be erected at once.

"By looking into the matter I find that only a certain few of the houses are to be put up now.

"This made me think that perhaps in justice to your Company and ours, we should tell just what there is about our proposition with its proposed 10 Growing Houses each 70x600 feet; and 2 Propagating Houses each 200 feet long. The complete order for all these houses as you know was given to Lord & Burnham, with the understanding that they were to deliver and erect a house every 30 days, after September first.

"The ink had hardly dried on the Contract when along came the war, temporarily knocking things flat. So we decided to put up only two or three houses at once; and the rest in 1915, after things have picked up a bit. All the members of our Company are abundantly confident that business will be booming as never before in this big broad country of ours, before another six months is past.

J. W. DAVIS

"For our power plant and the houses now being erected, it is taking 75 carloads of material.

"You know we bought 55 acres of land, and after taking what we wanted for our houses, the balance was cut up into 'Davis Gardens' building lots. Then we employed an advertising man from New York to advertise them. In 20 days' time we sold 90 out of the entire 115 lots.

"We realized enough from that lot sale to pay for another house. In fact the returns were so satisfactory that only yesterday we bought several more acres right next to the original plot. These will at once be cut up, sold and promptly turned into still more glass and steel.

"With our present range of 6 houses at Davenport, Iowa, and this one here, we are in a position to make quick shipments to practically 40% of the inhabitants of the whole country.

"Besides sending to the regular commission men, we have several other channels of output being developed along entirely new lines."

Just as I was swinging on the trolley, Mr. Davis further said, "When that second house gets a little farther along, will send you some photos of it, for use in your advertising."

These photos, along with some more points of interest, we hope to have for you in a couple of weeks or so.

CARNATIONS.

500,000 CARNATION CUTTINGS.

We are devoting our entire plant to the growing of carnation cuttings. Our stock plants are grown cool and not allowed to flower, so all the strength goes to the cuttings. Experience had proved beyond question that these are far superior to cuttings taken from flowering plants. We have an abundance of stock and our propagators are instructed to use only perfect cuttings. These are now rooting nearly 100%.

We invite you to come and see our stock.

GOOD STOCK for you for another season means SUCCESS; POOR STOCK means FAILURE.

Our guarantee goes with every cutting and, if not satisfactory, may be returned and money back.

My ferns are nice, shapely plants, with strong fronds, and are giving great satisfaction. As they lift with a ball of soil, they are ready for sale very soon after potting. Try a sample order, I am sure they will please you. 5% discount cash with order, otherwise references.
In today's mail (Oct. 16) a Rochester, N. Y., party writes in placing an order for 50 ferns: "One thing I like about your ferns is that you leave on the runners, which makes the plants look better when potted up." In the same mail a florist in Saugerties, N. Y., writes: "The ferns I bought of you last year were perfectly satisfactory. Hope you will be able to do as well this year."

The principle—Two layers of glass with a ⅝-inch layer of dry still air

Get ready for your winter garden

Glass must be used whether you garden for profit or simply to enjoy having vegetables and flowers when they are a luxury and sell high.

And you must have Sunlight Double Glass Sash if you want to get the best results at the least cost of money and labor. They have become the standard throughout the best and largest gardens in the country for very good reasons:—

Three reasons why

1 The air space enclosed between the two layers of glass makes a transparent cover that affords better protection than the mats and shutters on the old single sash. And, it never has to be put on and off. It is always there though invisible.

2 This air space saves more than one half the labor.

3 It makes far earlier and stronger plants.

Our inexpensive greenhouse

A handy man can set it up in a few hours. It is framed of cypress and covered top and sides with Sunlight Double Glass Sash which can be removed at will for use elsewhere or for repairs.

Winona, Minn.—John Fuhlbruegge has moved his stock from the old greenhouses, at 226 Kansas street, where he conducted his business for ten years, to the newly erected range at 528 East Howard street. The new establishment is about three times the size of the old one, which will be torn down. Mr. Fuhlbruegge is devoting more and more of his efforts to landscape work and to growing ornamentals and plants for lawns.

CYPRESS

is recognized as the one wood for water tanks, troughs, vats and spouts, as well as for all laundry appliances. Its marvelous quality of rot-resistance puts Cypress in a class wholly by itself, especially when the use is a most trying one. To be wet on one side and dry on the other side, and to be alternately sweated and dried up, and hot and cold at the same time,—all this just suits Cypress. You know it, we guess.

ALSO, GET A BOOK

There are 41 volumes in the CYPRESS Pocket Library, and each is authoritative. Vol. 4 is the Barn Book; Vol. 20 is the Farm Needs Book; Vol. 28 is the Trellis and Arbor Book, and Vol. 18 is a Bungalow Book—all profusely and handsomely illustrated. And they are very, very Free. If you are "handy with tools," then get the Vol. 36, the Carpentry Book. It shows how to make easy a dozen hard jobs of house and barn building. Write for one, or a dozen.

Highest Award for our Bolted Pipe Frame

You know what this means. The S. A. F. & O. H. does not award certificates like this unless the article has merit. It proves that our Bolted Pipe Frame is new and that it is good.

It is now time you thought about that new house, and be sure you get the Bolted Pipe Frame. You can't afford to spend good money for the old style cast iron "clamp-on, slip-off" split fittings. Our Bolted Pipe Frame is made of steel and bolted right through the pipe.

It's a structural job and not a clamped-on and thrown-together building. You can't believe anybody until you get our details and see it for yourself. Once you take the time to investigate this wonderful new type, you won't have the other stuff at any price.

It costs no more than the old style. It's all galvanized. It's perfectly rigid. It's the strongest house you can build. It's the only safe pipe frame made. Stop taking chances—Safety First, with the Bolted Pipe Frame.

COLORADO BLUE SPRUCE

D. HILL,
The Evergreen Specialist

"Give every customer more than he expects" has been my motto from the first. Over half a century of experiment, careful study and hard work have helped to build a reputation for quality which in turn has helped develop the largest business of its kind in America. Four hundred and fifty acres of Evergreens is no every-day sight.

We are wholesale growers and have been supplying the florist and nursery trade for many years. Our assortment is complete with all the leading varieties of Spruce, Pines, Firs, Junipers, Cedars, Arbor Vitæs, Yews, Hemlocks, etc., in small, medium and large sizes—and prices are right. Do not hesitate to develop and push your Evergreen trade, as we can supply you on short notice.

Place your order now. We will ship at once or reserve them and ship whenever wanted. F. O. B. Dundee.

If trees are wanted without tubs, deduct 10 per cent.

Terms: 30 Days Net.

HILL'S EVERGREENS IN MISSION TUBS

Ready for Delivery Now

Prices include tubs, F. O. B. Dundee, Ill., where we ship by American Express and C. & N. W. R. R.

Measurements as given are the height of the tree from the top of the box to the top of the tree in its natural position. Where formal effect is desired nothing is more satisfactory than these specimens. They are unexcelled for veranda or lawns and very appropriate and effective for inside decoration.

All are long lived and will withstand frost and cold. Prices include careful crating to insure them from any injury during transit.

We are located only 45 miles from Chicago on C. & N. W. R. R. and American Express.

OPHELIA

We have the largest stock of this rose in the country.

It is the handsomest of all forcing roses in free, full, habit and foliage, as well as in beauty of bloom.

Its freedom of bloom is marvelous.

It is the queen of fancy colored roses.

Already popular and being planted very largely in its second year.

It has paid the most money per square foot of any variety in our houses.

Write for prices.

LILY BULBS

The name Horseshoe Brand in relation to lily bulbs means quality. It means that if you buy this brand you will get better results for the money invested than any brand known. This is why all the largest growers and so many of the smaller ones use them now. Prices for fall delivery 1915 on pages 101 and 105.

The New Rose--
GEO. ELGAR

A little rose—the size that is becoming more and more popular every day with the retailer. The cut shows the actual size. It is similar to Cecile Brunner, except that it has better foliage on each individual stem, as shown by cut. The color is very bright yellow, perfectly clear on every petal. A yellow as yellow as the Florida orange. The little bud opens out perfectly. Made up in bunches for corsage or for small baskets it is extremely attractive. It grows very easily, does not mildew or spot and is very productive.

The following is from the minutes of the Florists' Club of Philadelphia, November 3, 1914:

"The South Park Floral Co. exhibited a new, small rose somewhat like Sweetheart but a trifle larger. A very lovely, dainty flower that will surely find a demand and place along with other roses now considered standard. The color is a good bright yellow in the bud, which pales somewhat as the flower opens. It is said to be very free and profitable as a forcing variety.

DAVID RUST, Sec'y."

Christmas will soon be here. As each Christmas goes by, we realize that the demand is more and more for plants, and the stock on the market this year is better than ever. In placing your orders for holiday stock, have you ever realized what a tremendous convenience the Wholesale Plantsman could be to you? Do you know that you can, in one-half hour, at our house, see the product of all the best growers within a shipping distance of New York? To look over the same variety of stock would necessitate the travel of many miles, take a number of days, and cost a great deal of money. Each plant is selected, wrapped and packed, the last with as much care as the first, and each in prime condition. Come and see our stock. If you can't, send your orders in and they will receive the same care they would if you selected them yourself.

WINTERSON'S "OWN" NOVELTY

A CHRISTMAS SPREAD IS NOT COMPLETE WITHOUT ONE OF OUR

Natural Spruce Miniature Table Trees

WITH ROUND BIRCHWOOD STAND

"THE ONE BEST SELLER"

November, 1909, we introduced these beautiful Decorative Spruce Trees to the trade, and the supply each season has not equaled the demand. They are almost perfect in shape and in various heights of from 15 inches to 42 inches, with a spread of 12 inches to 42 inches. The base is firmly attached to a round block of selected white birch about 5 inches in diameter, and they are not only desirable for general decoration, but likewise suited for basket and other artistic work. We have arranged for an increased number for the coming season, but urge early purchase for shipment as wanted.

OURS IS THE REAL THING

Price. Trees without Cones (occasionally some of these contain a few cones), each, 25c; dozen, $2.00; per 100, $12.00.

Price. Trees with Cones (supply limited), excellent for Basket Work, etc., dozen, $3.00 to $6.00. Sample mailed for 50c.

Chicago headquarters for Bouquet Green, Holly, Evergreen Wreathing, Immortelles and all Christmas Decorative Material—Worth-while Quality.

In addition to these we offer all the best greenhouse varieties. Let us know your needs in Rose Plants and we can quote prices on large quantities that will interest you; and we can back up these quotations with the same quality stock that has built our reputation as producers of the best Rose Plants grown.

Carnation Cuttings

A large part of our Carnations are grown to produce cuttings that will satisfy the most exacting buyers.

MATCHLESS. The finest white variety. $6.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000. In lots of 5000, at $45.00 per 1000.

CHAMPION. Everywhere acknowledged to be a money maker in scarlet Carnations. $6.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000. In lots of 5000, at $45.00 per 1000.

Chrysanthemums

In exhibition varieties our list includes all the newest and best varieties. In commercial varieties our list includes all that are worth growing.

Novelties of the Season

EARLY FROST. (Dorner.) A pure white, early, coming about Oct. 1. Incurved type.

MT. GREENWOOD. (Johnson.) A seedling of W. H. Duckham. In form resembles Chadwick, maturing midseason. Very fine pink in color. $1.50 per doz., $12.00 per 100.

The Cream of 1914

INDIAN SUMMER. The bronze sport of Chadwick.

MRS. E. A. SEIDEWITZ. An unusually fine late pink.

OCONTO. Our finest early white.

SMITH'S IDEAL. Midseason white; an excellent shipper.

CHIEFTAIN. The pink that everyone needs. Rooted Cuttings: $3.00 per 100, $20.00 per 1000.

Our list of Commercial Varieties will be mailed on application.

Prices quoted in this advertisement for The Trade only.

Pompons

More popular than big Mums, and just as profitable. Our list of varieties will cover the season in each color. Our novelties of last season have raised the standard and are varieties you need if you would grow the best.

PEACE. The variety which won the Silver Cup at the Chrysanthemum Show at Indianapolis. Blush white in color. The finest novelty of the season. $2.00 per doz., $15.00 per 100.

HARVEST MOON. A companion to the collection sent out by us last season, but earlier than Golden Climax. Pure yellow, maturing Oct. 20. $2.00 per doz., $15.00 per 100.

GOLDEN HARVEST, GOLDEN CLIMAX, GOLDEN WEST and WESTERN BEAUTY, our novelties of last season, and the early pink, NESCO, are the finest in their colors and seasons. These we offer at $5.00 per 100.

Our new Catalogue will be ready about January 1, but we are ready to quote you on your requirements at any time.

DORNER'S NOVELTIES FOR 1915

New Crimson Forcing Rose

HOOSIER BEAUTY-- Color a bright crimson with darker shadings. A long bud, opening to a large full flower. A texture like velvet. Very fragrant. Keeping qualities are exceptionally good. A free, easy growing variety, throwing two to three foot stems; requires no pinching. Perfectly healthy, is not susceptible to mildew or black spot. Equal to any forcing rose in productiveness. We invite inspection of our stock.

Price, Own Root..... .....$30.00 per 100; $250.00 per 1000
Grafts..... 35.00 per 100; 300.00 per 1000

Two New Carnations

PINK SENSATION-- An exceedingly large flower. A well defined pink in color. Size, 4 to 4½ inches. Keeping qualities unsurpassed. Has a stocky growth, a heavier foliage than ordinary and throws good long flower stems. A high grade commercial carnation.

GOOD CHEER-- Color, pink, darker than Gloriosa. Size, 3 inches and over. Good keeping qualities. Extra long stems. Early and continuous flowering—a great producer.

Keep Your Wagons Warm

The interior appearance of Heater

The Clark Wagon Heater

Height 9 inches Diameter 8 inches Price $2.00

This indestructible steel wagon heater is admirably suited to the needs of all who operate delivery wagons for articles subject to freezing.

OPERATION: It burns our Carbon brick. Two or three of the bricks are sufficient in the coldest weather. They yield a strong, steady heat without flame, smoke or odor, and one filling is enough for ten hours' use.

Heater occupies very little space and can be hung in the top of wagon, if desired.

Adjustable ventilators permit perfect regulation of heat. Strong, safe, practical; in use by florists, bottlers, etc., everywhere.

FUEL: We supply our Clark or ABC bricks for this and our other heaters.

Every brick of our Clark Carbon is guaranteed to yield 25 per cent more heat than any other brick on the market.

Our ABC bricks are guaranteed to equal any brick made but our Clark.

PRICES

Clark Carbon, per dozen bricks in carton	$0.75	ABC Coal, per dozen bricks in carton	$0.60
Clark Carbon, per 100 bricks in box	6.00	ABC Coal, per 100 bricks in box	4.80

Above prices are for large, full-size bricks. Bricks may be had in halves or thirds if so specified.

Gentlemen:-

Referring to the photograph of our White Auto Truck, it affords us great pleasure to say that we have used our car almost daily for the last three years, during which period it has covered approximately fifty thousand (50,000) miles and has given perfect satisfaction in every regard.

Next to the careful selection of stock used in filling orders, we consider prompt delivery of following importance, and in maintaining this service our White Truck has rendered valuable assistance. Furthermore, it has been an economical car to operate, and we take pleasure in recommending same to any one requiring the services of a first-class car.

Very respectfully,

CHRISTMAS

An Army of Dollars will Surrender to the Florist whose Campaign is Prosecuted with Vigor the next two weeks

CAN you look back to Christmas of 1907, the panic year? The experience then gained is valuable now—more valuable than it has been in the seven lucky years that have passed. Not that this is another panic year—far from it! But 1907 was a year when general business was dull, when florists as a rule looked forward to Christmas without enthusiasm—and yet it proved to be, all things considered, probably the best Christmas the trade ever has enjoyed.

The Christmas of 1907 was a bad one for jewelers, for furriers and for dealers in other costly gift articles. Although florists generally were taken more or less by pleasant surprise, it proved an unusually good Christmas—the best ever up to that time—for dealers in plants and cut flowers. Looking back, after the rush was over, the reason seemed clear: People who in prosperous years bought expensive Christmas gifts, in the off year bought flowers — "messengers of sentiment" not costly as compared with seal coats and diamond rings.

What was one man's loss was another man's gain and it may turn out so again this year if what we hear of the early Christmas business in other lines holds good to the end.

Business Improving.

General business rapidly is recovering from the shock it received when Europe went to war. Right now the business situation simply is a state of mind—the loss of confidence may be quick, but its return is slow. By Christmas week business may be normal with other lines, in which event florists will get their share, but if trade still is slow with the diamond merchant it may be all the better for florists.

Anyway, it is time to get busy getting ready.

About the most unreasonable thing one can expect this Christmas is that the trade is coming without effort. It won't do it. The man who gets the business will be the one who, like the shrewd general, correctly appraises the strategical position, plans his campaign with care, launches his offensive at the psychological moment, and presses home his advantage with the buyers.

To do business at Christmas—more so this Christmas than usual—it is necessary to have something to sell. Preparations must be made. And having arranged for supplies is not enough. Display is essential. The flower store that gets the transient business will be the one that puts up the best front, not necessarily the flashiest front, but the most seductive showing. That's where skill counts.

Then comes the no less important matter of reminding the public of the special appropriateness of flowers as gifts and of one's own preparedness to supply the demand. After years of waiting for customers to come to the door, florists the last few years have awakened to the fact that people can be drawn to the store, or to the telephone, which is the same thing, by carefully prepared advertising. It has been discovered that the florist who combines high class stock, high class equipment, high class service and high class advertising is the one who is making the most rapid progress in expanding his sales and his profits. It has been found that the man who provides the first three but leaves out the fourth concomitant is going forward or back only as his whole neighborhood changes; that he is the football of fortune rather than the master of his own destiny.

There still are many florists whose only advertising is the show window, but the more progressive are employing the more far-reaching methods. Page ads in the daily newspapers frequently are used, but not so often that they have ceased to excite remark.

A Christmas Panel Decoration of Prepared Foliages.

Some Good Ways.

For the florist who is located far to the side of the city, where a large percentage of the people never go, newspaper advertising is costly unless he can sell by telephone. To a florist in a residence district there are, however, many other means of attracting attention. One of the best is the beautiful mailing cards the publicity specialists now offer, as these can be sent to a selected list of customers and well-to-do prospective customers. This idea can be varied to suit any situation or plan. It can be worked into an invitation to visit a holiday flower show in the store, sent out in imitation of wedding cards, or it may take the form of a letter urging that purchases be made a certain day or morning, while the selection is unbroken.

These methods, too, are open to the downtown florist, whose store is accessible to the majority of the Christmas shoppers, but for him the best insurance against a poor season is the use of strong display in the best of the papers in his field. The newspaper talks to thousands.

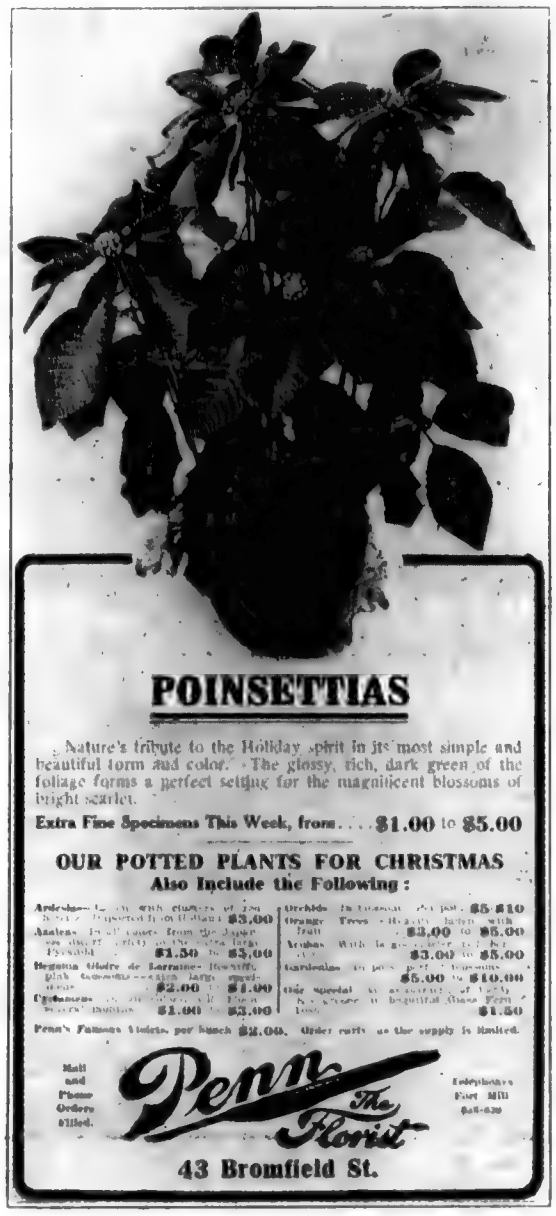
Use One Paper—Strong.



Few florists have capacity enough to justify advertising heavily in all the papers that seek the business and many make the mistake of dividing up the sum available to buy small space in each paper. But the effect is weakened. The better policy is to use one paper and strong display. If there is money left, save that. The best paper in a town usually is so far ahead of the second best that a florist has nothing to lose by confining his attention to the leader and thereby securing its firm friendship and best service.

To pick out the best paper is far easier than to write good copy. The best paper is not necessarily the one you read; perhaps your interests are with one political party while those of the best flower buyers in your city may be with the other. The one sure way to tell what paper has the most readers is to size up the advertising carried. Don't guess. Count. The paper that has the most business, issue after issue, is sure to have the most readers. To tell whether those readers are flower buyers, read the ads. If they appeal to the same class you want to reach, all right; if to a cheaper class, consider other media.

To write good copy is not so simple. It can not be done without thorough familiarity with the advertiser's situation. It doubtless is true that any advertising is better than no advertising, but it is equally true that some advertising is in a wonderful degree better than some other advertising, although the cost of the space is the same in both cases. Consequently it behooves the florist who can not study the matter for himself to employ an advertising man to prepare his copy for him.

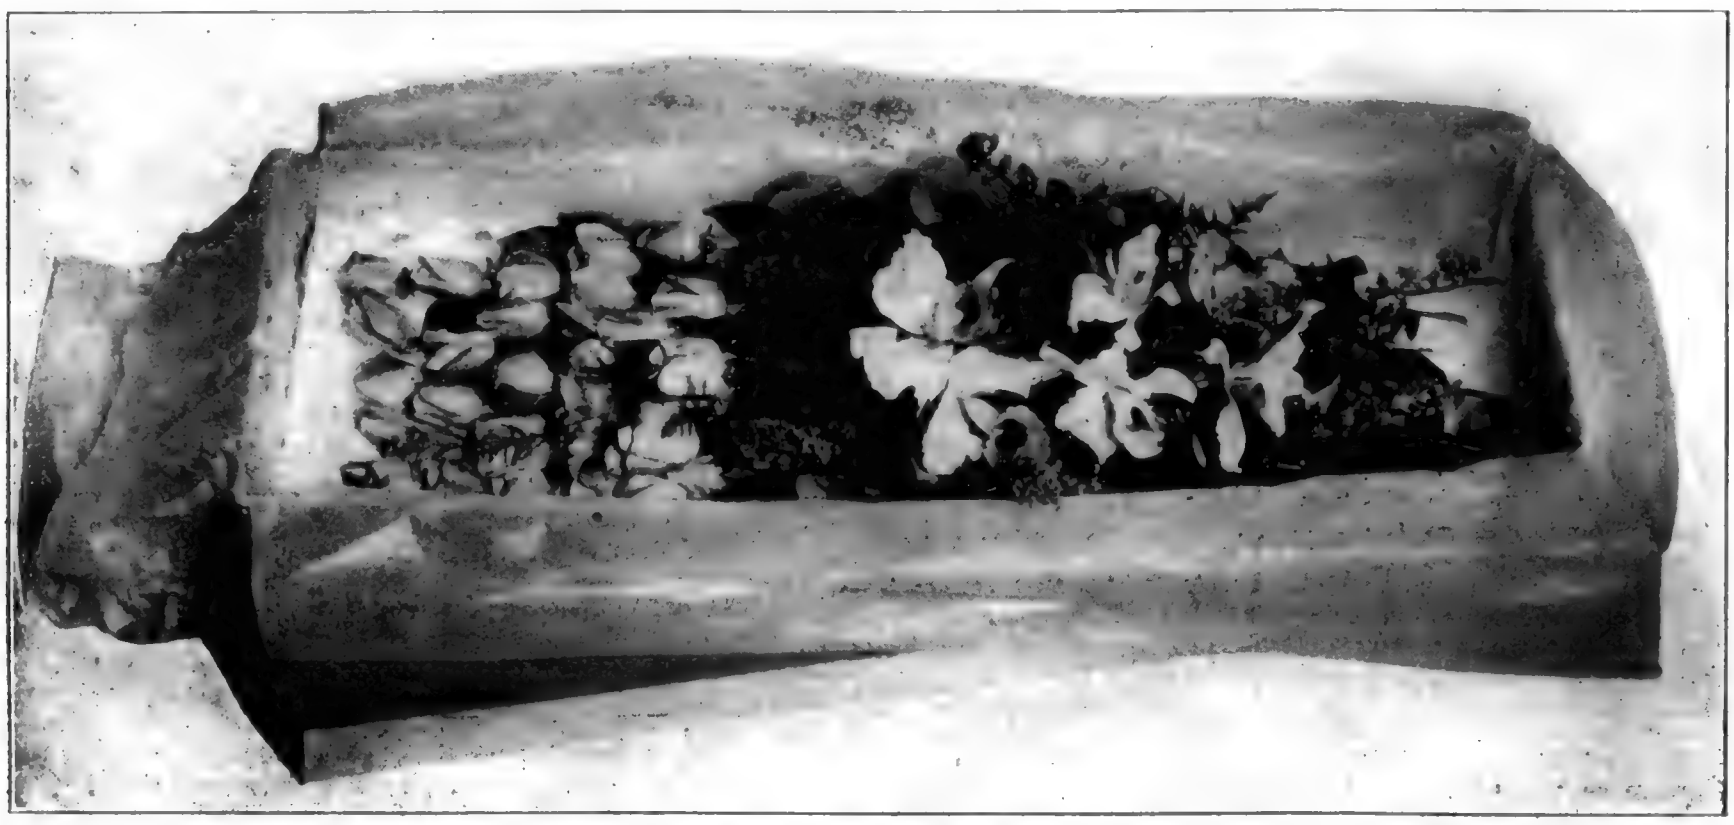
Don't Delay—Get Busy.

This has been a "put it off" season. Everybody has procrastinated. The average florist is less ready for Christmas than he was this day last year, but a favorable point for the trade is that early Christmas shopping has been less heavy than usual. Late shopping always means more flowers, because they are easy to buy. Florists never get much of the early business; their sales are mostly made in the last three days anyway, so there is ample time to get ready for and do a banner Christmas trade.

An Example of Good Display.

HOLIDAY CUT FLOWERS.

There is absolutely no cause for alarm on the part of cut flower growers—they always will have first call on the Christmas demand.



Frequently one hears that the public would rather buy plants for the holidays. It is not true. The public really prefers cut flowers.

Any retailer will tell you that the only reason he is able to sell plants in large quantity for the holidays is because they have been lower in price than cut flowers. The retailer likes best to handle plants because they are not so perishable and he can take more time with them. Perhaps it is because cut flowers are recognized as more costly and more fragile than plants that the public really prefers the cut stock. Offer any buyer a box of good roses at a price somewhere near the price of a fairly showy plant and the choice almost invariably will be the cut flowers.

This Christmas there should be an unusually large business in cut flowers. The indications are that the supply will be the largest ever known. In addition to the increase in glass that means normally increased production every Christmas, conditions this season have tended toward growers making special effort to bring their crops in for Christmas. Prices were so low in the autumn that growers pinched out a crop that otherwise would have come in around Thanksgiving and been off by Christmas. There is a feeling that prices this Christmas will not be excessive, giving the retailer the opportunity to sell cut flowers to all who prefer them; it will not be necessary for retailers to push plants because they cannot make a satisfactory profit on cut stock.

CHRISTMAS GREENS.

Christmas greens are no longer limited to holly wreaths and strings of lycopodium; indeed, the better class of flower stores no longer handle ground pine wreathing or the cheaper class of holly wreaths. Instead they make up for their customers beautiful wreaths

This Will be the Christmas Choice of the Buyers Who are Not Deterred by the Bugbear of High Prices.

Prepared Red Oak Foliage, Statice and Pine Cones Make an Irreproachable Christmas Wreath.

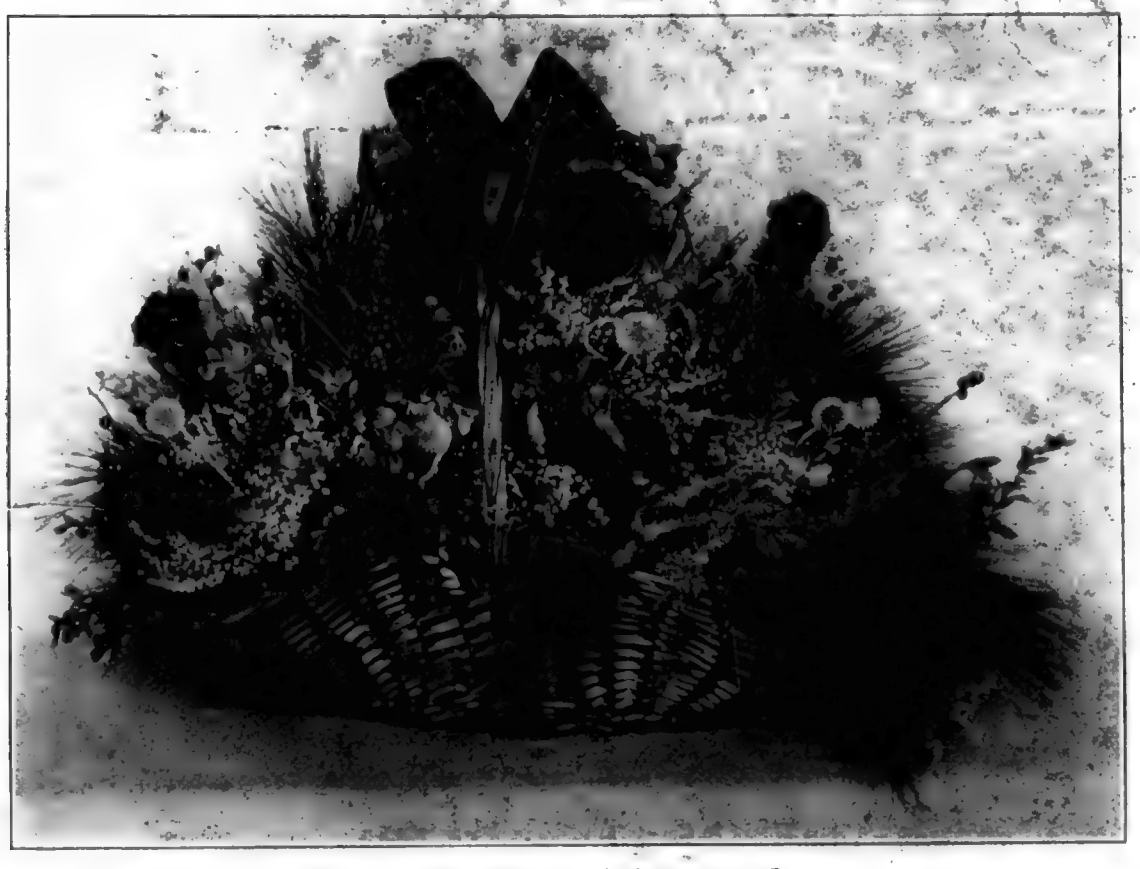
of boxwood, pine cones, red berries and thistles; or prepared oak leaves, cones, ruscus, statice and boxwood; the combinations of material are innumerable. Or they arrange their Christmas greens in baskets, which may be costly or inexpensive according to the quality of the trade catered to.

Some of the illustrations in this issue show elaborate Christmas wreaths and hampers of Christmas greens, while others show less expensive basket combinations. The retailer who has not yet used them, but who is working to educate his trade to better things, will find them well worth studying.

THE BIG SELLERS.

The big seller last Christmas was the basket of ruscus in its various combinations. Although the department stores in some of the larger cities have encroached on the florists' field, apparently they are not going in strong enough to affect the business of flower stores. From all appearances, every flower store that sold baskets of ruscus last season can sell greater numbers this Christmas. Indeed, the sale already has been large, for flower stores began showing these baskets before Thanksgiving.

Red baskets and red ribbon are most popular for Christmas, with red ruscus, combined usually with green ruscus or with boxwood. While innumerable styles of baskets are offered, there is nothing more popular than the well known high-handled basket used in the trade these many years. By the simple expedient of using a larger or smaller basket, the price of the completed article may be made to suit any purse. Hundreds of these baskets of large size will be sold this Christmas for the decoration of hotels, apartment buildings, theaters and other public places.



WINTER WINDOW BOXES.

How many of those who do a good business with summer window boxes have made any sort of attempt to keep the boxes filled in winter? Some, but not nearly so many as should.

The fact is the trade is missing many an easy dollar by not pushing the winter window boxes; they are as easy to sell as summer boxes and at least as sure to give satisfaction—which means a repeat order next season.

Winter window boxes, of course, are filled with evergreens. The florist can not, usually, grow his evergreens, as he does his geraniums and vincas for summer box filling, but he can buy the evergreens so cheaply and satisfactorily that the profit really comes easier. In fact, he can buy the boxes already filled and make his profit just by making the sale. In the larger cities the best hotels were among the first to use the winter window boxes filled with evergreens. They give a touch of life to bleak surroundings that is especially valuable to a hotel, but which is no less appreciated by high class business houses and the owners of good homes. Make it the fashion for your people to get the winter effect in the windows before Christmas, just as you see to it that the geraniums and vincas are there before Memorial day.

CREDIT MEN OPTIMISTIC.

The National Association of Credit Men makes the following comment on business conditions:

"There is unquestionably a steadily improving feeling in manufacture and trade. In most lines the improvement has taken form in increased inquiries and in many in distinctly better orders. Best grounds for satisfaction are found in noting the signs of improvement in the iron and steel trade, where the steady decline in orders and interest seems finally to have given way to better buying. Complaints regarding collections continue to be general, but with better industrial conditions it is fair to expect they will gradually recover normal. The main factor in the situation is that confidence, so badly shattered a few months ago, is now well restored, and though we cannot look for early resumption of normal business in all lines, the demand for staples is assuming big proportions and this tendency will extend itself to other lines."

TO FLORISTS OF TEXAS.

I want to make an appeal to the florists of Texas in behalf of the rose display at the San Diego exposition.

If we can send 2,000 or 3,000 rose bushes to San Diego, the horticultural committee will see that we get a nice space and that they will be well displayed. This is certainly a most economical way of advertising Texas and her products.

Now it is not going to tax any florist heavily to send, say fifty roses of the best variety to San Diego and prepay the express charges, addressing them to J. C. Knox, San Diego exposition, San Diego, Cal., and the committee will do the rest. The shipper's name will be displayed in his exhibit and the exhibit, as a whole, will be marked "Texas Grown Roses."

It seems to me that this is certainly an opportunity for the florists and nurserymen of Texas to show what we grow in this great state in the line of roses, and I certainly hope that this appeal will meet with ready response.

I would like to hear from those who expect to send something and would like to be advised at the time shipment is made. Now don't put this off, think the other fellow will take care of the shipments and yours may not be necessary, for we all may be of the same opinion and have no display. Attend to this now, as this is a good shipping season, and by the time they reach California and are planted they will be in just at the right time for the opening of the exposition.

I trust that every florist will feel that he is under an obligation to respond to this call and make shipment promptly and that we may have a nice display in due time.

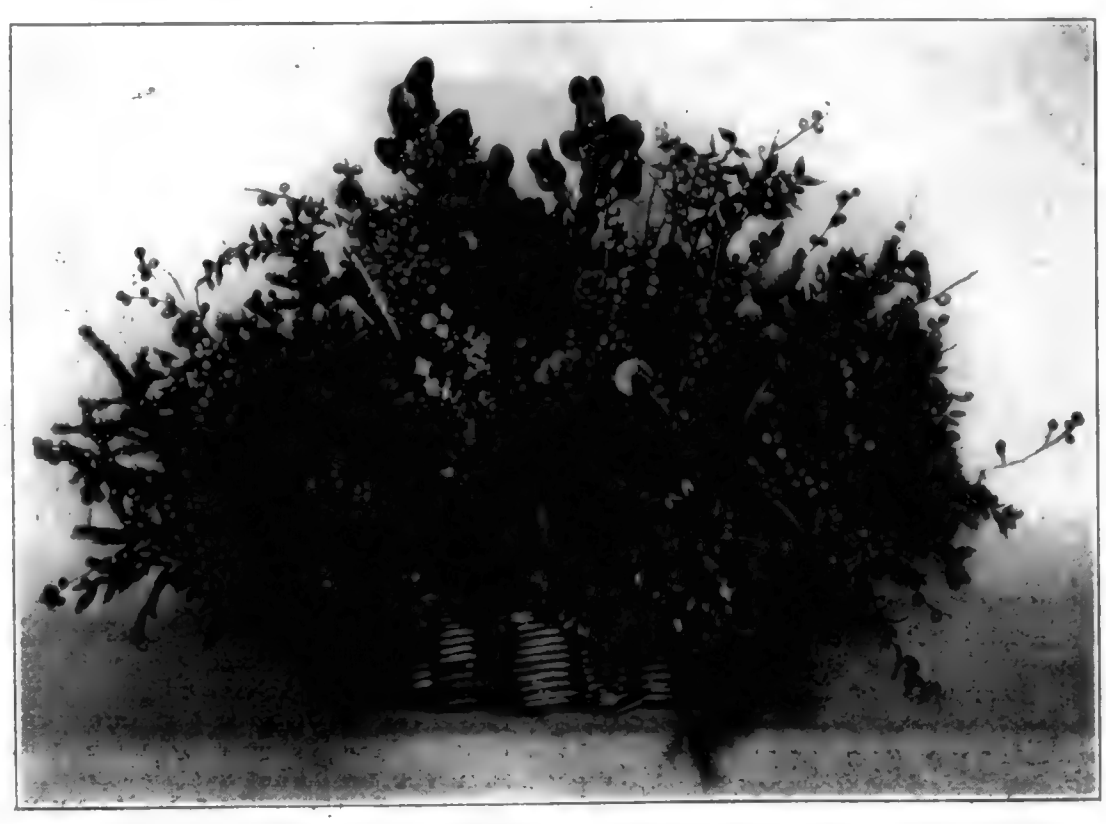
Pres. Texas State Florists' Ass'n.

CARRYING OVER VINCAS.

Can you give me some information on wintering vincas in a coldframe? I did not sell all of my vincas and I am wondering if I can carry them over.

H. G. N.

Provided the frames are well constructed, the plants covered thickly with perfectly dry leaves, sashes placed over these, and mats and matchboard shutters over these in cold weather, the plants should winter, but a cold greenhouse would be a vastly more satisfactory place for them. Of course, I am now referring to the variegated vinca so much grown by florists, and not to V. minor, commonly called myrtle and periwinkle, which is quite hardy.



C. W.

WINTER VINCAS IN COLDFRAMES?

Can I winter Vinca variegata in a coldframe covered with leaves? When would I have to take it inside for spring sales? It is in 3½-inch pots. I have cut the tops off; was that all right?

F. K.

While it is barely possible that the vincas might live over winter in a coldframe if frost could be kept away from them, I would not advise you to try this treatment. Give the plants a cool greenhouse if you want them in presentable condition for spring sales. Cutting back the long shoots somewhat is permissible, but the plants should not be headed back hard. Their great value as vase, window box and basket plants lies in the long, drooping shoots.

C. W.

SOIL AROUND TREE TRUNKS?

I have been planting a large number of forest trees, such as pin oaks, white ash, sugar maples, cut-leaved maples, etc., and I notice that in this city it is customary to heap up a big mound of earth around the tree and then top-dress with a thick layer of manure. On inquiring why this is done, I am told that it is to protect the trees from cutworms and borers. I should think that this would have the opposite effect, as the heaped up mound would afford shelter and protection to the cutworms and borers. A practice here, also, is to tie flexible boards around the stem for the same purpose. I shall be glad to have your opinion on these points, and also as to the best way to protect the trees from borers and cutworms. T. J.

I should certainly agree with you in saying that mounding up soil and manure about the stems of such trees as you name would make an ideal harbor for borers rather than prevent their attacks. There may, however, be some special benefit in this protection which some reader can inform us of. Cutworms are not in the habit of attacking the stems of trees. They prefer soft flower and vegetable plant growth. Cutworms do not appear until late spring and can be destroyed by sprinkling a poisoned bran mash about their haunts. The free use of lime and soot, and fall plowing, leaving the ground rough over winter, helps to reduce their numbers. Borers are less easy to handle. They must be systematically searched for. They can be killed by running a wire up the holes, and can also be suffocated by injecting a little carbon bisulphide in the holes and immediately closing up the ends with putty. Any shoots or branches cut off by them should be picked up and burned. C. W.

Danville, Ill.—Bottorff Bros. have opened a store at 147 North Vermilion street. C. M. Bottorff, recently with F. B. Smith's Sons, will be manager of the concern.

CARNATIONS

TO PREVENT STEM-ROT.

A short time ago I noticed, in an article in The Review, a reference to sulphate of copper or something similar to Bordeaux mixture, lightly sprinkled over the carnation soil to prevent any possibility of stem-rot. My carnations are doing exceptionally well, with only about two per cent of stem-rot, but I should like to have a copy of that article, or a summary of its suggestions on the subject, to place on file in case there might be a time when I might want it. J. F. D.

A solution of copper sulphate, at the rate of four ounces to fifty gallons of water, sprinkled over the surface, will destroy all spores and germs in the soil. Enough should be used to penetrate the soil to the depth of two inches. The application should not be repeated oftener than once a month. Bordeaux mixture may be used in the same way, if prepared by uniting one pound of copper sulphate and one pound of lime in fifty gallons of water. If merely sprayed upon the surface, four pounds each of lime and copper sulphate may be used in fifty gallons of water. T.

TO ERADICATE SNAILS.

How can I get rid of the snails that infest my carnations? They eat the flowers at night. They are the large snails that I am sure come over from Belgium with the azaleas. F. B.

Paris green and other poisons are of no value in fighting snails. Strew slaked lime or black soot about their haunts. The lime will destroy all that it touches. Salt is another excellent remedy. A ring of cork dust or sawdust around each plant will act as a sure preventive. Give your house a dusting of lime before planting and a large proportion of the snails will be destroyed. F. R.

CURLY TIPS ON CARNATIONS.

I am having some trouble with my carnations and shall appreciate any helpful information. The trouble is that so many of the tips of the carnations are like those on the sample which I am sending in a separate package. My stock consists principally of three varieties of Enchantress. Last season I had flowers as large as four inches and over. At present I have some that measure three and three-fourths inches, but the buds, like those on the sample, are mostly a failure.

I had nice stock last spring. Then we had no rain for over three months and my plants suffered accordingly. After we had rain, the plants made a vigorous growth. I took them up about September 1, and then some of them showed curly tips. The soil for the benches was a little on the poor side; so I mixed one barrel of poultry manure with about each forty barrowloads of soil. After the benching, the trouble became worse. Was my treatment wrong? I am about ready to propagate, and therefore the main part of my inquiry is: Would it be advisable to propagate from such stock or not? J. H.

There is nothing seriously wrong with your carnations. The curly tips you complain of are more or less common among newly planted stock. Some varieties are more inclined that way than others, but I have seen it on many different sorts. You will usually find it among newly planted stock, and you will also find that when the plants become thoroughly established, it disappears. I have concluded that it is caused by the severe check and the unbalancing of top and root growth, caused by the replanting, and lasts only until the proper equilibrium has again been established.

I would suggest that you follow a moderate course of culture, giving moderate but regular watering, plenty of ventilation and no excessive food, until the trouble disappears. I would not hesitate to propagate from these plants a little later, when they have resumed a normal condition. A. F. J. B.

CARNATION CONVENTION.

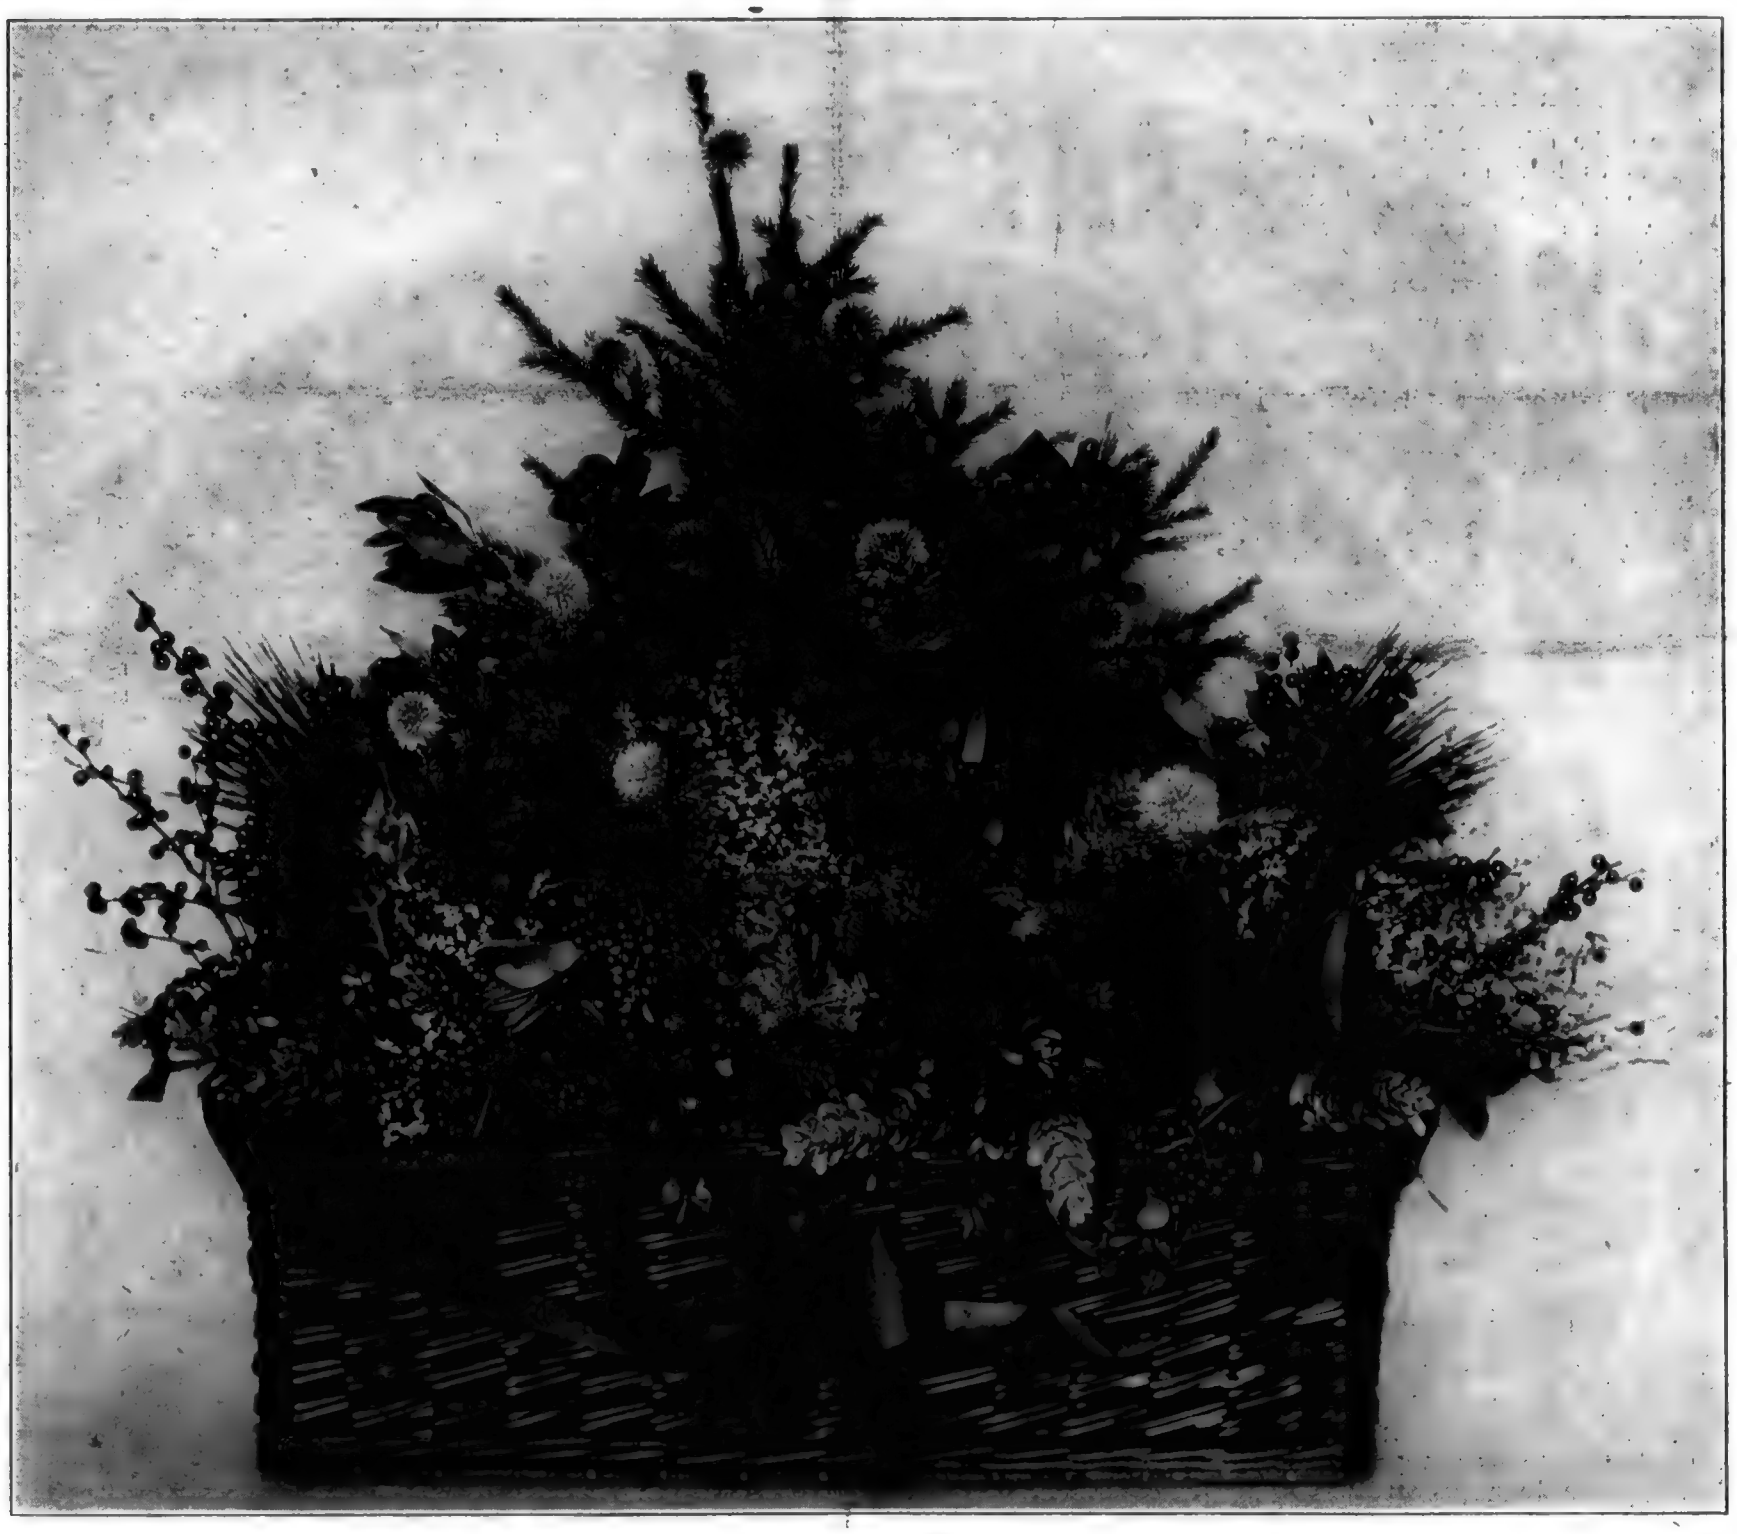
In issuing the premium list, Secretary A. F. J. Baur says: "The American Carnation Society will hold its twenty-fourth annual convention and exhibition in Buffalo, January 27 and 28, 1915. Headquarters will be at the Hotel Iroquois, where the exhibition and meetings will be held. Everything, including the banquet, will be held in this building and the members will find it unnecessary to leave the building during the entire convention. The exhibition hall and other accommodations compare favorably with any that have ever been placed at our disposal, so that with the accessibility of Buffalo from all directions, this should be a banner convention. A banquet will be served Thursday evening, January 28. Each member will pay for his plate, as was done with very satisfactory results last year. The exhibition will be reserved for the members until 8 p. m. on Wednesday and again until 2 p. m. Thursday. The public will be admitted on Wednesday evening and again on Thursday afternoon and evening. No admission will be charged.

"All members are requested to attend the business sessions and to lend their assistance in making them interesting. The first session will be called to order at 8 p. m. Wednesday. Papers are being prepared on live subjects and opportunity will be afforded the members to discuss them fully. If you have perplexing problems, the most expert growers in the country will be on hand to help you solve them. Submit your questions to the secretary in writing, before the convention, if possible."

S. A. Anderson, vice-president, is in charge of the local arrangements.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS

Rambler Roses.



Rambler roses which were pot-grown through the summer and which have their canes well ripened can now be started in a cool house. Such plants should have been laid on their sides for some time, to ripen the wood more thoroughly, and any not started now are just as well kept outdoors, or at least in coldframes, so long as the pots are protected from too much frost. Any of the so-called baby ramblers, also such varieties as Dorothy Perkins, Crimson Rambler—less popular than of old, but still useful for early forcing—and Tausendschon are all suitable varieties to start now. Cut out any dead and weak wood and bend down the canes so that they will break more evenly. A temperature of 45 to 50 degrees is ample at first. These ramblers, of course, will flower long before Easter, but there is always an excellent demand for them.

Christmas Azaleas.

Thus far the weather has been extremely favorable for the forcing of azaleas and there should be no great trouble in flowering a good batch for the holidays. Heat and moisture are necessary to attain these results. Unless at least a few flowers are open, there is little likelihood of the plants selling. The highly colored varieties, like Mme. Petrick, Hexe, Simon Mardner, Winifred Haerens and Mme. August Haerens, are the best sellers. Next to these come Vervæneana and the charming little Haerens' Lorraine, with light pink flowers. The demand for such whites as Vervæneana alba and Deutsche Perle is never robust. Often the plants throw out new growths ahead of the flowers. These should all be rubbed out. Plan to keep the plants a trifle cooler before shipping them from the greenhouses. This is not always possible, but it is a decided advantage when it can be done.

Protection for Pansies.

When such plants as pansies, violas, myosotis, daisies, etc., are wintered in coldframes, they are easily protected. The ground should be allowed to freeze hard first. Then put a liberal coating of perfectly dry leaves over them and put on the sashes. Be sure the sashes are tight, as wet leaves would soon start rot. An airing out on all mild days is necessary. Pansies outdoors must not have any mulch applied until steady cold weather has arrived. The best covering, of course, is leaves, but these are not always procurable and do not stay in position in a wind-swept field as meadow hay or straw. Some light brush must be laid over the mulch to prevent the wind from carrying it away, although after we have had a thaw and the ground has become hard frozen the mulch usually stays where we want it.

Propagating Foliage Plants.

The next two or three months, when we are using the maximum of fire heat, is the best time of the year in which to propagate crotons, dracænas, pandanus, dieffenbachias, fittonias, ficus, acalyphas and other foliage plants. With a brisk, steady bottom heat and sufficient moisture in the sand, a small percentage only should fail to root. Of course, shade and a close atmosphere are also necessary for successful propagation.

Planting Lilies.

Some of the lilies, especially speciosum and auratum, are just coming to hand. For outdoor culture the planting should be done at once. If precautions were taken to mulch the ground to be planted, there will be no trouble; otherwise it may be necessary to break through a crust of frost. Set the bulbs ten to twelve inches deep. Loosen the soil below them well and lay some sharp sand above and below the bulbs. Do not allow any fresh manure to come in contact with them. Give a mulch of decayed leaves or strawy manure when the planting is completed.

These lilies, especially the speciosums, will be found useful for indoor culture. They will naturally flower from July until October, and through most of this period choice flowers for cutting or design work are not overabundant. The speciosums and auratums do much better in 8-inch, 10-inch and 12-inch pots than in those of smaller size. After potting, stand the pots below a greenhouse bench where they will be free from drip, or keep half of them in a cold pit just clear of freezing, to provide a successional batch for late blooming.

Lilium Candidum.

Lilium candidum is always acceptable at Easter, especially where the broad-petaled type is grown. In order to be sure of having them in bloom on time, place the plants in a cool house at once. This lily does not tolerate forcing like the longiflorums and should never have a higher minimum than 55 degrees. In more heat than this the flowers will come much smaller and will lack substance.

Spraying for Scale.

December is an excellent month in which to do spraying for San Jose, oyster shell and other scales. These pests are now pretty generally disseminated over the country and spraying has become an absolute necessity. This spraying should be done on a warm, dry day, when there is as little wind as possible, and every portion of the trees and shrubs sprayed should be covered with the liquid. This spraying kills not only the scales but the eggs of aphides and other pests and can be classed as an excellent insurance. Either the lime-sulphur solution or one of the soluble oils, like Scaline or Scalecide, can be used. For those florists who may have to spray shrubs on a number of small places the soluble oils are far the best to use.

It is best to spray all fruit trees and shrubbery, for even though no scale may be visible it is probably present. Be sure, especially, to spray all roses, willows, cratægus, cornus, lilacs, cydonias, poplars, cercidiphyllums, prunus, malus and pyrus, as these are the varieties most likely to be attacked.

Protection for Hardy Roses.

Where the climate is severe the best policy is to loosen down the ramblers, lay them on the ground and cover the wood with straw or leaves. Where hybrid teas are not naturally hardy the best plan is to dig them up carefully, and either heel them in a coldframe or open out a trench outdoors on well drained land and bury the plants, giving a mulch as the ground freezes hard. The stems can be closely tied together and a band of straw bound around them. Later pull the earth well up about the stems and give the ground a liberal mulch. With the hardier hybrid perpetuals, if the earth is well drawn up about the stems and a mulch of strawy manure is applied the plants should winter well. Of course, these precautions are not necessary in the warmer states, but without them in the colder states few plants would be left alive after a severe winter.

WHITE FLY ON PELARGONIUMS.

I am having trouble with a tiny white bug on the leaves of my pelargoniums and Primula obconica. The under sides of the leaves are just covered with them. Will you please tell me what to do to get rid of them? I shall appreciate any help you can give me. C. A. R.

The word "bug" covers a wide field in America. There are two small white insects that attack plants; namely, mealy bug and white fly. The first named does not usually attack such plants as pelargoniums and Primula obconica, which require a comparatively low temperature. I think it probable that white fly is the one you are troubled with, as it frequently attacks pelargoniums, primulas, calceolarias, cinerarias, fuchsias, heliotropes, ageratums and other plants. The only practical remedy for white fly is fumigation with hydrocyanic acid gas. Full directions as to amount, time of exposure, etc., have frequently been given in The Review.

Great care is necessary with this fumigant, as it is the most deadly gas known, but it is now in quite general use and you will probably persist in using it when once you have tried it. Spraying with soap solutions will kill many of the white flies, but gas will exterminate them. C. W.

CHRISTMAS PLANTS

SOME OF THE MOST SALABLE VARIETIES, WITH TIMELY SUGGESTIONS ON TURNING THEM TO CASH

THE REVIEW has consistently adopted an optimistic tone regarding the florists' business since the great European war commenced and the volume of Thanksgiving business transacted the country over was satisfactory and went to support the theory that, while many trades are suffering, that in plants and cut flowers has been less unfavorably affected than almost any other. It is surely most encouraging to read that many transacted more Thanksgiving business in 1914 than a year previous, and it gives us a feeling of hope if not complete confidence that Christmas trade in flowers will average up well with preceding years of greater prosperity.

Flowers have been too commonly classed as luxuries pure and simple. While they can be better dispensed with than the mere necessaries of life, they now fill so important a part in the home that they are coming to be classed more as necessities than as pure luxuries. The experience of the last few weeks justifies me, I think, in stating that the outlook for Christmas trade in florists's staples, in spite of all pessimistic talk to the contrary, is good. One can scarcely expect any record-breaking volume of trade or any fancy prices, but both plants and cut flowers, especially the former, will be in strong demand and those who have large stocks of well grown plants need not have any fears that they can not dispose of them profitably.

The Christmas Colors.

Christmas and Easter are the two great plant holidays and there is a steadily growing demand on each of these occasions. Of course a greater variety of plants are available at Easter, the call at Christmas being more particularly for plants with bright colored flowers, foliage or berries. This is a point that beginners should bear in mind. While some white and pale colored plants will sell, the call is always far better for those more nearly approaching the Christmas colors, scarlet and pink being the great sellers.

It is always a decided help to the grower and retailer handling large quantities of plants if he can be favored with mild weather preceding Christmas. This makes delivery comparatively easy, as little wrapping is necessary. Nothing is more uncertain, however, than climatic conditions and it is unwise to trust to chance, particularly when plants are to be sent by express and are liable to be held over-night in some office. We have all seen zero conditions at the holidays and then, again, the temperature may be as balmy as May. I think the cooler weather, however, is better for business than the warm and unseasonable weather. Be prepared with an ample supply of newspapers, tissue and wrapping paper, and twine, and cover the pots just as heavily as the plants, for no matter how well the tops are covered, if the pots are exposed the plants are liable to suffer chills. Dirty pots, of course, are intolerable. A plant of moderate quality looks quite passable in a clean pot, but fine specimens in dirty receptacles are almost repellent.

Moderate Priced Plant Arrangements Bring Good Profits.

Some of these Big Baskets in the Store are Good Advertising, Even if too Costly to Sell Rapidly.

HOLIDAY PLANT ARRANGEMENTS.

This issue contains a number of illustrations of the popular style of plant combinations. While there is an excellent sale for single plants in simple form, the pots concealed with inexpensive covers, the effort of the florist should be toward better things; toward those items of the stock that give him the opportunity to make a charge for his artistic skill as shown in the arrangement. When a sale consists of a plant with nothing but a piece of crepe paper around the pot there is no opportunity to charge for the florists' knowledge of his business. One's experience in the trade can only be represented in the price when artistic combinations of plants are offered. It is not necessary that these plant combinations be large or expensive, like some of those shown in this issue. It is possible to make up artistic combinations in small baskets to sell at moderate prices and yet bring more money than the plants would be worth without the addition of the baskets, ribbons and artistic qualities.

POINSETTIAS.

Poinsettias, the ever popular Christmas plants, require handling with great care. They are grown in a high temperature and are often not subjected to any gradual cooling before being shipped away. The charm of poinsettias consists not so much in the size of their brilliant bracts, as in plants well clothed with foliage. Anyone can grow plants scantily leaved, but good growers are necessary to produce such as have beautiful, dark green leaves to the tops of the pots or pans. Careful watering, good judgment in feeding and an even temperature are conditions making for ideal poinsettias. In order to keep the plants in good condition for even a few days in the store, some judgment is needed. See that they are kept neither soggy nor dry at the root and stand them where they will not be subjected to cold drafts. Poinsettias, to be salable, must have green leaves. In order to retain these, more care is needed than in the case of almost any other flowering plants. As these plants are quite tender, be sure to wrap heavily when delivering. Do not, even on mild days, stand the plants on the sidewalk for passers-by to inspect. Azaleas, solanums, oranges and other plants may stand this, but never poinsettias.

There need not be a complete loss on plants which have lost considerable foliage. Provided the stems are of fair length, the cut bracts will be salable. In order to make them keep fresh, however, the ends of the stems as soon as cut should be either seared on hot coal ashes or dipped for a short time in water as near the boiling point as possible. This stops bleeding and, if the stalks are wrapped separately in soft paper and placed in vases of good depth, they will keep perfectly plump.

AZALEAS.

The Christmas call has increased much of late years for the miniature azaleas, such as Hexe, Mme. Petrick, Lorraine and the new Haerens varieties. All these are well adapted for early forcing and a good number can be had for Christmas. Owing to the war, imports of these were not up to the average in quality and, owing to increased freight charges, will not need to be grown so much as in former years, as present financial conditions will hardly warrant any advance in prices. Simon Mardner, double rose; Vervæneana, double pink and white; Vervæneana alba and Deutsche Perle, pure white, are all useful Christmas sorts which sell well. Azaleas will stand much more cold than poinsettias and their foliage holds better than that of many other plants when stood in comparatively dark places. Water carefully, remembering that these hard-wooded subjects have fine, hair-like roots and that one thorough drying out will not only ruin the flowers but also cause a heavy loss of foliage.

BEGONIAS.

More plants than ever of the beautiful Cincinnati begonia will be sold the coming Christmas. It nets both grower and retailer a higher price than Lorraine and makes a decidedly better keeping house plant. We were told a year or two ago that it needed more careful culture than Lorraine, as the larger leaves were more subject to spot. This is in a measure true, but growers have easily mastered these little troubles and few plants now offered for sale have any bacterial affections of the foliage. The larger leaves necessitate more careful wrapping to prevent injury. Flare the stakes out more widely than in the case of Lorraine. If the weather is extremely cold, it is good policy to use a sheet of cotton-wool next to the plant. The slight additional cost will be compensated for in knowing that it means additional warmth and insures delivery in first-class condition.

For over twenty years the Lorraine begonia has been in commerce and, in spite of all pessimistic talk, it is still the most widely grown winter-flowering variety, taking the world over. Its ease of culture and wonderful floriferousness are great points in its favor. As a hanging plant it is unequaled. As a house plant it does not hold up so well, however, as the newer varieties, Cincinnati, Melior and Florence Davenport. It blooms a little earlier than Cincinnati and a good number are sold before the holidays. I have noticed the last few years that large numbers of late rooted cuttings flowered in 2-inch to 3½-inch pots are sold for use in small receptacles. Cuttings propagated in July and August have readily wholesaled at $2 to $3 per dozen and there is even more money in these than in the larger plants. This begonia is excellent for window boxes, and if it can have a light position in a room not overheated, it keeps quite well. Always impress upon purchasers the necessity of watering not only begonias but all house plants freely. In steam-heated rooms, which usually have but little ventilation, one drying-out will practically kill Lorraines.

Where the Basket and Ribbon Double the Value of the Plant.

CYCLAMENS.

There are no flowering plants available for the Christmas trade which give greater satisfaction than cyclamens. They are grown cool and are, therefore, less susceptible to variations in temperature. Their leaves are tough, and the flowers possess good substance. There is a long succession of flowers to follow those that are open, and, given at all favorable conditions, these plants will bloom freely for a number of weeks, even in a dwelling house. For window boxes, they are splendid. Plants of one color should, of course, be selected for this purpose. The red and salmon shades sell the best now; the light pink and white shades move better later. No uneasiness need be felt if the plants are not all sold at Christmas. Cyclamens will sell until Easter. Keep them in a cold house until wanted.

Cyclamens withstand an arid atmosphere and even dryness at the root better than almost any other flowering plant. They are more easily injured by having stagnant water below them. It is just as necessary to warn purchasers of the danger of overwatering as of the reverse. We have all, on many occasions, seen jardinieres and other receptacles half full, or more, of stagnant water, which emits a fetid odor through the room, and, of course, the owners wonder why the poor water-logged plants present so hopeless an appearance. A little water below plants is permissible, especially if the subjects are naturally thirsty ones, but any surplus will ruin plants more speedily than any other thing.

PRIMULAS.

As moderately-priced plants, primulas are useful at the holidays. Both obconica and Sinensis are excellent in birch-bark boxes for windows, and, as they can be profitably sold at a lower price than almost any other Christmas plant, they invariably meet with a good sale. P. obconica is a wonderfully persistent bloomer. I doubt whether any other flowering plant really surpasses it, as it withstands conditions which would soon finish begonias and many other plants. An objection to it is that the foliage irritates and poisons many people. For this reason some retailers refuse to handle it at all. The scarlet and deep-pink Chinese primulas are good sellers. In packing them, remember that the leaves are brittle. They must not be rolled up as you would a spiræa, cyclamen or Boston fern. Use three or four short stakes and run twine around these to hold the leaves erect before using any paper at all.

P. malacoides is, if anything, the most decorative of all primulas, being light and graceful. Some nice plants of it appeared last Christmas, but it is later in the season that it is to be seen in really good condition. It must be grown cool all the time. If given heat, the graceful spikes flop over and the plant's beauty is entirely lost. Better reserve your malacoides for February and March sales. As growing plants, these make up into one of the most beautiful of centerpieces.

CAMELLIAS.

A few camellias appeared in the stores before Thanksgiving, and a good number are now available. It is pleasing to note the return of these old-time favorites. They are not plants which can be sold cheaply, but for just that reason they appeal to a certain class of buyers. Camellias do well in a low temperature. The flowers are easily knocked off and bruised, and special care should always be taken in packing them. Cotton-wool or tissue paper should protect each flower and expanding bud.

ERICAS.

The erica is another plant which cannot be sold cheaply, as several seasons are necessary to secure salable-sized specimens. They can be stood in quite cold and drafty places without harm. Remember that their pots are filled with a veritable network of fine, hair-like roots and that one real drying up will practically ruin if not kill them. If one gets dry, do not pour a little water on the surface and imagine that you are soaking it. Submerge the pots in a tub or pail of water until the cessation of bubbles indicates that they are thoroughly moistened. E. melanthera is the great Christmas variety. Some E. Mediterranea, pink, and other varieties are available also in small quantities.

The Big Bows of Red Ribbon are an Invariable Concomitant of the Worth-while Christmas Plant Arrangement.

BUDDLEIA ASIATICA.

Buddleia Asiatica, the winter lilac, as it is commonly called, is something of a novelty. The pure white flowers are in fine condition for Christmas and have a most delightful perfume. Cuttings rooted in April are now in 6-inch pots and in full flower. By carrying over plants, large specimens may be had. This is a plant worthy the attention of florists. The cuttings root like willows and the culture is of the easiest. They need an abundant water supply at all times and heavy feeding.

MISCELLANEOUS PLANTS.

Scarlet geraniums, double varieties especially, if nicely flowered, are good Christmas plants. Keep them in a light position and not too warm. Run the soil a little on the dry side to keep the foliage green. Scarlet and pink bouvardias are not much seen nowadays. Nice plants in 6-inch pots are attractive and something of a novelty. Heliotropes are not of a Christmas color, but their delicious fragrance sells them. Nice, bushy plants in 6-inch pots should be in demand. Standard heliotropes are something of a novelty and, with nicely flowered heads, make a desirable Christmas plant. Be sure to wrap these heavily. They are easily chilled, and those purchasing them should be advised to give them a warm room.

It is somewhat early in the season for bulbous plants, but Roman hyacinths and Paper White narcissi are available. The first-named are the more desirable, the heavy odor of the narcissi being objectionable to many. A pretty pan can be made of Romans and small ferns. The ferns grow and make a shapely centerpiece when the bulbs have passed. Lily of the valley in 6-inch or 7-inch pots, if well foliaged, will attract some buyers. Keep the plants warm, as they have been forced hard. Any chill will speedily cause the plants to wilt. A few tulips and trumpet narcissi are usually available, but these are not ordinarily of sufficient quantity or merit to deserve much notice.

For an inexpensive plant, the dwarf stevia is quite desirable. It is common, of course, but is light and graceful. Euphorbia jacquiniæflora, of the same family as the poinsettia, is a bright and Christmas-looking plant. It is seen annually in some of the big markets. Several cuttings are grown to single stems in 6-inch and 8-inch pans, making charming plants. The flowers have splendid lasting qualities. There is room for thousands more of these each Christmas.

OLEA FRAGRANS.

Olea fragrans, the sweet olive, is a tender shrub, bearing tiny white flowers at this season, which have a most delightful perfume. The blooms are so small as to be hardly noticeable, but anyone fond of plants will buy it on sight once they have tried the odor. One or two flowers will scent a good-sized room. Speaking of scented plants, gardenias appeal to critical buyers, as they are not at all common. The plants carry beautiful, dark green foliage, which shows off the pure white flowers to perfection. Use great care when packing these, as the least rough handling will bruise the petals.

BERRIED PLANTS.

Christmas is the only season when berried plants meet with any sale. Some buyers prefer them to flowering plants, and certainly their keeping qualities are better. Ardisia crenulata is a beautiful berried plant, with wonderful lasting qualities. It is a slow grower and cannot be retailed cheaply, however. For those looking for berried plants of more moderate price, the solanums, or Jerusalem cherries, are splendid. S. Melvinii and the large-fruited, Montreal variety are the best, great improvements on the ordinary type. Give these solanums an abundance of water and keep them quite cool. They are splendid for arranging in window boxes, as are also ardisias. Christmas peppers are popular with some. They, however, lack the keeping qualities of the Jerusalem cherries.

Otaheite oranges are hardly berried plants, but should have mention here. Well fruited plants command a high price, usually 25 cents per fruit at wholesale. For stands or jardinieres, these oranges are attractive. They withstand heat well and also succeed where it is quite cool. The list of berried subjects can be considerably extended. Usually a good many hollies, skimmias, aucubas and similar plants are imported, but conditions in Belgium may materially reduce the numbers of these the present season. Nevertheless, we shall have no dearth of either flowering or berried plants for the festive season.

THE THREE CHADWICKS.

"The Three Chadwicks" is the name given the trio of young florists who appear in the accompanying illustration, by their employer, John Gunther, of the firm of Gunther Bros., New York. In their spare time these young men have developed the musical talents with which they have been gifted, and now are appearing before the public in club and society entertainments, where they achieve quite creditable success. Within business hours and off stage they are known by the names of Axel Zinovog, Charles Ferdeman and Nathaniel Bernstein.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS

SMALL MUMS FOR MARKET.

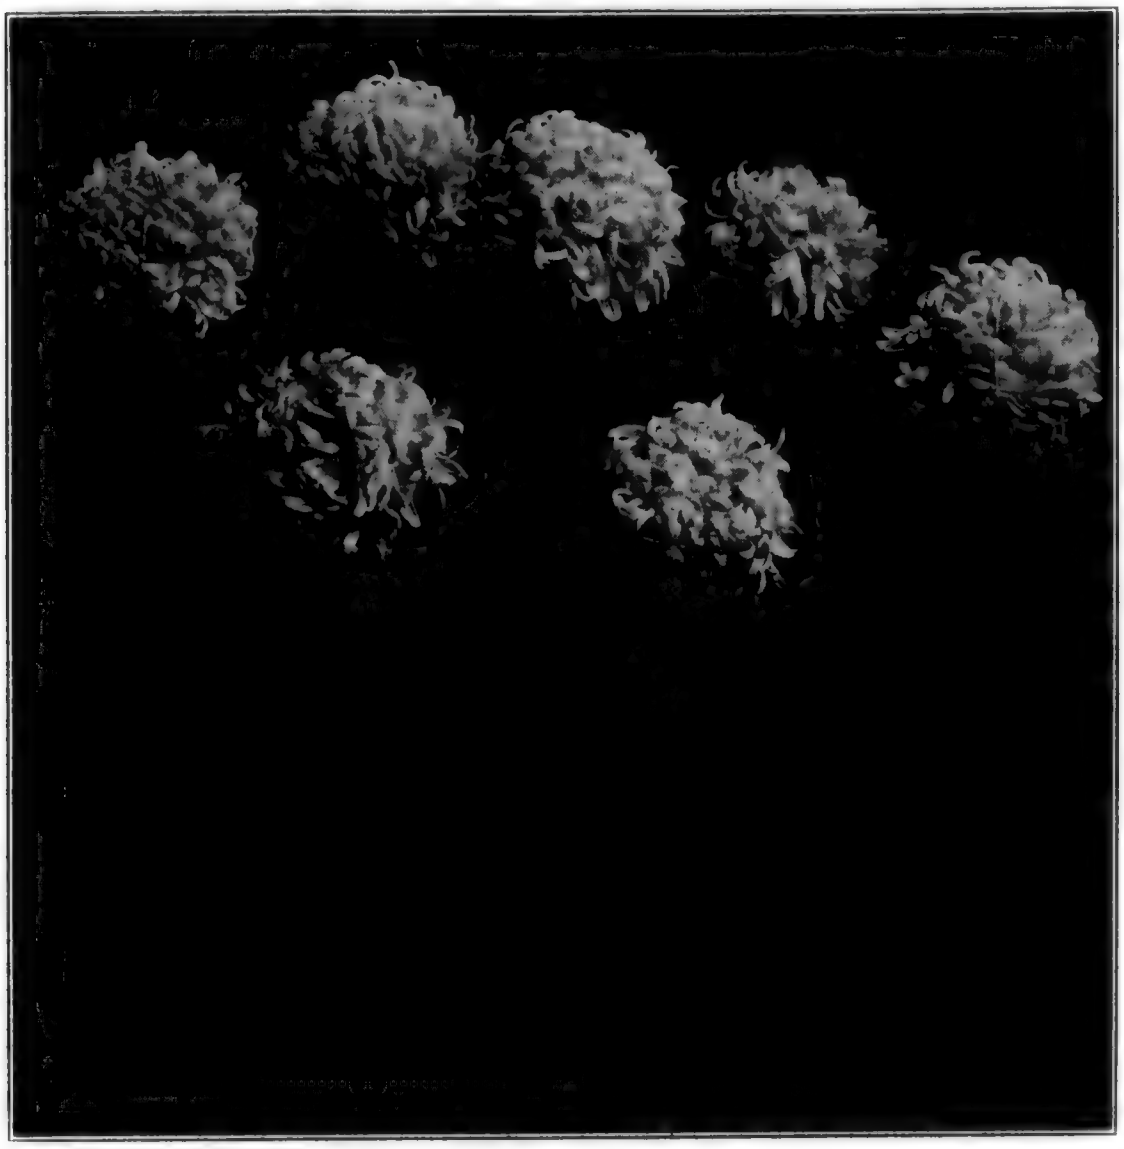
Please give me the names of four colors each of early anemone-flowered and pompon chrysanthemums. I wish to use them for sprays for bunching for the wholesale market. The anemones should have not less than two rows of petals. I should like the popular varieties that sell well. The height should be under four feet. I have the lists of Elmer D. Smith & Co., Chas. H. Totty and A. N. Pierson, Inc., but find it difficult to select from them, not having seen the varieties growing. W. M.

Anemone-flowered: Garza, white, which perhaps has fewer petals than you wish, but is easily the finest anemone today, and no other variety sells like it; Betsy Presby, a yellow Garza; Eleanor, delicate pink; Mrs. Shimmins, apricot shaded red. If you want a large white, try Marcia Jones.

Pompons: Queen of the Whites, pure white; Julie Lagravere, crimson maroon; Mrs. Frank Beu, orange and bronze, good for Thanksgiving; Klondike and Savannah, fine yellows. Baby and Baby Margaret, yellow and white, have small flowers; they sell well in the markets. C. W.

TAFT MUMS WITH WEAK NECKS.

In the early part of June I planted a bench of President Taft chrysanthemums. The soil was two-thirds sod loam and one-third rotted cow manure. The ventilators were left open day and night, the plants were sprayed and cultivated throughout the season and the soil was never allowed to become too wet or too dry. They are now commencing to bloom, with large, handsome flowers, but the necks are too weak to support the heavy blooms. This is the first year I have tried President Taft and I should like to know whether this is one of the bad characteristics of this variety or whether it is due to improper culture. The plants were not fed with any chemicals or liquid manures. L. S. J.



Wholesale Florist's Vaudevillians.

Chrysanthemum President Taft is not so strong in growth as some of the others and it is not unusual for the plants to be a little weak in the neck. This trouble shows much more on some soils than on others and is sometimes due to the lack of lime in the soil. Since L. S. J. states that the plants were not fed with any chemicals, this may indicate that they were not particularly strong and perhaps they would have been better if they had received a little extra nourishment. It does not pay to grow plants too closely; possibly some of the trouble was due to this. Chas. H. Totty.

COMPANIONS FOR ENGUEHARD.

Will you please give me the names of a yellow and a white chrysanthemum which are the nearest in shape, style, size and time of blooming to Enguehard? W. E. P.

I do not know of either a yellow or a white that is the exact counterpart of Enguehard. I should call Bonnaffon the best commercial yellow that flowers with it. Of course, Bonnaffon is a solid incurved, but there is no other yellow even approaching it in popularity. Take the bud about September 15. In whites we have White Bonnaffon, with a less compact flower than Bonnaffon, but the foliage is usually pale colored. The variety Mistletoe, sent out by Dorner, should prove a splendid white companion to Enguehard. The terminal blooms all come pure white. It is in good season for Thanksgiving and will keep until Christmas. C. W.

TURNER AS A POT PLANT.

Nothing at present in sight compares with William Turner as an exhibition chrysanthemum; for size of bloom it is at present without an equal, and it is an easy doer, so that success with it is general. The big, pure white, perfectly formed blooms were the feature of many an autumn flower show.

Now comes Paul Ryce, of the Bayhouse Floral Co., Boise, Idaho, with an illustration of Turner as a pot plant. The plant was grown in an 8-inch pot and carried seven blooms on disbudded growths.

LATE CHRYSANTHEMUMS.

Will you kindly tell us what varieties of chrysanthemums to grow that will bloom after Thanksgiving? We have Dean, Nonin, Nagoya, White Bonnaffon and Enguehard, but they all are over by November 25. We should like to have several later ones. Please give us information in regard to the latest varieties in the market, so that we can buy stock. W. G. M. & S.

The varieties you name are all naturally late and should carry until Thanksgiving, provided you run your house cool, keep it shaded and air freely. I would suggest the following as good late varieties; buds for securing late flowers should be taken on or about the date named: Mlle. Jeanne Nonin, white, October 1, extra late; Major Bonnaffon, yellow, September 15; Mrs. Jerome Jones, white, September 15; Yellow Jerome Jones, September 15; Wells' Late Pink, September 12; Yellow Eaton, September 10; W. H. Chadwick, blush, September 15, extra late; Thanksgiving Queen, creamy white, September 15, extra late; Pockett's Surprise, scarlet and bronze, September 1, extra late; Antique, bronze, September 10; Golden Chadwick, yellow, September 5, extra late; Maud Dean, pink, September 10, extra late; White Chadwick, pure white, September 15, extra late; Golden Eagle, yellow, September 15, extra late; General Hutton, orange yellow, September 1; Intensity, crimson, September 10; Dr. Enguehard, pink, September 10; Mistletoe, blush white, last bud extra late. C. W.

GOOD WHITE POMPONS.

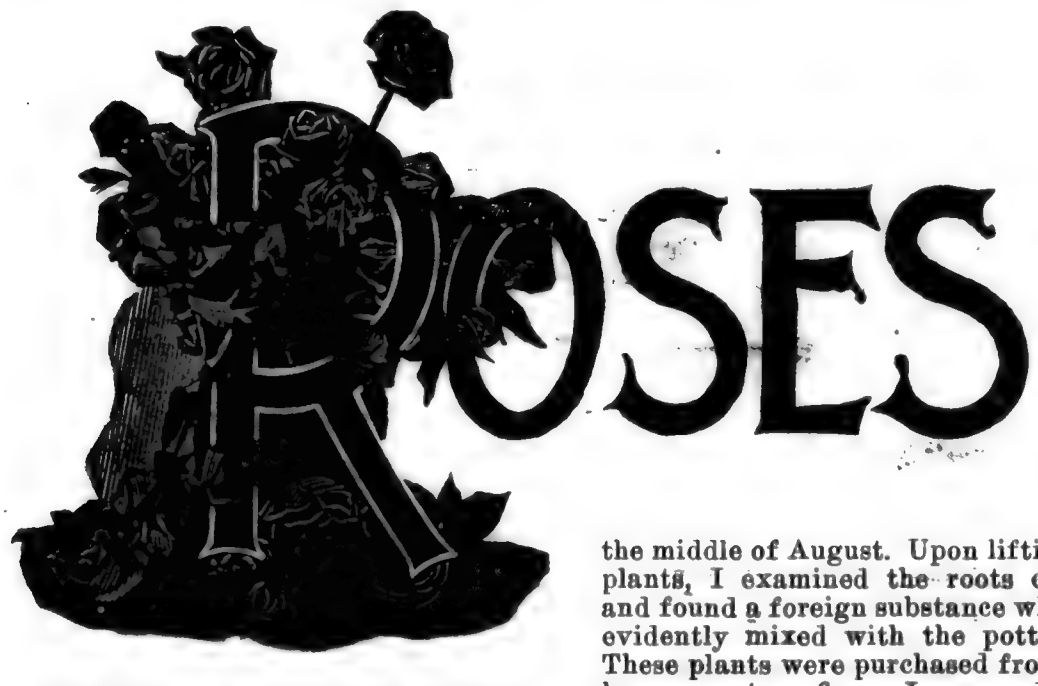
Will you please give me the names of two good white pompon chrysanthemums, an early and a late one? I want to buy some stock plants now, to propagate from next spring. Will 100 plants yield 400 cuttings? H. A. C.

Elva is a fine early white. Queen of Whites is a beautiful creamy white. Helen Newberry, with large flowers, is good for Thanksgiving or even later. One hundred stock plants should give you several times 400 cuttings if properly taken care of. C. W.

SPEED IN SCHENECTADY.

One of the "live wires" of the trade in Schenectady, N. Y., as proved by his record in that city, is G. E. Kopper, proprietor of the Rosendale Greenhouses & Nurseries. It is only three years since he started in business in Schenectady, yet in that time he has built up a good trade, added a large greenhouse and bought a store this year, and is now looking forward to opening another store next spring. This move is contemplated because of the good results which followed the purchase of the store of J. H. Frederick, at 126 Jay street, last spring. Since the date of its acquisition, May 1, the concern's sales have doubled.

The new greenhouse, 40x166 feet, which was erected by the Lord & Burnham Co. last spring, is shown in the accompanying illustration. Half is devoted to pot plants, and the other half, which is shown here, has been occupied by mums. On the bench to the left is Charles Razer, which, Mr. Kopper says, has been his best white this season. About 8,000 chrysanthemums were planted this fall. For the other crops, there are potted up about 80,000 bulbs, 2,500 lilies and 15,000 geraniums, in addition to which are grown sweet peas, snapdragons, smilax, swainsonas, Boston ferns, cyclamens, begonias and primulas.



New Lord & Burnham House of Rosendale Greenhouses & Nurseries, Schenectady.

Most of this is disposed of at the Jay street store.

Five acres of land are devoted to nursery stock, mainly fruits and hardy plants. This area will be doubled in the spring, for all departments of the business are rapidly increasing.

"BREAD AND BUTTER" BEGONIA.

"Now, there's a plant not half well enough known," said Ernest Rober as he laid down the photograph from which the accompanying illustration was prepared. He referred, of course, to Begonia Gloire de Chatelaine, no longer a novelty but, Mr. Rober thinks, not yet tried by a large majority of the trade. "You can root it any time and it makes cuttings freely; blooms all the year around, in 2-inch pots and up; good for bedding, as a house plant or for basket work; bright pink flowers; good keeper; it will displace Erfordii when the trade gets to know its bread and butter qualities," continued Mr. Rober, whose business at Wilmette, Ill., and his many years in the trade fit him to know the needs of all kinds and conditions of florists.

MILDEW ON OUTDOOR ROSES.

We have a quantity of field-grown rambler roses and they are infected with mildew. Would it be safe to sell these plants in the spring and could it be done without danger to our reputation? We should not like to send these plants out to our customers if we thought they would infect their gardens. Will the mildew disappear through the winter? We planted some Crimson Ramblers last spring in a part of our nurseries in which there never had been any mildew and now all the other varieties seem to have it. Is it possible that the mildew spread from these ramblers to the other plants, or is it due to weather conditions? Will the mildew fungi live on dormant plants through the winter and reappear in the spring?

F. B.

Mildew on outdoor roses is due to climatic conditions. It spreads rapidly, but can be controlled in some measure by spraying the affected plants with some good fungicide. You need not be afraid of selling the plants which have had mildew on their leaves. Such plants might be entirely free from the disease the following season. It all depends, however, on their treatment. Crimson Rambler is notoriously susceptible to mildew. For this and other reasons it has been dropped to a large extent in favor of varieties that carry better foliage.

POOR GROWTH OF YOUNG STOCK.

I am enclosing two rose plants of the variety Irish Fireflame. They were planted last July, but have not done anything. The conditions have been favorable for good growth. You will note that the foliage is badly burned. I have been in charge of the growing since the middle of August. Upon lifting these plants, I examined the roots carefully and found a foreign substance which was evidently mixed with the potting soil. These plants were purchased from a well known eastern firm. I am sending this foreign matter to you, so that you may determine what it is. At first I thought it was nitrate of soda; but after further consideration of the matter I am inclined to believe that it is gypsum. I have had experience with nitrate when used right, but not when the stock has been injured by its use. If it were nitrate, it would have been dissolved by this time.

H. B. M.

From the appearance of the plants when received, they had been originally potted in extremely light, sandy soil, and when planted they may have been dry at the root. When the plants have been watered after planting them in the bench, this sandy soil has always shed the water. As a consequence the plants have been unable to make any root action and have never started to grow. This also caused the foliage to burn, as there was not enough sap in the leaves to withstand the rays of the sun through the glass. The foreign matter referred to was sandstone, which, on being rubbed between the fingers, easily crumpled up into a fine sand. If the soil is pressed firmly around each plant, making a basin, and the plants are given several thorough waterings, they should still start out and make good plants, as Irish Fireflame is a strong, free grower.

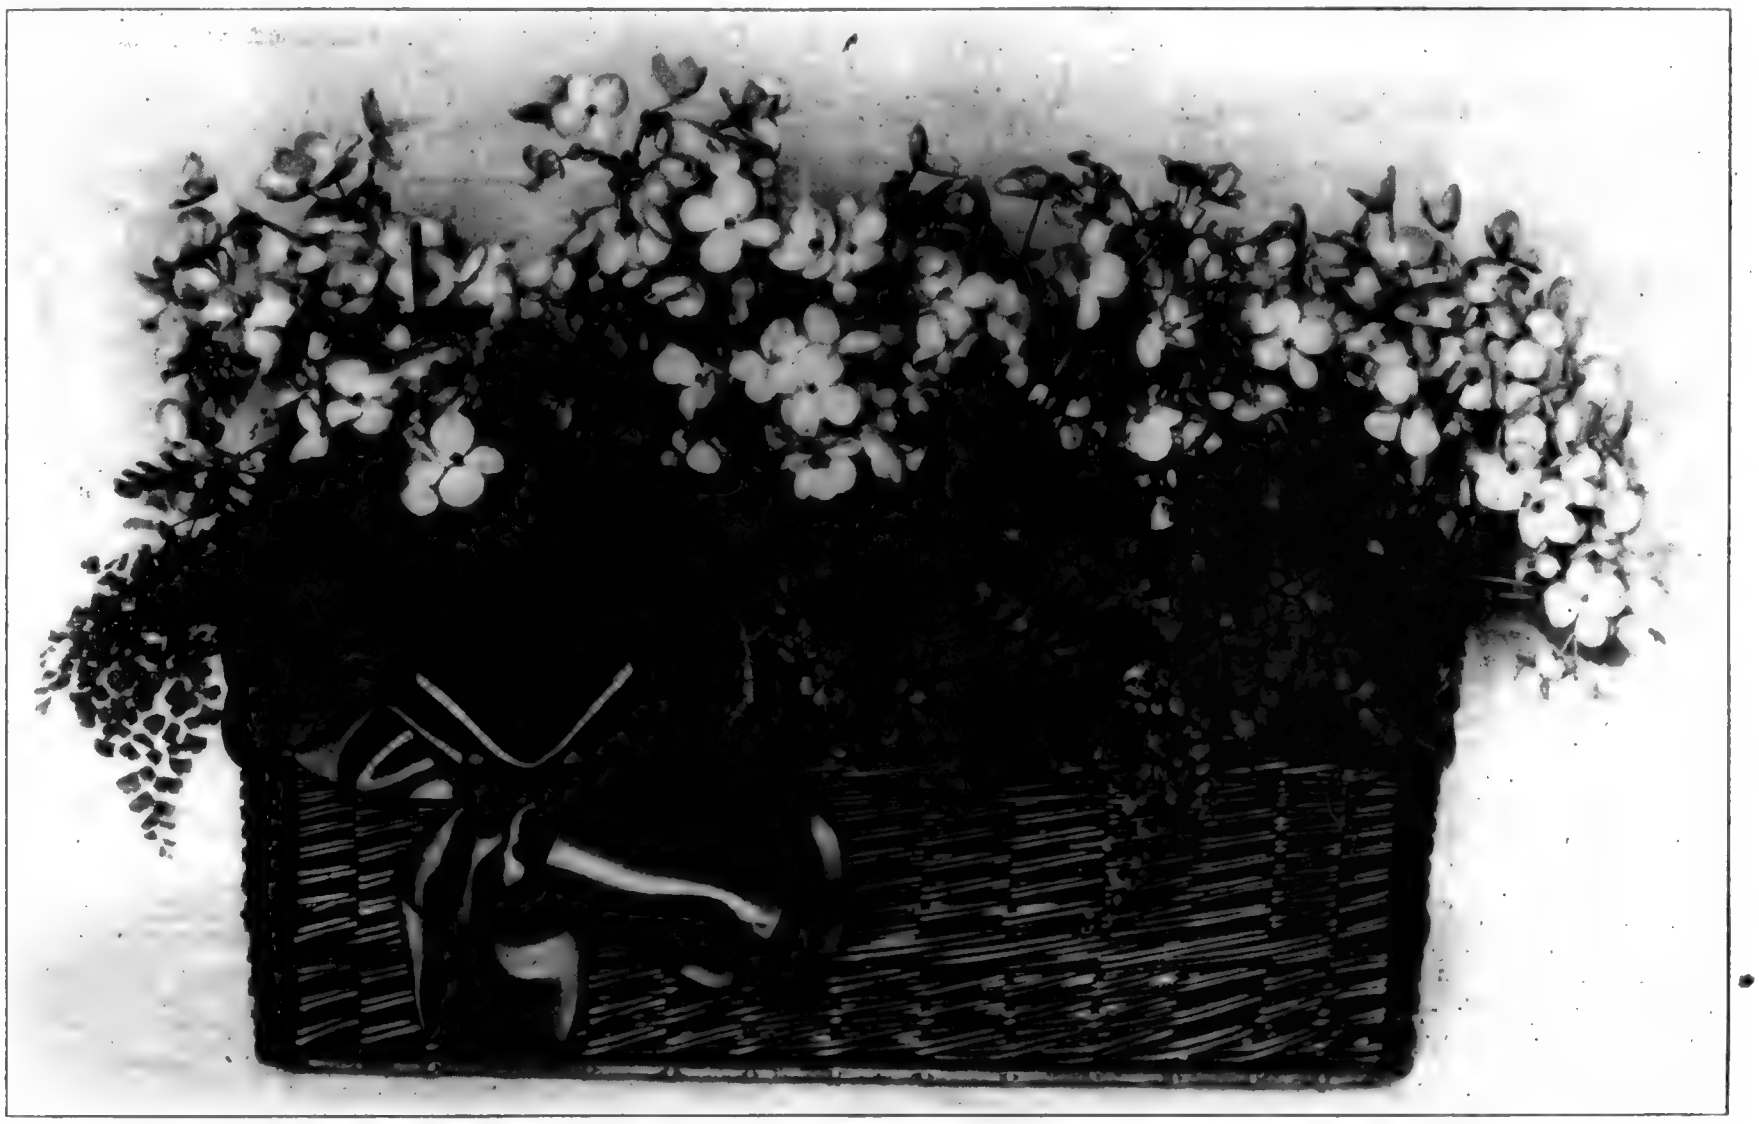
WANT TO MAKE A FORTUNE?



I. E. L. Hills, connected with the United Supply Association, San Francisco, is looking for someone in the trade who wants to make a fortune—introducing his new rose, Ohio. It is said to be a seedling of MacArthur, "dazzling red in color, the petals of large size, delightfully fragrant, of excellent keeping quality as a cut flower, remaining in a half-opened condition for an exceptional length of time."

ROSE BEDS AT ARLINGTON.

There seems to have been a misinterpretation in some quarters concerning the planting lists of the Washington rose garden as included in the committee report read by William F. Gude at the meeting in Boston of the Society of American Florists. The lists were simply to show where the plants were located and were prepared for the information of donors and the use of interested persons visiting the garden.

Begonia Gloire de Chatelaine.

The Lorraine Begonia Never Loses its Popularity With the Better Class of Christmas Flower Buyers.

The arrangement of beds, as yellow tea, pink tea, etc., was tentative, but promises to work satisfactorily. The assignment to the beds was made entirely from catalogue description. This was taken from the donors' catalogues where practicable, and where not, from catalogues of other reliable firms. The breaks in the beds were caused by the inability of some firms to supply all the plants they had expected to send. The varieties with what might be called mongrel descriptions were distributed with the color to which they were most nearly akin, as far as descriptions would suggest and space permit.

Places were only provided for teas, hybrid perpetuals and climbers, and other sorts were placed just wherever there happened to be room, as, for example, dwarf polyanthas, which are planted at several points. It is intended to transplant varieties as soon as practicable after it is found they are not properly placed in the scheme adopted.

The list must not be taken as a recommendation by the Department of Agriculture, either as to adaptability or color, but merely as a record of where the different varieties are growing. The rose garden has not yet been under way six months, and so, of course, the studies have hardly begun. It will require several seasons' observations before any conclusions can be reached. Suggestions are at all times most welcome, as it is desired to arrange the garden so as to be as instructive as possible.

BEGONIA SOIL UNSUITABLE.

Will you tell me what is the matter with my Lorraine and Cincinnati begonias? I bought 3-inch stock in the last part of September and they were fine, healthy looking plants. I planted them carefully in soil containing equal parts of clay, leaf-mold and sand, with a little sheep fertilizer and bone meal. They have not grown a bit and the leaves are now getting brown spots all over them. A few of them are beginning to show bloom. The Chatelaines bought and potted at the same time are doing well. The plants are all in a north bench. I shall be glad to know what to do, as I am anxious to save them if possible. C. D. J.

The compost selected for your begonias was not suitable. Equal parts of clay, leaf-soil and sand are bad enough, but the bone meal is worst of all. The soil the Cincinnatis and Lorraines thrive best in is a light one. If you had made it equal parts of flaky leaf-mold, which means leaf-soil not too much decayed, loam and dried cow manure, with a dash of sharp sand, you would have had an ideal compost. If you had no cow manure, the sheep manure would have answered, provided you used not over six quarts of it in a bushel of compost. You do not say how much of a shift you gave the begonias. This and the watering would have much to do with their condition. The plants now should have the fullest sunshine and ought to have had it for some weeks back. I doubt whether, at this late date, you can do much toward improving your plants.

The fact that Gloire de Chatelaine, a purely fibrous-rooted begonia, grew satisfactorily is not surprising. This particular sort, in common with forms of Erfordii, Vernon and luminosa, will grow in almost any soil. It is a much hardier and tougher variety than Lorraine or Cincinnati, both of which have some B. Socotrana blood in them.

GERMINATING MAGNOLIA SEEDS.

I should like to know how to start the seed of Magnolia grandiflora. How do you get it to germinate, by filing? I have tried to start these seeds several times, but have failed to do so. G. T.

Pick the seeds as soon as they are ripe. Put them in dry sand until February, then in moist sand for a fortnight. The resinous covering can then be washed off. Sow the seeds in flats or any ordinary greenhouse, and pot off singly when they have made their second leaves. Shift to larger pots as required. Follow these instructions and you should have no trouble in germinating your seeds. C. W.

BEGONIA LEAVES WITHERING.

I have a Rex begonia the leaves of which are dry at the edges and I am at a loss to know what to do for it. I have given it new soil and the needed moisture and warmth. If there is a remedy for this, I should be glad to have you tell me of it. H. A. C.

Since Rex begonias are of such easy culture, it seems evident that either the plant has been allowed to become too much potbound and dried out at the root, or has been subjected to a drying, arid atmosphere. Give the plant a position in a warm, moist house and it should soon improve. C. W.

MOTT-LY MUSINGS.

W. C. Lawrence, of the Lawrence Floral Co., says Atlanta, Ga., is badly in need of two institutions to further the interests of the craft. They are a commission house and a florists' club. During his residence of twenty-one years here the business has grown to large proportions and, while the stores often carry a surplus, no wholesale order of any size can be filled. The shipping facilities south and southwest are excellent. A florists' club would bring the trade together and promote the holding of flower shows, the management of which is now in the hands of a few enthusiastic society ladies, who held a chrysanthemum show October 30. It certainly looks as if this, one of the biggest cities in the south, is behind in this matter, while possessing some elegant flower stores.

McMillan Bros. Seed Co., Atlanta, mentioned that bulb sales last season amounted to over $5,000. The prospect for a banner season this year is good.

The Mark W. Johnson Seed Co., Atlanta, commenting on the demand for seed wheat, reported the sale of considerable quantities of Marvelous at $3.50 per bushel.

H. G. Hastings, Atlanta, is a prominent member of Atlanta's Associated Charities, in addition to supervising his vast seed interests.

Wachendorff Bros., Atlanta, do not attempt to have any chrysanthemums before November 10, by which time outdoor varieties are usually past flowering or killed by frost. They have a fine showing for Thanksgiving. The nursery branch is spreading.

D. C. Horgan, proprietor of the Idle Hour Nurseries, Macon, Ga., takes two copies of The Review, one for the store and one for the greenhouses, where the help has free access to it. The sale of bulbs is exceptionally good, owing partly to the quality of the stock and partly to special displays. Chrysanthemums are superb here, especially Eaton and Yellow Eaton, but it is hard to get above $3 per dozen.

John Wolf, Savannah, truly says that it is not the quality of his chrysanthemums that prevents speedy sales, but now the horizon is brighter the sales will be better. He is well known as the largest grower of cut flowers in the south.

P. J. Berckmans Co., Augusta, reports an excellent growing season. The company's pecan and peach orchards are among the largest, if not the largest, in the state of Georgia. W. M.

RECK REPRODUCES BIG BOWL.

In the accompanying illustration is shown the reproduction of the big Yale bowl in the window of John Reck & Son, Bridgeport, Conn., the week of the Yale-Harvard football game. A description of the window was given in the Philadelphia news-letter in The Review for November 26. This is an example of timeliness in window decoration. Credit for the ingenious reproduction belongs to Carl Reck, who went to New Haven to study the structure, so that he was able to carry out details in an exact manner.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

If one may judge by the condition of the cut flower market since Thanksgiving, Lent has already begun, and these be days for prayer and fasting. Last week was certainly full of lean days, and the "clean-ups" were almost like those of August and September. However, cheer up, the oldest florist cannot remember any boom between Thanksgiving and Christmas. It is simply the inevitable here in New York, only a little more so.

Christmas is only two weeks distant, and if the green goods men are good authority, it will be an old-time holiday. Everyone is busy in these supply stores, with roping, wreaths, holly and Christmas novelties. Branch stores for these are already numerous, and thousands of wreaths—holly, pine and laurel—of boxes of wild smilax and yards of roping are already shipped to other cities. At one store I saw many boxes marked for San Francisco. Christmas trees are arriving daily. Many are being reshipped from here.

I look for some improvement as this week ends, and a gradual advance until Christmas, for which there is the promise of an abundance of everything, and no high prices.

At present all roses are down, including American Beauties and the novelties, but not seriously so, and recovery will come quickly and be lasting. Cattleyas are steady and should go no lower. In fact, there must come improvement when winter arrives; it was still Indian summer here last Saturday. Carnations were weak all last week and only for the choicest novelties dared one ask over $2 per hundred.

Lilies were steady to strong all the week. Valley was abundant and slightly lower in price. Gardenias improve rapidly and prices are at about the same level as a year ago.

There will be an abundance of mums, evidently, right up to the holidays. Prices are low, except for a few large, late novelties. Christmas will see their good-bye, after a remarkably profuse season.

Violets held fairly well until Friday, when the best fell to 35 and 40 cents per hundred. There are plenty of bouvardias, antirrhinums, daisies, sweet peas, myosotis, mignonette and narcissi for any possible demand. Not much lilac is arriving. There is no diminution in the receipts of southern asparagus.

Bowling.

The New York Florists' Bowling Club made the following scores Thursday evening, December 3:

Player	1st	2nd
John Miesem	209	218
J. Fenrich	153	167
A. Kakuda	172	150
A. J. Guttman	144	156
H. C. Riedel	159	161
C. W. Scott	169	168
P. Jacobson	143	157
W. P. Ford	162	181

Bowling for prizes will begin shortly.

Various Notes.

Don't forget the meeting of the New York Florists' Club, Monday evening, December 14, the last meeting of the year and election night, with all the interesting adjuncts, including the exhibits and the turkey.

Charles H. Totty continues to improve and will enjoy his Christmas under his own roof.

Ernest P. Prince, formerly with Vaughan's Seed Store, is representing the rose grower, Geo. Prince, of Longworth, England, with an office in the Singer building, New York.

Kottmiller, the retail florist at Madison avenue and Forty-ninth street, is now thoroughly established in his new and beautifully decorated store, with ample room for his rapidly increasing business. In the center of his artistic window is the $50 silver cup won for the prize bride's bouquet at the last international flower show.

Thos. Macres, of the force of Woodrow & Marketos, was married to Miss Sweeney, of New York, November 28. He has charge of the floral decorations in Bustonaby's and the Marlboro hotels.

The Brooklyn Wholesale Cut Flower Market reports Thanksgiving trade in Store Front of Victor Ridenour, Philadelphia.

Brooklyn away ahead of expectations. Mrs. Joseph Levy is in charge of the retail department.

Trepel & Bershad's new store in Loeser's, Brooklyn, owes much of its artistic arrangement and display to Mr. Waldron, its designer.

Joseph Mallon's friends filled St. Paul's church at the funeral services, and his home was filled with floral offerings of sympathy. There have been few larger funerals in Brooklyn. He was in his fiftieth year and leaves a widow, sister, and brother, John, the senior partner of the firm, which has been in existence for nearly sixty years.

Hauschild & Co., now at 37 West Twenty-eighth street, will have a branch at 102, next door to James Coyle.

Guttman & Raynor have "flown across the street," to use Mr. Guttman's expression, and are now settled in their new establishment, with entrances on Sixth avenue and at 101 West Twenty-eighth street. The store affords every modern convenience and is one of the largest of its kind in the country.

Nicholas Lecakes, for many years in the fern business and lately a member of the New York Florists' Supply Co., has opened his new store at 102 West Twenty-eighth street, formerly occupied by Guttman & Raynor.

Daily sales of holly at auction have been inaugurated by the MacNiff Horticultural Co. Now that bulb sales are diminishing, dormant roses will be brought to the front.

At William Kessler's the show window has daily renewal and attracts many buyers.

The Kervan Co. reports an excellent season. Its out-of-town shipments are large.

L. B. Coddington was in the city last week, the guest of H. E. Froment, who handles his rose shipments.

Traendly & Schenck report the usual volume of advance orders for the holidays.

Sixty-six years is a record in the retail cut flower business here, and David Clarke's Sons have the honor of holding it. The big store is gayer than ever this season.

Paul Meconi is preparing to celebrate his wedding anniversary December 14.

The Associated Retail Florists, Inc., held a meeting December 8 at the Hotel Woodward.

M. A. Bowe had the decoration for the Nogell-Calhoun wedding December 8, including St. Thomas church and the house. The flowers all were white.

J. Austin Shaw.

The marriage of Charles H. Brown, Jr., son of the florist at 2360 Broadway, to Miss Ethel Goldsmith, daughter of a wealthy woolen dealer, was made known to the parents of the couple over a month after the date on which it occurred, October 28. The sole objection of the parents was that it should have been postponed, as both bride and groom are only 19 years old.

Work will soon start on the huge public market to be known as the Cosmopolitan Garden. The old building of the Stern Bros. dry goods store, which has a frontage of 175 feet on both West Twenty-second and Twenty-third streets, will be altered. The style of Covent Garden, London, is to be followed. Plans call for an immense greenhouse on the roof, accommodating a large horticultural display and a cut flower department.

THE RIDENOUR STORE.

There is a flower shop in the upper part of Philadelphia, on a thoroughfare facing the eastern border of Fairmount park, that may justly claim a place in the front rank among the leaders of the country. It was a well-known flower shop many years ago. Later it fell by the wayside, but now, by hard work of the new owner, it has regained all, and more than all, of its former prestige. Twelve years ago Victor I. Ridenour removed to Philadelphia from Washington, D. C. He worked a year with J. J. Habermehl's Sons, at Twenty-second and Diamond streets; then for over four years he managed the Columbia avenue store of John C. Gracey. Mr. Ridenour's next move was to purchase the business at 3233 Ridge avenue. Last summer he completely remodeled the store in old English style, with a touch of Italian grace in the lightness of floor and walls. An original feature is the roof garden that completely covers the store, for private use, not business. Mr. Ridenour built a conservatory in the rear of the store some time ago. His workshop and motor delivery round out an up-to-date service. Phil.

Marysville, Kan.—H. R. Fisher says he is able to report better business than last season, chrysanthemums cleaning up in excellent shape. Rain seems more needed than anything else.

Interior of the Store of Victor Ridenour, Philadelphia.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Market.

Retail business last week was better than it has been for a long time. There were a number of good wedding decorations, and stock was both plentiful and cheap. The year as a whole has not been up to standard, but the more optimistic among the florists look for increased prosperity in 1915. The continued warm weather has filled the markets with plenty of good stock, so that the retailer can have his pick of varieties and grades at reasonable prices. From all accounts, there will be a plentiful supply of all flowers for the Christmas trade.

There has been a better demand for novelty roses during the last week or ten days, and a good price is being obtained for Irish Fireflame and Sweetheart. Aaron Ward continues to predominate in the day's sales. American Beauty roses can be had in quantity at from $1 to $3 for choice stock. Carnations are averaging from $2 to $3 per hundred and are in fair demand. Some exceptionally good mignonette is to be had at up to $4 per hundred. Valley is fine. Orchids are being offered at as low as $4.50 per dozen, with $7.50 as the top price. Formosa lilies are now in the market, bringing the usual $1.50 per dozen. Violets are still scarce, and those of even average quality are snapped up by the retailers. Sweet peas are good and the demand is fair.

Club Meeting.

"A city-wide clean-up" was the principal topic of discussion at the regular monthly meeting of the Florists' Club of Washington, held at 1214 F street, northwest. William F. Gude addressed the club at length on this subject, speaking of the recent visit here of Frank Hargett, the originator of the educational gardens, at Frederick, Md., and Leonard E. Kolmer, of the Frederick Post, who is doing much to boom the flower industry and the love of flowers in that city.

Plans were discussed for attendance at the Panama-Pacific exposition in 1915. From a canvass made of the members, it is doubtful if the number to go will be large, yet Washington will be creditably represented.

J. Malcolm Nicholson, R. J. Leimer, of Hyattsville, Md., and J. H. Van Zant, of the Botanical Gardens, were admitted to membership.

Various Notes.

M. J. McCabe is showing some exceedingly fine carnations. Mr. McCabe has had his own labor problem this season, for several of his men have been on the sick list for several weeks at a time. The latest of these to report back for duty is Burch Talbert, his rose grower, who returns after an illness covering fourteen weeks.

Charles M. Wernig, of Springwood Farms, York, Pa., made a round of the stores last week exhibiting some fine primroses and poinsettias.

John Van Zonneveld, of Sassenheim, Holland, who is making his periodic business trip to this country, tells some interesting stories of the European difficulties and has a number of imposing documents, through the use of which he was able to reach the United States in safety.

Visitors last week were: William J. Muth, the Philadelphia representative of the King Construction Co., North Tonawanda, N. Y., and Charles E. Meehan, of the S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co., Philadelphia. C. L. L.

J. Louis Loose requests the publication of the following:

"Proceeds have been entered by J. Louis Loose, president of the Washington Florists Co., to foreclose a trust given by said company to secure $50,000 worth of bonds of which he is the holder. This would result in a reverting title of the property to Mr. Loose's name. The company was formed in 1905 by J. Louis Loose and Otto Bauer, the latter being treasurer and manager until October 1, 1914, when his resignation was accepted. J. Louis Loose will take care in any event of all the obligations of said company and also proposed to buy at par all stock issued for cash. The business is now under the management of J. Harper, who has been with the company for a number of years, and it will be continued without any interruption."

WHEN TO SOW SALVIA SEED.

Will you please tell me when to sow salvia seed so as to have the plants ready for bedding out next spring? K. I. G.

From March 1 to 15 is sufficiently early to sow the seed to get large plants in 4-inch pots. Even if it is sown a month later, you can have good stock by the middle of May. C. W.

HELLEBORUS NIGER.

We are sending you in a box a flower and leaf for name. The plant was brought in by a customer. It is hardy and blooms in the fall in this Colorado climate. The flowers keep for a long time in water. E. & W.

This plant is Helleborus niger, popularly called the Christmas rose. It is especially hardy, blooming here, in northern Illinois, from early in December till the following March, in spite of frost and snow. J. H.

Wyomissing, Pa.—Heck Bros. have been exceedingly busy planting bulbs, shrubs and trees.

Wheeling, W. Va.—Albert Lash has added a greenhouse, of concrete and steel construction, at his range in South Warwood.

Austin, Minn.—A. N. Kinsman has incorporated his business under the title of A. N. Kinsman, Inc. The capital stock is $75,000.

Hillsboro, Ind.—George Connell, who has been dealing in garden plants in a small way for several years, is erecting a greenhouse, so that he can extend his business.

Galesburg, Ill.—I. L. Pillsbury has just finished rebuilding one greenhouse, which is used for palms and decorative stock. The new house is higher and wider than the old one, which was 20 years old.

Houston, Tex.—The florists' trade was represented in the "Made-in-Houston" display in the new permanent exhibition building by Robert C. Kerr, who supplied palms, ferns and flowers for the interior decoration.

Carthage, Ill.—Robert C. Crum, proprietor of the Carthage Greenhouse, reports prospects excellent for the best year in the business. Trade is good at present, and Mr. Crum says he sells more stock than he can grow. A number of large funerals in the last few weeks have made the demand strong.

Allentown, Pa.—Louis S. Baker has remodeled his store, at 148-150 Turner street, and now has two large plate-glass windows at the front of his show room. A hot water system has been installed in the greenhouses in the rear of the store and electric light put in. Mr. Baker is assisted by his father, John M. Baker.

Uniontown, Pa.—A flower stand has been opened in the Central hotel, on Broadway, by the American Flower Co.

Galva, Ill.—G. F. Pearse has just completed a storage cellar under his greenhouse office, in which he will keep cut flowers.

Hutchinson, Kan.—John Stamm has leased the building at 14 North Main street, which he will remodel and use as a flower shop.

Huntington, Ind.—Bieberich & Weber, proprietors of the East End Greenhouses, have rented a downtown store, which they will open soon.

Painesville, O.—Wilson's Flower Shop has its greenhouse in the rear completed and filled with palms, ferns and plants. Two greenhouses will probably be built on Sanford street in the spring.

Crawford, Neb.—Alex. Cross, manager of the Crawford Greenhouses, has enlarged his range and installed a hot water heating system. He will use part of the new space for vegetables during the winter months.

Caro, Mich.—A. J. Packer's new range is about completed. It consists of four houses, each sixty-six feet long, and a palm house 12x24. A gravity steam plant of 3,000 feet of radiation has been installed. The benches are cement. Carnation plants and lettuce form the larger part of the stock.

Nashville, Tenn.—A recent editorial in the Nashville Banner deprecating the use of the phrase "Please omit flowers" in funeral notices, and strongly upholding the custom of sending flowers for funerals, is thought by the Joy Floral Co. to have been helpful in checking a practice that has bothered the florists of Nashville particularly during the last three months.

KANSAS CITY.

The Market.

Business continues good. Some of the florists report a better week than the corresponding one a year ago. The wholesale market showed a clean-up on all cut stock and could have sold more, and everything in the cut flower line brought a higher price. This is due in a measure to the scarcity of chrysanthemums in the market, compared with the supply of last year. The mums this year, having started blooming so early, were out of the way earlier. By the middle of the coming week all the mums grown here will be cleaned up. Business is steady, which is surprising, as the rush of Christmas shopping in other lines usually interferes with the flower business.

The flower stores are showing nice specimens of poinsettias, which is a little earlier than in any previous year. Pot plants for the holiday trade will be plentiful and will include begonias, azaleas, poinsettias and others. The florists are making big plans for Christmas, especially in the supply line. It is expected that basket work will take the lead over pot plants or cut flowers.

The prices of carnations have taken a jump. The supply is not as great as it was several weeks ago, on account of the misty, cloudy weather we have had of late. The quality is fine; good stems and fine flowers are much more plentiful than the lower grades. There is not enough to meet the demand. Roses have advanced somewhat in price. In the better grades there are no more than enough to meet the demand, but there is a marked shortage in the shorter grades. American Beauty and Russell have a steady demand. Pink roses are not much called for, owing to their light color, especially in Killarney. Red is more popular than any other color. Violets have become more plentiful and are good, having plenty of stem. These and orchids are the most popular for corsage bouquets. Stevia and narcissi are plentiful and are selling well.

Various Notes.

Mr. Hepting will have a fine lot of carnations in bloom for the holiday trade, as his plants are filled with long, stout stems with heavy buds. He has his place in good shape and is well satisfied with business so far.

T. J. Noll & Co. report that supply orders for the holiday trade are 10% per cent heavier than one year ago.

Baskets and novelties are more in evidence this year than last. The florists realize that they need them to do business. The public has tired of just a box of cut flowers or a plant.

Ed. Ellsworth has a fine lot of poinsettias for Christmas. He devotes a great deal of space to this plant and has good success with it.

W. J. Barnes has a nice lot of Begonia luminosa in 5-inch to 7-inch pans. They stand two feet high and are fine and spready. These sell on sight and he says they make more money for him than any other pot plant on the place.

A new flower store has opened at Armour boulevard and Broadway, under the name of the Broadway Floral Co.

The W. L. Rock Flower Co. had a pretty window last week. A large vase of orchids stood in one corner, with plants of various kinds around the edge of the window. In the center were two glass duck ponds, with a small corsage bouquet in the corner of each. The window was a big attraction to the public.

Visitors in town last week included H. Cheeseman, representing Ralph M. Ward & Co.; Chas. F. Meyer, New York, and C. E. Pruner, representing Poehlmann Bros. Co., Chicago.

W. J. B.

COLUMBUS, O.

The Market.

Trade is looking up at present and we are all in hopes of having a good trade during the holiday season. The call for both roses and carnations has increased considerably now that the mums are cleaned up, or nearly so; there are only a few stragglers left to tell the tale. Roses are fine, both in quantity and quality. Beauties are rather scarce; it seems they were all off crop about the same time. The outlook for a good crop at Christmas is slim. Carnations are about as fine as could be expected, and they are arriving in great quantities from several growers. The demand has cleaned them up fairly well for several days past.

Valley is a little more plentiful and the demand has increased in proportion. Violets are plentiful, with the demand fair. Narcissi are more plentiful and fill in nicely since mums are gone. Stevia is quite plentiful.

Potted plants are moving better and some good azaleas, Cincinnati begonias, cyclamens and primulas are on the market.

Various Notes.

The Livingston Seed Co. reports business picking up somewhat, with plenty of stock.

The Fifth Avenue Floral Co. is cutting heavily on carnations and roses at present, with indications of a heavy crop for Christmas.

The Munk Floral Co. reports business coming along nicely in the branch store, as well as at the main store.

The Block-Crane Floral Co. reports business looking up. J. M.

WHEN TO SOW SCHIZANTHUS.

Will you please tell me when to sow schizanthus so as to have it come right for Memorial day? F. K.

Sow the schizanthus early in January. It requires a cool house all the time, not over 45 degrees at night, in order to have it stocky and in the best possible condition. S. Wisetonensis and some special strains which are improvements as regards the size of flowers, are the best for indoor culture owing to their dwarf habit. C. W.

Fairfield, Ia.—James M. Brown, representing the Lord & Burnham Co., was here last week, drawing plans for a new greenhouse for E. H. Montgomery, to be erected next spring. Business has picked up considerably since the advent of cold weather.

News from Abroad

Bush Hill Park, England.—Of the staff of Stuart Low & Co., fifty have entered the service of the nation.

Antwerp, Belgium.—In preparing for the defense of the city the horticultural establishment of Juchem & Sons was obliterated by the Belgian army, as it adjoined Fort de Vieux-Dieu.

Striegau, Germany.—Paul Teicher, stocks specialist and seedsman, is at the front with a majority of his employees. Those who remain expect him back, with good fortune, about January 1.

London, England.—It will be noted that the trade all over Europe is basing operations and quotations on the assumption that the war will be in progress a year hence, or that general business will be so upset on the continent that a somewhat earlier conclusion of peace will not greatly affect the markets for next season's crops.

Erfurt, Germany.—Ernst Benary states that the military operations have been without manifestation in the district except for the withdrawal of a part of the young men. There has been plenty of labor. Transportation is open via the northern as well as the Holland route. Parcel post shipments of flower seeds are going to America every day. Business is going on as usual, including preparation for next season.

Berlin, Germany.—If one thinks Germany is exhausting herself he has only to stand at the door of the J. C. Schmidt flower store, noting the business being done and the crowds passing in Unter den Linden, especially the younger men. Business with florists is better than one outside would imagine possible.

Paris, France.—Abel Chatenay, first vice-president of the Société Nationale d'Horticulture de France, has stated: "We have examined the possibility of making an appeal to all the members of our profession in favor of those of their colleagues who have suffered most by the war, but it will be better to wait, if we wish the appeal to be successful and the subscriptions obtained to be employed in the best manner."

Folkestone, England.—A nurseryman who has arrived here from Ghent is quoted as saying that for ten days he saw five trains daily pass through Ghent, each carrying over 2,000 wounded Germans. According to his statement, the city was full of wounded Germans. German reinforcements were passing through daily. "The Germans are beaten," he said, "but it will be a long time before they are driven out of Belgium." This will be of interest as bearing on next season's exports of azaleas.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

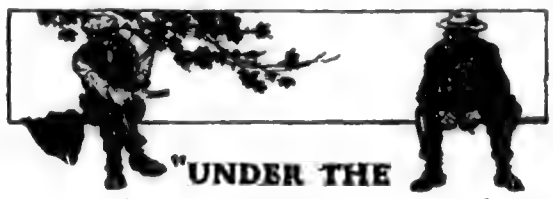
The Market.

The cloudy weather last week caused stock to slow up. Roses are not so plentiful as they might be, but, as business is not so brisk as it might be, they are equal to the demand. Christmas business has not started yet, owing to the lack of snow.

Club Meeting.

The Minneapolis Florists' Club met at the Auditorium at the State Farm at Hamlin, at 7 p. m., Tuesday, December 1. Among the many matters brought up and discussed were a flower show for 1915, which was turned over to a committee, and a dance, to take place in January. W. D. Desmond was asked to look after the dance and select his own committee. The matter of the Minneapolis Florists' Club uniting with the State Florists' Association so as to have a representative on the S. A. F. board of directors is to be taken up at the next meeting. At 8 p. m. the State Florists' Association came into session, with 100 members present. August S. Swanson read an interesting paper on spring-flowering bulbs, suggesting naturalizing bulbs and giving ways of planting, culture and fertilizing soil. Many inquired if we could grow tulip bulbs here, as in Holland, and were answered by A. Swanson, Theo. Wirth and C. B. Livingston, who gave personal experiences. Professor Wm. Moore, of the University Farm, gave a brilliant and interesting lecture on the white grub stock borer and the disease of aster plants which caused the total loss of the aster crop here last summer, stating that the best remedy for green aphis on the roots is a strong dose of a nicotine mixture. "Perennials for the Florist and Gardener" was the paper read by Ernest Meyer.

Various Notes.



The jinx stayed on the fence at the Minneapolis and St. Paul bowling meet until the last four frames, and then he came over to keep Minneapolis company. We were even with St. Paul up to the last four frames. Wm. Vasatka had the highest score. Ernest Farley was not well, and so did not come up to his usual form. W. D. Desmond, captain of the bowling team, said we should have won, but did not.

L. S. Donaldson Co. had a large decoration at the Church of the Redeemer for the Elks' Club. C. B. L.

MANCHESTER, MASS.

The North Shore Horticultural Society held its regular meeting December 4, Vice-president Wetterlow presiding. John Kirkegaard gave an interesting lecture on insects. He spoke on the pests affecting the garden flowers and shrubs, also giving a description of the leopard moth, cankerworm, gipsy and brown-tail moths, elm leaf beetle, spruce gall louse and the white pine blister. It was voted to hold the annual banquet early in 1915, Vice-president Wetterlow appointing a committee of seven to make the arrangements. The library committee submitted a set of rules governing the use of the library, which were adopted. The next meeting will be held December 18.

"UNDER THE SPREADING CHESTNUT TREE"

[Readers are invited to contribute to this column. No story so old that it isn't new to someone, but the fresher the better. No bar against originality. If clippings are sent, add name of paper.]

Mum's the Word.

Other blooms have had their day—
Mister Mum has come to stay
Through the fall and football season,
Till there's such a fearful freezin'
That no self-respecting flower
Could abide it for an hour.
Other flowers, fare you well—
Mum
Has come
With us to dwell.

Other blooms were sweet and fine—
Each was lovely in its line.
Roses blushed and filled the air
With their perfume rich and rare;
Asters, zinnias, marigolds—
Each its place securely holds;
But with joy the news I tell—
Mum
Has come—
And he's some swell!

Bigger than the others are,
Jollier than his brothers are,
Gay with colors, warm and bold,
Mocking at the winter's cold;
Sturdy trunk and shaggy mane,
He shall never coax in vain
For a place on my lapel—
Mum
Has come
To stay a spell.

Concentration.

An Irish truck grower was asked if he used any of the commercial fertilizers on his land.

"No, sorr," he replied. "To my notion there's nothing like the old barnyard kind."

"Nonsense, man," said the other; "the time is coming when a man can carry the fertilizer for an acre of land in one of his waistcoat pockets."

"Maybe it will, sorr," returned Pat. "An' he'll be able to carry the crop in the other pocket, I'm thinkin'."—San Jose Herald.

DETROIT.

The Market.

Business has been fairly brisk in Detroit, especially so when compared with other lines. Christmas shoppers are already making inquiries and there is every indication that shopping, even among the flower stores, will begin early. There is also every indication that this will be a banner Christmas, despite the war in Europe.

Stock remains well cleaned up. Mums are on their last legs and the demand for them has about ceased. Some fine snapdragons and peas are now available, but only in small quantities.

Various Notes.

Many of the retailers are already displaying Christmas baskets and novelties in the windows—and reaping the benefit.

B. Schroeter is showing a fine lot of cyclamens and azaleas in his large windows. His cyclamens are the best in this city by a long way and other retailers have placed orders for all Mr. Schroeter can spare.

Some of the members of the Detroit Florists' Club visited the establishment of John Dinser December 6 and found his stock looking fine. He has some exceptionally good azaleas.

M. Bloy has as fine begonias for Christmas as have been seen in this city. Mr. Bloy recently added a delivery car to his equipment.

The Schroeter-Stahelin Co. has announced the formal opening of the new store for December 15. It is needless to say that all members of the trade are welcome, not only on the opening day but on any other day. Albert J. Stahelin and wife have been in Chicago for a week.

So successful was the recent party given by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Detroit Florists' Club that they not only paid for an addition to the Home for Crippled Children but had enough money left to entertain their husbands at an elaborate banquet Monday evening, November 29. Thirty-eight people were present. Many were called on for remarks and every man present admitted that the next flower show should be managed by the ladies, as they beat the men when it comes to making money out of such an undertaking. E. A. Scribner acted as toastmaster. He complimented Mrs. Plumb and her assistants for their wonderful success. He also had the pleasure of presenting to Albert Pochelon an elaborate desk set on behalf of the ladies, as they have had all their many meetings in Mr. Pochelon's fine studio.

OBITUARY.

Edward J. Inloes.

Edward J. Inloes, father of Mrs. C. E. Critchell, the 1914 president of the Ladies' S. A. F., died at Cincinnati, Wednesday, December 2, in his sixty-fourth year. The burial was on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Critchell has received many expressions of the sincerest sympathy of her many friends in her bereavement.

Nanticoke, Pa.—The Lewis Floristry is the name of a new store, opened by Mrs. Alta Avery Lewis, on South Market street.

NEWS NOTES AND COMMENTS

Sweet Springs, Mo.—A. Widder has sold his business and retired from the florists' trade for the present.

Alton, Ill.—George Madsen, proprietor of the Alton Floral Co., has bought from O. B. Rynders the 10-acre tract on which his greenhouses and dwelling are situated. Mr. Madsen intends building another greenhouse shortly.

Asheville, N. C.—Allison's flower store, adjoining Allison's drug store, was opened November 24 to the public, with music, floral souvenirs, etc. Allison's drug store has had a flower department for several years, and the business has grown to such an extent that now a separate store is required to handle it.

Rochester, Minn.—The recently incorporated R. Bragg Co. has purchased the business, supplies and fixtures of the E. L. Lyman Co. The new retail store in the west end, opposite St. Mary's hospital, will be opened before Christmas. The addition of this store and the enlarging of the company's greenhouses make the facilities of this concern for handling the hospital trade better than ever.

Chittenango, N. Y.—A. R. Ellis has just built a range of three houses, which are twice as large as his other two houses. Business, he reports, is better than ever this year. He recently executed a "gates ajar" design which was the largest piece he ever made, being nearly as high as himself. As superintendent of Oakwoods cemetery, which his houses adjoin, Mr. Ellis is in a position to gather in a large trade.

Springfield, Ill.—Since Wm. Hembreiker and Iles Cole bought the A. C. Canfield place they have made many improvements. A new heating system has been put in, beginning with a new boiler shed and three new eighty-five horse-power boilers. An up-to-date office and salesroom has been opened in connection with the greenhouses, Dora F. Meredith being in charge. Trade has responded promptly and a good business is being done.

Princeton, Ill.—George H. Jennings, foreman of the W. E. Trimble Greenhouse Co., reports that as the mums are off crop now, the rooted cutting department is going ahead with a full force of men, specializing on coleus, alternantheras and English ivy this season. In the cut flower department, business is getting better every day. Roses and carnations are coming in full crop for Christmas trade, especially red roses and red carnations. The night fireman, Chas. Brown, while coming to work two weeks ago, was knocked down by an automobile and badly bruised, but he is doing nicely and will soon be able to resume his duties again.

Galena, Ill.—B. F. Vandervate will shortly open a flower store on Main street, which he will conduct until Christmas.

Austin, Tex.—The business of Olof Olsson, whose obituary appeared in The Review for December 3, is being continued under Mrs. Olsson's management.

Fort Worth, Tex.—George Kennedy, for ten years a wholesale grower here, has opened a store at 703 Houston street, with a full line of cut flowers and plants.

Bradford, Pa.—G. L. Graham has installed a 100-horse-power boiler in addition to the battery already in use at his greenhouse establishment on Seaward avenue.

Fremont, Neb.—Andreason Bros. are tearing out their old boiler house and packing sheds and will build new ones, 40x70 feet. An 80-horse-power boiler is being added to the heating plant.

Negaunee, Mich.—Frank Ashleman, who conducts the City Flower Store, on Iron street, has erected a greenhouse, 28x86, in the rear of his residence, at Merry and Iron streets.

Zanesville, O.—C. L. Humphrey has found that Saturday sales well advertised in the local papers are excellent for moving large quantities of stock. A quarter-page advertisement, November 14, was the principal means of moving 35,000 chrysanthemum blooms, and another November 28 made the Saturday after Thanksgiving a big day, although it is ordinarily an exceedingly bad one for the flower business.

Logan, Utah.—Anthon Pehrson has just finished a greenhouse, 20x100 feet, to be used principally for carnations. Heretofore his energies have been devoted to poultry, fruits and vegetables.

Plattsmouth, Neb.—The addition erected by Stenner Bros. at their greenhouse establishment is completed and being filled with stock. Many improvements have been made in the range during the last summer.

Hutchinson, Kan.—J. G. Lamont, who purchased the property at the corner of Eleventh and Monroe streets some time ago, with the view of erecting greenhouses there, has sold the place to Arthur G. Schroll, for $2,200.

Plymouth, Wis.—Dr. Frank Deerwaldt, proprietor of the Hub City Greenhouses, who a few months ago opened a store in the May building, has closed it, and will conduct the business from the greenhouses as before.

Washington, Ia.—The interest of E. C. Keck in the Keck-Wolf Floral Co. has been purchased by Preston Wolf, son of the present member of the company, Frank T. Wolf. Mr. Keck will remain with the concern for a time. The name of the business will be changed to that of the Wolf Floral Co.

Marshall, Tex.—The Rainbow Floral Co. is preparing to distribute a Christmas folder, the greater part of which is devoted to a little "heart interest" story entitled "It's a Girl," said to have been prepared from a happening at the company's greenhouses last year. The Rainbow concern is one of the largest greenhouse establishments in east Texas. It has 15,000 square feet under glass. The officers are: President, Homer M. Price; vice-president, W. H. Lane; treasurer, W. H. Lane, Jr.

South Orange, N. J.—Dissatisfied with the condemnation commission's award of $25,000 for a strip of its property condemned by the Lackawanna railroad, W. A. Manda, Inc., appealed to the Circuit court at Newark. The jury, which, according to custom, was not informed of the amount of the original award, named the proper sum $17,000 in its verdict. Attorneys for W. A. Manda, Inc., say the case will be carried to a higher court. The land was a strip about 1,000 feet long, varying in width from twenty to sixty-seven feet and comprising a little less than an acre. The railroad expressed its willingness to pay the commission's award, but W. A. Manda, Inc., did not think it a sufficient price for the land, the shutting off of sunlight from some of the greenhouses by the railroad embankment, and the harm done to plants by smoke and gases from passing locomotives.

RESULTS.
We give them. You get them.
We both have them.

CHEAP prices never built up a permanent business. Sell good stock, give good service, and charge a price that will let you maintain quality.

THE grower who is getting the money is the one who grows the newer varieties and does them well; he does not have any more competition than he did when the trade was younger.

THERE always is much complaint at this season of the year regarding weak stems of carnations. A little later the trouble disappears, because, in most cases, it is due to atmospheric conditions.

STRANGE as it may seem, florists still are cashing checks for strangers. One would suppose, after all the items that have been printed about this ancient swindle, that the presentation of a check calling for cash change would be like the sight of a red flag to a railroad engineer.

RULE FOR BEGINNERS.

In picking out a town in which to start a flower business, remember that if you choose a town that has only one industry, be it agriculture, watches, shoes, or automobiles, your flower business will have all the ups and downs of the town's one industry. Find a town that has agriculture and a diversity of industry; there you have a town in which business never will be bad for long.

THE HOOSIER PHILOSOPHER.

I wish to thank The Review for the nice little write-up you gave me in the edition of November 26. I am glad to think I have succeeded in making some friends, but what I am most thankful for is that those I admire most include men of all nationalities. Dave Harum had it right when he said: "The's as much human nature in some folks as th' is in others, if not more."

Notwithstanding all we hear to the contrary these days, nothing can shake my belief that all civilized nations all over the earth produce about the same number of extra specials, seconds and shorts to the square foot. H. Junge.

HONORABLE MENTION.

Not a few subscribers save themselves the bother of annual renewal by sending The Review $2, $3, or sometimes $5, instead of the dollar-bill that insures fifty-two visits of the paper. Among those who have this week enrolled themselves for more than one year in advance are:

TWO YEARS.

Brown, Peter, Lancaster, Pa.
Vatter, Geo., Marinette, Wis.
Darsch, Martin, Terre Haute, Ind.
Leugenfelder, C., Denver, Colo.
Brux, R., Sioux Falls, S. D.
Grande, John, Indianapolis, Ind.
Green, Daniel H., Boonsboro, Md.
Little, John W., Philadelphia, Pa.

The Review stops coming when the subscription runs out. The green notice with the last copy tells the story; no bills are run up; no duns sent.

THE PRICE CUTTER.

The price cutter, like the poor, will always be with us. And the price cutter always will get business. But the price cutter never will be a menace to the florist who offers quality—the price cutter only is dangerous to the man who offers no better stock.

Nobody ever knew quality stock to be sold at cut prices. It happens occasionally, but not regularly. When one man regularly prices his stock below the other fellow it is a fairly safe bet there is about the same difference in the quality, perhaps a little more.

Prices in this trade mean extremely little until one has seen the stock. Be it plants or cut flowers, quality is so variable that it should be the first consideration, not price.

Ninety-nine times out of the hundred, the man who thinks his stock is as good as the other fellow's is not trying to undersell. Quite the opposite: he feels he should get the same money—a little more if his stock is better.

THE SITUATION IN VALLEY.

The war in Europe has upset a lot of calculations on the part of the trade in this country, but no one has found himself farther from the fact than has the man who jumped to the conclusion that the war would shut off supplies of trade commodities. As suggested in The Review of August 6, the opposite has proved to be the case. America has been, if not the only open market, the one in which it seemed most feasible to try to work off the surplus. So America, instead of being starved by the war, has been surfeited with many articles. And now the valley pips are coming. Ordinarily, great quantities of German pips go to England, with lesser quantities to France and Russia. This year they will take none. The surplus, if it does not stay in Hamburg, will come to America. It looks now as though valley, instead of being one of the scarce articles, will be one of the most plentiful of trade commodities as long as the war lasts.

BOUQUET GREEN.

Apparently the quantity of bouquet green picked this season was not so great as in other years, but the decrease does not appear to have been greater than the falling off in demand. It seems likely, however, that the late business will be heavy, this being a season when putting it off seems to be a practice with buyers in all lines.

It looks as though there will be enough good green to go around, but not so much that prices will be unstable. First-class green commands 6 cents to 7½ cents per pound at Chicago, according to quantity bought. There is a large quantity of early picked green that can not be used without dyeing.

One of the largest South Water street houses in Chicago, credited with usually winding about 200,000 yards of light wreathing for the provision trade, is reported as this season cutting the quantity in half.

BUSINESS EMBARRASSMENTS.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Leopold A. Elbers, who not long ago sold the store at 2692 Main street to Charles Sandiford, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the Federal court. He owes $2,799.79 and has assets valued at $507.

Birmingham, Ala.—A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in the Federal court Tuesday, December 1, by the McVay Seed Co., 2018 First avenue. The liabilities of the concern are scheduled at $16,290.49 and the assets at $19,668.09. Dr. R. V. Mobley was appointed by Referee-in-bankruptcy E. M. Dryer as the receiver, to operate the business as a going concern.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

Business has been irregular during the last few days. There would be an occasional spurt, but on the whole sales have not been coming up to last year's record. It must not be forgotten, however, that comparisons made with last season make an especially unsatisfactory showing for the reason that last year was an unusually good one, hardly to be equaled except with extremely favorable conditions.

There has been considerable reduction in the supply of stock since last report. The weather has been almost uninterruptedly dark and gloomy ever since Thanksgiving. It has not been cold, but the lack of sunshine is apparent in the quantity and quality of stock arriving. Chrysanthemums now are practically out of the market, which in itself makes a big reduction in the quantity of flowers handled. Also, carnations are much less abundant than they were. Roses are sufficiently plentiful for the demand, but the supply nevertheless is light. Violets are more plentiful, but they are poor

A Splendid Lot of Stock for Christmas Trade

WE predict that the Christmas trade this year will break all records in the good stores that stock up with fine flowers and push for business—advertise. YOU can sell more than last year.

As our part, we have arranged the largest and most complete supply in this market—all cut flowers in splendid assortment. Novelty Roses, Violets, Beauties, Fancy Carnations, Valley, Cattleyas—these are our leaders. We have established a wide reputation for the QUALITY of our stock and we have every confidence that again this Christmas it will turn out that Amling's flowers gave the best satisfaction of any the retailers handled. Business will be satisfactory with YOU if you use our stock. Order enough.

Our prices are not higher than others ask if able to offer an equal grade of stock. Our "Select" grade is equal to what many offer as their best. Our "Special" and "Extra Special" grades are in a class by themselves.

FANCY ROSES

Note specially our large supply of Killarney Brilliant—the rose that holds its color. We recommend it to those who do not find Killarney satisfactory. Note we have a full line of varieties and all lengths.

KILLARNEY BRILLIANT WHITE KILLARNEY KILLARNEY
BULGARIE (Taft) MRS. WARD MILADY
RICHMOND MRS. RUSSELL OPHELIA SUNBURST

AMERICAN BEAUTIES

You can count on Amling for Beauties—always. We expect to be able to take our usual good care of all orders.

SINGLE VIOLETS DOUBLE

We offer your choice: The cream of the Hudson River doubles, the fine Glencoe home-grown doubles, the fragrant home-grown singles. We supply the largest and most critical Chicago buyers and can supply you.

CARNATIONS

There will be far more Carnations than last year—and most of them will be worth no more than is asked for them. If you want cheap carnations we think you can get them—but you may not be able to use them. To get good, dependable stock that you can sell with confidence, place an advance order with Amling. Nothing finer than our best.

Order some of our White Anemone-flowered Pompons for Christmas. We have all the Specialties, such as fancy Cattleyas, Poinsettias, Valley, Bouvardia, Sweet Peas, Daisies, Mignonette, Bulb Stock and every other flower that's in season.

EASTER LILIES

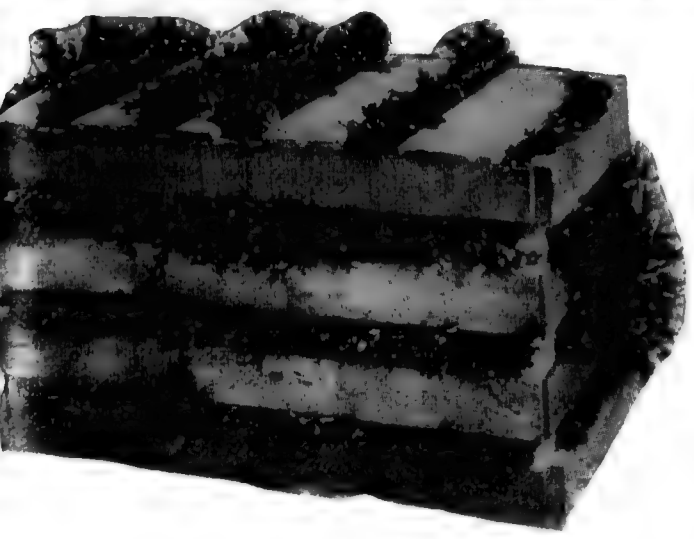
and are selling slowly because of the lack of quality. Paper Whites are in excess of the demand. Valley is plentiful, for the growers no longer have any fear of a shortage of pips and are putting them in sand more freely than heretofore. Sweet peas are less plentiful, even, than before, as the dark weather is causing the buds to drop badly. Stevia is in large supply, but selling quite well.

Beauties have stiffened in price because of the reduced supply and somewhat improved demand. The market was cleaned up December 7, quantities being required for the inauguration of the new county officers. Considering the dark weather, the Beauties now coming in are of quite good quality; some, indeed, are extremely fine. The market is held down, however, by the fact that eastern Beauties again are coming to Chicago.

Strange to relate, Killarney is of somewhat improved color. The loss of color quickly followed the arrival of dark weather and just why color should improve without the return of the sun is a question, but it is a fact that many growers are able to note a betterment. Another interesting feature is the way Russell has gone to pieces in the hands of certain growers. The reason for it is not yet apparent, but will be watched for with great interest, as dozens of growers are planning to stake important sums of money on the rose next season. The deterioration appears to be principally in the short-stemmed flowers, but is more or less apparent in some of the long stock. Killarney Brilliant now is the leader of the market, the bright color giving it first place. Many of the Killarneys have been so bad that the retailers would not buy them at any price, finding them unsalable, while Brilliant generally has good, bright color and sells well. Richmond and Milady also have sold satisfactorily on their color, and Hadley is coming to the front. Sunburst with many growers is poor and Ward has the lead in yellows.



The reduction in the supply of carnations has brought some improvement in the average prices. The stock in general is good, although there are more than a few carnations that are well sold at the cheap quotations some buyers are looking for. The supply is principally Enchantress and white, these two colors predominating in even greater degree than last year. Those who have red are picking as little as circumstances will permit, with Christmas just over the horizon.

Cattleyas are firming up. The market is excellently supplied with gardenias, one grower furnishing the bulk of the stock. Lilies are more abundant than in the last few months.

There are indications of a radical change in the situation as regards boxwood, some of the Virginian shippers having notified jobbers that they can not deliver, and this after it is too late to get freight delivery from other sources. Red berries never were better. There is plenty of fair holly and all other greens are abundant.

Christmas Prospects.

The biggest, broadest-minded retailers are booking their orders for Christmas stock the same as in other years, only arranging for larger supplies than heretofore, but a good many of those who deal in doubt are holding off, waiting to make sure of the demand, or in the hope of a break in the market. However, every day makes it seem less certain that the market will be heavily supplied. Weather conditions since Thanksgiving have been extremely unfavorable for the growers who are behind with their rose crops, while there are many indications that the heavy cuts of carnations are passing off. It is true that in recent years there has always been enough stock for Christmas, but it begins to seem possible that this year there may be a shortage of first-class roses and carnations.

The best judges of trade conditions feel assured that the Christmas business will be extremely heavy. The only fear is that it will all come at the last moment, too late to be handled to the best satisfaction, either by retailers or wholesalers. The effort now being made is to get things started early, for a banner Christmas business cannot be done in two days.

Flowers at County Building.

Many members of the trade made their way to the County building December 7, to offer congratulations to Peter Reinberg on the occasion of his taking office as chairman of the county commissioners and to see the flower show. All the new county officers received a great many flowers, except Henry Stuckart, treasurer, who had announced he did not wish any. Perhaps Mr. Stuckart realized he had taken an unpopular stand, as he provided a large quantity of carnations and decorated the buttonhole of every visitor at his office. The flowers sent to the judges were especially numerous and some of the commissioners had more than ever before. Many were large designs and some were incongruous. Mr. Reinberg's first appointment was Henry Zender as superintendent of public service, a job that pays $6,000 per year.

Various Notes.

S. Freund, sales manager for the A. A. Arnold Paper Box Co., comes in contact with merchants in several lines. He says his business with florists since August 1 has been at least as good as with any other line, while right now it is better, better even than last year. Apparently buyers have delayed ordering but are stocking up for Christmas.

The J. B. Deamud Co. gave up last week; the store at 158 North Wabash avenue, street floor, occupied only a few weeks, is closed, with a rent sign in the window. It marks the passing of another old and once important house, causing general regret.

The Chicago Florists' Club elects officers tonight, December 10, at the Bismarck, and tomorrow night, December 11, gives its annual ladies' night as a dancing party, at the Hotel Sherman. The committee consists of W. J. Keimel, Ed. Enders, Joseph Einweck and G. W. French.

R. G. Kootz, who had charge of the Marshall Field florists' department during its few weeks of existence, has gone to Cincinnati, where he has entered the employment of the Hill Floral Co. He is interested in a store at 121 North Dearborn street, opened on a month to month lease.

A box of cigars went the rounds of the A. L. Randall store December 7, on the return of Casimir Guza from his wedding trip. His bride was Miss Jennette Yagla. It was a church ceremony, performed Thanksgiving eve, and J. A. Mendel put up a pretty decoration for it. Mr. Guza has charge of the Beauties and orchids in the Randall cut flower department and has a large circle of friends who will offer congratulations.

Carl Thomas, who is a good forecaster, says it is a mistake to take it for granted carnations will always be as plentiful as in the last couple of months. He thinks the reduction in supply in the last week may be the start of the other swing of the pendulum. A plant gives only about so many flowers per season.

George Asmus is reducing. A diet that has taken off fifteen pounds of weight also has done wonders with the rheumatism from which he has suffered for several winters.

N. J. Wietor, home from an outing at Clifton, Ill., is nursing a bad cold preparatory to tackling the Christmas rush.

The quarterly meeting of the directors of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association was held at the office on Michigan avenue December 8. The board consists of: President, Edward Meuret; vice-president and treasurer, Charles McCauley; secretary, George C. Weiland; directors, Rudolph Ellsworth, D. Schreiber, Joseph Schoos, Fred Stielow and Frank Schramm. The latter received many expressions of sympathy on the death of his father, Franz Schramm, who was a shipper to the association but not an officer in it. The meeting marked the completion of Paul R. Klingsporn's first year as manager for the association and his work was highly complimented by the board, the showing being considered especially good in view of the general business conditions that have prevailed during the last four months.

Hal Kennicott, son of the late Flint Kennicott, may now be found each day in the office of Kennicott Bros. Co. His home is on an orange grove near Tampa, Fla., where a crop is just being picked, but he may decide to take his father's place in the Kennicott business.

John Michelsen, of the E. C. Amling Co., spent a day last week visiting Crown Point growers.

After a month's trip to the southwest, including the Houston flower show, C. E. Pruner returned home December 4.

French & Salm will plant the three big houses at Union Grove, Wis., with Mrs. Russell rose plants grafted at Plant B of Poehlmann Bros. Co., both members of the new firm continuing in the company's employ until March 1. Mr. French says following the note in The Review announcing their plans they received offers of Russell plants from many growers, especially in the east.

W. A. Arnold, formerly foreman for George Reinberg, has joined the Chicago colony at Los Angeles.

Morton Grove has not gone dry, but it is stated that its largest industry, with nearly 400 employees, has done so, as a matter of policy, during working hours.

Winterson's Seed Store began winding green December 7, putting a force of girls at work in the basement next door formerly occupied by the J. B. Deamud Co.

The Belmont Avenue Business Men's Association has offered a prize for the best Christmas window. One of the entries is that of the Lister Floral Shop, at No. 1008, the decoration being by A. C. Kohlbrand, father-in-law of the proprietor.

C. L. Washburn, who has been studying the carnation situation for several seasons, notes that red is coming to be more in demand each year. Most growers have come to believe red does not pay so well as other colors and have gradually cut down their plantings of red varieties, which may account for the increased calls Mr. Washburn notes.

Quite a bit of excitement was caused on the market December 8, when a 90-foot metal smokestack fell from a derrick on top of the new building at Lake street and Wabash avenue, crashing into the alley in the rear of the Atlas block. The alley, usually filled with wagons and trucks, was clear at the time and no one was hurt. The crash was heard for blocks and business ceased for a time while everyone viewed the wreck.

Into winter quarters again, the three salesmen of L. Baumann & Co. report a prosperous year. F. J. Monahan has gone to his home for the holidays, but G. Reising and L. Biederman, who live in Chicago, are busy meeting customers, who come in to do their buying. F. H. Gelderman, the manager, is kept on the jump at this time of year.

Charles Abbott, of Crown Point, who was ill a large part of the summer, happily has recovered and there are indications that his roses, somewhat neglected during his illness, soon will do likewise.

George Mohn began work December

7 as a salesman for the Fleischman Floral Co.

After spending two years at Denver and a few weeks at Miller's, at McHenry, Ill., Hans Yepson is back in town.

Aloys Frey, at Crown Point, has a white anemone-flowered mum of his own raising that is about the latest of the type to come to market. He expects to cut until New Year's.

D. T. Matchen was in from Indiana Harbor one day last week, buying Christmas supplies. He says all business has been slow there, because of short time at the steel mills, but that it is picking up again.

Norby & Hoefle are cutting their annual late crop of Helen Frick chrysanthemums, with a few White Bonnaffon. They have made a reputation for Frick and some of the flowers are fine this year, but on the whole the crop is not so good as usual, the weather having been too warm.

Frank Wilmer recently sold out his interest in Wilmer & Homeyer, Mt. Prospect, Ill., and the firm now is Homeyer & Haberkamp. Mums and carnations are grown, sold in this market by Kennicott Bros. Co.

The Warren Park Floral Co., incorporated in May, now is ready for business, the active manager being William Scott, for several years a grower for Bassett & Washburn. At 1401 South Sixtieth avenue three 250-foot houses have been built, on a 5-acre tract, and stocked with bedding plants and bulbs. The plan is to do both wholesale and retail business.

A. F. Longren has returned from a business trip in the northwest and says the trade is preparing with confidence for a banner Christmas business.

Erne & Klingel find themselves with so much business that additional floor space rapidly is becoming a necessity.

Fred Hoerber, of Hoerber Bros., expresses a great liking for Russell. Mr. Hoerber says he is anxious to see what effect the next season's cut of Russell will have on Beauty prices, as so many people are planning to grow them.

Ernest Szontagh, 1736 West Forty-seventh street, was kept busy all last week with funeral work. Mr. Szontagh had an order for a large design which was presented to Municipal Court Judge John Stelk on his inauguration.

August Poehlmann says Christmas plants are moving well, especially cyclamen and Dracæna terminalis.

J. Byers, who returned recently from Galesburg and was formerly with the Chicago Carnation Co., is now in the Jackson boulevard store of George M. Perdikas.

Dominick Freres' brother-in-law, Henry J. Phillips, and his wife are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Freres. They are from Hinckley, Minn.

C. W. McKellar predicts that Christmas will be a repetition of Thanksgiving, an excellent business made up largely of late orders.

After five years at 6972 North Clark street, John Didier is preparing to move next week to No. 6973, directly across the street, where much better facilities will be available. Miss Didier has been in charge of the store from its opening day.

A. L. Vaughan says the first five days of December made a new record with him, sales for the five consecutive days topping the banner year of 1913.

O. Johnson smiles with satisfaction

Robert Rahaley, of the Michigan Cut Flower Exchange, Detroit, was a visitor the early part of the week. E. A. Fetters, a prominent Detroit retailer, also visited the local market December 7.

W. C. Zimmermann, of Milwaukee, was a visitor at the store of Zech & Mann December 7.

D. M. Wigle, of Rochester, Minn., was in town December 7 and 8, getting a line on local retail methods.

O. H. Williams, of Olneyville, Providence, R. I., was a visitor at the exhibit of the Kroeschell Bros. Co., at the Boston convention, and evidently made up his mind as to the make of his next boiler, for when firing time came and he discovered that he needed a boiler, he made a flying trip to the Kroeschell factory, in Chicago, selecting a No. 11 to heat his 22,500 square feet of glass. Two hours after the purchase the boiler had started on its journey east.

The Market.

Business conditions seem to have improved to some extent, although not so much as we would like to see at this time of year. Since Thanksgiving, there has been a steady improvement, and business has been a little healthier, but it is not up to normal by any means. It is coming along, however, and the outlook is excellent for Christmas trade. Prices will probably not be quite so high as in previous years, but there will probably be a large quantity of stock to be disposed of. Some fine holly is on the market and is being sold quite reasonably. Christmas wreathing, ruscus and supplies of like nature are already moving well, and it is gratifying to see the retailers a little more optimistic and willing to buy. This is always a good sign, because their spirit is generally an indication of the public's buying propensities.

The supply of roses is limited and it is hard to take care of large orders, but the color is good and little trouble is experienced in disposing of the crop. The supply of carnations is just about equal to the demand at this time. They are improving in quality every day and the prospects for Christmas are bright, as an extremely large crop is anticipated.

Violets are not nearly so plentiful as they should be, and, consequently, the entire cut is disposed of readily at medium prices. There are no lilies in the market now, and it is not expected that they will make their appearance for Christmas. Valley was unusually plentiful last week, but as the stock was exceptionally fine, the cut moved well at good prices.

Various Notes.

At the banquet for the ladies during the pea canners' convention last week, the tables were decorated with clusters of violets, and the appearance was quite beautiful. At the conclusion of the dinner, these clusters were found to be made up of bunches of fifty flowers, done in the form of a corsage, and each lady was the recipient of one of these charming favors. The idea was unusual and the originator is to be congratulated on its successful execution.

The Market.

The supply at the wholesale market since Thanksgiving has been good and the demand in general excellent, with prices not out of reason. Including December 7, we have had five days of dark, cloudy weather and rain, which did not help business any. The transient trade of the downtown retailers slumped greatly. The uptown retailers had a considerable number of social events to furnish, which kept them busy a few days. Generally speaking, business is not what it should be at this time of the year. The cut stock is of good quality and not overabundant in any line. A fair supply of roses in all varieties can be had daily. Carnations, too, are coming along nicely, with the fancies cleaning up almost daily. Chrysanthemums still are coming in, but only in limited quantities. The varieties are Eaton, Chadwick and Jones. The dark days have a bad effect on sweet peas, as the buds are dropping, and a scarcity of these is expected for Christmas. Violets, too, are few. Cold, clear weather is needed for these. Other flowers, such as lilies, valley and Paper

Whites, are in good supply and demand. In greens the market is as usual.

Various Notes.

The new building of the St. Louis Seed Co., at 411 Washington avenue, is nearly completed. According to the officers of the company, January 1 will be the moving day. This will put them just right for the spring trade.

December 3 the spring flower show committee met at the home of W. C. Smith and prepared plans, which will be submitted to the members of the Florists' Club for approval. All members of the committee were present.

The floral display at the Missouri Botanical Garden this month will be blooming plants of Christmas colors. Poinsettias and Lorraine begonias will be the most prominent plants shown. The arrangement of these by Max Schiller is perfect.

The County Growers' Association held an interesting monthly meeting December 2, and discussed the growing of chrysanthemums and the prospects for stock for the coming holidays. The meeting was well attended.

William Sanders is now the buyer in the wholesale district for the Grand avenue store of the Mullanphy Flower Co. He has been connected with the florists' business for a number of years and should make good at his new duties.

The C. Young & Sons Co., as is usual at this time of the year, is displaying a great lot of finely grown poinsettias in pans, dressed up in Christmas regalia. Their Waterman avenue branch is also making attractive displays.

The Walsh reception, December 4, was one of the largest social events of the season. The floral decorations were large and were furnished by Fred H. Weber.

The wholesale houses are making preparations for handling florists' Christmas supplies. They report that last week was quite a busy one, owing to the demand from the local trade.

Here is Paddy Patton's latest:

A little holly now and then
Is relished by the married men;
But tastes of maidens well you know—
They lean toward the mistletoe.

Henry Emunds, of Belleville, Ill., had another good season in chrysanthemums of the late varieties. He is still cutting fancy W. H. Chadwick and Golden Chadwick and says there will be some to cut for Christmas.

George Waldbart, who was a victim in a recent holdup, is up and about again. His many scalp wounds are nearly healed. He says that the next time an attempt is made to hold him up, you will read of his killing a robber and not being held up by one.

Peter Bisset, of Washington, D. C., connected with the Foreign Seed and Plant Introduction, U. S. Department of Agriculture, was a visitor recently. He spent most of the time at the Missouri Botanical Garden. Mr. Bisset is well known in S. A. F. circles.

Ostertag Bros. have rented the corner store next to them. They will use it as a Christmas annex and may, after the first of the year, occupy the corner as their permanent location.

August Hummert, vice-president of the St. Louis Seed Co., reports that the stork paid him a visit last week and left a fine baby girl. Mr. Hummert was in good humor all the week over the event.

The trustees of the Florists' Club held a meeting at Windler's last week and arranged for an entertainment and dance for members and their families and friends, to be given early in January. Members of the club are to be the entertainers. J. J. B.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

The month of December has started wonderfully well and business is getting where it ought to be. However, it still lacks something of the snap which it ought to have at this season. The weather has been unseasonably mild, but dances, receptions and other social functions are becoming more popular. As Christmas approaches, the stores are being transformed into masses of red and green decorations. The florists are all planning and preparing for the extra rush, every available minute being used in the making of baskets filled with artificial goods, boxwood wreaths and balls. It is the general feeling that business will be pretty good, notwithstanding the bad conditions caused by the war, and most stores have laid in an extra quantity of supplies.

Large shipments of all kinds of stock are arriving daily. Trade has been good in the last few days and large calls have been made for most kinds of flowers. Roses are fine, with good, long stems and good foliage, and are making a little better prices. Mrs. Shawyer, Sunburst and Ward are still the leaders. Beauties are good, but the demand is not great. Easter lilies are in fine condition and are meeting with an increased demand. Valley is also fine, but the supply is often greater than the demand. Carnations are arriving in larger shipments and are selling freely. Orchids are unusually good and sell well. The supply of sweet peas is not large. Large, fancy pink snapdragons are in the market and move well. Stevias, Paper Whites, Romans and forget-me-nots are among the finer flowers. Chrysanthemums are plentiful in all colors and the prices are lower. Cut poinsettias are also plentiful, but do not sell rapidly. Violets are moving better and are of the finest quality. The supply of greens meets all requirements.

Various Notes.

Among the visitors last week were Thomas Cogger, of N. F. McCarthy & Co., Boston; T. Collie, of Burnett Bros., New York, and J. Bachman, of the Plantlife Co., New York.

An interesting wedding took place November 23, the contracting parties being Miss Eleanor Reese and Frank Peartree, both of whom have been in the employ of George T. Boucher for several years. A short trip to Buffalo and Niagara Falls was taken. Both Mr. and Mrs. Peartree are well known in florists' circles and the trade wishes them success and happiness.

Miss Mildred Perry, of J. B. Keller Sons, has been quite ill with pneumonia, but is improving nicely. Oliver Mixner, of H. E. Wilson's greenhouse store, is ill with the same trouble, but he also is gaining.

Milton Selinka, of Schloss Bros., New York, was in town last week, showing some fine novelties in corsage holders with silk fringe, for which he was taking large orders.

George T. Boucher's East avenue window is unusually attractive at present. The bottom of the window, which has been temporarily enlarged, is covered with green moss, with vases of Paper Whites growing in stones. The pergola is covered with hundreds of poinsettias and other greens. Boxwoods and a green fence form a good background. Business, Mr. Boucher says, is good.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

Winter is the pronounced feature of the market for the week ending December 9. Perhaps it might better be said, from summer to winter, for this would pretty nearly cover the variation in temperature, to say nothing of the change from clear to dark days, with rain, sleet and snow. Business has not been good; that is, not good for December. There have been good days, but there have also been poor ones, not generally expected now. The out-of-town demand has furnished the mainstay of the market, with only fair local support. Prices have been weak and irregular, excepting for certain things, usually of fine quality or that are produced in small quantity. There are no special features to the market, unless it be the gradual disappearance of the chrysanthemums, which really may not entirely disappear before the close of the month.

There is great activity in Christmas green, holly, boxwood, lycopodium and, to a lesser extent, mistletoe. The supply appears ample and of good quality, with prices about the same as last season.

The December Meeting.

The Florists' Club decided, in honor of the out-of-town lecturer, that the meeting December 1 should be held in the lecture room of Horticultural hall instead of in the clubroom. Vice-President Gracey was in the chair. After routine business, Charles Henry Fox, chairman of the essay committee, introduced the speaker of the evening in a few well chosen words. Prof. Sheldon, chief of the Sheldon school, spoke on "Business Building," including salesmanship. The speaker is a lecturer of marked ability, who put in words what many of his hearers know, and a great deal more. The grouping of the members in the room was rather curious. The entire right was filled by those in power and their friends; the left, presumably by the opposition, while between these two wings there was a space. The rear was adorned by a choice evergreen exhibit from Adolph Muller's De Kalb Nurseries at Norristown that was suggestive of home adornment and Christmas trees.

Ideas.

The substance of an interview with George S. Hampton behind the gold-lettered green shades at Joseph G. Neidinger's store:

"It seems to me that our florists do not make the use they should of their show windows. Now there is James Brown, who is out on a main thoroughfare in this city: He puts plants in his window and little else. There are no prices on them, nothing to attract transient trade. The shoe store nearby has prices on its shoes; something to tell people just what they can get and what it will cost. I asked Mr. Brown why he did not put up some made-up baskets in his window. He said: 'Baskets don't sell here; I have a lot left.' I asked him where they were. He found a half dozen hidden away somewhere. I told him that neither he nor anybody else could sell baskets that way. Too many florists decorate their windows as though for a home week. They are beautiful to look at, but of what use are they? Suppose they filled their windows with, let us say, little tumbler baskets, forty or fifty of them prettily arranged with a price clearly marked. Then the window would sell something, and keep on selling as they change and vary the offers from time to time. Then take the waste of a blank wall for a customer to gaze upon while an order of flowers is being put up; think of the opportunity lost. The blank wall should have some pretty things, priced, on display, that might create a want then or later. Look at this little basket of rambler roses. Only muslin-made flowers, but a man saw them the other day, bought 100 and then sent for 250 more. He used them in his window. There are lots of such chances. I want to say that business is good. All this talk about poor business seems to me a joke. The florists are buying more Christmas stock now than they bought last year."

color far exceeds all other good qualities in importance. The ideal Christmas plant must have grace, form, perfect foliage, an appearance of good culture and as many more good qualities known to the expert, but without color it won't do. White is passed by; dull colors are scorned; soft pinks, bright pink and—best, far best of all—red in all the brilliant shades, are eagerly sought. Ferns have their place at Christmas; a few foliage plants in green and more in green and white are wanted, but foliage plants of bright hue, and, foremost of all, foliage plants with red blotches or streaked or striped, are in the van.

Norwood is the Mecca for plant color in December; so to Norwood go to see a sight worth seeing. A great house of begonias literally covered with pink buds and bloom is a glorious treat to see. Half or thereabouts are Cincinnati, the other half Lorraine, the Lonsdale type most prominent. Robert Craig considers this form of Lorraine the finest begonia today. He has grown them to perfection. The specimen plants, pedestal-grown, are beautiful in size and form and color. Cyclamens are better this year than ever before. His plants are marvelously perfect. The improvement lies in the number of flowers borne by each plant, and in their fine, clear color. White is little grown in cyclamens, save only the pink-eyed whites. Red, pink and salmon pink are the shades most favored. Poinsettias are in larger supply this month than in years gone by. They range in size from the little Septemberstruck chappies, useful for basket work and for pans, to the tall, early-struck plants with large bracts of bright scarlet. Many of them are made up with asparagus, their closest friend.

The croton gives a variety and richness of color for Christmas work that is afforded by no other foliage plant. The croton that combines red with the other colors is most highly prized. Norwood Beauty is one of the most charming crotons imaginable when well colored, combining grace with color of rich profusion. There are crotons of every age and size.

Perhaps the most striking are the large combinations. They are made up with a view to color harmony and are wonderfully decorative. Fancy a large tub completely filled with crotons that stand several feet high, forming a mass of rich, bright color and graceful waving leaves. You see such a sight at Norwood, where rows of pedestals are topped by these splendid croton bushes, suggestive of tropical growth.

The dracæna vies with the croton as a Christmas foliage plant. Perhaps the dracæna is a quieter rival; you may think so until you see those wonderfully colored tablefuls of terminalis and amabilis. They are a revelation. When you become enthusiastic over them you will wonder why the dracæna is not first, as you successively see Craigii and Lord Wolseley and Mandaiana and the peerless Massangeana, the greatest specimen dracæna of them all.

The impression left on the mental horizon by the houses at Norwood is that Christmas in many homes, both far and near, will be brightened by bits of cheering color, no matter how dark and dreary and cold it may be outside.

RECEIVER'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE of PHOENIX NURSERY COMPANY

BY VIRTUE OF AN ORDER and decree of the Circuit Court of McLean County, Illinois, on the 5th day of November, A. D. 1914, I, John Y. Chisholm, Receiver of Phoenix Nursery Company, will sell at public auction to the highest and best bidder, at 2 o'clock P. M., on at the east door of the Court House in Bloomington, Illinois, the Real Estate of the Phoenix Nursery Company, comprising a trifle over 65 acres, nearly all of which is located within the city limits of Normal, Illinois (a suburb of Bloomington and connected by street car).

This is one of the oldest and best-known nurseries in the United States, with a patronage in nearly every State and Territory in the Union.

There are located on these grounds: Greenhouses, with about 60,000 feet of glass, heated by steam; large Barns, Sheds and Cribs; also very large Packing House and two large frost-proof Cellars, besides Grafting and Propagation Houses, Office and other buildings.

A part of this property would make an ideal addition to Normal if not desired to use in connection with the Nursery. The Receiver will offer the property in Parcels and also as a Whole. The Receiver invites personal inspection of property prior to date of sale and will be pleased to answer any inquiries concerning same.

Address JOHN Y. CHISHOLM, Receiver

BALTIMORE.

The Market.

The unseasonably warm weather of last week opened a considerable extra quantity of stock and, coupled with an off demand, the market was on the verge of a small sized glut. Roses and carnations were the slowest movers; the latter could be bought for the proverbial song, but not many sold. The chrysanthemum supply is shortening a great deal, but there are enough for all demands. The annual German of the Bachelors' Cotillion Club, held December 7, caused a good demand for Beauties, orchids, gardenias, pink roses and violets, but there was plenty of stock, other than first grade pink roses. A number of retailers found it necessary to spend some time on Sunday in filling their orders and the local commission houses were open until noon Sunday for the storekeepers' convenience, a thing which seldom happens in this city.

Various Notes.

Charles J. Bolgiano, who was operated on for appendicitis November 8, has recovered sufficiently to permit his removal from the Union Protestant Infirmary to his home in Roland Park.

The new store of Pierce & Co., appropriately named the House of Flowers, is rapidly nearing completion and will be ready for occupancy by December 15. The building is unique in its design and the entire arrangement is novel and harmonious and entirely in keeping with its name.

The Leo Niessen Co. has been showing Afterglow, a darker Fireflame. It is an attractive color and should prove a valuable addition to the list of novelties.

Samuel Feast & Sons had quite a number of spiræas in bloom lately, which attracted much attention when put on display.

William Terry, of Owings Mills, has purchased the store of Pierce & Co.,

Michigan Cut Flower Exchange

264-266 Randolph St., Detroit, Mich.

1137 West Baltimore street, and took possession December 5. The entire staff will be retained under the new management.

The Pennock-Meehan Co. reports an excellent sale for red chenille wreaths for Christmas.

James Morgan has taken over the store formerly owned by Mrs. Christian, at 2630 East Baltimore street.

E. W. Pierce is optimistic regarding business prospects and says this season will be better than any we have had for some time.

Matthew Richmond will shortly begin tearing down the greenhouses which front on Erdman avenue, which will greatly improve the property. To replace the bench space he will erect two houses 35x150 alongside those of the same size erected about two years ago some distance back from the street, giving him quite a good-sized range of glass of modern and up-to-date construction.

The first Monday German always creates quite a stir in local retail circles and many call it the opening of the social season here. The demand for flowers this year was a little less than formerly, although John Cook, Mrs. Mary Johnston and Samuel Feast & Sons say they were exceptionally busy.

A comparison of the volume of business done by the local commission houses for the month of November, 1913 and 1914, brought out the fact that the money was about even, but the quantity of stock handled this year was far ahead, showing good business but rather a decline in the standard of prices, the cause of which can best

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

The Market.

In the last three weeks we have had a great variety of weather, from the coldest in forty years, for a few days, to about the warmest in that length of time. Thanksgiving day the ground was white with snow from a 5-inch fall a few days before.

The trade for the holiday was fair; in some cases it exceeded that of last year. However, money seemed to be scarce, and more charging was done. Flowers were plentiful. Mums were excellent. Major Bonnaffon still holds the lead in yellow; Golden Chadwick is not far behind. For good whites, Chadwick and Eaton were in the lead, and in pink Maud Dean and December Gem.

Carnations are looking fine, but are rather soft and are poor keepers. The demand exceeds the supply. Paper Whites are a drug on the market and the wholesalers almost have to give them away. Roses look fine. Hadley is a hard one to beat. Some Mock are to be seen. Street venders did a large business for the holiday.

Azaleas have made their appearance, but there is not much demand for them.

Various Notes.

F. F. Sheehan reports trade good for Thanksgiving and ahead of last year.

S. A. Saunders is having his delivery car newly painted and is busy getting ready for Christmas trade.

Carnations are in full crop at N. F. Higgins' greenhouses and some fine Enchantress, in three colors, and White Wonder are being cut. Some fine poinsettias for Christmas trade are coming along nicely. F. J. C.

PAGES OF RETAILERS' CARDS

THIS department for the cards of Leading Retail Florists—those florists who have the facilities for filling the orders sent them by other florists—has made possible the recent rapid development of this branch of the business, a branch of the trade now established for all time and so helpful that its volume will keep on increasing for many years.

Are you sending and receiving your share of these orders? You can send your share (and make 20 per cent profit without effort) if you let your customers know you can perform this service for them. To receive your share—well, The Review's department for Retailers' cards remains the one way of getting prompt action on the order in hand.

To be represented costs only 70 cents per week on a yearly order. This is for one-inch space. Other spaces in proportion.

Why not send your order today—now—before you forget it?

Gentlemen:-

We have been making a careful study of results obtained through our various advertising mediums, and, among the trade papers, we have found that we are obtaining the best results from the Florists' Review.

During the Convention in Boston, many visitors who came to our booth to inspect our advertising display mentioned the fact that they have seen a great deal of our advertising in the Florists' Review.

After careful investigation we are satisfied that yours is the leading Trade Paper and that the best results from advertising may be obtained by using its columns.

Yours very truly,

Penn the Florist.

The Market.

For two or three days after Thanksgiving business held up well. Since then a decided, all-around slump has taken place, and conditions are decidedly bad. We had hoped that the worst was over, but now there seems to be no backbone to the market at all. Various causes are assigned for the unsatisfactory state of things, such as the open weather, abundance of chrysanthemums and reaction after the little Thanksgiving boom, but none of these causes is the real one.

Chrysanthemums continue in heavy supply and are selling unprofitably. Many growers say they will have a good cut for Christmas; some, even later. Fine Bonnaffons, which should sell at $2 per dozen, make 75 cents to $1 with difficulty. Some nice Nonin, Jerome Jones and Chadwick are seen, and an abundance of pompons.

Carnations were surely never sold at such absurdly low December prices before; $1 per hundred for many, $2 for fine flowers and $3 for the most select. The quality is splendid, but the demand is weak. Roses are selling just as poorly as carnations, and, with the exception of Ophelia, Russell, Hadley, Ward and Stanley, which clean up quite well, all varieties are decidedly druggy. Violets are lower, and, were the singles not blooming poorly, would be in an even worse condition. Sweet peas are quite good; so is valley, but sales are low.

Abundantly prepared at all times.

Lilies are low in price—but why continue the story? We all hope a change for the better is near and will be lasting. Among miscellaneous flowers, pansies are good. English primroses and wallflowers are arriving in small lots. Asparagus is weak. Pot plant trade shows more activity, and some of the large growers are already pretty well sold out.

Various Notes.

Robert Montgomery, of Natick, is one of the best rose growers for the Boston market. This season Killarney Brilliant is doing well with him; so are Hadley, Richmond, Killarney, White Killarney, Russell, Ward and Sunburst. Mr. Montgomery will grow one house of carnations next season instead of chrysanthemums.

I am sorry to report William H. Elliott on the sick list. Mr. Elliott was operated on at the Charlesgate hospital a few days ago for hernia and is still there, but convalescing nicely. His many friends in the trade hope soon to see him around again.

John W. Foote had some grand Bouvardia Humboldtii with 36-inch stems December 5. Mr. Foote has a form with more rounded foliage and larger flowers than the old Humboldtii. He has no trouble in disposing of all he produces to the high-class stores.

The Needham Conservatories specialize heavily in nephrolepis in variety, and cyrtomiums, and have a splendid stock for the holiday season. They also have well flowered double scarlet geraniums.

Andrew Christensen, of Stoneham, still finds the old Queen a profitable white carnation to grow. He likes Matchless well as a keeper, but doubts if it will bloom as freely as White Wonder. Benora, Beacon, Yellowstone, Pink Delight, Enchantress and White Enchantress are some of his other specialties.

William H. Carr is handling a splendid lot of begonias, azaleas, primulas, ardisias and other Christmas plants for the W. W. Edgar Co., where stock was never in better shape than now.

John McFarland showed a fine spike of a cattleya hybrid at the Boston Cooperative Market December 5. It is a cross between C. Lawrenceana and C. Dowiana and its immense fringed lip resembles one of the brasso-cattleyas. Mr. McFarland's big stock of poinsettias is in prime shape for Christmas.

The J. A. Budlong & Son Co., of Auburn, R. I., is now cutting a fine lot of Beauty roses. Ophelia, Mock, Stanley and Killarney Queen are particularly good. This concern does not care particularly for Killarney Brilliant. The mum crop is now all cut.

We are still nine inches below our average precipitation here. The weather bureau has threatened us with numerous rain storms all summer and fall, but few have materialized.

Charles Rapp, of Melrose Highlands, is one of our successful commercial orchid specialists. He has been cutting some grand Cattleya Trianæ of late. Mr. Rapp believes in cattleyas getting plenty of light and air.

The club landscape gardening classes will meet in future on Wednesday instead of on Tuesday evenings, at 7 o'clock in Horticultural hall. A fine class of students has been secured.

elect of the S. A. F., Patrick Welch, has been under the doctor's care, with a form of rheumatism, for a few weeks. A few days ago I had a letter from him full of eagerness to help the S. A. F., and I am glad to report that he is improving.

Herman Waldecker, of Braintree, has a fine crop of Spencer sweet peas now. He is still cutting exceptionally fine Bonnaffon mums.

The present parlous condition of the cut flower trade is causing a renewal of the agitation for the provision of additional outlets for the surplus. Efforts are under way to try to interest some of the big department stores in cut flowers.

Penn had an extensive wedding decoration at the Copley-Plaza hotel, December 4. December 5 the firm had numerous floral designs for the funeral of Mrs. Geo. E. Brock, wife of the chairman of the Boston school committee. The business at this store has grown so much that there are now three telephone lines and twelve instruments, with a lady operator constantly in attendance.

Harvey W. Cotton, who opened a flower store at 406 Center street, Newton, near the railroad station, reports business satisfactory.

At Carbone's, specimen camellias and Otaheite oranges are largely used in the window displays, in addition to oncidiums and other orchids. He will use Ophelia roses heavily in a decoration at Newport, R. I., December 10.

At Galvin's, business holds up well. December 3 was a busy day with funeral orders. The firm had casket covers for J. Arthur Beebe, Lucius H. Tuttle and J. L. Devens, all prominent wealthy citizens, in addition to many other designs. I noted the first English primroses here December 5.

The Fruit Hill Greenhouses, of Providence, R. I., are sending W. H. Carr fine shipments of white and pink sweet peas at present.

Do not forget the meeting of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club December 15. Every member should come out and vote, and enjoy the stereopticon lecture on "Greenhouse Construction," by W. R. Cobb. W. N. C.

BUFFALO, N. Y.

The Market.

Business was somewhat quiet last week, perhaps because of the disagreeable, rainy weather which prevailed throughout the week. There was, however, considerable funeral work. Carnations are abundant and cheap, but their quality is unsatisfactory, as they become soft and sleepy soon after being cut. The warm weather is the cause of this condition. Really good carnations are scarce. Chrysanthemums continue to arrive, but are soft and show brown petals in a short time. The Eatons, Maud Dean, Golden Wedding and Jones are the best varieties just now. A few pompons are still coming to the market. It is the wish of every florist that the mums will soon be over, as their quality is so poor. Roses are overabundant and sell at low figures. Paper Whites are arriving in big lots; so are stevias, sweet peas, lily of the valley, mignonette, etc. American Beauties, which have been small for the last two weeks, are much improved and the specials bring fancy prices. Easter and calla lilies are available in large shipments.

Various Notes.

The Hengerer department store decoration and the J. N. Adams Christmas decoration were done by A. J. Reichert.

The store formerly conducted by Rachel M. Rebstock, at 614 Main street, was purchased by S. A. Anderson November 30. It was restocked with plants, palms and ferns and the business now is run on a new basis. The trade wishes Mr. Anderson success in his new venture. The great fascination of flowers and her love for the work has induced Mrs. Johnson, formerly Rachel Rebstock, to return to the old stand, where she is now in charge for Mr. Anderson.

L. H. Neubeck has a stock of choice cyclamens which are certainly wonderful. They are grown in his greenhouses at Williamsville. His skimmias, full of bright red berries and potted in jars with holly ferns, are exceedingly attractive; so are his begonias and boxes of Easter lilies.

J. G. Pickelman finds trade good. He has had considerable funeral work recently.

H. S. Baker and wife, who are growers at Warsaw, N. Y., were in town last week. They are looking for a good late yellow mum to grow next year, one that will surpass Golden Wedding and others.

W. J. Palmer & Son have two good-sized weddings booked for early dates.

The orders call for large bride's bouquets. They are handling a fancy line of orchids.

Jerry Brookins, of Orchard Park, is producing some extra fine orchid peas, which are finding a ready sale here.

Visitors: Milton Selinka, of Lion & Co., New York; William Craig, Philadelphia.

There is a great tendency among our leading florists to undersell the bridal bunches and shower bouquets to prospective grooms, etc. A first-class bridal shower ought to bring $15 to $20, and those containing orchids, $25 to $35. One can sell a bride's bouquet for $20 as easily as for $5, but a great many clerks make the big mistake of saying that their firm can make a bride's bouquet for $5 and up, and at once the prospective buyer is attracted by the low price and buys the cheapest possible arrangement. Let us put a high value on wedding flowers. It is easy to come down in prices, but not quite so easy to go up.

Blue marguerites, Scotch heather, calendulas and lavender cosmos are some of the specialties which Stroh's Flower Shop is showing this week. They also have the first Vander Cruyssen azaleas in bloom this season.

The downtown stores have begun to display their Christmas stock and to advertise their Christmas specialties, thus making an early beginning for holiday trade.

The Market.

The fortnight has been a good one from every point of view. Trade has been all that could have been expected, and everyone feels that there is every reason to look for a general revival of business. In fact, prosperity is in the air, and everywhere we find business boosters. If agitation will bring business, it must arrive soon. There were 1,500 plates laid at a prosperity banquet here last week, and our florists received their share in advance in the way of providing the elaborate decorations.

Thanksgiving, with its annual football game, brought such a rush of business that things were cleaned up closely all over the city. Chrysanthemums have been especially plentiful, but they will be so no longer. All good stock is cleaned up. The consensus of opinion is that business was as good this Thanksgiving as it was a year ago. This is encouraging, as trade had not been normal for several months.

Three days' rain has cleared away and we are having warm, clear weather. This should mean good bulb business. The late bulb business has not been so good as had been expected, and there is a surplus in the hands of some of the dealers, especially the seedsmen. The rains promise a revival of the late field-seed business, which almost stopped a month ago.

There is an unusually large space planted in sweet peas here this season, mostly of the new and improved varieties, but they will come in late. Most of them will not arrive in time for Christmas.

There will be a wider range of plants forced for Christmas and Easter here this season than last. More holly and other high-class shrubbery have been received here this season than ever before. Most of this stock is already in the hands of our growers.

Various Notes.

At the Joy Floral Co. greenhouses I saw a large consignment of the best holly that has ever been received in this city. The last two seasons this firm has been selling a few of these and the demand last season seemed to warrant the increased supply. Their poinsettias are as good as I have ever seen, but they are mostly ready for sale now and will require careful treatment to keep till the holidays.

McKay, Reece & Co. are preparing to move their seed store the first of the year. They will be only a few doors from the location they have held for years, but they say they will have better storage room in the new place. They will not handle bulbs and plants in the future.

Geny Bros. have been unusually busy during the last week. They say that the last fortnight has made up for a great deal of the slack business of the earlier fall. Now that they have had time to count up their Thanksgiving business, they find it rather better than last season.

McIntyre Bros. have a good supply of both pot and cut mums yet. They report that they will have all that they can sell for some time yet.

The city parks have been thoroughly overhauled during the last few weeks, trees doctored, new planting done and bedding stock dug and stored. I understand that there will be considerable new planting done next year. This city is coming to be noted for its beautiful parks.

Haury & Sons continue to do a good business with their wagon. The store is in excellent shape this fall. F. B.

...THE...
Chrysanthemum
By Arthur Herrington
Formerly president Chrysanthemum Society of America.

The most complete and comprehensive work on the cultivation of the chrysanthemum that has yet been published in America. Its scope and character may be gleaned from the list of contents, which comprises chapters on composts; planting; benches, boxes or pots; general cultural details; crown and terminal buds; feeding, its object and application; care of the buds; exhibition and judging; specimen plants, plants in pots; raising from seed and hybridizing; sports; hardy chrysanthemums; chrysanthemums for south and west; insect pests and diseases; classification and selection of varieties for special purposes; history of the chrysanthemum, etc. The book will be welcomed for the lucid, comprehensive, as well as the practical character of its contents. Handsomely illustrated. 168 pages, 5x7 inches. Price 50c postpaid.

Seed Trade News.

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.

President, Lester L. Morse, San Francisco, Cal.; Secretary-Treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

Thirty-third annual convention, San Francisco, Cal., 1915.

REPORT of the bankruptcy of the McVay Seed Co., of Birmingham, Ala., will be found in this week's issue under the head of Business Embarrassments.

THE man who is after the southern trade is crowding the printers these days, for the catalogues for the cotton states must be in the mails within a fortnight or so.

IT is said 5,000,000 gladiolus bulbs were lost in the fire that destroyed the storage house of B. Hammond Tracy, Wenham, Mass., reported in The Review of November 26.

SUTTON & SONS, Reading, England, have equipped a rifle range on their trial grounds and 212 of their employees are practicing marksmanship. Seventy others already have joined the colors.

THE war in Europe is helping rather than hurting the seed business of the Rocky Ford, Colo., concerns. Five tons of cucumber seed were shipped to Holland in one week recently, and orders are steady.

SEED growers in the south of France appear to be not at all alarmed over the question of labor for the 1915 crops, but fear that a surplus of 1914 crops will discourage the cultivation of the usual acreage next year.

IT appears there has been a trend toward catalogue economy this season. Mailing lists have been checked up and pruned and in many cases the size of the books as well as the size of the editions is being cut down. It is the elimination of waste, nothing more.

THE big seed houses have carried a two years' supply of such seeds as do not deteriorate, for several reasons, and were less alarmed regarding 1915 than about 1916 supplies when the European war broke out. It now appears that the "no trading with the enemy" regulations of the several seed producing nations will make it possible for American houses to procure of the 1914 crops all the seeds that will be required for 1916.

THE arrival of the trade's standard catalogues is awaited with more than usual interest this year, because of the many new factors in the situation. Some houses that have issued books just over eight ounces in weight are cutting down to get inside the flat rate limit, while others, not feeling able to reduce, are taking advantage of the right to mail sixteen ounces as cheaply as ten or twelve. Also the contents of the books will be of unusual interest, because of the influence of the parcel post, the European war, the bad bean crop, the recent business depression and other factors.

THE members of the trade in England have done vastly more grumbling than have Americans about the Dutch bulb situation, perhaps with cause. England, it appears, has been flooded with bulbs placed on the market through other than the ordinary trade channels.

AN American firm in South America having connections with city and country merchants solicits correspondence with seed houses desiring representation in that country. Correspondence in English or Spanish may be had through the Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C.

CHARLES J. BOLGIANO, of J. Bolgiano & Son, who has been confined at the Union Protestant Infirmary, Baltimore, since November 8, following an operation for appendicitis, has improved to such an extent that he has gone to his home in Roland Park and expects to be at business within the next week or so.

VALLEY CONSIGNMENTS LARGE.

There were few consignments of valley on the steamer Frederik VIII, which reached New York from Copenhagen December 3, but each one of them was large, and so the number of cases totaled over 1,000. Now that shipments have started to come, valley pips, like all the other European importations of which a shortage was threatened, will probably be in large supply. The enemies of Germany will have nothing to do with the products of that nation, no matter by what devious routes they reach the markets of the allied nations. Holland bulbs were neutral; the warring countries had no compunction about receiving them, although, of course, their purchases were far less than in other years. Of valley pips, a German product, horticulturists of the allied nations will accept not one case, though they came by way of the antipodes. It is a fair assumption, therefore, that the United States will have, at the least, all the valley pips its market will absorb, even though present receipts are behind those of the corresponding date a year ago. The consignments on the Frederik VIII were as follows:

TIME ELEMENT IN CONTRACT.

In holding that a buyer of onion sets was not entitled to refuse delivery of them under a shipment made by the seller February 11, although the contract of sale contained a provision that shipment should not be made later than February 10, the Springfield, Mo., Court of Appeals decided, in the case of Kirkeby & Gundestrup Seed Co. vs. White, 153 Southwestern Reporter 279, that the question whether the time for delivery fixed by a sale contract is an essential element must be determined after considering the intention of the parties as manifested by all the language used in the agreement, and the surrounding circumstances. Accordingly, it was decided by the court that in this case the fact that the contract contained a provision that if the sets should be shipped after February 10 the price would be 5 cents more per bushel, and another clause to the effect that the seller would assemble the

Fall Delivery, 1915

The following prices are for fresh dug bulbs for delivery during the season 1915, and considered f. o. b. New York City. All orders booked subject to catalogue conditions, as is customary in the trade. Orders already booked at higher prices for similar delivery will be reduced accordingly. 10% must be added for less than case lots. Larger quantities quoted upon application. No deviation from these figures will be made under any circumstances, and counter offers will not be considered. All prices subject to change without notice.

EASTER IN 1916 IS APRIL 23.

LILIUM GIGANTEUM

The best commercial variety. Grows evenly and may be depended upon. It is also the best variety for Cold Storage purposes. The quality of Horseshoe Brand Giganteum is recognized as the best in the world.

HARDY LILY BULBS

These lilies are excellent for all florists. They may be planted outside or inside the greenhouses, and often a second crop is obtained by proper handling. Especially the Magnificum (Oriental Orchid) is recommended for florists' use. All keep well in Cold Storage and may be planted any time.

LILIUM AURATUM

One of the finest lilies in the world. Large flowers with light brown spots and yellow stripes. Is fine for decorative work. It must have proper drainage to flower well. Flowers freely.

LILIUM MAGNIFICUM (Oriental Orchid)

This excellent flower is probably the most useful for florists' use of any of the hardy varieties. It is easily forced and a good keeper. A rich scarlet color with spots and recurved petals. More of this variety is used than all others combined in America. It is strictly a commercial lily that flowers freely and yields a good profit.

Large sizes usually give two crops. Can be planted at any time.

APPROVE DISCLAIMER DISPLAY.

We notice in The Review of November 26 reference to the case brought against us by Thomas Wallace in regard to a certain lot of corn which he purchased from us. In the last paragraph we notice that you state Mr. Wallace dealt direct with the store and not from the catalogue, in which appears notice of disclaimer. This is an error to a certain extent, as Mr. Wallace had been a customer dealing from catalogue from time to time. It is true that he bought this lot of corn personally from our Mr. Stubbs in the store, but no doubt had read previously the description of the corn in the catalogue, with which he was familiar, having selected other items from it. Furthermore, we do use the disclaimer on practically all of our correspondence, with the exception of some short letterheads, which are old stock. All of our letterheads, with this exception, have had the disclaimer on them for some time prior to this case.

We think your suggestion that the disclaimer be displayed publicly in seed stores is a capital idea and believe it would save a good deal of discrepancy to trade generally. We expect to carry it out this season, displaying the disclaimer prominently where there can be no chance or possibility of anyone not seeing it upon entrance into the store. Wood, Stubbs & Co.

[It seems that Wood, Stubbs & Co. have conducted their previous correspondence with The Review on short letterheads exclusively. The large letterhead, on which the above communication was written, carries the disclaimer in approved form. The trade awaits with interest the outcome of their case.—Ed.]

Burpee's Seeds Grow

The Leading American Seed Catalogue

Confidence

is the one thing that makes possible the commerce of the world. It is the greatest factor that enters into a purchase of seed, because you are not buying a finished product, but only the means by which your garden may be either a success or a failure. Seeds—good or bad—may look the same, but their resulting crops—Never! You cannot afford to risk a season's effort with seeds of unknown quality. When you buy Burpee's Seeds the element of doubt is absent. The confidence of many thousands of pleased and permanent customers has been secured by the Burpee Idea of Quality First—"to give rather than to get all that is possible."

The House of Burpee

Has introduced more distinct new varieties of vegetable and flower seeds that are now in general cultivation than have any three other American firms, but never have we catalogued any one of these new varieties until it had passed all the exacting requirements of the Burpee-Standard. This Burpee-Standard is maintained by rigid tests at Fordhook Farms, America's largest and most complete trial grounds. These tests are made each year for the purpose of strengthening this Bond of Confidence between our customers and ourselves.

We are specialists in seeds. Our entire time is devoted to producing and distributing seeds —seeds only—and only seeds of the best quality. We aim to do this one thing well.

Burpee's Annual for 1915

The Leading American Seed Catalogue, is a bright new book of 182 pages. It is a Safe Guide to success and of real value to everyone who plants seeds either for pleasure or profit. Florists and Market Gardeners should have our "Blue List." This is our wholesale price list for planters. Write for these catalogues today. A postcard will bring them both.

spring in seed potatoes and garden seeds. Memphis seedsmen are particularly busy, according to their reports.

"I have been in the seed business for forty years, and our business this fall has been five times greater than ever before," said J. F. Haid, secretary and treasurer of Otto Schwill & Co. "The rush began in August and only slacked up a week ago with the first cold weather.

"Our trade has come from farmers in Mississippi, Tennessee, Arkansas and northern Louisiana. In most cases farmers are planting wheat to sell, and oats, corn and hay to feed to their stock next year. There is no doubt that the cotton acreage will be greatly reduced. I look for southern farmers to plant more potatoes and garden truck next spring than ever in the past."

The same condition is reported by J. L. Mosby, of the Tucker-Mosby Seed Co., who placed his estimate slightly lower than did Mr. Haid.

"Our business this fall has been two-thirds greater than ever before," Mr. Mosby said. "The demand has been for oats, wheat, barley and alfalfa throughout Tennessee, Mississippi and Arkansas. We are expecting a big business in corn, potatoes and all kinds of garden truck in the spring and are preparing to handle the increased trade."

GOVERNMENT SEED TESTING.

Your Uncle Samuel's business of seed testing is on the increase, according to the report just issued from the avuncular headquarters beside the Potomac. At the Washington laboratory the bureau has received 4,305 samples of seeds from farmers and seedsmen. Of these 2,207 have been tested for mechanical purity, and practically all for germination. At the five coöperative laboratories 6,937 samples have been tested. In connection with the congressional seed distribution and the office of foreign seed and plant introduction, 952 samples were tested. For other offices of the department 5,961 samples of seed, not representing commercial lots, were tested for germination. Identifications were made of 380 specimens of plants and seeds.

In carrying on the work on adulterated seeds 1,470 samples of Kentucky bluegrass, orchard grass, hairy vetch and sweet clover were collected and examined and will be reported on later. A preliminary examination indicates that the quality of hairy vetch seed has greatly improved since it was previously collected. Seed of the yellow-flowered biennial sweet clover has frequently been sold for that of the white-flowered biennial, the latter being usually preferred. In a number of cases the small annual yellow-flowered species has been sold either for the yellow-flowered or for the white-flowered biennial. Of the seed reported on in 1913 only four per cent of the Kentucky bluegrass and approximately twenty per cent of the redtop was adulterated or misbranded.

In connection with the enforcement of the seed-importation act, 815 lots were sampled by customs officials, of which twenty-four were prohibited entry. Of these, nine were recleaned in bond, nine were returned to the country of origin, one was denatured, and five are pending. It is becoming a general practice for dealers in the United States to buy seeds subject to the act.

Aside from the enforcement of the seed importation act, 2,490 samples of imported forage-plant seed have been received through the customs service and examined. The source of imported alfalfa seed has been studied. Practically all the seed now coming into this country is commercial Russian Turkestan seed which is not adapted to general use. Easy means of identifying it have been published.

The investigations on methods of seed germination and the practical value of hard seeds have been continued, and reports for publication are nearing completion.

LAST YEAR'S FREE SEEDS.

The Bureau of Plant Industry, in its annual report, refers as follows to the congressional free seed distribution:

"The congressional seed distribution has been continued as in the past, R. A. Oakley having succeeded L. M. Estabrook in charge of this work. During the fiscal year 1914 there were distributed on congressional and miscellaneous requests 11,221,578 packages of vegetable seed, and 2,904,188 packages of flower seed, or a total of 14,125,766 packages, each containing five packets of different varieties.

"There were also distributed 30,135 packages of improved cotton seed, 15,705 packages of lawn grass, including Bermuda grass, 13,534 boxes of imported narcissus and tulip bulbs, 8,890 grapevines, comprising thirteen varieties, 95,055 strawberry plants, comprising sixteen varieties, and limited quantities of alfalfa, clover, vetch, cowpeas and soy beans. The seed was purchased on competitive bids, as heretofore, and each lot was thoroughly tested for purity and viability before acceptance by the department. Approximately seventy-five per cent of this seed was secured from surplus stocks, the remainder being grown under contract especially for the department.

"The contract of last year for packeting, assembling and mailing vegetable and flower seed was continued in effect, the price being 94½ cents per 1,000 packets, which included hauling

Who Makes Business?

The florist who harps on poor business and can see only the dark spots, should remember that things are about as we make them. If you have a grouch, don't nurse it. If the outlook is dark, punch a hole in it. Think of better business, talk of better business, then pick up something that will MAKE better business. A bench of my seedling Silver Pink Snaps will come along so fast that there will be no chance to fret. Modestly speaking, they are such a pleasure from start to finish that we can safely recommend them as a grouch chaser. More dollars to the square foot than any plant in existence is not a dream. It is a proven fact.

NOTE:—"The best we have seen."—Gude Bros. Co., Wash., D.C. "Couldn't get along without them."—G. J. Wilson, So. Lyon, Mich. "Best Snap on the market."—Theodore Wedell, Gresham, Ore. I have such letters from hundreds of other leading florists, and you will say the same after a trial.

We are now shipping the best plants that we ever grew. They are branched and ready for the bench. The price is only $4.00 per 100; $35.00 per 1000. Other varieties are: White, $4.00; yellow, $5.00, and that splendid new one, Garnet Gem, $8.00.

It is now seed sowing time for the wise grower. Start a few flats of our Silver Pink and be ready when the people are. The price is $1.00 per pkt.; 3 for $2.50; 7 for $5.00. All orders cash. Free cultural directions.

We specialize in Snapdragons, and have a big stock of fine, healthy plants. Our expert packing makes safe delivery to any part of the United States.

"Provision was made in the appropriation for the fiscal year 1914 similar to that for 1913 for the purchase and distribution of drought-resistant field seeds. This distribution was conducted in sections where dry-land farming is practiced. Only new crops or improved strains of standard crops were distributed, the most important ones being alfalfa, broom corn, feterita, kafir, milo, millet, sumac, Freed and Amber sorghum, Sudan grass, sweet clover, corn, wheat and field peas. Approximately 91,000 packages of seed were distributed, and in the majority of cases each package contained enough seed to plant one acre. Results so far have been very gratifying."

Vegetable Forcing

FORCING RHUBARB.

Please tell me whether to cut or to pull out rhubarb stalks. Is it better to force it in the dark or light? What is the best kind for forcing? C. E. S.

Always pull out the rhubarb stalks. Grow it in as dark a place as possible; the stalks then come a bright red color. Victoria is hard to beat as a forcing variety. C. W.

NIGHT HEAT FOR RHUBARB.

In forcing rhubarb is it advisable to allow the heat to subside at night?
G. C.

No; keep a good heat both night and day. If you want good rhubarb, and in as short a time as possible, you cannot afford to allow any more of a drop in the temperature at night than is necessary. C. W.

RADISHES DAMPING OFF.

I am growing radishes. After they are up about a week, they seem to rot or wilt off in spots, and the spots keep spreading. Is there anything I can put on them to prevent this?
H. E. Y.

Radishes require a comparatively low night temperature; 45 degrees is sufficient. They succeed better in solid beds than in raised benches, and should have a somewhat light, sandy soil. In heavy soil they are much more subject to damping off than in sandy soil. The roots, also, will be more likely to become scabby or maggoty. The rows should be six inches apart. Seed should be sifted, in order to secure an even stand. A maximum temperature of 65 degrees in winter is ample. Air must be given at every opportunity, as radishes resent coddling. Radishes should have a rich but somewhat light soil. Horse manure is the best fertilizer to use, and after each crop is cleared, some should be thoroughly incorporated in the soil if it shows any signs of exhaustion. It is difficult to determine why your plants are damping off unless more is known of soil, cultural conditions, etc., but I hope you may get some help from these hints.
C. W.

THE THIRD EDITION

Of the most successful book ever published for the trade

The original Album of Designs was published in response to many requests from florists who felt the need for an up-to-date book that could be used in taking orders for Funeral Designs, Wedding Decorations and Bouquets, Table Decorations and all cut flower work where it was not practicable to show the customer the finished article as it would be when ready for use. With the publication of this Album it became possible to show the finished work in beautifully printed pictures. The first edition sold like hot-cakes, and a second edition went quickly. The third edition is now ready. Everything is in it—all the standard designs and many new and heretofore unpublished pieces.

96 pages, nearly 300 designs and decorations, beautifully printed on heavy glazed paper, handsomely bound in a cover that will stand wear.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

Walla Walla, Wash.—Plans are being made for a large range of greenhouses and equipment for the Walla Walla Hothouse Vegetable Co., by Gordon Turnbull, engineer, Chamber of Commerce, Portland, Ore. The estimated cost is $40,000. A gravity heating system and an overhead system of irrigation will be installed.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Review would like to print one or two columns of San Francisco news every issue. Who would like to supply it?

The correspondent should be on the buying side of the market, not connected with any wholesaler. If his business brings him into contact with the trade he will find the news comes easy. He also can add appreciably to his income by looking after subscriptions and ads.

LOS ANGELES.

The Market.

There has been a fair call at times during the last week, but not altogether a satisfactory business as a whole. A large quantity of lily of the valley has been handled, notwithstanding the low price of cattleyas, which has been below anything previously known here. Roses have been good and have been cleaned up well. Outdoor carnations were out for a day or two owing to rain, but they are in again now. The nights of late have been cold. Slight frosts have been reported from the more exposed places, and the peaks of the San Bernardino and Sierra Madre mountains are covered with snow and are strikingly beautiful. This has had the effect of checking the outdoor flowers and running up the fuel bills of the greenhouse men. Christmas greens and red berries are shown and the "holly" is extra good this year. There is quite a large variety in this class of stock, now mostly from the northern woods. There will be plenty of azaleas in time for Christmas and other plants are plentiful.

Various Notes.

The election of officers was the principal business in hand at the monthly meeting of the Los Angeles County Horticultural Society, held December 1. The result of the election was as follows: President, H. R. Richards; vice-president, W. W. Felgate; treasurer, James McGilvray; secretary, Hal Kruckeberg. Mr. Kruckeberg is a son of H. W. Kruckeberg, who has so long and ably worked in the society's interest as secretary, and everyone who knows the young man thinks he will worthily uphold the traditions of the family. A rising vote of thanks was given the retiring officers.

A visit to the Lomita greenhouses of Staiger & Mundwiler revealed a good deal of progress being made and everything in first-class order. Mr. Mundwiler rules here and has evidently plenty of work in hand in keeping things going. I noticed a splendid batch of seedling kentias, every seed apparently having germinated. Besides the young stock, there are large numbers in all sizes, from the seedlings to fair sized specimens. In the lath house a lot of choice young nursery stock is growing, as well as numbers of Asparagus plumosus strings just right for the Christmas market.

The stock at the plant department of Smith & Dieterich is looking fine and the repairs and alterations at the place are getting well under way. The big lath house at Montebello is full of good things, especially some splendid Rhapis humilis, specimens such as are rarely seen, and elegant Phœnix Roebelenii. Evidently the new store at Seventh and Figueroa streets will not lack good plants in plenty.

G. Newman, of Murata & Co., has returned from a business trip north and says he has made arrangements for his firm to represent Domoto Bros., of Oakland, in this section, handling all the cut flowers grown by that firm. This will mean some hustling, but they are used to that at Murata's.

The H. N. Gage Co. reports good sales and extra good advance orders for Christmas.

H. W. Turner is getting large orders for his new September Morn rose, to be disseminated in the spring. He also reports a big shipping business in young stock, from Washington to Florida. The excellent plants and prompt attention to orders, combined with careful packing and labeling, no doubt lead to this happy result. The cut flower business is away ahead of that of last year.

ARE YOU SATISFIED?

Any florist on the Pacific coast not satisfied to do a local retail business can build up a prosperous wholesale trade by using space in The Review to let the buyers know where stock is to be found. This way:

We have found advertising in The Review to be very satisfactory. We have had orders from all parts of the United States, as well as from the Pacific coast, showing that your valued paper has a very wide circulation. At any time we have any special advertising to do we certainly shall send it to The Review.—Hogan & Kooyman, Oakland, Cal.

Tassano Bros. are doing a good business. Large quantities of all kinds of greens, Christmas berries and ferns are keeping all busy here.

Winslow C. Warner and Edward J. Booth, who have been doing business under the firm name of the Occidental Nurseries, at Avenue 59 and Meridian street, this city, have dissolved partnership. Mr. Warner is continuing the business under the old name and assuming all liabilities.

The Market.

Business, as usual previous to the holidays, is quiet, with nothing of note in the social calendar. The stores in general are taking on a Christmas hue and preparatory work is beginning. The florists are optimistic as to the final results, though the sales may be a little slow at the start. Already many advance orders have been placed. The stock is looking exceptionally well and is well timed for the occasion. Poinsettias, cyclamens and azaleas are being particularly featured this season. There seems to be a variety of roses, among which Killarney, Richmond, Taft and Sunburst are the most popular. American Beauties, while not overplentiful, are coming along nicely. Violets are plentiful. Chrysanthemums are on the decline. There will be few left for the holiday trade. The Cecile Brunner rose is unusually popular this season and the supply is short of the demand. The Thanksgiving trade was brisk. The demand was greater this season for the better grade of stock. All stock was practically cleaned out early in the day.

Various Notes.

A call at the orchid establishment of J. A. Carbone, at Berkeley, found Mr. Carbone busy looking after his choice stock of plants. He has a big variety of stock, consisting of about 25,000 plants. His cattleyas are looking fine and he will have a good crop for Christmas.

F. Aebi, of Berkeley, grows mostly roses. His Killarney and Richmond will be in heaviest flower for the Christmas trade. He also has a house of Taft and one of the Kirk rose, which are coming along nicely.

J. Seulberger reports business to date as highly satisfactory. He has a large family trade and carries a large stock in accordance.

The Thorsted Floral Co. makes a special feature of a window of basket arrangements, which is changed daily. This is considered by the firm as the best advertising medium. E. R. C.

PORTLAND, ORE.

The Market.

Since Thanksgiving there have been few large social events, but a steady demand for small quantities of stock has kept the market pretty well cleaned up every day. Roses and carnations are being held back by the cloudy weather and are none too plentiful. Mums are in full supply. Chadwick and Maud Dean are in their prime. Killarney, White Killarney, Ophelia and Mrs. Aaron Ward are the best roses. Richmonds are scarce. No American Beauties are grown here. There are but few local grown violets, but plenty of California stock is to be had. There is a full supply of orchids, with no great demand for them. Blooming pot plants and decorative stock find a fair sale, cyclamens and ferns being in greatest demand.

The old-fashioned round bouquets with ornamental paper shields sell well.

The nurserymen have about finished lifting their deciduous stock and have orders booked for most of it. They have heeled in large quantities for filling orders for spring delivery.

It is an off season for the local seed trade. Those firms which have wholesale departments are packing orders for January delivery.

Several representatives of foreign bulb growers have been soliciting orders for next year's crop, but have found rather hard picking. Bulb buyers are inclined to wait till they see the results of this year's investments before they figure on next year's supply.

Advance orders for Christmas stock are reported equal to former years.

Various Notes.

Chas. Ward, who has a range of glass on East Ninety-second street, is growing a large quantity of bedding stock, principally geraniums. Most of his products are used by the Portland Railway, Light & Power Co. at Bull Run park and at their stations along the line.

The Tonseth Floral Co. is displaying some fine poinsettia plants in ornamental baskets with ferns.

SEATTLE, WASH.

The Market.

Things have been pretty good in the flower business during the last week. Most of the stores had a good Thanksgiving trade. Conditions since have been fair and prospects point to a continuation of moderately good times for the remainder of the year. Carnations, in contrast to the late oversupply, are now becoming scarce, and, consequently, there is more demand for them than for any other flower. Many of the blooms are soft and have weak stems. Blooms from held-over plants are splitting considerably. Roses are good and in fair demand. Chrysanthemums never were better; of these there is a good supply locally and a few are still coming from the south. Paper Whites are being largely used and callas are arriving in good numbers. Pot plants are selling well, especially cyclamen and Primula obconica.

Various Notes.

Greenhouses. He is attempting to get some Golden Spur in for Christmas and has also some tulips which look as if they would be ready then.

At the Washington Park Greenhouses, of C. Hoffmeister, everything is in good shape for holiday trade. The poinsettias and cyclamens are especially fine.

Carl Melby has a good showing of poinsettias at his place, at Madison Park, and his Formosas look fine.

Chris. Jochimsen is moving about, but his recovery has not been rapid, and it will be some time yet before he is fit for much energetic exercise.

Ralph Richardson has been confined with a threatened attack of pneumonia. By prompt means and good nursing he is recovering quickly. T. W.

CARNATIONS REGISTERED.

The following carnations have been registered by the J. D. Thompson Carnation Co., Joliet, Ill.:

Superb.—Gloriosa x Enchantress; deep flesh pink; size three and one-half to four inches; high built center, but not crowded; long, strong stem; non-splitting calyx; easy grower and splendid keeper; very fragrant.

Hero.—Beacon x White Perfection; deep rose pink; size three to three and one-half inches; well formed flower, with slightly serrated petals; non-splitting calyx and wiry stem; very free bloomer and excellent keeper.

Vera.—Beacon x White Perfection; light pink with rosy tint; size three to three and one-half inches; well formed flower with serrated petals; free grower and does not split.

Comet.—White Wonder x Wodenethe; pure white; size four inches and over; deeply serrated and wavy petals; very high center, forming half sphere when fully developed; very fragrant; free bloomer and does not split.

The following registration has been made by E. H. Blameuser, Niles Center, Ill.:

Cerise Winsor.—Sport from Winsor; cerise pink; size three inches; habit like Winsor except that the foliage is darker green and the buds are larger.

Note—Sports can be registered only provisionally, until blooms have been submitted for inspection by the judges, to determine their distinctiveness.

A. F. J. Baur, Sec'y.

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS.

Department of Registration.

Public notice is hereby given that the Conard & Jones Co., West Grove, Pa., offers for registration the cannas described below. Any person objecting to the registration, or to the use of the proposed name, is requested to communicate with the secretary at once. Failing to receive objection to the registration, the same will be made three weeks from this date.

Pocahontas.—Bronze Olympic. The large orient red flowers are borne on firm, upright stems, just enough above the foliage to show the entire head. The foliage itself is a dark bronze green with emerald shadings, the ribs a darker bronze. Single roots of this canna produce from five to twelve grand bloom-stalks in a season, and each stalk makes two or three bloom-heads, with from twenty to thirty perfect flowers on each. A truly magnificent sort; an early and continuous bloomer. Height, four and one-half feet.

Flag of Truce.—A large-flowered, green-leaved, cream-white canna, with faint pink dots on each petal and sulphur-colored tongue. When a short distance from the flowers they appear pure white. The heads average eight to twelve blooms on each, and each bloom-stalk generally has three heads of flowers, which bloom in succession, thus keeping the plant in bloom all the time. Height, four feet.

Dragon.—If it were not for Beacon, which we introduced in 1912, this canna would be in a class by itself. It blooms incessantly and keeps sending up new bloom-stalks about every week, until cut down by frost. Dark ox-blood red, and especially suitable for mass planting. Height, three to four feet.

Princeton.—An intense bright yellow flower, with a decided dash of red in the throat, extending well up on the petals and showing on the

To Pacific Coast Florists:

What stock have you for sale to the trade? Is it moving as it should? No?

Then tell the trade about it by using the Pacific Coast Pages of The Review.

Pacific Coast advertisers almost invariably report good results. Like this:

Say! That ad's a humdinger for getting the business.—Everett Floral Co., Everett, Wash.

I sold all the Mum cuttings advertised, and you will not hear from me again until I can get some more stock ready. Shall root 100,000 Carnation cuttings for next season, as I know The Review will sell them for me.—Frank Wilhelm, Los Angeles, Cal.

Please cut out of our advertisement in The Review the cyclamen seedlings. We sold all our surplus cyclamen seedlings as a direct result of our advertisement in your paper.—Spokane Greenhouses (Inc.), Spokane, Wash.

We want to say that our last advertisement in The Review brought us orders from both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. We had, strangely enough, on following days, orders from Salem, Ore., and from Salem, Mass.—State Floral Co., North Yakima, Wash.

We are well pleased with the results obtained by advertising in the Pacific Coast Department of The Review. We sold out clean and refused many orders. The Review surely gives results.—Van Slyke & Seamons, Tacoma, Wash.

The transient rate for space is $1 per inch per insertion. Those who have stock to offer all or a considerable part of the year around should write for contract rates.

tongue also. Its principal value lies in its ability to resist bleaching better than any other yellow canna. It flowers early. Height, three to four feet.

Gaiety.—Color is reddish orange, mottled with carmine and edged with yellow. The tongue is yellow and densely spotted with carmine. When planted in solid beds or rows, produces a dazzling effect. Height, five feet.

John Young, Sec'y.

PHILADELPHIA NOTES.

Samuel Aitken, the successful Columbia avenue retailer, says that the business has come down to three days, Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter. Only please remember that Mr. Aitken said this dreadful thing on a fearfully rainy day, when no one who didn't have to would dream of venturing out.

B. Eschner says the morning mail December 7 was the largest in the history of the M. Rice Co.

S. M. Baker, formerly of Montgomery, Ala., is entering on his second winter with Victor I. Ridenour.

J. Otto Thilow has accepted the position of chairman of the committee on lecturers for the national flower show to be held at Convention hall in the spring of 1916.

The consensus of opinion is that, while business is not so good as it was last year, the best year we have ever enjoyed, it is much better than in many other industries, and that it is likely to improve.

The Andorra Nurseries will entertain the National Association of Gardeners at Chestnut Hill during the convention here this week.

Godfrey Aschmann's place is well stocked with fine plants for the Christmas trade.

David Anderson, of Garrettford, is cutting roses of excellent quality. Maryland and Shawyer are two of his best varieties. Phil.

INTER-CITY BOWLING.

The long-talked-of bowling match between St. Paul and Minneapolis came off December 2 and quite a number of the members of the trade were present to root for their respective cities. The party from Minneapolis included President Wirth, who is an enthusiast for the game. There was lots of fun, as there was more than glory at stake. St. Paul brought home the bacon, with the following score:

FOR MOLES IN SOLID BEDS.

To prevent moles from working in solid beds, plant a few ricinus or castor oil beans in the beds. When the plants are seven or eight inches high, pull them up and plant more seeds. E. S.

Tipton, Ia.—E. Friederichsen & Sons, of Wilton Junction, are opening a store in the south half of the Alcorn millinery shop. L. R. Friederichsen has been here making arrangements. Miss Anna Chown, of Wilton Junction, will be in charge.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

HENRY KOHANKIE, of Painesville, O., has purchased the George Welch farm of eighty-two and one-half acres on the Bowhall road near Painesville.

ELMER SHERWOOD has incorporated his nursery business at Odessa, N. Y., under the name of the Elmer Sherwood Nursery Co. The capital stock is fixed at $10,000. The incorporators are C. B. Swartwood and M. V. and Elmer Sherwood.

ACTIVE operations have been started by the Cottage Gardens Nurseries, Inc., C. W. Ward's enterprise at Eureka, Cal., in preparing the land for the nursery and the erection of the greenhouses. Thirty of the forty-three lots are already being plowed.

IN its endeavor to prevent the spread of the gipsy moth, the Department of Agriculture has been compelled to restrict the movement of stone and quarry products from the areas of New England which have been quarantined on account of the presence of this moth. It has been found that egg clusters of the moth were being distributed on shipments of these products.

A LEAFLET of four pages carries the report of the first annual meeting of the New York State Nurserymen's Association, held at Rochester, September 10. The organization is in good condition financially, having a balance of $481.61 in the bank, but wants an increase in membership, which now numbers sixty. The defeat of the Vert bill leaves the workmen's compensation law as the only piece of legislation engaging the association's attention. A test case under this law will be brought before the commission by the association.

Please cut out of my ad for Privet the 18 to 24-inch, as I am all sold out of that size. The Review certainly does bring the answers.
CHARLES L. SMITH.
Oct. 13, 1914. Pennsgrove, N. J.

THE nursery business of the late E. B. Norris, at Gardiner, Me., will be continued by George Woodward.

AT the forty-first annual meeting of the Southern Illinois Horticultural Society, at Centralia, three nurserymen were elected to fill the important offices; they were: President, W. W. Thomas, of Anna; vice-president, C. F. Heaton, of New Burnside, and secretary-treasurer, E. G. Mendenhall, of Kinmundy.

ADDRESSES before the Southwest Iowa Horticultural Association, at Atlantic, Ia., last week, were made by J. R. Rice, of Council Bluffs, on "A Closer Sympathy and Coöperation Between the Nurseryman and Fruit Grower;" W. M. Bomberger, of Harlan, on "Pruning Roots and Branches;" M. J. Wragg, of Des Moines, on "Ornamental Trees and Plants," and Charles F. Gardner, of Osage, on "Another Year with the Fall Strawberry."

IMPORTS OF 1913-14.

The accompanying table, taken from the annual report of the Federal Horticultural Board, shows from what countries the nurserymen of the United States received imported stock during the twelve months covered by the report, July, 1913, to June, 1914, inclusive. It will easily be seen that the principal countries from which we import stock are France and Holland, with England and Germany next in importance.

Another table in the report, giving the receipts by states, shows the states in the lead to be, in the order of their importance, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Illinois, Ohio, California, Connecticut and Michigan. No other state imported within 500 cases of the number imported by the least of these. The total number of cases imported during the twelve months covered by the report was 12,744 more than that of the previous twelve months. The figures were 57,525 and 44,781 cases.

The solicitor of the Department of Agriculture reports that fifteen violations of the plant quarantine act were reported to the attorney-general for prosecution and the cases are now pending.

ELM CITY NURSERY CO. TO MOVE.

As reported in these columns some time ago, the Elm City Nursery Co., of New Haven, Conn., finding its present nursery area too restricted for increasing business requirements, has purchased several adjoining farms at Woodmont, Conn., but a few miles from the nursery's present office and grounds. The new purchase adjoins the New Haven railroad station at Woodmont, and will serve every economy from a transportation standpoint. The land is mostly level, being part of a section which for many years has produced a high grade of seed corn and onion seed. Heavy plantings, mostly of popular

Our New Rose, Mrs. Moorfield Storey

Has a strong, upright growth, the wood being very stout and smooth, with large, handsome, dark green foliage, practically mildew or black-spot proof. The flowers, which are freely produced, are of good size and substance with abundant petals, opening freely. The color is a shell pink, deepening toward the center, with the large smooth petals tipped deep rose. It will be a fine, yet distinct, companion for the Mrs. Charles Russell rose.

Leads Straight to the

PALISADES NURSERIES

THERE you will find all kinds, and you can take your pick from the best that grow. Perennials add a feeling of permanency to your home surroundings. They change their plumage, but not their face, and keep reflecting the seasons all the year around.

FALL PLANTING—To grow most hardy perennials and old-fashioned flowers successfully, plant in October and November, like planting Spring-flowering bulbs. They then root during Fall and Winter, and are ready for Spring and Summer blooming.

No grounds are really gardened without a big showing in perennials. We are headquarters for perennials, and assure the widest latitude in choice as well as the most courteous promptitude in correspondence and service. Our motto—"Maximum Quality at Minimum Cost."

ornamental stock, will be established in the spring, much of the ground having already been prepared. It will be two years before the nursery business will be moved to Woodmont. A propagating plant will be built near the railroad station on a tract of some twenty-five acres, which will be set apart for the purpose and developed into an attractive commercial park, where the nursery's products can be displayed to good advantage. The railroad company is to coöperate with the nursery in laying out the station grounds at Woodmont in a park-like style.

At a recent stockholders' meeting, Ernest F. Coe was again elected president, W. W. McCartney treasurer and general manager, and Walter E. Campbell secretary. Ernest F. Coe has been president of the company since its incorporation, in 1901. Wesley W. McCartney and Walter E. Campbell have been with the company for a number of years, both previously having had a wide training along nursery lines.

The Market.

The unsatisfactory weather we have had for the last week is probably responsible for part of the slump in business and is certainly showing its effects on some of the roses, especially Killarney. Chrysanthemums are still with us, but are not much in demand. Violets, which were so scarce for several weeks, are now a drug on the market. No one seems to want them. Beauties will not bring fancy prices and carnations have been a glut. There are quantities of Paper Whites, and they only move at low prices. The whole market is unsatisfactory.

The wholesale men are busy shipping boxwood and the various Christmas supplies.

Club Meeting.

The Florists' Club met Tuesday evening, December 1. John S. Gillespie, chief engineer of the road department of Allegheny county, gave a talk on good roads, which was most instructive.

S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co., Philadelphia, sent a handsome exhibit of roses, including Mock, d'Arenberg and Bulgarie, and a large bunch of the new carnation, Mrs. C. Edward Akehurst, all of which were favorably commented upon. There were a few local exhibitors.

Various Notes.

There has been considerable sickness among the florists lately. Geo. Marshall and John Sisley, of the McCallum Co., are just back at work.

Wm. Calligan, of the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., has not answered the telephone for a day or two. He has been nursing a carbuncle on the back of his neck.

Geo. Smith and John Hellstern, of Wheeling, W. Va., were recent visitors.

The John Bader Co. is pushing the plant business hard. The company has a fine lot of palms, ferns, begonias, poinsettias, red berries, cherries and peppers—in fact, the best looking lot of stock they ever offered.

P. S. Randolph & Sons are also in the market with the usual collection of Christmas plants. This end of the business increases each year, as Pittsburgh is getting to be more of a plant city.

PLANTS FOR CHRISTMAS

Our Stock of blooming and foliage plants is extra large this year. Careful growing and selection of varieties have enabled us to offer our customers a fine lot of plants for Christmas, such as no one but "the Hustlers" can produce, and at prices that are reasonable for good stock.

BEGONIA Lorraine. The showiest of all blooming plants for Christmas. We have one big house of them in 6-in. pots, full of bloom, very fine, 75c and $1.00 each.

Extra heavy plants, very large, $1.25 and $1.50 each. 8-in. pots, $1.80 doz.

When visiting Philadelphia stop and give us a call; only 35 minutes' ride from Market St. Take car on Fifth St. marked Fox, Chase or Olney; get off at Bristol St. and walk two squares east.

AZALEAS. We have a choice lot of Mad. Petrick and Vervaeneana, in bloom for Christmas, 6 and 7-in. pots, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50 each.

PRIMULA Obconica, Grandiflora, Kermesina and Rosea. The best strains. 4-in., $1.20 doz.; 5-in., $2.00 doz.; 6-in pans, $3.00 doz.

SOLANUM (Jerusalem Cherries). 6-in., full of berries, $3.00 and $4.00 doz.

BEGONIA Luminosa. 5½-in., very fine stock, $3.00 doz.

CYCLAMEN Giganteum. One of our specialties, one house of them, in bud and bloom, the finest that can be found anywhere, in 5½-in. pots, 50c, 75c and $1.00 each.

POINSETTIAS. Made-up pans, 3 plants in an 8-in. pan, with three Ferns around, $1.25 and $1.50 each; 5-in. pot plants, 25c and 35c each, some branched. 4-in., 20c each.

FERNS

We are exceptionally strong on FERNS and ARAUCARIAS. Four large houses are filled with them, comprising Nephrolepis Teddy Jr., Scottii, Boston and Elegantissima Compacta, 10,000 of them in 6-in., 7-in. and 8-in. pots, very strong.

NEPHROLEPIS Teddy Jr. A new dwarf Fern, slightly crested; very fine and good seller; habit same as Scottii. 6-in. pots, $6.00 doz.; 8-in. pots, $1.00 each, very heavy.

NEPHROLEPIS Elegantissima Improved. 6-in. pots, $5.00 and $6.00 doz.; 8-in. pots, $1.00 each.

NEPHROLEPIS Scottii. 4-in. pots, $2.00 doz.; 6-in. pots, $4.00, $5.00, $6.00 doz.; 7-in. pots, 75c each; 8-in. pots, very strong, $1.00 each.

NEPHROLEPIS Bostoniensis. 7-in. pots, 75c each; extra big for the money.

PTERIS Wilsoni. 3 plants in a 6-in. pan, 25c each.

DISH FERNS. Our stock of these is very large, in six of the best varieties. 2½-in., $4.00 per 100.

ADIANTUM Hybridum. 4-in., $1.80 doz.

CYRTOMIUM Rochfordianum (Holly Fern). Extra large. 2½-in., $6.00 per 100.

ASPARAGUS Plumosus. 3-in. pots, $5.00 per 100.

ARAUCARIA Excelsa. The ever popular Christmas plant, in 6-in. pots, 4 to 5 tiers, 16 to 20 in. high, 75c each; 18 to 24 in. high, $1.00 each.

FICUS Elastica. 6-in. pots, 40c each; 7-in. pots, 65c each.

ASPIDISTRA. Green, fine plants, 10 to 12 leaves, 75c each.

AZALEAS. For Easter forcing: Mad. Van der Cruyssen, Niobe, Vervaeneana, Mad. De Schryverlana, 12-in. to 14-in. crown, $8.00 doz.; 14 to 16 in., $10.00 doz.; 16 to 18 in., $15.00 doz.

R. Vincent, Jr., & Sons Co.,
White Marsh, Md.

Geraniums arrived in good condition to my great satisfaction, on the 20th instant. This time the leaves have died, but the white new shoots appeared.

Many thanks for your kindness that you selected the new and good varieties and gave me care in packing.

Yours truly, B. Masuda.

We have a million in 2 and 3-inch pots, ready for shipment; come and see them—good, standard varieties, such as S. A. Nutt, Alphonse Ricard, Beaute Poitevine, Mme. Recamier, Jean Oberle, and lots of other kinds, from 2-in. pots, at $2.00 per 100, $18.50 per 1000; from 3-in. pots, $3.00 per 100, $25.00 per 1000.

250 Novelties and New Varieties, and a fine assortment of single Geraniums, Ivy Geraniums, Scented Geraniums, are listed in our catalogue.

ERIE, PA.

The Market.

Erie florists have felt the weight of the hard times for the last few months. Not only has trade fallen away, but outstanding money has been so hard to get that some of the florists could barely keep above expenses. A slight boost in trade has been noticeable in the last two weeks and it is hoped that this will continue. From orders already received for Christmas, it looks as if the people will use flowers more than usual as gifts. A number of elaborate weddings are taking place and a few of the florists are busy with them. Potted ferns and blooming plants are selling fairly well. Chrysanthemums and roses are going best among cut flowers. Funeral work has been pretty well distributed and some have received orders for a week's work or more.

Various Notes.

Mrs. Vern L. Schluraff has returned from California, where she visited her mother during the summer. William Lay, who entered into partnership with Vern L. Schluraff early in the spring, has severed his connection with the Schluraff firm. He withdrew last week.

Joseph Robb, of the Robb Floral Co., has taken Fred Berst, of this city, as a partner in his business. M. W. M.

NEW "MUMS"

The fall shows are now past, and you have no doubt jotted down the names of some varieties you will add to your stock next season. That is the way to keep abreast of the times. If you have not already done so, be sure you include our "Yellow Sport from Mrs. Chas. Rager." It will eventually be as widely grown as the white variety from which it sported. You run absolutely no risk in buying it.

Send for our price list, which also includes Carnation cuttings and Geranium plants. We have both in large quantity and top quality.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

The Market.

Trade has been fair for the last two weeks. Funeral work is a little quiet. There have been many receptions and coming-out parties, which have stimulated business some.

Stock is plentiful, more than enough to supply the demand. Roses and Beauties are showing the effects of the cloudy weather already. Carnations are unusually good for this time of the year. Easter lilies and callas are more than enough. Paper Whites and stevia are having some call. Sweet peas are being cleaned up daily. Violets, orchids and valley move slowly. Mums are almost a thing of the past.

The outlook for blooming plants for Christmas is good, as many first-class azaleas, poinsettias, cyclamens and other stock are to be seen.

Various Notes.

The Smith & Young Co. is receiving large shipments of carnations, roses and lilies daily. This firm is cutting the best Killarneys seen in this market.

A. Wiegand's Sons Co. is well supplied with azaleas, poinsettias and blooming plants for Christmas trade.

The Indianapolis Flower & Plant Co. is going to have a fine cut of carnations for Christmas.

Wm. Roepke reports quite satisfactory trade at his new place, on East Washington street.

Alvin Shreiber, with Bertermann Bros. Co., has his usual fine blooming plants for the Christmas trade.

Hartje & Elder are still sending mums to this market. H. L. W.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.

The Market.

Much concern is being expressed by the florists throughout the city at the present condition of business. Aside from funeral work, there is little activity. The growers are complaining that they are not receiving enough for their stock to pay expenses and the retailers are telling of losses of stock left on their hands. Chrysanthemums continue the top of the market, both as to quantity and quality, but are sluggish in movement, even at low prices.

Various Notes.

Joseph Koppelman received twenty cases of imported Japanese baskets last week.

O. H. Williams was in Chicago last week in search of a boiler for his greenhouses.

Maurice Torgan, formerly with J. Koppelman and later with Johnston Bros., has accepted a position in Hartford, Conn.

Henry Patry has severed his connection with Johnston Bros.

Edmund J. Brooke, of T. J. Johnston & Co., is convalescing from a severe attack of the grip.

O'Connor had the decorations for the double debutante reception dance at the Nightingale mansion last week.

Al Macrae, of F. Macrae's Sons, was out last week after a siege with typhoid fever.

William H. Tarbox, of West Greenwich, has just received a large importation of dahlias from Europe.

George L. Stillman, of Westerly, has the sympathy of a large circle of acquaintances in the death of his son, who was in his twenty-first year. The lad had been an invalid for a number of years.

George H. Read, for many years superintendent of the Riverside cemetery, at Pawtucket, died last week, in his eighty-eighth year. W. H. M.

Greenhouse Heating.

ATTACHING A GENERATOR.

We are heating a greenhouse, 28x100, by the overhead, downhill hot water system, with a pipe running to the expansion tank from a 4-inch main directly over the boiler. The top of the main is only about eight inches below the bottom of the expansion tank. Now I wish to attach a mercury generator, and of course I shall be unable to locate the generator between the top of the main and the bottom of the tank. Will good results follow if the generator is located at some point below where the expansion pipe is connected with the main? A. B. R.

In order to secure any benefit from a generator, it must be used in connection with a closed system, as a generator really is nothing more than a safety valve and vacuum valve combined. Hence, unless the expansion tank can be put under pressure, no effect will be secured from the generator. However, the generator can be attached to the system, either on the flow or on the return pipe, provided the expansion tank is removed and an air valve is inserted at the highest part of the main. This, however, might cause trouble, since air might collect in the main and hinder the circulation. To correct this difficulty, unless the expansion tank now in use is capable of being put under a pressure of 100 pounds, I would suggest that it be replaced with a small, riveted steel tank, with a water column on the side and an air valve in the top. With a reasonable amount of attention, the main can then be kept free from air, and by using the circulator the water can be carried under pressure.

HEATING WITH COIL BOILER.

Kindly inform me how to heat a greenhouse for tomato growing, 120 feet long, twelve feet to the ridge and five feet to the eaves. I do not wish to use larger than 2-inch flows. The twenty feet at the end nearest the boiler I should like to use for seedlings or cuttings if necessary, with bottom heat in two of the 5-foot benches. The temperature in the district where I wish to build reaches 40 degrees below zero, and I should require a temperature of 55 degrees.

I purpose building a coil of extra heavy 2-inch tubing six feet long and four feet wide inside a fire-brick casing. The tubing will be at the sides, back and top, and the fire inside the tubing, playing around the tubes at the sides and the top. A brick arch will cover the casing, so that the space at the top and the sides will act as flues. The chimney will be in front. How many coils do I need to heat the house to the required temperature, instead of getting a boiler? If this is not practical, kindly inform me what size of sectional boiler I shall require for the work. Could you give me an idea of the cost of installing the coil; 2-inch piping is about 15 cents per foot? A. G.

The data furnished do not include the width of the house or the amount of glass, if any, in the walls. Judging from the relative height of the walls and ridge, the width of the house is twenty feet or a little more. To heat such a house to 55 degrees under the severe conditions mentioned, I should use seven 2-inch flow pipes and fourteen 2-inch returns. It would be far better to put in five 2½-inch flows and fifteen 2-inch returns. Run one flow on each plate, another two feet below the ridge and distribute the others as well as possible.

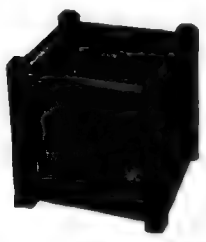
While a coil boiler may be constructed in the manner described, I should prefer to use a regular boiler rated for about 2,000 square feet of radiation. A coil boiler to heat the house should contain about 100 square feet of fire surface, which would require about twenty-five flues of 2-inch pipe six feet long and six square feet of grate. The cost would be about one-half that of a regular boiler.

PIPING IS UNSATISFACTORY.

I should like to ask you a question or two about the heating of my two greenhouses, which are located, as you see, in the southern part of New Brunswick, Canada. My heating system did not work well last winter and I want to see whether I can improve the piping in some way. The houses are 52x300 and twenty-two feet high to the ridge. The side walls are eight feet high; the lower half is stone and the upper half is glass. I have two boilers, each 150 horse-power. How many 1¼-inch pipes will be needed to heat one of the houses for roses? What is the best arrangement of the piping? W. P.



A simple way to heat the houses would be to take off five 2-inch flow pipes, carrying one on each plate, another ten feet below the ridge and the others on the purlins; or, if there are purlin posts, they may be on these, eight or ten feet from the floor. Connect each of these flow pipes at the farther end of the house with a coil of 1¼-inch pipes, using six pipes in each of the wall coils and three in each of the others.

The letter states that one of the houses is to be used for roses, but it does not indicate what temperature is desired in the other house. In case 50 to 55 degrees will suffice, it will only be necessary to use fifteen 1¼-inch returns, placing four on each wall and two under the purlins, with three in the middle coil. It would also be possible to dispense with the overhead feed pipes, putting in seven additional 1¼-inch pipes and distributing them among the coils. The drip water can be returned in a single 2-inch return or in a 1¼-inch return from each coil.

The Market.

The first week in December brought dark weather, but the market was fairly brisk. As a result of the dreary weather, the supply of flowers has shortened up considerably. Carnations are exceedingly scarce. Roses also are less plentiful, the best varieties being Shawyer, Russell, Richmond and Rhea Reid. Yellow roses are scarce and Killarney is off color. The orchid-flowering sweet peas are coming in nicely. Snapdragon is scarce. Stevia is quite plentiful and of excellent quality. There are some fine blooming plants on the market.

All florists are busy with wreaths and Christmas reds and greens, preparing for the holiday business, and are requesting the public to order early, although in this business the "early shopping" injunction may not be as effectual as in other lines of merchandise, since the goods are all of a perishable nature. The outlook for Christmas is considered good.

Various Notes.

Decorations for the opening of the new store of the Parrott Studio & Art Co. were effective and were by the Flick Floral Co.

The Bradley Flower Shop is featuring the Christmas greens and reds in the show windows, in the form of baskets of immortelles, ruscus and boxwood and French boutonnieres of immortelles.

The greenhouses of Frank Knecht & Co. are making an excellent showing of roses. Their Shawyer and Russell are particularly good. Carnations also are in splendid condition. Frank Knecht reports the business during the month of November to have made a substantial increase over the other months since the season opened.

W. J. & M. S. Vesey turned out a big run of funeral work December 6. They are cutting some good roses, but the carnation crop is short at present.

Funeral work was extra heavy at the establishment of A. J. Lanternier & Sons last week. They say business has been splendid since Thanksgiving.

The New Haven Floral Co. has been shipping some fine carnations and roses to this market. They had an extra good lot of chrysanthemums this season.

F. W. Rochelle & Sons.

Gentlemen:—In reply to your query would state that I planted seedling stock plants and snapdragon cuttings in the first lot of bands that I received from you early in January. We took some of them out and planted them where they are to remain about the 15th of February. They made a good growth while in the bands, and transplanted as though they had never been moved at all.

I have now about 14,000 carnation plants started in 2-inch bands, which are making a rapid growth, scarcely losing a plant in transplanting from the sand.

I also have about 20,000 aster plants transplanted in 2-in. bands, which can stay there till time to plant out of doors without fear of becoming root bound, as would be the case if I used 2-in. pots. Plants seldom become root bound enough to injure them in the dirt bands, and do not require near the amount of attention that a pot plant does, in watering, shifting, transplanting, etc.

I make my bands and set them in flats, as I make them up, each flat holding 117. When we get crowded indoors, it takes but a short time to move the flats to a cold frame where we harden them off before setting them in the field.

One man can set more than another time as many plants in the field from these bands and flats than he can from pots, and after he is through he does not have the bother with gathering up, cleaning and storing away a lot of pots.

I believe anyone using the bands once will become a regular customer.

Yours truly, H. B. Weaver.

CINCINNATI

The Market.

During the first part of last week the market was only fair, but, as the week progressed, the call for stock in general became better and better, and by the end of the week was good, so that nearly everything worth while cleaned up nicely. Shipping business is good. Roses are having a good market, and everything of any real quality in this line is selling readily. Richmond, White Killarney, Shawyer, Sunburst and Ivory are excellent. Killarney, however, is a little off color, owing to the cloudy weather we have been having for the last fortnight. American Beauties are cleaning up readily.

Carnations are selling better than at the last writing. Lilies, too, are meeting with a better market than in the early part of last week. The few good late mums that come in find a ready sale. Other offerings include violets, valley, orchids, sweet peas, stevia, callas, narcissi, baby primroses, wallflowers and forget-me-nots. Greens are abundant. Christmas decorative greens and material are meeting with a strong demand. The new winter berries are in the market and are excellent in quality.

Various Notes.

The Florists' Club will hold its next regular meeting December 14. The committee on the valuation of growing plants for taxation purposes will report.

C. E. Critchell received his first lot of winter berries last week.

The Cincinnati Cut Flower Exchange has been receiving good late chrysanthemums, which have been selling readily.

Tromey's Flower Shop has purchased Mrs. Henry Glins' store, at 1713 Vine street.

Mrs. C. E. Critchell has the sympathy of her many friends in the trade in the loss of her father, whose death occurred last week.

KNOXVILLE, TENN.

The Market.

Although the weather has been bad, business has been good and everyone seems to be getting the Christmas spirit and Christmas shopping has already begun. A number of orders have been booked for Christmas delivery. Funeral work has been heavy, while parties and dances have made a good demand for flowers.

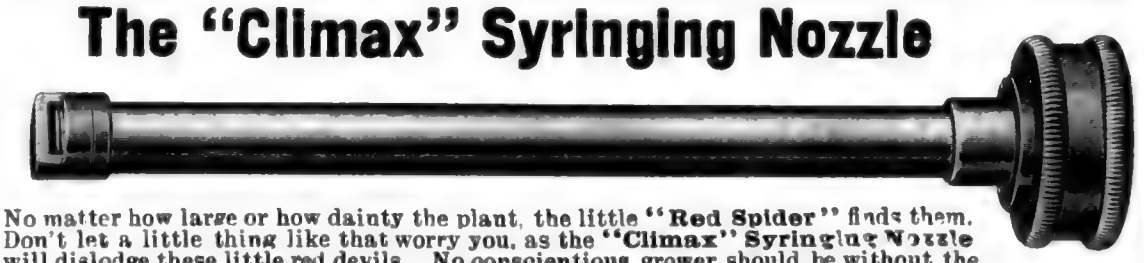
Stock is not so plentiful as it was at this time last year, but roses and carnations are of good quality and the supply is equal to the demand. Good chrysanthemums are all gone and there only remain a few straggling blooms of inferior quality.

Various Notes.

Clarence Peterson, of Cincinnati, was in Knoxville December 2, taking orders for Christmas delivery. He had some fine samples of begonias and cyclamens and received a number of orders. Mr. Peterson reports optimistically in regard to business throughout the southern states.

C. L. Baum is cutting some fine carnations and orchids. He will have a large number of fine azaleas in bloom for Christmas.

A. H. Dailey reports a good business for last week. He is making some changes and improvements about his store.



Addison J. McNutt had a good trade last week. His sweet peas are fine and will be in full crop for Christmas.

Mrs. Rosa Hall Ryno has been busy with funeral work. She is cutting some fine carnations.

The store force at Crouch's has been busy, funeral work being unusually heavy, while weddings, parties and dances have made a great demand for flowers, corsage work especially being good. R. E. M.

La Grange, Ill.—A special Saturday cash sale of chrysanthemums has been a source of profit to the La Grange Floral & Seed Co. There have been as many as thirty different varieties on sale at once at the store at 9 South Fifth avenue.

The "Climax" Syringing Nozzle

No matter how large or how dainty the plant, the little "Red Spider" finds them. Don't let a little thing like that worry you, as the "Climax" Syringing Nozzle will dislodge these little red devils. No conscientious grower should be without the "Climax" Syringing Nozzle. Made of brass and nickel-plated; makes a fine Xmas present for your fellow growers.
Price, postpaid, $1.25.

Guess Work Cut Out

ONE thing is certain about every certain thing about our construction—there is absolutely no guess work.

We do not use a thing because someone else does. We use it because we have proven it to be the best thing to use. Tomorrow, for example, after the results of a series of tests and experiments, we may prove to ourselves that some other thing which we are not using is better, and it will be promptly adopted.

It may seem, sometimes, as if we changed our minds overnight—when, as a matter of fact, we have been making tests and slowly changing our minds for months and months.

Based on elaborately intricate figuring, by our engineers, of roof stress and strains, we absolutely know that the method of bracing is the best for preventing lengthwise movement of greenhouses

Our salesmen know exactly why we use the things we use, the way we use them. If you but give them half a chance, they can prove up to you, step by step, why our materials and construction are beyond a question of doubt the very best in the market today.

When you are ready for such a talk, say when and where and one of us will be there.

500,000 CARNATION CUTTINGS.

We are devoting our entire plant to the growing of carnation cuttings. Our stock plants are grown cool and not allowed to flower, so all the strength goes to the cuttings. Experience had proved beyond question that these are far superior to cuttings taken from flowering plants. We have an abundance of stock and our propagators are instructed to use only perfect cuttings. These are now rooting nearly 100%.

We invite you to come and see our stock.

GOOD STOCK for you for another season means SUCCESS; POOR STOCK means FAILURE.

Our guarantee goes with every cutting and, if not satisfactory, may be returned and money back.

Boston (larger size)	30c and 40c

My ferns are nice, shapely plants, with strong fronds, and are giving great satisfaction. As they lift with a ball of soil, they are ready for sale very soon after potting. Try a sample order, I am sure they will please you. 5% discount cash with order, otherwise references.

In today's mail (Oct. 16) a Rochester, N. Y., party writes in placing an order for 50 ferns: "One thing I like about your ferns is that you leave on the runners, which makes the plants look better when potted up." In the same mail a florist in Saugerties, N. Y., writes: "The ferns I bought of you last year were perfectly satisfactory. Hope you will be able to do as well this year."
A. A. GANNETT, GENEVA, N. Y.

ROSES.

OPHELIA—
This new rose might be briefly described as a glorified Taft, having more yellow. The bud is yellow before opening, and after opening it blends into a beautiful coral pink, very vigorous growth, with but few thorns; very free bloomer and is not subject to ordinary disease. Will have a large quantity for January delivery.

Stroudsburg, Pa.—J. Howard Stone, who has conducted the Sylvania Floral Co. for a number of years, has sold his business to Samuel Stone and E. Frutchey, of Bangor. Mr. Stone, together with his wife and daughter, will go to Scranton, where he will have a position with Baldwin, Florist.

Phoebus, Va.—For the recent funeral of John W. Hudgins, foreman at the shipyard at Newport News, Mrs. Carrie M. Terry furnished, among other pieces, a 7-foot wreath with an anchor in the center. On account of the size of the design Mrs. Terry had a time of it in getting the piece to Newport News in her automobile.

Sheboygan, Wis.—William F. Altman has completed the first house, 34x210, of his range on North Eighth street. A propagating house is now in the course of construction and another large house will be built shortly. This will be devoted to pot plants. Next year a large greenhouse, to be used for roses, will be built. Mr. Altman was in business in Manitowoc a few years ago and afterwards conducted a wholesale business in Ogden, Utah, for some time.

Bailey's Standard Cyclopedia of Horticulture.

First and second volumes just off the press. Remaining volumes will be issued as soon as possible. The following are a few of the features to be found in this new work:

KEY TO IDENTIFICATION OF PLANTS.

This is a device to enable one to find the name of a plant. The name thus found is quickly referred to under its alphabetical location, where full information will be found in regard to it.

SYNOPSIS OF PLANT KINGDOM.

This is one of the most important features of the new edition. It constitutes a general running account of the classes, orders and groups of plants, with a brief sketch or characterization of 215 of the leading families comprising those that yield practically all the cultivated plants. These family descriptions give the botanical characters and the number of genera and species and the ranges.

THE GLOSSARY.

This is an analysis of all technical terms that are used in the work and in similar works.

TRANSLATION AND PRONUNCIATION OF LATIN NAMES.

In Volume I is inserted a list of between 2,000 and 3,000 Latin words used as species—names of plants, giving the English equivalent or translation and the pronunciation.

ILLUSTRATIONS.

There are 24 colored plates, 96 full-page sepia halftones, and more than 4,000 engravings which serve as guides in the text.

CLASS ARTICLES.

Special effort has been made to secure the best cultural advices for the plants requiring peculiar or particular handling.

GENERAL INDEX.

The final volume will contain a complete index to the entire work, enabling the reader to locate volume and page of any subject he has in mind. With the Index, Key, Synopsis and alphabetical arrangement of the Cyclopedia, any reasonable question asked by the consultant will receive a ready answer.

This work consists of six large quarto volumes, more than 3,600 pages, 500 collaborators, approximately 4,000 genera, 15,000 species and 40,000 plant names. Price, $6.00 per volume; $36.00 per set. Can be paid for one volume at a time.

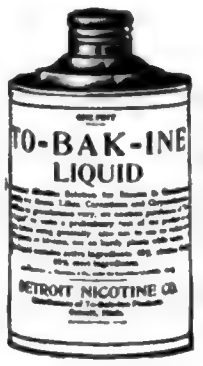
TO-BAK-INE

[TRADE MARK]

"THE OLD RELIABLE"

THE ABOVE BIRD'S-EYE VIEW REPRESENTS THE ENLARGED DETROIT NICOTINE CO.'S PLANT FOR THE MANUFACTURE OF TO-BAK-INE PRODUCTS.

The demand for To-Bak-Ine became so large that the output could not keep pace and during the summer of 1913 the size and capacity of the factory has been doubled. All orders can now be taken care of promptly.

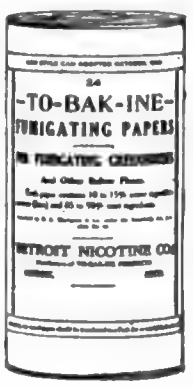


The use of tobacco stems and tobacco dust as an insecticide is well known; also the fact that the burning of them is frequently dangerous to greenhouse plants, due to the presence of ammonia, while they often have little or no effect on the insects, owing to the great variation of the Nicotine strength, sometimes containing practically none. Therefore it is impossible for the florist to secure satisfactory results unless he uses standardized products containing a definite amount of Nicotine. This quality is found in To-Bak-Ine Products.

The sales of To-Bak-Ine Products now are double those of previous years; we do not know how there could be a stronger testimonial to their merit.

TO-BAK-INE LIQUID

is a concentrated solution of refined Nicotine, always containing a definite amount (45% nicotine), adjusted by chemical assay, making it a most efficient insecticide for spraying or vaporizing. Free from ammonia and tobacco odor, makes it especially desirable for use on greenhouse plants and vegetables for killing insect pests and leaving no after odor or taste. TO-BAK-INE LIQUID is without doubt the cheapest insecticide on the market for spraying; its cost is nominal considering the value received and results obtained. No labor is required in making up solution.



Put up in ⅛-pint, ¼-pint, ½-pint, pint, ½-gallon, gallon and 5-gallon cans. Special 10 and 20-gallon casks for large users.

SPECIAL NOTICE

We wish to direct your special attention to the fact that when a florist buys Nicotine products by measure he gets more Nicotine than when he buys by weight. Most persons believe eight pounds make a gallon—but one gallon of To-Bak-Ine Liquid, containing 45% Nicotine weighs about 8¾ pounds and contains about 27,50 grains Nicotine.

To-Bak-Ine Liquid is the strongest and most high' refined Nicotine product offered, and costs no more, but less, than others when results are made comparative.

TO-BAK-INE FUMIGATING PAPER

is an especially prepared paper, each sheet being saturated with a definite amount of pure nicotine, making it a most valuable and extremely convenient and neat insecticide for fumigating purposes; it is also free from ammonia, which is present in ordinary tobacco smoke and extracts. TO-BAK-INE FUMIGATING PAPERS are recommended for use on delicate flowers and plants.

Put up in hermetically sealed tin cans of 24 full length sheets; ½ case, 6 cans, 144 sheets; 1 case, 12 cans, 288 sheets.

TO-BAK-INE FUMIGATING AND DUSTING POWDER

In some cases a slow and long fumigation is desirable, and therefore offer to the trade a fumigating powder for this purpose. This powder is unlike others on the market in that it is practically free from sand, therefore uniform in insect killing properties. Many of the powders offered are nothing more than tobacco dust, containing a large percentage of sand and practically no Nicotine, or very little.

TO-BAK-INE FUMIGATING AND DUSTING POWDER is also a finely powdered product and especially adapted for dusting or sprinkling on flowers, plants and vegetables.

Put up in 50 and 100-lb. bags.

To-Bak-Ine Products have been on the market many years and, if you happen to be one who never has used them, we urge you to try them, feeling sure they will prove so helpful to you that you will become one of the many thousands of regular users.

One of our 60 x 500-footers erected for W. H. Gullett & Sons, Lincoln, Ill. Latest Iron Frame, Flat Rafter Type

We Are Now Building House No. 3 of the New Gullett Range

DURING the latter part of the summer we built two iron frame, flat rafter greenhouses, each 60 feet wide and 500 feet long, for W. H. Gullett & Sons, of Lincoln, Ill. These greenhouses were manufactured and erected by us complete in every way, including the large service building, chimney, high pressure boilers, vacuum heating system and concrete work. These two houses constitute the beginning of a range of 24 such houses. Work is to go right on with this range, and we are building house No. 3 now. Part of the wood and steel work is on the ground, the posts are set and the concrete work is finished. The balance of the material is being shipped this week.

These are some of the most modern and finest houses that money can buy and well worth a visit to see. Write to us if you are interested—we will be glad to show them to you.

Remember, we build every kind of greenhouse, whether large or small, private or commercial.

Our ten dollar boxes and fifteen and twenty dollar boxes seem to please a lot of people.

The selection is left to us, to make the assortment of good, salable kinds, and we are very particular to get them right.

We have a number of standing orders of this kind for shipments two or three times a week.

Perhaps it will mean improvement in your rose business. It's worth a trial.

PLANTS FOR CHRISTMAS

Our Stock of blooming and foliage plants is extra large this year. Careful growing and selection of varieties have enabled us to offer our customers a fine lot of plants for Christmas, such as no one but "the Hustlers" can produce, and at prices that are reasonable for good stock.

BEGONIA Lorraine. The showiest of all blooming plants for Christmas. We have one big house of them in 6-in. pots, full of bloom, very fine, 75c and $1.00 each.

Extra heavy plants, very large, $1.25 and $1.50 each. 3-in. pots, $1.80 doz.

When visiting Philadelphia stop and give us a call; only 35 minutes' ride from Market St. Take car on Fifth St. marked Fox, Chase or Olney; get off at Bristol St. and walk two squares east.

AZALEAS. We have a choice lot of Mad. Petrick and Vervaeneana, in bloom for Christmas, 6 and 7-in. pots, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50 each.

PRIMULA Obconica, Grandiflora, Kermesina and Rosea. The best strains. 4-in., $1.20 doz.; 5-in., $2.00 doz.; 6-in. pans, $3.00 doz.

BEGONIA Luminosa. 5½-in., very fine stock, $3.00 doz.

CYCLAMEN Giganteum. One of our specialties, one house of them, in bud and bloom, the finest that can be found anywhere, in 5½-in. pots, 50c, 75c and $1.00 each.

POINSETTIAS. Made-up pans, 3 plants in an 8-in. pan, with three Ferns around, $1.25 and $1.50 each; 5-in. pot plants, 25c and 35c each, some branched. 4-in., 20c each.

FERNS

We are exceptionally strong on FERNS and ARAUCARIAS. Four large houses are filled with them, comprising Nephrolepis Teddy Jr., Scottii, Boston and Elegantissima Compacta, 10,000 of them in 6-in., 7-in. and 8-in. pots, very strong.

NEPHROLEPIS Teddy Jr. A new dwarf Fern, slightly crested; very fine and good seller; habit same as Scottii. 6-in. pots, $6.00 doz.; 8-in. pots, $1.00 each, very heavy.

NEPHROLEPIS Elegantissima Improved. 6-in. pots, $5.00 and $6.00 doz.; 8-in. pots, $1.00 each.

NEPHROLEPIS Scottii. 4-in. pots, $2.00 doz.; 6-in. pots, $4.00, $5.00, $6.00 doz.; 7-in. pots, 75c each; 8-in. pots, very strong, $1.00 each.

NEPHROLEPIS Bostoniensis. 7-in. pots, 75c each; extra big for the money.

PTERIS Wilsoni. 3 plants in a 6-in. pan, 25c each.

DISH FERNS. Our stock of these is very large, in six of the best varieties. 2½-in., $4.00 per 100.

ADIANTUM Hybridum. 4-in., $1.80 doz.

CYRTOMIUM Rochfordianum (Holly Fern). Extra large. 2½-in., $6.00 per 100.

ASPARAGUS Plumosus. 3-in. pots, $5.00 per 100.

ARAUCARIA Excelsa. The ever popular Christmas plant, in 6-in. pots, 4 to 5 tiers, 16 to 20 in. high, 75c each; 18 to 24 in. high, $1.00 each.

Our New Rose, Mrs. Moorfield Storey

Has a strong, upright growth, the wood being very stout and smooth, with large, handsome, dark green foliage, practically mildew or black-spot proof. The flowers, which are freely produced, are of good size and substance with abundant petals, opening freely. The color is a shell pink, deepening toward the center, with the large smooth petals tipped deep rose. It will be a fine, yet distinct, companion for the Mrs. Charles Russell rose.

THE FLORISTS' REVIEW

WINTER WINDOWS FREE FROM FROST

Winter's perennial problem for the storeman, to prevent steam and frost from forming on the show window, can be solved in several ways—Jack Frost should be no bar to the high-class displays of other seasons. Here are a number of methods employed to keep the glass clear; if you know a better, tell us of it.

WITH the coming of winter, inquiries as to the best means of preventing the formation of steam and frost on show windows begin to reach the office of The Review. Dissatisfied with the methods generally employed to this end, all of which have one disadvantage or another, The Review has sought for one which would enable its readers to dispose of this problem more easily. Many have had suggestions to offer. None of them, however, is entirely free from objection on one score or another. Perhaps there is no perfect method. All are practical, nevertheless, and The Review gives them to its readers, for use as befits their varying conditions.

Just the Wrong Time.

Steam forms on the window when the water vapor in the warm atmosphere of the store comes in contact with the cold glass. As the flower store has an unusually moist atmosphere, its windows are the more liable to be coated with frost, particularly in the coldest weather. Layer after layer of moisture freezes to the pane, so that the lower part sometimes becomes covered with ice on the days when the mercury is registering its minimum for the year.

These are just the days when the florist is most desirous of making an attractive display, to suggest to those who may see it that they brighten up their homes with flowers and plants. He can afford the least of all storemen to have his windows obscured at this time of the year. So his hunt for a preventive is an earnest one.

Heat in the front of the store does little or no good. In the old days, the burning of gas-jets in the window cleared only a circle within a few inches of the flame. There seem to be, widely speaking, but two general means of clearing the glass after frost has once formed, and two of preventing the moisture's collecting on the pane, one method serving for both.

Double Window Expensive.

In these is not included the construction of a double window. This is formed of two panes of glass, with an air chamber of about one-half inch in thickness between—similar in design to the doors of florists' refrigerators. These are said to be absolutely frost-proof, but they are pretty expensive if the florist has large window space. They are, also, bound to become dirty in time, even if they are as air-tight as can be made.

It seems that the closed-in window, that is, the one with the display space shut off by a partition from the rest of the store, is the one that is most easily frosted. The reason for this is obvious. Watering of plants, the presence of vases filled with water, etc., make the atmosphere in the window more moist than that in any other part of the store. If this moisture-laden air is shut off from the rest of the store, steam and frost will surely form on the glass whenever it is much colder than the air.

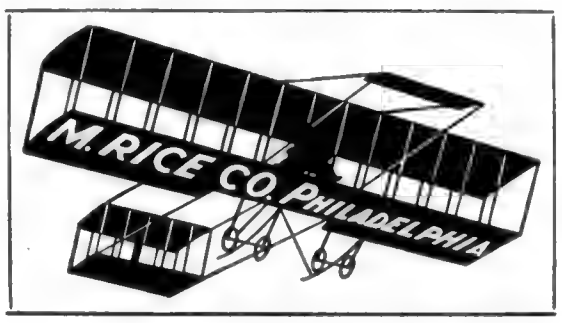
If, however, there is no partition between the window and the store, the circulation of the air will dissipate the water vapor from the window through the rest of the store. Florists who have a good circulation of air in their stores and windows open to the rest of the room, have, therefore, little or no trouble from frost or steam on their windows.

Attempts to create air circulation often lead to drafts, which work harm to the stock in the window and sometimes the rest of the store. This is the drawback to the suggestion of boring small holes in the sash at the top and bottom of the window, and to another, similar in character, of placing ventilators in these places.

Electric Fan Effective.

The simplest, and probably as common as any, means of removing steam and frost from the window, as well as of preventing their formation, is a small electric fan. A 10-inch electric fan placed in a corner of the window, and nearly facing it, will create a current of air that will carry away the moisture. This air movement both removes frost and steam from the glass and prevents their forming. Some florists declare their use of an electric fan in this way does not affect the flowers and plants on display.

Cold water is excellent for removing frost from the glass if it can be used in such a way as not to injure the window display. The florist may take his bulb spray and spray cold water on the glass, beginning at one corner of the top and going back and forth until the bottom is reached. If the construction of the window permits, he may flow cold water down the glass. This has to be done once or twice a day.



For preventing the formation of steam and frost, the application of a solution of glycerine and alcohol, say twice a week, is effective, but the window is not clear when thus coated. This method is, however, used to some extent. The quantity of each liquid varies with users. One says dissolve the glycerine in 63 per cent alcohol; another says take two parts of the latter to one of the former; still another recommends an equal amount of each. One recipe calls for the addition of some oil of amber to improve the odor. From one of the housewifely sex comes the suggestion that olive oil be used as a coating. For any and all of these, linen cloths—old napkins, one suggests—should be used to rub the liquid on the glass.

There are, also, preparations for sale which are rubbed on the glass with a soft cloth or chamois. Acting in the same manner as glycerine, these insure clear windows in the coldest and dampest of weather, according to those who make them. Some readers may have already used something of the kind to prevent the fogging of their spectacles or eyeglasses in cold weather, and know their worth.

APPLES AS ATTRACTION.

When the national apple show came to Spokane, Wash., last month, the window artist of Hoyt Bros. Co. still had in mind the article on timeliness in window displays which had occupied the front page of The Review shortly before. So he set about to produce an up-to-the-minute window, and the decoration shown in the illustration on the preceding page was the result. With the weight of her heaping cargo of apples, the good ship Columbia is listing slightly, but whether to larboard or starboard it is hard to state, for the vessel is canoe-shaped. From the rigging hung baskets of flowers, associating things pleasing to the eye with those pleasing to the palate. Cloth and wax paper in the foreground were used to produce an impressionistic effect of sea waves. Plants of various kinds formed an effective background, while others were placed in conspicuous positions in the front of the window.

New Store of Frank Obergfell, at Egg Harbor City, New Jersey.

YOUNG NEW JERSEY FLORIST.

Only two years ago last October Frank Obergfell started in the florists' business, at Egg Harbor City, N. J., with a 30-foot greenhouse erected by his father. He worked most of his time with his father, who is a butcher, and could devote only his spare time to greenhouse work. He made the business successful, however, and this last summer built the addition and store that are shown in the accompanying illustration. Although the town has only a population of about 5,000, Mr. Obergfell believes the store will prove a good investment.

GOTHAM RETAILERS ORGANIZE.

A number of the prominent retail florists of New York city have formed and incorporated a new association called the Associated Retail Florists, Inc. The first meeting was held at the Hotel Woodward, December 8, at which the following officers were elected: President, Michael A. Bowe; vice-president, Max Schling; treasurer, George E. M. Stumpp; secretary, William H. Siebrecht, Jr.; directors, Marshall Clarke, Max Schling, George E. M. Stumpp, Michael A. Bowe and William Burns.

At the first meeting resolutions were adopted, appealing to the commissioner of labor for his approval for the exemption of the florists in the city of New York and their employees from the operation of the rest clause of the labor law, which requires them to give employees twenty-four consecutive hours' rest each week; and also appealing to the industrial board for an order exempting florists from the provisions of the said law.

The following resolutions, showing the spirit of the association toward other organizations, were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, it is one of the purposes of this organization to promote a more enlarged and friendly intercourse between retail florists and horticulturists generally, as set forth in the first article of the certificate of incorporation, and more fully set forth in the by-laws, and,

Whereas, the members of this corporation believe that the true interests of all branches of the trade, including the retail florists, the wholesale florists and the growers, are identical, and,

Whereas, the corporation believes that whatever is for the true benefit of any one branch of the flower business will be for the benefit of all, therefore be it

Resolved, that this corporation shall, and hereby expresses its intention, to work in complete harmony with the other branches of the flower business, namely, the wholesalers and the growers; and further be it

Resolved, that no important action for the benefit of the trade generally shall be consummated until the plan thereof shall have been submitted to the other two branches of the trade, as represented by their organizations, and the results of their deliberations can be placed before this corporation.

A committee consisting of Messrs. Stumpp, Schling and Kottmiller was appointed to confer with the New York and New Jersey Association of Plant Growers, the Wholesale Florists' Protective Association and the New York Florists' Club, and to obtain their cooperation for the passage of an amendment to the section of the labor law above mentioned and to exempt florists from the operation thereof. The matter of closing hours on evenings and Sundays, steamship rates, and many other items came up for discussion and action.

This new association, which is being promoted by the Or-Man Corporation, already has over thirty members and new applications are coming in daily.

PLANTING IN CEMETERIES.

Lot Owners' and Florists' Rights.

It has become the practice for the larger cemeteries to bar florists from doing work for lot owners, the purpose of course being to pocket the profit that comes from the planting of graves and the care of lots. To settle the question whether cemetery companies have the right to enforce regulations of this character, the suit of Gen. R. Dale Benson and 175 other lot owners against the Laurel Hill cemetery, Philadelphia, was given a hearing December 9, before Judge Ralston in Court of Common Pleas No. 5.

The court was asked to enjoin the cemetery company from enforcing a resolution requiring that all plotting work and floral decoration of graves be done exclusively by gardeners selected by the management. This rule was adopted in November, 1913, and, unless declared void, will go into effect January 1.

Counsel for the lot owners contended that the resolution was a manifest attempt to shut out gardeners employed by lot owners, and if not enjoined, would give the company's florists and gardeners an unwarranted monopoly of work in the cemetery, and result in discrimination against independent gardeners.

Testimony was produced to show that the special corps of gardeners favored by the management charge higher prices for their work and, in many instances, the lot owners assert, were not as efficient and satisfactory as their own gardeners.

Counsel for the Laurel Hill management urged the necessity of a strict regulation in the employment of gardeners for the protection of the entire body of lot owners. Otherwise, he said, there would be undesirable invasion of the cemetery by irresponsible gardeners, whose work might not conform to requirements. As to the prices for the work desired by lot owners, it was pointed out this would not be to the disadvantage of the complainants, as alleged, but would be entirely regulated according to the quality and extent of the work done.

TELEGRAPH ORDERS GOOD.

Secretary Albert Pochelon, of the F. T. D., has sent out the following circular letter:

In view of the war conditions in Europe there will undoubtedly be an increase noted in the sending of flowers by telegraph in this country during the coming holiday period.

Much advertising has been carried forward by individual members of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery; special window displays have been in order from New York to San Francisco, showing the advantages of sending flowers by mail or telegraph at a distance with no added expense. Thousands of people are being appealed to in person by the better class of shopkeepers, who have in a measure instilled confidence with the flower buying public, so that friends may be remembered at a distance with nature's wares safely and promptly. Surely these earnest efforts have not been wasted, and thousands of dollars are reaching florists' channels; indirectly, the wholesaler, grower, tradesman, and directly the shopkeeper.

The opportunity of testing out this comparatively new but important phase of our welfare is at hand. Advertise flowers by telegraph during the coming holidays—in the newspapers, in trade papers, on sign boards or automobiles, special pamphlets, on billheads or telegrams if you like, but do try to persuade some of the prospective thousands into using this convenient phase of the flower business and reimburse yourself as well as your brother florist.

The officers and directors of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery wish to thank those whose constant efforts in this direction are bringing in such handsome returns, and extend to them a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. Irwin Bertermann, Pres.

A TOPICAL REVIEW.

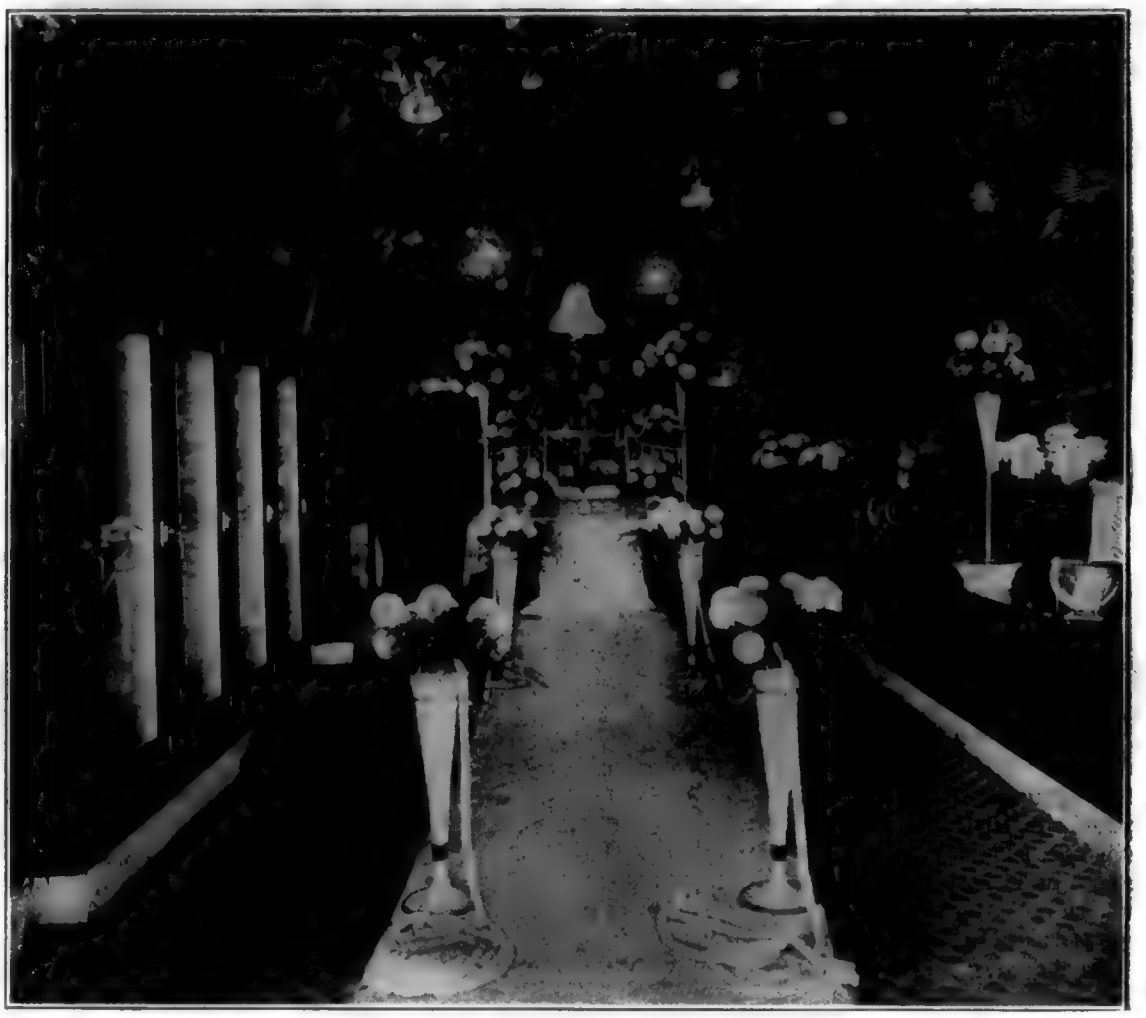
Under Southwestern Conditions.

A clerical edict against the use of flowers at funerals may not have the effect of a boycott, but it hurts, and Kansas City says it does. Of course there are certain abuses, but one might as well forbid Christmas, wedding, birthday and other gifts. Whether or not it is within the pale of the church to discuss commercial matters from the pulpit in favor or disfavor of various interests is not for me to answer.

The wealthy look upon credit as a privilege. Retailers catering to this class of trade find it more difficult with every year to collect outstanding accounts. Many of them deem it propitious to cash in sixty per cent of the total. Deadbeatism is the order of the day, and owing to strife and competition, the florists' associations accomplish little toward eradicating this evil. In such matters the ego seems to predominate, though the year winds up with losses or without profit. Thus, a number of retailers trying to do a cash business in a credit zone eke out a miserable existence, for high rents and other fashionable expenses render a net earning impossible. In business just to gain a livelihood and to be one's own boss is a hazardous enterprise and has no commendable feature.

One should distinguish between art florists and "truck bloomers." The latter are the cheap-Johns of the trade, and with more luck than knowledge, are largely responsible for many of the evils obtaining in the commission, wholesale and retail branches. During the halcyon days of the industry, they were scarcely noticed and their "truck" went with the general stock at average prices. But the business has become so tense that brains must figure largely in conducting the business at a profit and maintaining its integrity.

One-half of the florists pretend ignorance of how the other half exist. Taking into account the augmented cost through rapid delivery and other service and the lesser consumption and cheapening of funeral and other work, the pretension seems charitable. Some one must be the loser, pay the freight and get little for the goods, and the plaints of the small growers seem not without cause.



There has been some complaint about flower and plant hucksters or peddlers buying from and selling to every Tom, Dick and Harry at unfixed prices. Marketing cripple and cull stock not only disturbs the standard of the trade, but injures fair competition.

Everyone may be the architect of his own fortune, but the botch line should be drawn on some landscape architects excelling chiefly through bizarre unsymmetry and tangles and the amount of sod they can dispose of because some patch yielded it without cost.

Buying seeds, bulbs, nursery stock, etc., by catalogue from a distance without guarantee and cash in advance, is one of the idiosyncrasies characterizing the average American farmer and gardener, despite the fact the local or nearby dealer sells just as cheaply and with recourse. Fads and fashions and whims devour as many millions as a small war.

"Mail orders filled by parcel post; telegraph orders by express," is a new window sign. Which wins?

Antiquated houses, or Noah's arks, as a wag puts it, may still grow for the market without accumulating debt with every season, but the grower must have become past master in florihusbandry. John B. Rindfleisch.

Store of Mills the Florist, Jacksonville, Fla., Decorated for an Opening.

FLORIDA FIRM'S FALL OPENING.

Probably one of the most ambitious exhibitions that has been attempted by any florist's concern in the south was that got up by Mills the Florist, Inc., at Jacksonville, Fla., for the firm's annual fall opening and reception. The store was elaborately decorated with white and yellow chrysanthemums, about 1,200 being used altogether. The rose and palm gardens outside were also decorated for the occasion by Mr. Lynch, the interior decorator and designer.

The event of the evening, however, was the appearance of Miss Farrin, who represented, successively, a bridesmaid, matron of honor, bride in wedding costume and bride in traveling dress, carrying exquisite bouquets appropriate for each person and costume represented. As the bride entered the arched doorway to the music of the wedding march and passed along the aisle, shown in the view of the store given herewith, to the kneeling stool at the altar in the rear of the room, carrying a large shower bouquet of orchids and valley, the spectators were as much impressed as if they had been witnessing a real ceremony in a church.

The bouquets were later placed on view in the rose garden outside, where a large number of roses were also shown. In the receiving line were the officers of the company: President, C. D. Mills; vice-president, F. L. White, and secretary and treasurer, C. Leslie Whipp. To close the evening, a spread was given the employees of the store.

Waterford Works, N. J.—Charles H. Ballier is at present rebuilding his greenhouses. He intends putting in some tomatoes about March 1.

ORCHIDS

Light.

We are approaching the shortest and darkest day of the year and, with a few exceptions, orchids now need all possible light. If any shade remains on the glass, remove it. If whitewash has been used, instead of kerosene and white lead, which softens up and removes quite readily, use a little sal soda in warm water and with a long-handled mop dampen the parts to be cleaned. This is better than using a syringe, which wets and helps to remove paint from the woodwork. Where orchid houses gather considerable soot, the roofs should be given a scrub-down followed by a hosing. If shading is left on cattleyas now, the plants will remain a fine, dark green color, but they become soft and will flower disappointingly.

Ventilation.

The cattleya house should rarely be tightly closed. In fact, except during really severe weather, a chink of air can be left on either at the top or the bottom ventilators. Where small ventilators are provided in the walls, these can be left at least partly open on all but a limited number of nights in the year. Avoid a close, moist atmosphere where cattleyas are growing. They must have air. The close conditions, however, are more to the liking of phalænopsis, cypripediums and other East Indian varieties.

Watering.

Plants for the next two months will need less water at the roots than at any other period of the year. All watering should be done in the morning and clear days should be selected for the work. On dark, damp days leave watering alone altogether. The plants can well wait one or two days, and perhaps you may have noticed that plants which are kept on the dry side are much healthier looking than such as are kept a little too moist. Cattleyas, such as labiata, Bowringeana, Portia, etc., that recently have finished flowering, should be kept drier than such as are flowering or making up their bulbs. As fire heat is now used steadily, sufficient moisture should be kept on the floors and below the benches so that there will be no chance for spider or thrips to get a foothold on such varieties as are susceptible to their attacks.

Potting.

Such cattleyas as labiata can be taken in hand almost at once and any potting or surface dressing done. All plants which have roots hanging over the edges of the pots should be repotted. Cattleyas with overhanging roots always have a stunted, half-shriveled appearance. Osmunda fiber is the best potting medium for practically all orchids and, as there will soon be lots of overhauling needed, it would be well to secure a good supply of fiber, also some live sphagnum moss, which is useful for surface-dressing odontoglossums and many of the East Indian warm house varieties. For cattleyas, use the coarser grades of the fiber, which is the most indestructible. Shake out all loose, dusty material first. It need hardly be said that all orchids, no matter whether in pots, pans or baskets, should be thoroughly firmed. Plants which will wobble around will never do any good.

Sponging.

This is the season when there is more time to do necessary sponging and cleaning than at any other period. In addition to sponges, sharp-pointed sticks and small, stiff brushes are needed to thoroughly remove scale from the ends of the pseudo-bulbs. Apply an insecticide when sponging. Sponge the bulbs well in addition to the foliage. Cut away any remains of old sheaths, which are excellent lurking places for plant pests. At the same time cut away all dead and useless growths. It is really surprising what an improved appearance a batch of orchids presents which has been carefully sponged and trimmed.

WHY AZALEAS ARE INSPECTED.

In the December news-letter of the Federal Horticultural Board, containing the monthly list of pests found on importations of florists' and nursery stock, C. L. Marlatt, chairman of the board, gives the following statement of the need of inspecting azaleas and like stock:

"The question has been asked several times whether it is necessary to inspect florists' supplies, such as azaleas, which are often destroyed as soon as their rather transient decorative use is over. The risk with azaleas and plants of this kind is in the repeated finding in such material of gipsy-moth egg masses, as reported in news-letters hitherto issued. An additional instance of this kind is reported in this news-letter, on azaleas from Belgium. It does not seem safe to neglect inspection of any imported plant which may be field-grown. Quite frequently, also, azaleas and similar plants are set out in gardens or dooryards after their house use is completed, or are thrown out in yards or vacant lots, where the hatching larvæ later on may easily gain access to vegetation."

OPEN LETTERS from READERS.

ANOTHER "PENT UP UTICA."

While on the train en route to New York I bought a Utica newspaper from the train boy—the Utica Daily Press, dated November 27. I thought I would see at least the advertisements of four or five florists, but I was much surprised to find none.

Now, if I remember correctly, there are about thirty florists in the vicinity of Utica, and it is a good shipping point too. In checking up the ads in the paper, I found, exclusive of the classified ads, the announcements of druggists, shoe stores, clothing stores, jewelers, milliners, cigar dealers, department stores, plumbers, opticians, window cleaners, etc., in all about forty different lines. Chief among them to attract my attention was a 4-inch ad, well displayed, offering artificial eyes.

Now, if it pays to advertise in the daily papers artificial eyes, it certainly would pay some florist to advertise. I would not be a bit surprised to find that business in the floral line is "dull" in Utica; I would not wonder at it at all. Florists must advertise. Utica is no exception particularly, for there are scads of other towns with good dailies of which florists do not take advantage.

In this same Utica paper eight inches of news space was devoted to a flower bazaar held in some auditorium, opened that day. It certainly surprises me that florists do not seem to realize the enormous power of the daily newspapers and take advantage of it more than they do.

To compare the demand for glass eyes with that for flowers in the vicinity of Utica ought to make the florists ashamed of themselves.

YEATS ON DESCRIPTIONS.

In an article in The Review for December 10 I notice a letter in regard to "Roses of the Future." This article will perhaps bring forth a great deal of intelligent talk on the rose and will perhaps do the trade in general some good, as it should.

Mr. Betscher seems to leave it all to the rosarians to give us the new and perfect roses. The rosarians have given us some fine things in the line of new roses, we must admit, but how many of us who have been in the trade, say, twenty-five years, have bought descriptions? This seems to be the age of descriptions, especially in our line.

We are perhaps like a mother with her first-born babe. When we get a new variety, we think it the finest thing on earth and send it out to the trade with a glowing description before it has been tried out to such an extent that we know it is a winner. I have no doubt that there have been a number of extra good roses and other plants originated on small places that went by the board and never were introduced to the trade, for want of glass area or perhaps lack of funds.

In regard to a rose without thorns, that in my mind would be absurd; a rose would lose half its beauty if deprived of its thorns, as Mr. Betscher would have it. Let us get as near a perfect and profitable rose in color, size, stem and production per plant as possible, and let the thorns alone; that is my idea.

I have been growing a rose for the last three seasons, a seedling. I have propagated it sparingly and this year I have 300 plants blooming. It is as near Mr. Betscher's description of a good rose as can be, with the exception that it has thorns. In fragrance it is unlike any other rose, a real fruity fragrance. In color it is a real red, so much so that when placed by a Richmond it has a tendency to make Richmond look like a dark pink rose. In blooming qualities it will rival the Enchantress carnation. I have never sold a rose from this variety, yet I have been offered as high as 50 cents for a single flower on a short stem when seen by my customers. I have christened this rose Mrs. Sarah Yeats, and intend to introduce it in 1916. J. E. Yeats.

YELLOW LEAVES ON KILLARNEY.

Please let me know what is the matter with my Killarney roses. I mulched them with decayed horse manure and they seemed to bear a crop of yellow leaves inside of a week. I have been using a good deal of sulphur for the purpose of checking mildew. E. K.

At this time of the year, when the days are short and the majority of them cloudy, the lower leaves of all roses, especially Killarneys, ripen and turn yellow easily. A large amount of sulphur will hasten the trouble, but there is nothing that will cause it more quickly than a mulching of either sheep or horse manure. Both of these manures are strong in ammonia, and, as it is not possible to give any great quantity of fresh air through ventilation, the air in the house becomes charged with ammonia thrown off by the manure and will cause a large quantity of the leaves to turn yellow. Therefore it is not advisable to mulch during this time with manure containing a large percentage of ammonia. W. J. K.

BLACK SPOT ON ROSES.

What is the best remedy for black spot on roses? Please tell me if you know of anything I can do for them. R. G. S.

About the only remedy for black spot on roses is to keep, if possible, all moisture off the foliage as long as there are traces of the disease to be seen, also picking off all affected leaves and blowing air-slaked lime through the house to dry up the moisture in the air. This treatment will usually cure a dose of black spot in three to four weeks, but during this time the plants should never be allowed to suffer from dryness at the root, or they are liable to receive a bad check, which may do them as much harm as the black spot. W. J. K.

SULPHUR FOR MILDEW.

What method is used for applying sulphur to steam pipes, for the checking of mildew on roses? Or would the application of the powdered sulphur with a blower answer the same purpose? In either case, how often should the sulphur be applied? Is sulphur the best remedy for mildew, or is there a more effective one? S. J. J. & S.

So far as known, sulphur is still the most effective preventive of mildew. Sulphur can be applied with a blower, dusting it on the foliage, or it can be dissolved in water to a thin liquid and painted on the heating pipes. The former method is mostly used during the summer; the powder is applied on clear days, while the foliage is dry, and the application should be repeated after the plants are syringed as long as there are signs of mildew. Some mix air-slaked lime with the sulphur, whether used as a powder or as a liquid. When mixed with the powder and blown on the foliage, the lime takes up any moisture in the house; when painted on the heating pipes with the sulphur, the lime helps to hold the sulphur to the pipes, as it otherwise easily drops off, especially if painted on too thick. It is a good idea to keep a little sulphur painted on one pipe in each house at all times, as a preventive. W. J. K.

POT PLANTS FOR EASTER.

Will you kindly advise us how to cut back pot-grown Conrad F. Meyer and J. B. Clark roses for Easter forcing? Are they handled the same as hybrid perpetuals, or as climbers, and how much time should they be given? L. & S.

Conrad Ferdinand Meyer is a variety of Rosa rugosa and will not do well treated like the hybrid perpetuals. It must be pruned lightly. While a splendid outdoor rose, I do not consider it a particularly desirable sort for forcing.

J. B. Clark is a hybrid tea. All this section must be cut back much less severely than the hybrid perpetuals. Remove dead and weak wood, merely cutting back the strong shoots about one-fourth their length. If wanted for Easter, which comes April 4, start both these roses early in January in a cold house. As growth starts, give them 58 to 60 degrees at night. Run a trifle cooler as the buds show color. C. W.

MOTT-LY MUSINGS.

Jack frost was a welcome visitor to Norfolk, Va., when he cut down the outdoor mum crop, which was heavy. The blooms presented a sorry sight in the market the next morning. The trade is jubilant, for this makes the prospects good for holiday business. All are advertising extensively.

Blick, of Norfolk, offers to escort those interested out to his greenhouses; J. W. Felton has a most inviting and suggestive window; Grandy the Florist is offering Saturday specials in dollar boxes, and each is aiming to stimulate trade.

Norfolk seedsmen are well satisfied with the season's work. Geo. Tait & Sons, Norfolk, have just received a big importation of spinach, one of their heaviest lines at this time. The low temperature has cut off the crop of peas and beans; ten baskets of peas formed the last shipment and they sold for $5 per basket. The snap bean yield has been ahead of previous years. The return for spring was 265,000 baskets; for fall, 150,000 baskets. The prices have kept up well. The Williams Seed Co., Norfolk, is the latest addition to the ranks, catering especially to the retail trade. They are handling bulbs of extra fine quality, in keeping with their other lines and their surroundings.

F. L. Wertz, Roanoke, Va., has succeeded to the business of Cannaday & Wertz and has opened a store downtown. The store is complete in every detail and he will undoubtedly benefit by the move. Mr. Wertz is well satisfied with the outlook.

J. J. Fallon, of Lynchburg and Roanoke, Va., is well prepared with a fine lot of stock for the holiday season. Corsage bouquets are being worn with considerably more green than usual.

Howard Gardner, Greensboro, N. C., is a trinity, being a druggist, seedsman and owner of the Summit Avenue Greenhouses, an enthusiast in all. He is especially proud of his Timothy Eaton mums, some of which brought 50 cents apiece—strong evidence of skillful culture.

A. W. Richardson, Savannah, has rebuilt his entire range and is producing a fine supply for his retail trade.

Mills the Florist, Inc., Jacksonville, Fla., looks for a banner season, owing to the promised increase of tourists, who are already beginning to arrive.

The E. A. Martin Seed Co., Jacksonville, is issuing its seed catalogue for 1915. The company reports a steadily increasing business.

Reasoner Bros., Oneco, Fla., expect the sale of the new Foster grapefruit will surpass anything they have sent out. One attraction is the delicate pink color of the flesh.

The Buckeye Nurseries, Tampa, Fla., report a big call for citrus trees, showing the popularity of this fruit.

Griffing Bros. Co., Jacksonville and Miami, Fla., is executing some large planting contracts.

Stulbs Nursery, Augusta, Ga., is carrying a local display advertisement on bulbs and finds it a profitable investment.

The Alexander Seed Co., Augusta, with an excellent record dating back to before the Civil war, became involved through unfortunate speculations in cotton seed. The company has cleaned the slate and, under the management of C. E. Brush, who was associated with H. G. Hastings & Co., of Atlanta, several years, assisted by F. S. Love, promises to place the business on its former footing. Two Holland bulb salesmen were here recently. One waited outside while the other made his call. The waiter then had his innings and by his knocking prevented either from getting any business.

Virginia holly is heavily berried and in perfect condition. Large shipments are noted passing out of the state.

One of the finest window decorations ever noted by the writer was seen recently at the store of John Wanamaker, in Philadelphia. Large specimens of Aucuba Japonica, studded with tiny red electric lights amid the broad variegated foliage, presented a charming effect and attracted crowds.

BRAMPTON, ONT.

The Market.

Business continues fair. "Nothing to grumble about" is the phrase that best sums up the situation. The florists doing the higher class of work will find a vast difference between this year's and last year's turn-over—due to no fault of their own, of course—but they take things philosophically. In the mining districts, strange to relate, the volume of trade is greater than at this time last year.

Christmas prospects are encouraging, all things considered, and orders are coming in freely. Prices on all classes of stock are somewhat lower than those prevailing last year, and every inducement is being given, both by wholesalers and retailers, to facilitate business during the festive season.

Visiting the Growers.

Saturday, December 5, was set apart by the Brampton growers for a visit to the various greenhouses at Bracondale and Richmond Hill. About twenty made up the party which left on the morning train, at 7:47, and called first at Miller & Sons' establishment, at Bracondale, where they were conducted through the houses by E. Miller and A. Jordan. The carnation crop came in for special commendation. Richmond Hill was reached about 11 o'clock and the visitors were shown over W. J. Lawrence's range. They also had an opportunity to admire the fine lot of roses being grown by George Mills in his houses.

The new conservatories of J. H. Dunlop were the next objective. Mr. Dunlop and his son escorted the growers through the entire establishment and every opportunity was afforded them to see the workings of the whole system, which seemed in excellent going order. The new varieties of roses attracted a good deal of attention; the head grower, Mr. Hooley, had been rather fortunate with some of these.

To the surprise and delight of the party, all the members were courteously invited by Mr. Dunlop to dinner at the local hotel. There, after an excellent meal and some fine speeches, a vote of thanks was proposed by Jack Miller, of the Dale Estate, on behalf of the growers, and a most pleasant afternoon was thus brought to a close. Supper and theater-going in Toronto filled in the evening's amusement.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.

The Market.

Christmas is fast approaching and the trade in general is almost as anxious for the time to come as are the little folks, who are impatiently waiting for Santa Claus to appear. The season thus far has not been entirely satisfactory, and while there may not have been actual losses, the profits have been almost nil. Florists hope to make up the deficiency in sales, due to the general business depression, by a banner Christmas trade. From the appearance of stock in general, both cut flowers and plants, expectations should be realized. A cold snap has put in an appearance and this adds greatly to chances of a fine Christmas business.

Supplies are having a good sale, and ruscus, frieze, holly and wreaths of all kinds and descriptions are being disposed of readily. Advance orders on plants are pouring into the market, and besides the satisfaction of fine plant sales, this gives, undoubtedly, an indication of what the magnitude of the cut flower sales will be.

Carnations are in good supply, and prices have begun their advance for the holidays. The quality is fine and the crop will be exceptionally good. This is a distinct relief, after the extreme shortage of last year.

Roses are somewhat shorter in quantity than they should be, but as the indications are that they will be more plentiful next week, it is to be assumed that there will be enough to go around.

Wisconsin-grown violets are not nearly so plentiful as we should like to see them, and it is to be feared that the supply for Christmas will not nearly equal the demand. Valley has been in good supply and has been finding a ready market. Other stock is running well, and on the whole a fine Christmas business can be expected.

Various Notes.

The charity ball and the horse show, Milwaukee's two annual society events, have just taken place. The florists reaped their usual quota of orders.

Saturday, December 12, was a gala day for the Racine Floral Co., Racine, Wis., which opened its new building to the public on that day. The building is three stories high and is modern in every respect. The location, at 219 Sixth street, is a good one, and on the opening day the store was thronged with visitors, who were entertained by some excellent harp music.

H. J. S.

At the monthly meeting of the Milwaukee Florists' Club, December 3, the following officers were elected: President, William C. Schroeder; vice-president, Henry W. Kummer; treasurer, James Livingstone; secretary, Eugene Oestreicher; trustee for three years, Richard Leitz; trustee for two years, Arthur Leidiger. The club has sixty members.

BOSTON.

The Market.

From December 7 to 10 the cut flower trade was dull. We had, at the same time, cold, dark weather, which materially restricted the output. December 11 an improvement was noticeable. This continued until December 14. There is no decided advance, but there is less of a glut, for which we are thankful. Carnations are doing much better and have advanced more in price than any other flowers. Select flowers now make $4 and $5. The quality is splendid. Particularly fine are Matchless, Gorgeous, Champion, Pink Delight, White Wonder and Benora. Roses have not done so well as carnations, but are better than they were. The demand continues the best for such sorts as Ophelia, Russell, Hadley, Ward and Sunburst. Killarney and White Killarney drag more or less. Beauties sell a little better, but the usual holiday advances are lacking.

There are still plenty of chrysanthemums. Some really good Nonin, Maud Dean, Chadwick and Bonnaffon still arrive; also plenty of pompons and singles. The latter now have a faded look, however. Violets, owing to the colder weather, are less abundant and sell a little higher. Sweet peas are good; some select flowers make $1, but more go at 50 cents. Bachelor's buttons and yellow marguerites are each a little slow; so are lilies, snapdragons and valley. Stevia is abundant; so are Paper Whites. A few yellow trumpet daffodils and tulips have arrived. These, as yet, are short-stemmed.

Cattleya Trianæ is now coming quite freely, in addition to C. Percivaliana. There is an abundance of cypripediums. Asparagus, as the holidays draw near, sells a little better. Christmas greens of all kinds are in active demand. They are generally of good quality. Trade in pot plants has braced up, but is not equal to that of former years. Cyclamens, poinsettias, azaleas and begonias are the leaders.

Club Meeting.

There were 130 members at the meeting of the Florists' Club December 15, at which officers were elected as follows: President, H. H. Bartsch; vice-president, James Methuen; treasurer, Peter Fisher; secretary, W. N. Craig; executive committee, W. J. Kennedy, P. M. Miller, W. J. Patterson, George M. Anderson, A. K. Rogers. Four new members were elected. A splendid stereopticon lecture on modern greenhouse construction was delivered by W.

R. Cobb, sales manager for Lord & Burnham Co.

A fine collection of Christmas plants, including poinsettias, begonias, azaleas, etc., was placed on the exhibition table by W. W. Edgar Co. S. J. Goddard brought some splendid carnations, including Gloriosa, Beacon, Champion, Yellowstone, Matchless, White Wonder, Pink Delight and Gorgeous. H. A. Stevens showed a white seedling carnation. Littlefield & Wyman staged blooms of a new pink seedling and M. A. Patten & Co. showed two new light pink seedlings. F. W. Fletcher & Co. put up two snapdragons, Nelrose, pink, and Phelps, white. W. N. Craig also brought a white snapdragon.

Various Notes.

A meeting of growers, salesmen, retailers and others identified with the cut flower industry was held at the American House December 12. The two wholesale flower markets called the meeting, which was well attended. The object was to discuss the best methods for relieving the congestion now ruling in cut flower circles. Many of those present expressed their views on the subject, but no definite conclusion was arrived at. An adjourned meeting will be held January 11, when the subject will be again taken up.

President S. J. Goddard, of the American Carnation Society, will be glad to hear from all New England growers who are planning to attend the Buffalo convention, and will be most happy to give all possible information as to rates, hotels, etc. All should apply early, so as to secure reservations. Growers in this section are planning to send a good number of exhibits and expect the best meeting ever.

Wax Bros. have had a third telephone installed, to take care of their increasing trade. They are looking forward to good Christmas business.

Peirce Bros., of Waltham, are well pleased with Prince d'Arenberg rose and are cutting a fine lot of it. They also have a good Christmas crop of Sunburst, Ward, Taft, Killarney Queen and Killarney Brilliant.

The Hanover Greenhouses, of Hanover, Mass., specialize in carnations. They have a fine Christmas crop of Matchless, Fenn, Beacon, Pink Delight and White Enchantress, also bachelor's buttons.

The Sutermeister Estate, of Readville, has a splendid lot of well fruited solanums for the holidays. They started cutting Trumpet major narcissi this week and have plenty of freesias just opening.

Zinn has moved from his former stand on Park street to the store formerly occupied by F. H. Houghton. He has a well appointed and attractive store now at 4 Park street.

Sam Beck is handling pink and white asters in quantity from James Tulis, of South Sudbury. These are quite out of season, but do not sell well while mums are abundant and cheap.

R. P. Peterson, of Saxonville, who handles a number of specialties well, started to cut myosotis as early as December 1, and it is of good quality for this early date.

I am pleased to report W. H. Elliott as improving nicely. He was able to leave the hospital this week and go to his Brighton home. From Madbury, N. H., Mr. Elliott now has, among other roses, fine Cecile Brunner, Hadley, Miller, Ward, Sunburst, Killarney Queen and Killarney.

H. M. Robinson & Co. report business as so good that all hands are kept at work until 11 p. m. each night.

Thomas Capers has some well grown and flowered mignonette in pots. Among carnations I noted that he had Enchantress extra fine, also Pink Delight, Beacon, Benora and White Wonder.

Penn is busy this week with pot plant trade. Among other varieties noted here were Buddleia Asiatica, acacias and camellias. The windows here have a real Christmas appearance.

John W. Foote has some nice, stocky and well bloomed Carnation Beacon in pots. There is surely a big field of possibility here for plant growers. Even at our annual carnation shows few, if any, carnations are seen in pots. It is otherwise in Europe. I feel sure that nicely flowered carnations would sell well here. It is worth some grower's while to try it out.

John A. Nelson, of Framingham, in addition to his always well grown carnations, is now getting a superior cut of white snapdragons.

Patrick Welch continues to improve at his Dorchester home, but is still kept away from business. David Welch reports business as good as could be expected under existing conditions.

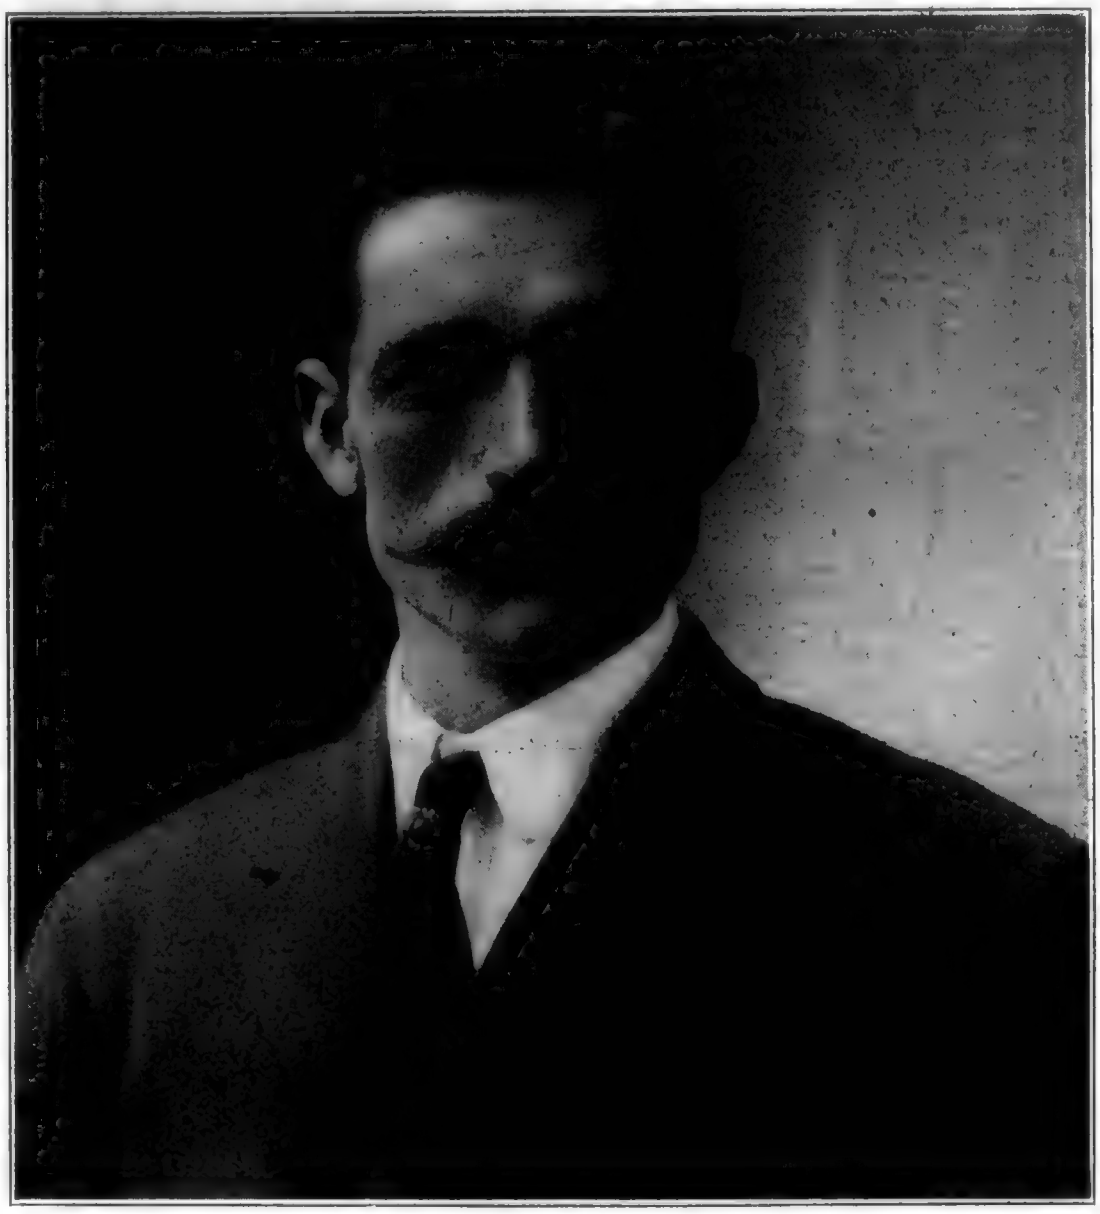
J. Newman & Sons, on Tremont street, are well equipped for Christmas trade and orders with them are coming in satisfactorily.

Paul Brigham, of the Westboro greenhouses, whose flowers are handled by Herbert T. Capers, is shipping in Carnation Eureka in quantity. He grows twelve other varieties, the best being Matchless, White Wonder, Mrs. Ward, Beacon, Fenn, Rosette and Benora.

A. M. Davenport already has a fine lot of Proserpine and yellow tulips in bloom. He is getting well cleaned up on flowering plants.

A large central mound of Adiantum Farleyense was a feature in one of Galvin's windows last week. Plants of Cypripedium insigne and large vases of Ophelia roses were also used advantageously.

R. E. Wadsworth & Co. continue to send in fine mignonette. Among their best carnations are Pocahontas, Matchless, Philadelphia, Champion, White Wonder and Pink Delight.



Thomas Roland is getting a good cut of roses now from his Revere plant. His recently completed house, 76x650, will be planted with tomatoes for a first crop.

The Houghton-Gorney Co., on Tremont street, reports business as quiet during the first half of last week. They had one large Back Bay wedding order and now trade is much better.

The West Street Greenhouses, of Reading, are cutting a fine crop of Spencer sweet peas in several colors. Their bachelor's buttons are also good.

H. H. Rogers, of South Sudbury, has a splendid grade of mignonette at present. Among carnations he grows mostly White Enchantress, Fenn, Beacon, Pink Delight and Winsor.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

The week opens with lighter shipments, the storms are over, the sun is shining and the promise for Christmas is encouraging. The financial markets are in full swing again, and the flower-buying brokers are busy and jubilant. Debutante receptions have been numerous. There have been some notable wedding decorations also, and the outlook for the holidays is better than anticipated.

The market suffered last week because of almost continuous rain. It was not until Friday that any buoyancy was manifest. Saturday was also good, and the surplus was light as the week ended. However, Monday was clear and cold, and with diminished supplies, a steady level of prices is maintained. The quality of everything arriving is exceptionally good.

It is believed generally that the volume of the holiday trade will be equal to that of other years, but the preparation for the demand shows an expectation of more economical selection, and so the retail florists construct their combination Christmas boxes and baskets accordingly.

American Beauty roses grow more perfect daily, and the demand increases with the cold. Hadley, Sunburst and Russell are great favorites, and Ophelia everybody takes to. Prices for the novelties are satisfactory.

Longiflorum lilies developed greater strength last week and will doubtless continue strong until Christmas. The shipments are increasing.

Chrysanthemums will last until 1915, but the "reserves" are few, and no one seems sorry to shelve the "autumn queen." A few of the best late ones bring about $2 a dozen. Valley is abundant and prices low. No signs of any shortage yet, and importations of pips are as large as usual. Orchids are not in oversupply and may now be had in variety. Cypripediums are here again also, and there is promise of C. Trianæ and D. formosum for Christmas.

Carnations are of splendid quality, Matchless especially so, but prices ruled low all the week and only began their advance on Saturday. Violets have ruled far below the Thanksgiving prices. They have now touched bottom. Quality could not be better. There is an abundance of all the other seasonable flowers, sweet peas, mignonette, narcissi, hyacinths, bouvardia, daisies, lilac, etc.

Of Christmas greens there is no end —holly, laurel, wild smilax, Christmas trees, wreathing, roping, etc.

Club Meeting.

There was an excellent attendance at the annual meeting of the New York Florists' Club December 14. The election of officers narrowed down to a contest for the presidency and three trustees. For president, Harry A. Bunyard received eighty-five votes and I. S. Hendrickson forty-five. Mr. Hendrickson moved to make it unanimous. Robert Koehne, one of the bright lights of the lower Fifth avenue retail section, was unanimously elected vice-president. John Young, without opposition, was reëlected secretary for the twenty-fifth time, and W. C. Rickards, Jr., was unanimously elected treasurer. The three candidates who received the highest number of votes for trustee were W. R. Cobb, John H. Fiesser and Emil Schloss. The election was conducted by W. F. Sheridan, F. H. Traendly and Joseph Fenrich.

Harry A. Bunyard.
(President-elect, New York Florists' Club.)

Each of the new officers made a speech of thanks, appreciation and assurance of unremitting effort during the coming year.

Prof. E. A. White and Z. Tadema were elected to membership. Applications were received from David S. Ward, Joseph Leikens and H. Weiss.

The purposes of the newly organized association of retailers were presented to the club and there was considerable discussion, principally by Messrs. Sheridan, Schling, Siebrecht and Young. A committee, consisting of W. H. Siebrecht, Jr., John Young and Joseph Fenrich, was appointed to consider the proposal for a union of interests. J. A. Shaw, Robert Wilson and H. H. Jahn were appointed to prepare resolutions on the death of D. Y. Mellis. A transportation committee was appointed to arrange for a special car to the Buffalo convention of the American Carnation Society.

The F. R. Pierson Co., Tarrytown, showed a splendid vase of the new rose, Francis Scott Key, and S. J. Reuter & Son, Westerly, R. I., showed a handsome lot of Prince E. C. d'Arenberg. Both exhibits received the club's cultural certificate.

Various Notes.

The Associated Retail Florists, Inc., met at the Hotel Woodward Tuesday evening, December 8, and perfected its organization. M. A. Bowe was elected president, Max Schling and Charles Brown vice-presidents, G. E. M. Stumpp treasurer and W. H. Siebrecht, Jr., secretary. The society will include in its membership the leading retailers of the city.

At the auctions of the MacNiff Horticultural Co. there is a big demand for the White Baby, Tausendschön, Cutbush, Teschendorff and Jessie everblooming rose bushes, now here, but grown for the German markets.

Geo. C. Siebrecht will soon have from the Chappaqua greenhouses Acacia pubescens in quantity.

At one of the debutante affairs in upper New York last week David Clarke's Sons, who had charge of the decorations, said over eighty floral gifts were sent by the young lady's friends.

At the big store of G. E. M. Stumpp, on Fifth avenue, are innumerable Christmas novelties in seasonable importations. There are three floors in this establishment devoted to holiday display.

J. K. Allen will soon celebrate his thirtieth anniversary in the cut flower business.

John Young is exceedingly busy with his quartet of enterprises and quite optimistic as to the success of the flower show to be held here next March.

All the florists' supply houses have had a wonderful season. Shipments have been enormous and still continue. Some firms complain they are sold out.

Russin & Hanfling, the New York Florist Supply Co. and the Kervan Co. have gaily decorated fronts, on Twenty-eighth street.

The stork called at the residence of Robert Woodrow, foreman for Woodrow & Marketos, December 11, and left two fine boys.

John Donato, formerly with W. S. Lee, now is in the employ of Woodrow & Marketos.

C. C. Trepel will open a cut flower distributing adjunct to his big business on West Twenty-eighth street near Broadway, concentrating his purchases there and supplying all his stores from his central depot.

Robert Koehne.
(Vice-president-elect, New York Florists' Club.)

The executive meeting of the American Rose Society, held December 14 at the office of Traendly & Schenck, was attended by W. R. Pierson, Robert Pyle, Harry O. May, Benjamin Hammond, F. R. Pierson, James Simpson, Samuel S. Pennock, Thomas Roland, L. J. Reuter and F. H. Traendly.

Henry Siebrecht, Sr., of New Rochelle, started December 15 for San Francisco. Siebrecht & Son have a large contract with the state of California and have sent several carloads of nursery stock for the plantings.

The Julius Roehrs Co., Rutherford, reports the business in Christmas plants as excellent, promising a complete clean-up.

Victor Morgan, with Lord & Burnham Co., reports a contract for new glass from Conrad Stein, of Stamford, Conn.

The Manda Florist Co. is the title of a new retail establishment at 191 Valley road, West Orange, N. J. The store is 20 x 50 and will have all modern conveniences, greenhouse facilities and expert management.

W. E. Maynard has acquired thirteen acres near Great Neck, L. I., which will be utilized as a nursery. Mr. Maynard started December 15 for a business trip in the south. J. Austin Shaw.

BALTIMORE, MD.

The Market.

We have had an entire week of cloudy weather; only on Saturday, December 12, did the sun find its way through the clouds for a few hours, and cut flowers have shown the effects in a shortening of the supply. During the early part of the week business was rather poor and stock accumulated, but the latter part of the week brought a much better demand. The wholesale houses were pretty well cleaned up at the close of business on Saturday, with the exception of some stock that was cut in the earlier part of the week. The chrysanthemums are about over, except that a few growers are holding a few for Christmas. There was a pretty good demand for roses and light colored carnations, with the supply short toward the end of the week. Valley and Beauties were the slowest movers of the week. There was a fairly good demand for lilies and greens. There is a good Christmas crop in sight, in all varieties of cut flowers and potted plants, with the possible exception of good pans of poinsettias, which are rather scarce. The first snow of this season reached here December 13.

Club Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Florists' Club was held December 14, President Johnston in the chair. The night was extremely cold, which no doubt kept down the attendance. A letter was read from J. Otto Thilow, of Philadelphia, saying business engagements would prevent him from lecturing before the club in February. R. Vincent, Jr., read an original poem on the workmen's compensation act, which was well received. I. H. Moss gave his experience in regard to the working of this act and apparently florists and nursery employees are exempt. At the second meeting in January R. Vincent, Jr., will deliver his Scotch lecture and it was decided to have the ladies with us on this occasion.

Various Notes.

W. C. Erdman has a fine lot of 4-inch Primula obconica for Christmas sales.

The Pennock-Meehan Co. will put a new Ford delivery car into service next week.

L. H. A. Klein, of Towson, is still cutting Frick and Nonin mums.

J. J. Perry spent the early part of last week in Virginia. His trip took him through Portsmouth, Richmond, Norfolk and vicinity.

J. P. Wilheim is sending to the Baltimore Cut Flower Co. a fine lot of azaleas, which are selling well.

A. Spath, Jr., & Son., of Roland Park, have some fine poinsettias for Christmas cutting, with some bracts measuring fifteen to eighteen inches across.

The creditors of Forthuber Bros. have been advised by the referee in the bankruptcy proceedings that their claims will not be settled, for after the expenses were deducted there was nothing left for the creditors. The business will be continued by them at their old stand.

H. C. Vansant, of Norfolk, Va.; Roman J. Irwin, of New York, and T. J. Meehan, of Philadelphia, were among the visitors of the week.

The American Flower Shop, on Liberty street, near Lexington, opened for business December 14, with Wm. E. Seidewitz as manager.

As a result of being struck by an inspector of street paving December 10, J. J. Perry is confined in the Franklin Square hospital in a serious condition. From the facts learned, Mr. Perry attempted to run his auto down Center street, which had been newly paved, but the "Street Closed" sign was not up. When stopped by the paver a wordy altercation ensued and the paver struck him in the mouth. No serious effect followed, other than a copious flow of blood from his nostrils, but Saturday night he was taken with a serious hemorrhage from his head and only by great effort on the part of the attending physicians was his life saved.

Harry Ekas is cutting some fine Golden Chadwick and Helen Frick mums.

J. G. Harrison, founder of the nursery firm of J. G. Harrison & Sons, Berlin, Md., died December 12. Further particulars will be found in this week's obituary column. W. F. E.

PITTSBURGH.

The Market.

Pittsburgh is now under a beautiful carpet of snow, which fell last night. Today, December 14, the weather is clear and cold. Last week's trade showed an improvement over any preceding week this season and the indications now point toward a much better Christmas business than had been hoped for. There has been plenty of good stock, but it seems to have decreased somewhat today, perhaps partly on account of the change in the weather. The prospects are for a fine cut of stock for Christmas. There are plenty of roses, and carnations were never before so good or so plentiful. There is also a good crop of cattleyas. In fact, it is likely that stock will be sold at lower prices than usual, unless all signs fail. This does not seem to be a year for fancy prices; the people will buy only if the prices are right and it is to be hoped they can be kept right.

The retail stores look all Christmas-like, with wreaths of boxwood, ruscus, statice, magnolia, thistles and all kinds of combinations. Plants are being pushed hard. In fact, we hear the old cry, "We are going to sell plants and cut out the cut flowers," but after Christmas, no doubt, we shall find that the same fellows have sold as many cut flowers as ever. There were several good funeral days last week and there were two or three social affairs that helped create a demand for flowers.

The trade in greens, pine, laurel and holly, is almost out of the hands of the regular florists. Even wild smilax is gone until after Christmas, as a few dealers who just handle this stock for about ten days have such quantities and have cut the prices to such an extent that the regular florists will not touch the stock. It is reported that there are seventy carloads of Christmas trees here now, with such quantities of other greens that it is doubtful whether the shippers will get worth-while returns.

Various Notes.

Billy Lowe, the green goods man, is back in the business. He is furnishing the trees for the public Christmas celebration. His largest tree is forty-two feet high, but it will be made up to seventy-five feet when set up.

Mrs. V. Bergman and her son, of Chicago, are here to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gus. Ludwig. She will remain until after the holidays.

F. W. Romer, representing the Briarcliff Greenhouses, Scarboro, N. Y., was in town December 12, calling on the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., their representatives, and assuring them of all the choice Beauties they will need. Other visitors were: J. H. Tasker, of the Walton Floral Co., Rice's Landing, Pa.; J. S. Hennon, of New Castle, Pa.; M. E. Ready, of Donora, Pa., and Miss Weber, of Fairmont, W. Va.

Clarke.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Market.

There has been little change in business during the last week or ten days, during which time the skies have been overcast and rain has fallen nearly every day. Pink roses are off color. Sweet peas are quite scarce, and on several occasions during the week it was impossible to obtain chrysanthemums. Carnations have taken a slight drop. Violets are more plentiful, and the singles, bringing about 75 cents per hundred, have long stems and large flowers. These are in better demand than the Rhinebecks, for which $1 and $1.25 per hundred is being asked. The mignonette to be had is exceptionally good, with long, full spikes. The price of valley has fallen somewhat. A few poinsettias are coming in and the first of these brought $4 per dozen. There has been a marked decline both in the price and demand for narcissi. Gardenias are poorer in quality on account of the weather.

Various Notes.

There are far more debutante bouquets being sold this year than ever before, according to John Henry Small, of J. H. Small & Sons. However, there is evidence that the outlay in each instance was small, that the purchasers were curtailing expenses and had paid, in a majority of instances, from $1.50 to $3 only.

Among the visitors of the last week were: Charles E. Meehan, of S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co., Philadelphia, Pa.; C. Albert Small, of J. H. Small & Sons, New York; Edward Reid, Philadelphia, Pa.; J. W. Grandy, Norfolk, Va.; R. J. Irwin, New York; J. W. Gregg, of Virginia Nursery Co., Purcellville, Va.; E. H. Flood, Atco, N. J., and William P. Craig, of the Robert Craig Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

J. M. Rankin, of the Department of Agriculture's plant introductions field station has left this city for Florida, North and South Carolina, and Georgia, where he will confer with commercial nurserymen as to the propagation, cultivation and handling of nursery stock for commerce.

But few orders were placed with local florists for the funeral of the late Sereno E. Payne, member of Congress from New York, which took place from the House of Representatives Sunday, December 13. A number of orders were, however, telegraphed to Auburn, N. Y., to which place the body was sent for burial. J. H. Small & Sons furnished three pieces. C. L. L.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

The Market.

The week ended with a heavy snow, but there has been no cold weather and the snow promises to be gone by night. There is not so heavy a supply of flowers as there was last week. Business has been generally pretty good. Some even say they are doing as much business now as they were a year ago. All agree that trade is improving from week to week. The windows are full of poinsettias that came into bloom a little sooner than was desirable, and they are selling well. Peppers have been offered for almost a month and have been pretty well sold out. They are not selling so well as they were a fortnight ago. Holly is on the streets in plenty and of excellent quality. Mistletoe has not appeared as yet. Good azaleas are appearing in small numbers, and are selling pretty well. Other holiday plants have not appeared as yet.

In cut flowers, roses and carnations are by far the most abundant and both are of good quality. Carnations wholesale at about 3 cents and roses from 4 to 10 cents, with Beauties too scarce to be wholesaled, though there is a fair supply for local use. Violets are not yet plentiful and peas are almost a negligible quantity.

It is stated that there are more people out of work in the city than for years and this is sure to have its effect on the Christmas business. The large dealers in holiday goods agree that business is light for the season. Some comfort may be got from the fact, however, that such firms had a light business a year ago, while the florists did the best business ever done for the holidays.

Various Notes.

McIntyre Bros. have some of the best Hillingdon roses I have seen for some time. They are the only growers who have this variety this season in any quantities, and they have succeeded in getting strong stems, the one thing that this rose has always lacked here. Their carnations are the largest I have seen this season.

Geny Bros. are selling some fancy cyclamens, fringed and picotee varieties, that are fine. They are the first I have seen offered in this city.

The Joys have put a new delivery car and a motorcycle delivery in commission this week. The motorcycle delivery appears to us to be a mighty convenient thing for small deliveries. The bed will hold several large boxes, too.

Haury & Sons have a good line of Christmas plants and wreaths on sale. Their windows make a good showing.

Frank Cornell hopes to have some Dutch hyacinths ready for the Christmas sales. F. B.

FORT WAYNE, IND.

The Market.

Christmas wreathing, ruscus, heather, etc., are decorating all the flower shops and the retail florists report that the demand is excellent. Yards of red and green roping are displayed, and combination baskets and wreaths are already made up to attract the purchaser's eye and loosen his purse-strings.

The supply of roses is limited, although there is some fine long-stemmed stock on the market, which brings good returns. Carnations are still weak-stemmed, owing to atmospheric conditions, but are not so scarce as they were a week ago. A large crop is expected for the holiday trade.

Violets are unusually scarce for this season of the year, and those available find a ready market. Sweet peas are good, and the demand is fair. Formosa lilies are in good supply. The demand recently, outside of the Christmas trade, has been principally for funeral work.

Some excellent cases of boxwood have been received, and holly is expected to arrive soon.

Various Notes.

A. J. Lanternier & Co. keep their delivery automobile busy these days.

Some fine poinsettias vie with the other Christmas decorations in the windows of the Bradley Flower Shop.

Herbert Zur Muhlen had an effective table decoration at the English tea-room last week, which was carried out in a combination of heather and pink roses. R. F.

Howell, Mich.—Walter Hubel, who for a year had charge of the Howell Greenhouses, has bought a greenhouse at Williamston, which is being torn down and moved to Howell. He will grow vegetables for shipping.

Columbus, O.—Thomas J. Ludwig, for many years with the Livingston Seed Co., will start in business for himself after the first of the new year. He has leased quarters in the new White-Haines building, 82 North High street.

Miles City, Mont.—The Flower Store has been moved from 617 Main street to the corner store in the Arnold building, at Eighth and Main streets. Mr. and Mrs. Gregory have purchased the stock of goods from Arnold's and will conduct the business in connection with their flower business.

OBITUARY

J. G. Harrison.

J. G. Harrison, founder and head of the nursery firm of J. G. Harrison & Sons, Berlin, Md., died at his home in Berlin, December 12, from the effects of a paralytic stroke received December 9. He was 74 years of age and had apparently been in good health up to the time of the stroke. He was born in Sussex county, Delaware, in 1840, and lived there until 1883, when he removed to the south and engaged in the lumber business for a short time. In 1884 he settled in Berlin and started in the nursery and fruit business on a small scale. By persistent endeavor he developed the business to its present large proportions. A few years ago he gave up active work and turned over the management of his nursery to his sons. State Senator Orlando Harrison, the elder son, became manager, assisted by G. A. Harrison. The deceased is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth F. Harrison, and four children, the two sons mentioned and two daughters.

W. F. E.

John J. Connelly.

John J. Connelly, for many years in the florists' business at Rosemont, Pa., died Friday, December 4, at his home in Rosemont. He was born in Philadelphia, in 1851, and removed to Conshohocken in his early youth. He was widely known in political circles, having been active in Democratic politics for years. He was postmaster of Bryn Mawr in the second Cleveland administration. For twenty-five years he was treasurer of St. Thomas, of Villanova, T. A. B. Society.

It was in 1886 that Mr. Connelly removed to Rosemont from Bryn Mawr and resumed the florists' business there. He was one of the first to grow carnations in his section, starting with Heinz's White and Lamborn and taking up the new ones, one by one, as they came out. For many years he was a member of the S. A. F.

Burial took place December 7, services being held at his home and mass celebrated at St. Thomas' church, Villanova. His wife, who before her marriage was Miss Mary Hurley, survives him.

The business will be continued by Mrs. Connelly and her sons and daughters.

J. W. Alexander.

Sitting in an easy chair in his bedroom, December 11, J. W. Alexander, of Charleston, W. Va., sent a bullet crashing through his brain. Worry over financial reverses is thought to have unbalanced his mind and prompted the rash act.

Mr. Alexander leaves, besides his widow, two daughters, Mary Alexander and Mrs. Raymond Dunn, of Stone, Ky., and two sons, William and Archie. Mrs. Alexander has been for many years her husband's chief assistant in the florists' business and was in the office at the time of the tragedy. She will carry on the establishment as heretofore.

John Sterline.

John Sterline, of Columbia, Pa., died December 6, in his eighty-second year. For more than fifty years he grew flowers and vegetables for the local markets. For many years he grew the Marie Louise violet with much success. The deceased was a charter member of the First English Lutheran church, of Columbia, and for over half a century continuously was a member of its church council, having been reëlected to eldership at the beginning of the present year. He is survived by nine children. The funeral was held from the residence December 9, with services by his pastor, Rev. Dr. Edgar Grim Miller. Interment was made in Laurel Hill cemetery.

H. K. R.

Mark T. Thompson.

Mark T. Thompson, of Richmond, Va., died December 7, from a sudden attack of heart disease.

Mr. Thompson had been a resident of Richmond for twenty-six years, having come from Cleveland, where for a long time he was engaged in business. He was a native of England, born at Bedford sixty-six years ago. For a long time Mr. Thompson was noted for his dahlia farm, one of the sights around Richmond, having acres of ground devoted to the cultivation of this flower.

He is survived by his second wife and two children, Mrs. Clara E. Warren, formerly of Ada, O., and Charles H. Thompson, of Richmond. He was a member of Tabernacle Baptist church and of Biglow Lodge, Ancient, Free and Accepted Masons, Cleveland.

Nancy Randolph Gullett.

Word has been received of the sudden death, at an advanced age, of Nancy Randolph, who in 1861 married William Henry Gullett, who was in the nursery and greenhouse business at Lincoln, Ill., from Civil war times until his death in 1909. Ten children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Gullett. Three of these died in infancy, but the rest of the family survives and three of them reside in Lincoln, namely: Charles Edward and Wilbur J., who now comprise the firm of W. H. Gullett & Sons; and Frank E. Gullett. The others are W. F. Gullett, of Deer Lodge, Mont.; Eugene R. Gullett, Lansing, Mich.; and Misses Anna Gullett, of Pontiac, and Ida B. Gullett, of Columbus, O.

Duffel, Belgium. — Ten greenhouses were destroyed at the Vanderlinden establishment, where the forcing of chrysanthemums, roses, strawberries and tomatoes was a specialty.

Contich, Belgium.—The greenhouses of the well known firm of Frantz De Laet, renowned for its large collection of cacti, were not touched by the shells, but raids resulting in considerable losses have been made on the plants.

Puers, Belgium.—In the bombardment of Antwerp, which is not far from this place, part of the eleven greenhouses and 15,000 of the 20,000 coldframes at the De Bondt establishment were destroyed. The Meersman establishment, also, was greatly damaged.

Mechlin, Belgium.—At the Botanical Garden plants have been replaced in the greenhouses, but on account of the lack of glass, the roofs have not been repaired. Moreover, it is impossible to obtain coal to heat the establishment. In the vegetable experiment garden of the Belgian horticultural department a shell fell, shattering the greenhouses.

Haarlem, Holland.—The florists of the continent have been complaining for some time that the Holland bulb growers have been putting on the market the blooms cut from their fields, in competition with those who buy their bulbs. Several large firms of Haarlem, Lisse, etc., have already refused to engage in such trade. Now an agreement is being signed by the bulb growers, who pledge themselves not to put on sale after March 1, in the years 1915 and 1916, hyacinths cut in their bulb fields. A long list of those who have signed the agreement has already been published. The promoters of the movement purpose to publish likewise a list of those who refuse to make this pledge.

Duffel, Belgium. — The Verhaegen greenhouses are entirely destroyed, and the thousands of strawberry plants intended for forcing next season are worthless.

London, England.—The seventeenth exhibition of the Perpetual-flowering Carnation Society was held quite successfully December 2, in the Royal Horticultural Society's hall. The profits of the show will be handed to the Belgian Relief Fund.

Ghent, Belgium.—Winter conditions prevail throughout the district, bringing growers who have glass face to face with a serious new condition, the difficulty of obtaining fuel. While the Germans, who hold practically all Belgium, have spared the trade interests, there is no transportation and fuel is obtained only with the utmost difficulty. The committee of the growers' association is doing all in its power to meet the most urgent needs, but the plight of the district is serious.

Ypres, Belgium.—One of the leading figures in the trade in this section, where some of the fiercest fighting of the war has been done, is M. V. Boucknooghe, managing director of the Societe Horticole. In a letter he says: "November 13 I had thirty shells in the houses and twenty in the nursery. The first time a shell went into a greenhouse we took to the cellar and stayed there all night. Later we were sent away and I have not since been permitted to visit the houses. I am in hope I shall be able to save my aspidistras, but I have no coal, and if frost sets in, all my stock is done for. The vineries are all shelled, and four out of six traveling houses for carnations are blown to pieces. We are all right, but bread is becoming scarce, butter dear, milk rare, and a cigar costs a franc."

RESULTS.

We give them. You get them.
We both have them.

CYCLAMENS have enjoyed an unusually good wholesale demand this Christmas, and small azaleas also have sold out quickly.

Now comes the week that Carnation Champion demonstrates the appropriateness of its name. It is well liked by practically all who are growing it.

RECORDS of the Federal Horticultural Board show that the trade in the United States now uses almost exactly twice as many English as French Manetti stocks.

IF the retailers are working half as hard to interest the public as the live wholesalers are to interest the trade, the Christmas business surely will be a record-breaker.

THE wave of zero weather that rolled across the middle west at the opening of the week caught a lot of expensive stock in transit. When the temperature falls suddenly there always are a lot of losses.

DEPARTMENT store managers say their sales this month have been of moderate-priced articles. It confirms the belief that a lot of people who some years spend big money for Christmas will this year use flowers.

ONE of the small compensations for the trouble the war has made us is found in the fact that practically all imported stock is of better than average quality this season. Apparently so many orders have been shut off that the Europeans need send out nothing but their best this year.

HONORABLE MENTION.

Not a few subscribers save themselves the bother of annual renewal by sending The Review $2, $3, or sometimes $5, instead of the dollar-bill that insures fifty-two visits of the paper. Among those who have this week enrolled themselves for more than one year in advance are:

A BIG STEP AHEAD.

The flower business and the stock exchanges are more closely related than the average person might suppose. The prospefity of the exchanges is a big factor in the business of a great many florists, especially in the east. Consequently the resumption of business on the New York Stock Exchange, with prices on the rise, is a long step ahead for the florists, probably the longest step thus far made toward the reëstablishment of normal conditions.

It is not to be expected that the florists' business will be entirely normal so long as the war in Europe lasts, and perhaps it will not be normal for a long time afterward, but every day sees a betterment.

OVER THE WIRES.

So many florists use the wires in their everyday doings that a report on business conditions by Newcomb Carlton, president of the Western Union, will be of special interest in this trade. Mr. Carlton has just made a 9,000-mile trip over the country. He was strongly impressed with the great recovery in business and financial conditions which he found. He particularly emphasized the statement that he found the west is splendidly recovering from its business depression.

"A general return of optimism is observable throughout the country," said Mr. Carlton. "The telegraph business is, we find, barometric. A return to big business with us means a return to big business in every line. People don't send telegrams merely as an indoor sport, and we find that when our statistics show a big volume of messages sent over the wires it is indicative of a returned prosperity.

"In examining last year's reports and comparing with those thus far this year we find that the business done in 1914 is equal for the last five weeks to that of 1913, thus showing the return of general confidence and optimism.

"I have talked with hundreds of business men during my western trip, and the general impression to be gleaned from the whole trip is one of fast returning prosperity. Even the cotton growers in Texas, who a few months ago faced an unprecedented crisis because of the loss of their foreign markets, seem to be recovering in a remarkable manner."

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Plan to put your Christmas trade report in the editor's hands not later than December 29 for publication in the issue of December 31. Christmas will be ancient history after that; we shall have New Year's trade to talk about in the issue of January 7.

BUSINESS EMBARRASSMENTS.

Norfolk, Va.—Sol. Shaikewitz, trading as the Virginia Floral & Nursery Co., at 62 Botecourt street, filed a deed December 3 assigning to Fred C. Abbott, trustee, his stock and fixtures, for the benefit of creditors.

Dayton, O.—Referee McConnaughey has filed in the United States District court at Cincinnati his final record in the bankruptcy case of Herman Ritter. The liabilities amounted to $27,228.96. Assets realized were $22,262.50. Secured creditors received $18,393.50, payment in full of their claims. Unsecured creditors received $953 on claims aggregating nearly $9,000.

Houston, Tex.—Judge Woods, of the Eleventh District court, denied a motion to terminate the receivership of the Alvin-Japanese Nursery Co., December 5, made by the Hart-Parr Co., one of the creditors having a judgment. The Hart-Parr Co. claimed that the appointing of S. B. Brown as receiver by Judge Hamblen September 10 was unnecessary.

Work of the Committees.

The examining committees have returned reports on new varieties as follows:

At Chicago, November 14, Miss Pauline Anderson, pure yellow, sport from Yellow Chadwick, Japanese incurved, exhibited by Poehlmann Bros. Co., Morton Grove, Ill., scored commercial scale as follows: Color, 18; form, 15; fullness, 9; stem, 15; foliage, 14; substance, 14; size, 9; total, 94.

At Chicago, November 14, Miss Marvelle French, pure white sport of W. H. Chadwick, Japanese incurved, scored commercial scale as follows: Color, 18; form, 15; fullness, 9; stem, 15; foliage, 14; substance, 14; size, 9; total, 94

The Market.

The reports this week are not unanimous; in some quarters the market is reported nearly normal, but others say sales still are considerably below the corresponding days of last year. Zero weather arrived December 13 and has had its usual effect. There has been more or less loss of stock, caught by frost, and there has been some reduction in receipts. It seems possible, however, that the reduced supply is due more to the effort of the growers to prepare for Christmas than it is to weather conditions. While the cold wave is unusually severe for this season, it has been accompanied by bright skies, which has been a great help to the growers. It put the color back into Killarney; there has been a distinct improvement.

There is an adequate supply of stock for all the business that is moving. Shipping trade is fair, but local business is not especially brisk. The demand is principally for the novelty roses. Buyers are in search of Russell, Ophelia, Hadley, Shawyer, Milady, Bul-

HAVE PLENTY of STOCK; WOULD LIKE your ORDER

OUR interest comes first—but WE can serve YOUR interest at least as well as anyone. The largest and finest supply we ever have had for Christmas. The earlier we get your order the easier it will be to handle it. But whether or not you can order early, we want your order when you are ready. Wire or phone if time is short—we've got the stock.

Our prices are not higher than others ask if able to offer an equal grade of stock. Our "Select" grade is equal to what many offer as their best. Our "Special" and "Extra Special" grades are in a class by themselves.

FANCY ROSES

Note specially our large supply of Milady and Killarney Brilliant, the two best sellers at this season. But we have a full line of varieties and all lengths.

garie and Sunburst, and these are short of the demand, but there is an abundance of everything else. It is worth noting that Killarney Brilliant is giving a better account of itself and is rising in growers' estimation. Russell is being watched with interest, as some growers are cutting few perfect flowers.

There is an abundance of carnations, Paper Whites, violets, Easter lilies, valley and stevia. Sweet peas continue none too plentiful and none too good.

The principal interest in the market today is the prospect for Christmas. Now and then one meets a grower who says he will be cutting little, but the majority are in as good shape as ever before and the prospect is that the market will be well supplied next week with stock of excellent Christmas quality. It appears that some of the local Beauty growers are not in heavy crop and that a big crop in the east has encouraged shippers there to arrange to send their Beauties to Chicago in considerable quantity next week. From present appearances the supply of red roses will exceed anything in the previous history of this market and probably all the buyers who are willing to pay reasonable prices can be accommodated this year. There is no chance of there being enough of the novelty roses to go around, but the prospect is for adequate supplies of Killarney. The carnation supply will be radically different from that of last Christmas. A year ago there was a pronounced shortage, but this year there will be a much larger supply. The quality, too, is unusually good this season. There probably will be the usual shortage of red and deep pink will not be plentiful, so large a part of the plantings this season being either Enchantress or white varieties. Buyers must be prepared for a large percentage of light colors.

VIOLETS

For Christmas I offer fine, fresh, fragrant home-grown single Violets—none better anywhere.

The only shortage in sight at present apparently will be of cattleyas; the cuts have decreased at an alarming rate in the last few days and the supply will not be anywhere near so large as anticipated. On the other hand, violets are coming in stronger every day and the quality also is getting better.

At the moment, holly is worth what one can get for it. The market seldom has been so badly demoralized. Some holly is not bringing the freight and still fetches all it is worth. Fortunately red winter berries never were more plentiful or finer. Good lycopodium has cleaned up nicely.

Club Affairs.

The Florists' Club held its annual meeting at the Bismarck December 10. The election of W. J. Keimel as president, James Morton as vice-president, Paul Klingsporn as treasurer and C. L. Washburn as a trustee was unanimous, the only contest being over the secretaryship. There were three nominees, Michael Fink, Guy W. French and T. E. Waters. Mr. Waters was not present, but authorized a friend to withdraw his name. The vote then taken stood

AMERICAN BEAUTIES

The best ever brought in for the Christmas trade. The color is right, the buds all fine, large, perfect flowers. Medium to long stems—just what you want for Christmas trade. You can't afford to place your order elsewhere, as these Beauties are produced by the largest and best Beauty grower in the U. S., especially for Christmas trade.

of routine business the tour to San Francisco for the S. A. F. convention was the principal matter considered. A representative of the Gregory agency was present and all preliminaries were settled. The secretary was instructed to call the initial payment from those who wish to reserve accommodations. The cost will be $152 for a tour of three weeks. President Miller expects to have three in his family party.

Deaths on the St. Paul.

Fred Karnatz, for three years employed as a driver by Poehlmann Bros. Co., was killed on the tracks of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad three-quarters of a mile north of the Morton Grove station early in the morning of December 12. He lived at Glenview, the second station up the line, and was walking to work down the track when hit by a train. He was 42 years of age and left a widow and two children.

A woman walking on the tracks of the St. Paul railroad near Edgebrook was struck by a passenger train and instantly killed. The body was carried into the Wittbold greenhouses, where she was identified as the mother of William Shutte, foreman of the plant section.

Various Notes.

The many Chicago friends of Paul M. Palez, of Little Rock, will learn with pleasure of his success at the recent democratic primary, when he was nominated for reëlection as alderman for the Third ward.

Out at Mt. Prospect, near Arlington Heights, Homeyer & Haberkamp have two houses of Enchantress and White Enchantress that are giving fine blooms on unusually strong stems. Mr. Homeyer says the quality is the result of running the houses at 50 degrees at night and 60 degrees on dark days; also, he says, when the zero weather comes the plants are not checked like those grown warmer. Bonfire is grown for a Christmas red.

This is Peter Reinberg's busy Christmas. Always an early riser, he goes to the greenhouses every morning, thence to his handsome office in the County building, where he already is saving money for the tax-payers. He has cut down the personal staff of the president and refused to consent to an increase in pay for board members. He saved the county several times his salary of $7,000 per year during his first week in office.

At Frank Oechslin's, James Hancock comments on the fact that nearly all the retailers who have placed orders for Christmas plants have engaged more than last year. He says it indicates a general expectation of big business next week, and the majority seldom is wrong.

John Michelsen reports the Christmas orders booked to December 15 as the largest in number and size in the history of the E. C. Amling Co. A. C. Kohlbrand says he also expects an unusually heavy run of late telegraph orders.

Willie Abrahamson has started in again as buyer for out-of-town retailers. Other recent ventures of this character have not proved fortunate.

The W. W. Barnard Co. had an extensive showing at the poultry show just closed at the Coliseum. Seven salesmen were in attendance. Arnold Ringier spent most of his evenings there.

Bassett & Washburn say many buyers are specifying that they must have Rhea Reid for Christmas, not Richmond or Milady. Mr. Washburn considers Reid has proved an extremely good rose for his firm. He considers the business situation more nearly normal this week than at any time this season.

Fred Klingel, who is the statistician of Erne & Klingel, says sales from August 1 to December 15 are even with the same period of 1913, which he would consider satisfactory except for the fact that the firm had previously been making a steady increase.

This is an extremely busy week at Morton Grove, where the zero weather added not a little to the work of packing and shipping Christmas plants. The cyclamens and begonias were extremely good this year and have sold splendidly. Azaleas in the smaller sizes were far short of the demand.

August Poehlmann says orders are on file for 165,000 grafted plants of Mrs. Russell rose, with 525,000 Manetti stocks in or on the way. It is reported the company is in the market for twelve cars of pecky cypress for spring use, Mr. Poehlmann believing prices are going up with the good times he sees coming. He recently has registered two sports of Chadwick, the yellow as Pauline Anderson, after the daughter of C. G. Anderson, in charge of the plant department, and the white after Marvella French, daughter of Guy French.

E. H. Blameuser, at Niles Center, is sending in fine flowers of his new carnation, Cerise Winsor, recently registered with the American Carnation Society. It is a glorified Winsor, cerise pink in color, a sport of the variety from which it takes its name.

Matt Mann is trying 1,000 plants of the Godfrey calla this season, stock obtained from F. F. Scheel, of Shermerville.

John P. Degnan, of Winterson's Seed Store, deserves to be classed as one of the veterans, although only 41 years of age. He has been in the trade continuously for thirty-one years, his first job having been obtained from S. F. Leonard, as a boy only 10 years old.

Emil Kroll has four houses of Richmond that are in about as full crop as one could ask for Christmas.

In spite of the zero weather, John Zech spent the first two days of this week visiting growers for Zech & Mann, and some of their neighbors. He says the quality of Chicago's Christmas stock will be unusually good this year.

Commenting on the unusual character of the chrysanthemum season, O. A. Tonner reports one grower still cutting Bonnaffon December 12. Garza seems to be finishing this week.

George Asmus and wife entertained a number of friends at their home on Bowen avenue on the evening of December 12. Among those of the trade who were present were E. F. Winterson and wife, C. W. McKellar and wife and C. C. Pollworth and wife, the latter couple coming from Milwaukee to attend.

O. Johnson says that while the Batavia Greenhouse Co. grows mums only in a small way, its season with them has this year been the longest of any grower in the market. The concern was among the first to cut and is holding a few late whites for Christmas.

Cubit gave a good account of itself this season at both the greenhouses and store of Wietor Bros., N. J. Wietor commenting on it as one of the best of yellow pompons.

Dusk of December 14 found A. Henderson & Co. with every holly order filled and the last car cleaned up to nine cases. Bouquet green also was closely sold out.

Jacob Greiner has grown carnations for Peter Reinberg for twenty years and has had charge since they were moved to the country place. Felix Reichling says Mr. Reinberg credits Mr. Greiner with having better success this year than ever before.

Weiland & Risch are preparing for a large spring demand for young rose stock, especially of Russell and the indication that a large Christmas business is expected.

At the store of the Chicago Carnation Co., A. T. Pyfer reports that fire broke out in the residence of Peter Olsem, at Wilmette, during the zero morning of December 13. Thanks to quick work by the fire department, the loss was light. The building is owned by Pyfer & Olsem.

Joseph Weis, Jr., who served a long apprenticeship with a wholesaler, says he has done excellently in the three years since he started for himself in the retail end of the business.

The pine forest, a feature each holiday time, in front of the store of the Geo. Wittbold Co., on Buckingham place, has been set. It is composed of Christmas trees ranging from four to eight feet high.

Visitors.

Frank X. Gorly, of Grimm & Gorly, St. Louis, was in town last week, looking over the Christmas stock.

William P. Ward has been calling on the trade in the interest of the D. Hill Nursery Co., of Dundee. Until the concern published its first full-page ad in The Review, October 23, it was unknown to Chicago florists, although only forty miles from town, but now is doing a nice business here in evergreens.

Clarence Watson, representing the Leo Niessen Co., Philadelphia, was in town last week and is reported to have placed considerable Christmas stock.

Richard Lietz, of Milwaukee, was a visitor at Zech & Mann's December 14.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

The weather has played on important part in the cut flower market during the week ending December 16. The ice storm of December 8 broke down telephone and telegraph poles and wires all the way to Scranton, cutting connections that are only gradually coming into play again. This absence of communication caused heavy loss, preventing some orders coming into town and delaying others until too late for execution. The long absence of the sun took the color out of Killarney and made all flowers more or less soft, to say nothing of decreasing their number. The storm also interfered with shopping, cutting down the demand.

The supply of flowers is quite sufficient. There is no item on the list that may be termed scarce, as practically everything has been obtainable when wanted. Orchids have advanced in price. Carnations are firmer. Beauties have been selling better, although it took easier prices to secure this result. Short roses are more popular than the long-stemmed stock. Poinsettias have arrived. Stevia is used in considerable quantity. The smaller flowers usually described as miscellaneous are coming into season.

Prospects for Christmas.

The leading wholesale florists agree that there will be an abundance of fine stock, providing only that we have a fair amount of sunshine. They anticipate prices that will not exceed those of last season and that in certain cases will be lower than last season. It will be remembered that last season's prices were in the main more moderate, quality considered, than those of any previous Christmas, so that it seems fair to assume that a buyer can safely base his calculation on those prices and can also safely depend on getting what he orders, provided the order is placed in time.

Christmas Greens, Holly Wreaths

Every year our sales of Holly Wreaths are greater than each preceding year, owing to the fact that the quality is so much above the average; well made, plenty of berries and of the very best Holly obtainable.

The Box and the Bagging Needle.

Nearly every shipper of cut flowers has, at some time or other, experienced a painful moment when his flowers, that had taken months of care to produce, were ruthlessly bruised or even smashed in transit. These instances have always cost the growers heavily. Sometimes they recovered damages, but not always; when they did, it usually cost a lot of time, energy and some cash to do it. It always seemed as though these accidents came at the most inopportune time, hitting flowers which were most expensive and which could not be replaced.

The safety of all such shipments lies in the corrugated box and the bagging needle. Everybody knows, and nearly everybody uses, the corrugated box. Not everybody knows, and few use, the bagging needle. It was discovered in this way: A grower who had suffered some painful moments when hearing of things that happened to his flowers and how they looked when unpacked, resorted to tying them in the boxes. It was a slow process to cut a hole in each side with your knife and then poke the string through both holes and tie it. The grower appealed to his wife for some quicker means of tying the flowers in. She produced a bagging needle. Now he runs the string through both sides of the box in a jiffy and ties it in less time than it takes to say Jack Robinson. Best of all, the flowers get there safely.

I dropped in at Edward Reid's late one afternoon this week and was treated to a sort of rehearsal production of a little treat that he has in store for his friends. Mr. Reid plans sending out a calendar after Christmas that is merely an excuse for presenting

BETTER AND CHEAPER

Neidinger's Original Immortelle Substitute has filled a long felt want; all those who used our substitute last year are using practically no Immortelles at all.

Try a few balls and be convinced of the fact that you can easily do without Immortelles; they are much easier to use and about half the price. Can be had in the following colors: Red, White and Purple.

No. 2.....per ball of 60 yards..... $0.75

We also have a larger thickness for decoration which gives a very good effect for stringing in the store, window or room. In Red, White or Purple.

The Market.

Business this month has been slack, due to some extent to the warm, cloudy weather which has prevailed since Thanksgiving. The usual pre-Christmas dullness makes things worse. All the florists are making preparations for a good holiday trade, even though they are a little doubtful about the outcome. It is always well to be prepared. Blooming plants will be strong. In cut flowers, carnations will have the best call. The supply of these will be good. The dark weather did not seem to affect the carnations as it did the roses. These are off crop and the new growth coming on is soft. At this writing the weather has cleared, with a 10-degree temperature, and so it will probably be more favorable from now until Christmas.

Various Notes.

A visit to the greenhouses of the Wm. Blackman Floral Co. found a large stock of plants of all kinds ready for Christmas. Bulbous stock in all stages of growth, azaleas, cinerarias, primulas, both obconica and Chinensis, were found here. A large batch of poinsettias are fine. There is a good supply of greens. The roses have been affected by the cloudy weather, but they will be in pretty good condition for Christmas. The carnations are in grand shape and the cut will be good. The flowers are perfect and have good, strong stems. There are more of Enchantress than of any other variety. However, White Wonder, Herald and Gloriosa are also good. Beacon is in fine shape for Christmas.

Julius Niednagel & Sons are making preparations for a good Christmas trade. They have a large supply of plants, including poinsettias, berried plants, begonias, ferns, Christmas Gem coleus and bulbous stock. The carnations here will be in good crop and the quality is excellent. The roses will be in fair supply. Killarneys will be off crop, but Richmond and Ward will hit it much better. John Niednagel and wife have returned from their wedding trip.

C. L. Niednagel will be off crop at Christmas with Beauties, but if the weather turns favorable the cut of Killarney and Mrs. Chas. Russell will be good. He has bought 10,000 Manetti and will graft that many Russells for next season.

J. C. Elspermann has a large stock of plants for holiday trade and preparations are being made for a big business.

Karl Zeidler is well fixed for a good Christmas. He has a big supply of plants of all kinds. His store uptown will help out considerably in the sale of his stock.

W. D. Macer is preparing for his first Christmas business. He is filling his store with good seasonable plants.

Miss Nellie Goodge is ready for a heavy business.

Louis Fritsch looks for an increase of business this year. His carnations are in good condition. E. L. F.

KANSAS CITY, MO.

The Market.

Dark weather continues. We have had only a half-hour of sunshine in the last ten days, which is a big drawback in the supply of cut flowers, especially home-grown stock. Business has not been affected, however, as there was plenty of funeral work on hand, more so than for a good many days. Cut flowers of all kinds were cleaned up at the closing hour each day last week. Business is not up to the average of last year, but everyone is satisfied with the results at the close of each week. Transient trade is on a slump. Funeral and decorative work is up to the standard of a year ago, and some report trade a little stronger in both of these departments. The cause of the slump in transient trade is thought to be the donations to various institutes and hospitals and to the stricken Belgians, to afford which a great many

McCRAY
Florists' Display Refrigerator

The McCray keeps flowers fresh longer than any other. Its system of refrigeration maintains an even temperature of the proper degree for the preservation of cut flowers and entirely eliminates the great loss that is caused by imperfect refrigeration.

The McCray is built to permit an attractive and inviting display of your flowers, its various compartments being of different sizes to accommodate the different lengths of cut flowers.

The interior linings are of either opal glass, bevel plate mirror or white enamel and are very handsome and easy to clean. The exterior may be of any finish desired to match the interior of your woodwork or other fixtures.

The handsome appearance of the McCray is an improvement to any store and is a great stimulant for increased sales and pleased customers. Investigate the McCray and ascertain why they are the best for florists.

people are doing without cut flowers on the table. There also is less employment in this city than there has been for years.

Carnations are less abundant than they were. This is not only caused by dark weather, but the growers are holding back for the holiday trade, putting on the market only what cannot be held much longer and rushing quantities of narcissi and other bulb stock to keep the gap filled up. For this reason bulb stock is more in demand, as it is fresh and good. Carnations are improving a great deal in length of stem and size of flower, but they are a little soft on account of the dark weather.

Beauties are having a heavy run and prices have stiffened. The supply is really not large enough to meet the demand. It seems that the public likes large flowers, for just as soon as mums are gone, Beauties are in great demand. Roses are improving, but the market is not sufficiently supplied to meet the demand. Prices have advanced. Bulb stock is coming in well, and at a good time, as the dark weather seems to improve it greatly. There is a large supply of lilies and stevia of good quality.

Various Notes.

Samuel Murray has his greenhouses in excellent shape. He has not grown Begonia Lorraine as largely as in the past, but has a house of specimens in from 5-inch to 12-inch pans that are excellent. None better can be grown for their size. He also has a house devoted to pot plants for basket work, of the different kinds of dracænas, and a house of azaleas that is in excellent condition. His palms, ferns, poinsettias and other Christmas plants are only specimens. A house of orchids is also in fine shape, the best in the city.

Henry Kusik & Co. are busy as bees preparing for Christmas orders, especially in supplies and wire-work. It is hard to keep up with the orders for wire designs. They are receiving a large supply of cut flower stock from the growers in this vicinity and also from the north. They report orders coming in faster than the supply of cut flowers arrives. Mr. Kusik reports a steady gain of business in out-of-town orders.

Adolph Mohr has sold all his Christmass pot plants. He has only to deliver them the day the plants are wanted. He had a fine lot of begonias and poinsettias. His poinsettias will measure twenty inches across the bracts by Christmas.

Joseph Austin has been bothered again with his rheumatism for the last two weeks and is not able to be about his greenhouses, which are in good shape for the Christmas trade. He has a nice lot of begonias, poinsettias and cyclamens, in just the right size for his business.

Biedermann & Son received a shipment of some extra good palms. An increase in the demand for decorations caused him to increase his stock. He has his houses in excellent shape at present. W. J. B.

ST. LOUIS.

The Market.

The market was dull last week. The two weeks of cloudy weather have decreased the supply and lowered the quality of the stock. The retailers say their business is not up to the mark of last year at this time, and work for weddings, receptions, dinners and other social occasions has been quiet for the last two weeks. The dark, dull weather also hurt transient trade in the downtown district.

The supply of roses is fairly good. Killarney is away off color, but Richmond and Hadley are of excellent quality. Ward, too, is a little off color. Beauties are good, but are not overplentiful. It is said that carnations will be short in supply for next week and will go as high as $10 per hundred for fancy reds. The Enchantress varieties are in fair supply now, but these, too, will run short. A few mums are still coming in, but they are about

Club Meeting.

The St. Louis Florists' Club held its regular monthly meeting Thursday afternoon, December 10, in Odd Fellows' hall. The meeting was by far the most interesting of the year and the attendance was large. President Bourdet had charge and all the other officers were present. All committees were called upon for final reports. The report of the spring flower show committee caused an interesting discussion, which took up the greater part of the afternoon. The discussion showed that the plans of the committee were favored by the majority of those present. Frank Robinson, manager of the Coliseum, was present and gave a talk on flower shows. He said he would assist the committee in any plan they might undertake. At the close of the discussion Chairman Smith asked for one more month's time before a vote be taken by the members, and the request was granted.

The trustees also gave a lengthy report on an entertainment and dance for the members, their families and friends. In this report the chairman, W. A. Rowe, stated that they had arranged to have Westminster hall January 27 for this event and that the tickets would be 50 cents a person. This report brought out another discussion. On a final vote it was decided to accept the report and the trustees were requested to go ahead with their arrangements.

Max Schiller, who has charge of the big conservatories at the Missouri Botanical Garden, was elected to membership. Messrs. Ohlweiler and Wells presented the application of Julius Erdmann for membership. All delinquent members were given one month more of time and committees were appointed to see them.

W. S. Wells started a discussion on the advisability of forming an employment bureau. This seemed to gain many friends from the start and most of the talks were in favor of such a movement. It was decided that five members, one from each wholesale house, would form a committee to work with the secretary of the club, reporting to him anyone applying for employment. Also, those seeking employees are to make their wishes known to the committee, who will have a list of names from which to select.

H. C. Irish spoke of the work of the state board of horticulture, of which he is a member, and referred especially to a proposed appropriation of money for work in horticulture. He asked the members whether they would work with him for an appropriation of $10,000 to be used for the next two years for floricultural work, including an annual flower show to be held in the state. The members readily agreed to assist Mr. Irish.

The question box brought out a good discussion, which concluded the meeting. The next meeting will take place January 14, 1915.

Various Notes.

Henry Niemeyer, of Kirkwood, suffered a paralytic stroke last week, according to the report of brother florists. He is slowly recovering from the stroke.

Marion Uhlschmidt, manager of the branch store of Grimm & Gorly, at East St. Louis, Ill., says that since Thanksgiving they have had a good run of business. Their artistic window decoration is one of the attractions on Collinsville avenue. They are looking for a big Christmas business.

The show houses of the west end florists are ablaze with blooming plants in Christmas colors, with poinsettias in the foreground. Among these florists are F. C. Weber, Kalisch Bros. Floral Co., Sanders, F. H. Weber and Young's west end branch.

The Retail Florists' Association will hold its regular monthly meeting Monday night, December 21, at the Washington hotel. The coming holiday trade among the retailers will be up for discussion.

The Lady Florists' Home Circle spent a most pleasant afternoon at the home of Mrs. Geo. B. Windler. They voted to hold the New Year's meeting at the home of Mrs. Fred C. Weber, Wednesday, January 13.

William C. Young had the floor all to himself at last week's club meeting. His friends in debate during the meetings, J. F. Ammann and E. W. Guy, failed to attend, so he had to go it alone this time.

A call on the St. Louis Seed Co. found all hands busy with local and shipping orders in lycopodium, holly, ruscus and red roping. Their advance orders were heavy.

Frank Fillmore reports that he will not grow any more carnations after this season. He at one time grew some of the best roses and carnations coming to this market, but the surroundings now are such that the growing of this stock for cutting is out of the question.

The W. C. Smith Wholesale Floral Co. has made up a lot of crescent wreaths of Japanese red roping, which have proved to be great sellers in the local trade.

Frank Windler says that the call for red ruscus and red mats has so far greatly exceeded last year's demand.

Ed. Denker, of St. Charles, Mo.; W. E. Ogle and Gus. Grossart, of Belleville, Ill.; George Madsen, of Alton, Ill.; W. A. Rowe and W. J. Pilcher, of Kirkwood, Mo., were out-of-town florists who spent Thursday, December 10, in the city and attended the club meeting in the afternoon.

At G. H. Angermueller's all hands are busy with the orders for Christmas supplies. For both local and shipping trade, velvet poinsettias, crepe paper and red roping are in large demand.

The lack of sunshine for nearly two weeks is showing its effect on the cut stock of the local growers, as practically all the colored stock is off color, especially Killarney roses and sweet peas. J. J. B.

Monroe, Mich.—Otto Cron recently entered the ranks of the benedicts. Miss Alice Harrington, daughter of Capt. A. I. Harrington, county treasurer-elect, became his wife.

Little Rock, Ark.—At the Democratic primaries December 8 Paul M. Palez was nominated for reëlection as alderman from the Third ward, the vote being 204 to 164. The Democratic nomination is equivalent to election.

Sedalia, Mo.—L. H. Archias, president of the Archias Floral Co., says business has improved rapidly in the last few weeks and is fully equal to if not better than last year. Several weeks of dark weather have added to the troubles of the growers, but stock is in good condition for Christmas.

Mobile, Ala.—H. P. Loding was reelected president of the Mobile Floral and Horticultural Society at the regular monthly meeting December 3. The other officers are: Vice-president, John Douglas; recording secretary, Hardy A. Demeranville; secretary and treasurer, G. C. Kittle. One of the features of the meeting was a paper on shade and ornamental trees for planting in the gulf coast region, by W. C. Griffing.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

Seattle, Wash.—J. Knibb has obtained a permit to erect a greenhouse at 1026 Southern street, at a cost of about $500.

Loomis, Cal.—Harry McGowen, of the California Carnation Co., has returned from an extended trip east, where he went with the remains of his father.

Loomis, Cal.—B. S. Bassett, proprietor of Bassett's Floral Gardens, reports business good and thousands of carnation cuttings going out every week, with more coming to take their place. Fall trade in ferns has been exceedingly good.

Los Gatos, Cal.—The Civic Center, which has held four most successful flower shows, is planning for one in the spring of 1915, about May 1. Mrs. J. E. Ellis says the expectation of many visitors from other sections of the country leads the townspeople to look forward to a prosperous year.

Glendale, Cal.—C. H. Woolsey, formerly in the greenhouse business at Rockford, Ill., will open a first-class store in the new theater building on Brand boulevard about January 1. The location is in the center of the business part of the city, and those who knew Mr. Woolsey when he was in Rockford expect he will make a success of his latest venture.

ARE YOU SATISFIED?

Any florist on the Pacific coast not satisfied to do a local retail business can build up a prosperous wholesale trade by using space in The Review to let the buyers know where stock is to be found. This way:

We have found advertising in The Review to be very satisfactory. We have had orders from all parts of the United States, as well as from the Pacific coast, showing that your valued paper has a very wide circulation. At any time we have any special advertising to do we certainly shall send it to The Review.—Hogan & Kooyman, Oakland, Cal.

LOS ANGELES.

The Market.

The outlook for the Christmas business, according to some of the retailers, is not particularly good, but wholesalers report especially numerous inquiries, and probably by the time the big day arrives there will be little to find fault with. Roses, with the exception of Beauties, are good, but the latter are scarce and not first-rate in quality. Red carnations are in big demand, and it looks as though there would be a shortage in the outdoor flowers, as the nights are rather cool now. Poinsettias are already selling well for parties and other entertainments. This fine Christmas flower seems to increase in popular favor annually. Orchids are less plentiful than a week ago, the growers possibly holding back on them for the holidays. Valley is good and there is plenty of it, so that there will probably be a drop in price after the holidays. Plants will probably be plentiful. Locally grown cyclamens, Begonia Glory of Cincinnati and azaleas are in excellent shape, but the palm for cyclamens must be given this year to the San Francisco growers. Theirs are remarkable specimens, huge in size and of a quality that cannot be beaten. All classes of Christmas greens and reds are plentiful.

Various Notes.

Murata & Co. are receiving extra fine Richmond and American Beauty from the north. The Richmonds are of splendid texture, heavy, finely colored flowers, better than are usually seen in this market.

Miss Hosp, of Riverside, was a visitor last week, looking up stock for holiday trade.

Smith & Dieterich's store is most attractive now with plants, Japanese lanterns—the granite kind, not the paper ones—and elegant cut flower stock. The recent opening of the Rosslyn hotel called for a lot of fine stock from here; also the opening of the Merchants' National bank, at Sixth and Spring streets. G. W. Smith is about to build himself a new home in the beautiful Westlake district. There will probably be some fine landscaping there, for this will surely not be an analogous case to that of the pedal extremities of the shoemaker's wife, and the blacksmith's horse.

Looking over the labels at the store of the Los Angeles Floral Co., I noted some boxes going to Salt Lake City. Upon my asking Fred Sperry how stock shipped to that point, he said, "Fine; it also ships there," handing me a label addressed to Wabash, Ind. After that I asked no more questions. The stock in question was the new pink carnation, Mrs. Welsh.

Friends of J. McGilvray, superintendent of Eastlake park and treasurer of the Los Angeles County Horticultural Society, were shocked to hear December 10 of a serious accident that occurred at the park greenhouses, in which he sustained, it is feared, grave injuries from steam escaping from the boilers. He was taken at once to the county hospital. Telephone inquiries there elicited only the fact that he was seriously but not fatally burned or scalded and that a consultation of physicians and oculists was to be held that evening. Mr. McGilvray is so universally liked and such a splendid man in every way that the deepest regret is felt by everyone at the sad news, and, of course, everyone is hoping that his injuries are not so serious as reported.

J. M. Grant, forester for Orange county, is making good progress at the county nursery at Santa Ana. Although he started only about six months ago, Mr. Grant has now about 50,000 young trees of various kinds ready for lining out, and he hopes the coming year to plant up about fifty miles of the county roads with various trees. Automobile trucks, water trucks and other equipment, including an automobile for the use of the forester and his men, are all either in hand or ordered, and the outlook for Orange county from a forestry point of view is decidedly good.

TACOMA, WASH.

The Market.

With a period of cold weather, which materially shortened the cut of all kinds of flowers, and a decided increase in the demand, things are better balanced than they were a few weeks ago, the trade at this time being more normal than at any time this season.

Carnations are selling better than at any time this fall. Mums are about gone; some blooms of Western King and Chadwick are still seen. Violets are arriving from the south in better condition and are of good quality.

Roses are none too plentiful. The earliest lilies have made their appearance at the stores. Paper Whites and Romans are about equal to the demand.

The stores are taking on their holiday appearance, much of the prepared stock being shown. The greenhouses are preparing for the Christmas rush. Some of the more optimistic declare there will be big business for that day.

Various Notes.

This week saw some good funeral work for the downtown stores. The California Florist had some unusually large pieces, which called for large quantities of stock.

R. D. Van Slyke, of Van Slyke & Seamons, has gone into the rabbit business and expects to take most of the prizes at the shows this season.

SEATTLE, WASH.

The Market.

As usually happens between Thanksgiving and Christmas, business is a little dull, possibly more so this year than for some years past. The lull allows time for energetic florists to prepare their Christmas baskets and decorations, but even these do not seem to be prepared so lavishly this year as for the last few seasons. The department stores are now extending themselves in this direction, to the detriment of prices. The supply of flowers, except carnations, is plentiful. Of carnations there are none too many and they are now selling at such prices as always should be maintained. A lot of the flowers coming in are not standing up and for the best quality of carnations there is a strong demand. Bulbous stock is fairly plentiful. Some yellow narcissi are already being offered. Romans and Paper Whites are abundant.

SUPERIOR-GROWN ROSES for IMMEDIATE DELIVERY

Prince E. C. d'Arenberg Has fulfilled every prediction made for it last season and is a big winner everywhere. There is no red rose grown that will make as satisfactory returns for the space occupied. Of exceedingly strong, sturdy growth, throwing splendid stems at all times; splendid foliage. The one best bet in red roses.

$6.00 per 100; $50.00 per 1000

Ophelia has proven of exceptional merit as a forcing rose; a great grower, clean and strong, very free, and a most beautiful color—brilliant salmon-pink, shading to orange. A fancy rose that you will be more than pleased with.

$10.00 per 100; $75.00 per 1000

Killarney Brilliant This is the very last word in the Killarneys an exceptionally strong grower, increased petalage and of heavier texture. A most brilliant and pleasing color; is doing well everywhere, and will be planted heavily this season.

$10.00 per 100; $75.00 per 1000

Mrs. Geo. Shawyer The most popular rose of its color ever introduced; has won its way to the very top on merit alone. A grand grower, very free, a splendid keeper and the most pleasing shade of pink; sells on sight, at top prices. Will be planted heavier than any other pink rose this season.

$6.00 per 100; $50.00 per 1000

All the new and standard varieties in quantity. Let us figure on your requirements for the coming season. We can make the price right for first-class, well grown stock.

STAIGER & MUNDWILER
1940-1946 W. 22d St., LOS ANGELES, CAL.
For all classes of ornamental nursery and greenhouse stock, ferns and palms at right prices.

The roses are mostly of southern origin and are of good quality. Chrysanthemums are good, but the season for them is nearly over and they are not much sought for. Cyclamens and the Lorraine and Cincinnati begonias are moving slowly; the demand for them can hardly be extensive until Christmas. Some peppers and poinsettias are on display, but do not move fast. Ferns are plentiful, and greens are fully up to the demand.

Various Notes.

The Florists' Club decided, December 8, to ask the state legislature to have all the greenhouses in the state put under license, so that they would come under the supervision of the state horticultural inspector. A committee was appointed to ascertain what steps could be taken to induce business houses to adorn the facade of their buildings with flowers, especially for next year, when thousands of tourists are expected to visit our city. The Bon Marche has been a pioneer in this respect, and it was considered that it would be a great improvement to the appearance of our streets if more places of business would follow its example—not to speak of the advantage to flower growers.

The weather of the last week has been rather remarkable for the season. With no rain for a whole week, people begin to sit up and take notice. Today was a lovely, springlike day. We have had no real frost and the pussy willows are beginning to show their catkins. Maybe they will curl up pretty quickly some night soon. T. W.

PORTLAND, ORE.

The Market.

The demand for flowers is below normal. Expensive stock suffers equally with the moderate priced flowers. This condition is common this fall and just now is more in evidence on account of comparison with the Thanksgiving rush. Many of the stores have lots of red in the display windows, but not much real Christmas stock is yet shown. Red and green ruscus is being used extensively and the supply has run short temporarily. There is also a scarcity of araucarias. There will be no oversupply of carnations for the holidays and some dealers will find it difficult to get enough to fill orders.

The supply of mums, Paper Whites, white Roman hyacinths, stevia, bouvardia, violets, roses and lilies is equal to the present demand and prices are about normal, both to the grower and from the public. Conditions this year are so entirely different from those of all former years that the retailers are puzzled in figuring the quantities of their holiday supplies.

Various Notes.

J. J. Butzer, the seedsman, has enlarged his store at 188 Front street by extending his salesroom several feet into the next front south. He also has secured a trucking way to his rear storeroom, which is entirely outside his salesroom.

The Tonseth Floral Co. is displaying some blooming azaleas in pink and light variegated colors.

That is, none but bona fide growers selling their own product will be allowed to rent stalls. Business Meeting.

Before an assemblage of seventy-five members, the attendance having been cut down by the severe storm of the preceding days, J. Otto Thilow, of Philadelphia, opened the business session, Wednesday afternoon, December 9, with the address of welcome and the presentation of a gavel to the association, the gift of George W. Hess, of Washington. The head of the gavel is of wood from a cedar of Lebanon, said to have been brought to Washington from Mt. Lebanon, the handle of wood taken from the home of Thomas Jefferson, Monticello, W. Va., and the bronze caps of metal from the wreck of the Maine, which was sunk in Havana harbor. The secretary's and committees' reports showed the organization an active one, and the treasurer's report showed it to be a thriving one.

Addresses.

The Banquet.

At the conclusion of the meeting the members adjourned to the banquet hall, where they were joined by the ladies and other friends of the organization. The hall had been beautifully decorated by the local committee of arrangements, consisting of Wm. Kleinheinz, John Dodds, E. Rust and Mr. Logan. After the excellent menu had been concluded President Waite introduced J. Otto Thilow as toastmaster. President-elect J. W. Everitt responded to the toast "The National Association of Gardeners"; Robert Craig, "Our Horticulturists"; James MacMachan, "Our Retiring President"; Wallace R. LONGIFLORUM FOR EASTER

I would like to know what time Lilium longiflorum should be taken in, so as to have the plants in bloom for Easter. They were potted up October 19. S. M. G.

Probably you are growing the giganteum form of longiflorum. These like heat from the start and if your plants are now three or four inches high, they should be given a temperature of 60 degrees at night right along. You should be able to see buds distinctly about February 20, to be sure of your plants being in flower for Easter.

[TELEGRAM]

Mail me today without fail your third edition of Album of Designs, and I will mail you post-office order today. The last Album was misplaced and we feel lost without one.

J. S. BOYD,

October 16, 1914. Cleburne, Tex.

THE THIRD EDITION

Of the most successful book ever published for the trade

The original Album of Designs was published in response to many requests from florists who felt the need for an up-to-date book that could be used in taking orders for Funeral Designs, Wedding Decorations and Bouquets, Table Decorations and all cut flower work where it was not practicable to show the customer the finished article as it would be when ready for use. With the publication of this Album it became possible to show the finished work in beautifully printed pictures. The first edition sold like hot-cakes, and a second edition went quickly. The third edition is now ready. Everything is in it—all the standard designs and many new and heretofore unpublished pieces.

PLANT BASKETS

Our Plant Baskets have been so well received that they are now a very important feature of our Christmas business. Last year we offered only one style in three sizes. This year we have about twenty-five different numbers. All are first-class, both as to style of basket and filling.

Many of the baskets and window boxes are in two-tone effect. All baskets have zinc (not tin) liners.

Window Box shape, 18 inches long, 6 inches wide, 6 inches deep, $4 each.

Handle Baskets in variety, $4, $5 and $6.

POINSETTIAS (30,000)

We grow none of the pink variety, all of our stock being of the selected bright red sort.

The Market.

The weather conditions are conducive to good holiday business, causing things to awaken into activity, and soon the rush will be upon us. Everything indicates a prosperous Christmas and most of our florists are making big preparations for the great event.

Carnations are somewhat scarce and clean up well. There has been considerable complaint this fall about carnations not holding up well. They seem crisp and fresh when cut, but soon get sleepy and shrivel. Good red carnations are hard to get. Poinsettias are arriving in small quantities and the potted ones are now on sale. There is not much demand for these, however. Red roses are much called for and the demand will increase until after the holidays. Francis Scott Key, Hadley and Milady are prime favorites this season and are followed closely by Richmond, Russell, Shawyer and Killarney Queen. American Beauties are splendid and bring a fancy price. Gardenias, cattleyas and sweet peas are used extensively for corsages. Violets are excellent. Callas and Harrisii lilies are abundant. There are good quantities of plants for Christmas, including poinsettias, heather, begonias, primroses, cyclamens, peppers and ardisias. Holly and Christmas greens of all kinds are good. Nearly all the florists have put up their Christmas decorations.

Various Notes.

Stroh's Flower Shop is showing some excellent carnations. Enchantress Supreme and Ideal are remarkably good, especially in comparison with the poor carnations that are generally being offered now.

S. A. Anderson recently had an unusual window display in pink and white. Panels of fluffy white tissue paper covered the floor of the window and the sides. Lorraine begonias were hung on the sides and in the background. In the center a reindeer decorated with pink ribbons drew a white sled filled with pink begonias. Huge knots of pink tulle were caught here and there, giving a soft effect to the entire window. J. M. McClellan and Mr. Roach are new additions to Anderson's working force.

W. H. Grever is doing a big business in his Ever-ready pot cover for Christmas. He says that it pays to advertise in The Review, judging from the volume of orders he has received in return.

George Kramer arrived in town December 1 with a number of novelties up his sleeve for the coming holidays. He always brings something new with him.

street, is introducing new Christmas wreaths made of red fiber. They are quite narrow and are made attractive with bows of holly ribbon. The smaller sizes are excellent for automobiles. She is looking forward to a prosperous Christmas trade.

Charles Sandiford is growing some excellent orchid sweet peas, which are finding a ready sale at some of the leading flower stores. He made a score of 278 in bowling last week, the highest ever made in Buffalo. Hurrah for Charlie!

Mrs. Katherine Raeker has an attractive Christmas window, containing red wreaths, baskets of ruscus and statice, etc. Her Thanksgiving trade was splendid and she hopes to have as good business for Christmas.

Visitors included Arthur Zirkman, of M. Rice Co., and Ed. Fancourt, of Pennock-Meehan Co., Philadelphia.

making a splendid line of Christmas baskets, which are already selling well, and the store is in readiness for the holiday rush.

The Lenox Flower Shop has a pretty Christmas display, including a handsome window of poinsettias and ferns. In front of the store there is a graceful canopy of ground pine roping, edged with red fiber roping, and where the triangular canopy comes to a point a huge bunch of red ruscus is fastened.

Joseph Sangster's store is artistically decorated with red bells of all sizes. A mammoth wreath made of boxwood, red ruscus and statice is hung across the street from Bishop's department store to Mr. Sangster's. It is brilliantly lighted at night and advertises a contest which the Jefferson street merchants are conducting during the holidays. Coupons are given to each purchaser, and to those holding lucky numbers prizes are given each week by the various stores. Mr. Sangster has a fine lot of cyclamens, begonias, primroses and poinsettias on hand for Christmas. E. C. A.

We Never Sleep.

CLEVELAND.

The Market.

The outlook for a really good Christmas business is good, with prospects of an average crop of all kinds of cut flowers and an increase over the quantity of pot plants that are usually grown at this date. Much will depend on the weather. At this writing, we are in the midst of a blizzard, the first one of the winter. Should continued cold weather set in, with bright days, Christmas shoppers will turn out in droves. The stock in general this year is above the average. Poinsettias, both cut and in pans, never before were grown in such quantity and never were so fine. Carnations are in fair crop only. Roses will be fine and in heavy crop. Killarney should improve in color, to be tiptop stock. Calendulas, narcissi, valley, violets, sweet peas, etc., are expected to be plentiful.

Club Notes.

An important meeting was held December 11 by the publicity committee of the Florists' Club, to take up the question of coöperative advertising to awaken the public to the fact that flowers and plants make desirable Christmas gifts. A plan was decided upon and a fund of $300 was at once guaranteed, to be collected pro rata from all florists who would be benefited. The first ad appeared in the Sunday Plain Dealer December 13, followed by a similar ad December 15 in the Press, December 16 in the News, December 20 in both the Leader and the Plain Dealer and December 21 in the Press and News. While Christmas business as a rule is in such large volume that every florist has to work day and night to handle it, the consensus of opinion of the committee was that, this being an off year, considerable Christmas trade could be turned into florists' channels that otherwise would go for other commodities. The result of this course of advertising will be watched with keen interest by all.

The regular December meeting of the Florists' Club was advanced one week, on account of the holiday season. It was held December 7 and proved to be one of the most interesting meetings held in our new rooms. A general discussion was held on the proper conducting of business, on overhead expense in flower stores, and on the surest way to figure the selling price of plants and cut flowers, so as to return always a fair profit to both the grower and the store man. Several new members were elected, which brings the total membership up to 130.

W. E. Cook, of Stumpp & Walter Co., was present and gave an interesting talk on New York's successful flower shows and predicted for Cleveland a show second to none.

Various Notes.

C. Merkel & Son, of Mentor, have a fine lot of azaleas, poinsettias and Cincinnati begonias to offer the trade.

Their azaleas are especially fine this year.

The Carl Hagenburger Co., of West Mentor, has a good assortment of Christmas plants, including some fine cherries. Their snapdragons are particularly fine.

The Naumann Co. has its usual fine stock of Christmas plants. Cincinnati begonias are the firm's leaders.

At the greenhouses of the James Eadie Co. azaleas and begonias are the leaders, while in cut stock their Ward roses are right in crop.

The Cleveland Cut Flower Co. is likely to have the best carnation crop in its history. Herbert Bate says they will have plenty of red carnations, Beacon being in full crop. Their roses at Newton Falls, in charge of Guy Bate, are also in good crop.

A. Graham & Son have the best poinsettias in pans that have been seen here. The flower heads are large and the color perfect, with foliage down to the pot.

The J. M. Gasser Co. has its usual fine crop of roses, carnations and poinsettias. The carnations are exceptionally fine.

W. J. Kramer and Lars Anderson, both carnation growers at Rocky River, will have large cuts of good stock for Christmas.

A large attendance of members was present at the monthly meeting of the Westchester and Fairfield Horticultural Society, held December 11, President Williamson in the chair. The occasion was the annual meeting and fourth anniversary. Officers for the ensuing year were elected. [But the secretary fails to report their names.—Ed.] The financial report for the year was read, showing the society to be in a flourishing condition. We now have a membership of 280 active members, eight life members and twenty honorary members. Considering that the society was organized with a membership of fourteen, the increase has been phenomenal. The newly elected officers are all hustlers, thus assuring the society a continuation of prosperity.

The society was well represented at the convention recently held in Philadelphia by the National Association of Gardeners and during recess a number of those who attended entertained the members with their impressions of the convention and of the city and outlying districts. Two proposals for membership were received and placed on file.

The exhibition tables were overflowing with exhibits of marked superiority. The judges made the following awards:

Cultural certificate to Thomas Ryan, for poinsettias, and vote of thanks for carnations.

Cultural certificate to Anton Peterson, for vase of Mrs. Geo. Shawyer roses; also vote of thanks for Carnation Matchless.

Vote of thanks to A. Wynne, for vase of a sport of Harlowarden carnation.

Vote of thanks to James Foster, for display of Geo. Colmar grapes, vase of poinsettias and plate of Carman No. 3 potatoes.

Vote of thanks to Robert Grunnert, for vase of Carnation White Enchantress.

Vote of thanks to P. W. Popp, for Narcissus Soleil d'Or.

At the next meeting special cash prizes will be offered for eighteen blooms of carnations in three varieties, six of each. A fine display is anticipated. An interesting illustrated lecture also is scheduled for the next meeting, to be held January 8. The subject will be "The Conservation and

Seed Trade News.

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.

President, Lester L. Morse, San Francisco, Cal.; Secretary-Treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

Thirty-third annual convention, San Francisco, Cal., 1915.

H. G. HASTINGS & Co., Atlanta, Ga., are mailing 500,000 copies of their general seed catalogue this season.

THE German grass seeds are beginning to arrive via Copenhagen, a roundabout way that adds appreciably to the cost.

THE average seedsman considers the seed business the most serious thing in this life. And it's a good thing for both.

W. J. DEWEY, Bellaire, Mich., has had excellent success as a grower of radish. Michigan radish steadily improves its reputation.

IN view of the uncertainties that disturbed the trade a few months ago, the 1915 catalogues will be surprisingly like those of 1914.

S. B. DICKS, who calls on seedsmen for a British firm, writes to a home paper about "slaw-sliced cabbage—as served in America; a meal fit for a king."

SEEDSMEN issuing catalogues surely are right in being interested in prices: they seem to stand nearly all the advances and give the public the advantage of all the important reductions.

THE Holmes Seed Co., Harrisburg, Pa., compelled to leave its former location at 119 South Second street on account of the construction of the subway, has secured the building at 106-8 South Second street, which it will occupy exclusively.

THE trade on the Pacific coast this season is having the pleasure of making the acquaintance of a considerable number of Hollanders who have not previously gone so far west. Booking bulb orders for 1915 delivery is slow work everywhere this season.

THE St. Louis Seed Co., in temporary quarters at 408 North Broadway since the Boatman's Bank fire last spring, is preparing to move into the new building now nearing completion at the former location, 411-13 Washington avenue, St. Louis, where all up-to-date facilities are being provided.

PAYING HIGHER FOR PEAS.

About 4,000 acres will be contracted by the Jerome B. Rice Seed Co., Cambridge, N. Y., with farmers of the Gallatin valley for seed peas, to be planted the coming spring, according to L. L. Brotherton, the Bozeman, Mont., agent for the company, who is now making contracts with the farmers for the acreage needed. This will be about the same acreage as that planted last season. According to Mr. Brotherton, the season just closed was a most successful one in the Gallatin for the seed pea growers, though the extra hot and dry weather of midsummer worked to cut down the yields far below what had been anticipated.

This year seed pea prices are up to the level that obtained when peas were first planted in the Gallatin. Mr. Brotherton is authorized this year to pay 25 to 50 cents per hundred more than the prices paid here for peas last year, according to the varieties that are grown. In the case of several varieties, this brings the price paid up to the scale of three years ago, before the cut in prices was made.

GOVERNMENT LOSES SEEDS.

It develops that the government lost 630 bags of British seeds by fire October 20. The information comes out through the action of Controller Downey, of the Treasury Department, in authorizing the allowance of six per cent to the adjusters on the value of that part of the government's consignment salvaged from the fire. It is stated to be a settled practice of the government to contribute for general average losses to a cargo belonging to it, and it appears that fire broke out in the hold of the steamship Minnewaska, lying at its berth in New York city October 20, after a part of the cargo had been discharged. The government seeds were consigned to I. P. Roosa, United States dispatch agent at New York. The total consignment was 853 bags, of which 223 bags, valued at about $876.53, were saved. After the fire, delivery of the bags of seeds not already unloaded was placed in the hands of Johnson & Higgins, general average adjusters.

VALLEY PIPS VIA BERGEN.

Four consignments of valley pips reached New York December 8, on the Steamer Kristianiafjord, from Bergen, Norway. The consignments were as follows:

Consignee.	Cases.
Maltus & Ware	40
McHutchison & Co	200
Stumpp & Walter Co	50
Heydemann, D., & Co	130
Total	420

THE FIRST 1915 CATALOGUES.

The first general mail order seed catalogue for 1915 to reach The Review was that of D. Landreth Seed Co., Bristol, Pa., although it was only an hour ahead of the one issued by H. G. Hastings & Co., Atlanta, Ga. Both arrived during the morning of December 14.

In no important respect does either of these books differ from the edition of 1914. Each has been and continues under the 8-ounce limit and is mailable at the flat rate as before the parcel post zone rates were made to apply to heavier books. Each book also continues the system of pricing on the basis of postage prepaid except on peas, beans and corn, and Hastings quotes prepaid prices on these up to quarts. Hastings also quotes f. o. b. express prices on larger quantities of many other articles.

Prices, always a matter of interest in the early catalogues, show, as predicted in this column, little change as the result of either crop conditions or the European war. About the only important changes are on bush beans, green pod, wax and Limas all being higher. Other changes are reductions in more cases than otherwise; in fact, Landreth has a considerable part of the in your greenhouses, see and ask your neighbor how they pay. It is still time to sow some now.

Now is the time to sow some of the Summer Sweet Pea Seed, outdoors or in cold frames, to have good crop for Decoration Day. I have only the best commercial varieties, like: Frank Dolby (lavender), Nora Unwin (white), Gladys Unwin (pink), etc.; 1 lb., $1.50; 5 lbs. of each, at $5.00.

My reselected Pink Spencer, White Spencer, Lavender Spencer, Lilac Spencer, Orange Spencer, Red Spencer, etc., at $5.00 per pound; in 5-lb. lots, at $4.00. Guaranteed over 90% true.

Countess Spencer, White Spencer (Burpee), Blanche Ferry Spencer, C. Routzahn, King Edward Spencer, at $1.50 per lb.; in 5-lb. lots, at $1.00, as long as surplus lasts.

CONSIDERING

You fellows who are always considering something, seldom accomplish anything worth while. While you are rummaging in your think-tank—or "considering," the other fellow is marching on. By the time your mind is made up you are scheduled for the greased chute. The other fellow gets the best of you simply because you let him. Be quick to decide—even if you make a mistake occasionally—try and foresee things—be prepared. Any old rummy can see things when it's too late. Get ready beforehand so you can reap when the harvest time comes. And along these lines don't forget to plant some lily bulbs now, for late winter forcing. They will be profitable later on. Don't "consider" more than a minute—go to it—do it now. Horseshoe Brand Formosum or Giganteum will give you the results—they are ready to ship any time. Formosum, size 7/9, are $15.00 per case of 300, or $6.00 per 100. Giganteum, size 7/9, are $18.00 per 300 or $7.50 per 100. Order now.

Not how cheap but how good.

items at a point the lowest in three years, lower even than in the 1913 book. The two 1915 catalogues, however, show considerable variation when prices on specific items are compared, Earliana tomato, as an illustration, being $2 in one and $2.75 in the other; Jewel $2 in one and $3 in the other.

Incidentally, it is worthy of note that these issues are the one-hundred thirty-first for Landreth and the forty-ninth for Hastings.

CUTHBERTSON GETS MEDAL.

Many seedsmen in America have business acquaintance with William Cuthbertson, head of Dobbie & Co., Edinburgh, and a considerable number enjoy his personal acquaintance. All these will be interested in the announcement that the Royal Horticultural Society of Great Britain has conferred on Mr. Cuthbertson the Victoria Medal of Honor in Horticulture. There are but sixty-three of the medals, one for each year of Victoria's reign, and the conferring of the distinction on Mr. Cuthbertson fills the list for the present.

MONEY FOR SEEDS.

The Department of Agriculture evidently has given up hope of the discontinuance of the free seed distribution. Last year the secretary recommended, in his annual report, that the practice be discontinued, but this year he is silent on the subject. Moreover, the estimates for the 1916 expenses of the department include $252,540 for the congressional free seed distribution. This is within $4,600 of the appropriation for the 1915 distribution now in progress.

In addition to the quarter of a million dollars provided for congressmen's seeds, the department estimates $119,920 for the purchase, test and distribution of new and rare seeds. This is, however, a decrease of $46,580 from the appropriation for the current year. For foreign seed and plant introduction, the estimate calls for $75,400, with $28,700 for seed testing and $50,000 for the enforcement of plant quarantine.

The botanic garden has asked Congress to appropriate $1,657 for plants, bulbs and seeds, the last appropriation having been $1,506. E. H. P.

WAR TAX DOES NOT APPLY.

A number of inquiries have been received by Commissioner Osborn, chief of the Internal Revenue Bureau, of the Treasury Department, regarding the status of druggists, country merchants and others who sell boxes of seeds which are furnished to them on consignment. Ordinarily, such action would place them in the same class as commission merchants and, as such, subject to the special tax of $20 under the act of October 22, 1914. Several representatives of the seed trade have made personal visits to the commissioner's office and have presented data to show that the druggists and merchants can hardly rightfully be considered as commission merchants. In many instances the seeds are furnished under an agreement or contract that all that are sold shall be paid for at the end of the season, less certain specified discounts, and that those unsold shall be returned. The question of the status of a transaction of this character has been before the Alabama Supreme court, which decided

Draw or Drive

Use either or both methods but make the business go. Cut out grouch and throw in ginger—plenty of ginger. Fill up idle space with my famous Silver Pink seedlings and get on "Easy street." More money to the square foot from them than from any plants in existence. They develop so rapidly that it is a pleasure to watch them grow, and when flowering season begins satisfaction is complete. Not only our word but that of hundreds of leading florists. Here is a sample from Pennsylvania: "Your S. P. Seedlings are doing fine. It is an ENORMOUS PRODUCER, and a favorite color with the aristocrats as well as with the public in general. We shall have a photograph of it on our delivery auto."

Strong, bushy plants at only $4.00 per 100; $35.00 per 1000. We also offer white at $4.00; yellow, $5.00, and our grand new one, Garnet Gem, $8 00.

Begin now to sow seed for spring blossoms and for large plants in flower for spring sales. Price of new crop seed, $1.00 per pkt.; 3 for $2.50; 7 for $5.00. All orders cash. Free cultural directions.

We specialize in Snapdragons. Our stock is XX quality, free from disease, and a square deal goes with every shipment. Don't take chances on cheap plants.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

THE Wills Valley Nursery Co., Jefferson county, Ala., has increased its capital stock from $100,000 to $110,000.

THIS week's obituary column contains a report of the death of J. G. Harrison, founder of the nursery firm of J. G. Harrison & Sons, Berlin, Md.

A BRANCH nursery is to be established at Madera, Cal., by the Fresno Nursery Co., of Fresno, Cal. A tract of 160 acres has been leased and a pumping plant is being installed.

WILLIAM A. PETERSON is superintendent of Edgewater Presbyterian Sunday School, in Chicago, and takes as much interest in its progress as he does in Peterson Nursery or any of his other business enterprises.

THE Diamond State Nurseries, at Milford, Del., will, it is reported, be moved to Little Silver, N. J., at the beginning of the new year. Lester Lovett, proprietor of the Diamond State Nurseries, will devote his entire time to the management of the Little Silver nurseries. The entire season's output of the nurseries at Milford of dahlia and canna bulbs has been purchased for planting along the west bank of Silver Lake, at the entrance to Milford.

THE Secretary of Agriculture has issued an order effective January 1, 1915, prohibiting the importation from all foreign countries of citrus nursery stock, including buds, scions and seeds, except for experimental or scientific purposes by the Department of Agriculture. This action is taken to prevent the introduction into this country of citrus canker and other citrus diseases found to exist in foreign countries and liable to be introduced on nursery stock.

THE Bureau of Plant Industry of the Department of Agriculture reports that field experiments and the experience of the forest service, the Dominion botanist, at Ottawa, Canada, the Vermont agricultural experiment station and others continue to confirm previous statements of the efficiency of sulphuric acid as a fungicide in controlling the damping-off of coniferous seedlings, and of a modified watering treatment in controlling blight on nursery stock. These methods are now being applied at many new nurseries, on different types of soil. The work is now largely concentrated at Garden City, Kan.

INSPECTION OF IMPORTS.

The continuance of exportation and inspection service by continental countries in spite of the European war is the subject of a paragraph in the December news-letter of the Federal Horticultural Board, which will be of interest to nurserymen, particularly those who receive large shipments from France. The paragraph reads:

"In spite of the disturbed conditions in Europe, importations of plants and nursery stock are proceeding in a fairly normal way, and even Belgian stock is coming over in considerable quantities via Holland. In response to a cable inquiry this office was advised through the French ambassador at Washington that the French inspection service would be maintained, and large importers of French stock have since confirmed this advice. Under the existing European conditions there may naturally be expected some irregularity in compliance with our regulations, and certain leniency may occasionally be necessary, especially where safety can be fully assured by adequate inspection on this side, either at the port of entry or destination."

Please cut out of my ad for Privet the 18 to 24-inch, as I am all sold out of that size. The Review certainly does bring the answers.
CHARLES L. SMITH.
Oct. 13, 1914. Pennsgrove, N. J.

GRAFTING LILACS.

Will you please tell me how and when to graft lilacs? Do you graft on own roots, or can you graft on privet or mulberry? E. M.

As a stock, the common lilac, Syringa vulgaris, is decidedly the best. The trouble with California privet is that it is not sufficiently hardy, and, even where it is hardy, plants worked on it lose the vigor and longevity of those grafted on the common lilac stock. I have never seen mulberry tried as a stock, but do not believe it would be nearly so good as S. vulgaris.

Outdoor grafting should be done in spring. Indoors, February is the best month. Almost any grafting will answer, as lilacs unite readily. Crown grafting is generally preferred. Propagation by cuttings is best done about the end of June, before the wood becomes too firm. C. W.

WESTERN ASSOCIATION MEETS.

Officers Elected.

At the twenty-fifth annual convention of the Western Association of Nurserymen, held December 9 and 10 at the Coates House, Kansas City, Mo., officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

President—C. C. Mayhew, of Sherman, Tex.

Vice-president—Lloyd C. Stark, of Louisiana, Mo.

Secretary-treasurer—E. J. Holman, of Leavenworth, Kan., reëlected for fourteenth consecutive term.

Executive committee—Peter Youngers, of Geneva, Neb.; D. S. Lake, of Shenandoah, Ia.; H. M. Simpson, of Vincennes, Ind.; R. J. Bagby, of New Haven, Mo., and J. H. Skinner, of Topeka, Kan. All reëlected.

The invitation to hold next year's convention in San Francisco, proffered in a letter from James A. Barr, director of the congresses of the Panama-Pacific exposition, was turned down, and Kansas City selected for the 1915 meeting place.

Business Sessions.

The business preliminaries were rushed through at the first session, Wednesday morning, December 9, with President W. S. Griesa in the chair. The treasurer reported $676.15 on hand; the accounts were audited and approved by Geo. Holsinger, J. S. Lopeman and Geo. Johnson. The applications for membership from David Knight & Son, of Sawyer, Mich., and M. L. Taylor, of Perry, Kan., were favorably reported upon by the committee, consisting of Geo. Marshall, Peter Youngers and C. W. Carman, and the applicants elected to membership.

At luncheon the members enjoyed

The Highway to Hardy Perennials

PALISADES NURSERIES

THERE you will find all kinds, and you can take your pick from the best that grow. Perennials add a feeling of permanency to your home surroundings. They change their plumage, but not their face, and keep reflecting the seasons all the year around.

FALL PLANTING—To grow most hardy perennials and old-fashioned flowers successfully, plant in October and November, like planting Spring-flowering bulbs. They then root during Fall and Winter, and are ready for Spring and Summer blooming.

No grounds are really gardened without a big showing in perennials. We are headquarters for perennials, and assure the widest latitude in choice as well as the most courteous promptitude in correspondence and service. Our motto—"Maximum Quality at Minimum Cost."

some fine specimens of the Delicious apple, supplied by W. P. Stark, and W. C. Reed's Indiana pecans.

In the afternoon, E. S. Welch, F. A. Weber and H. D. Simpson, composing the committee on nominations, returned as their report the names of the officers given above. The president's address and the excellent papers which followed were given close attention, and much earnest discussion ensued. The statements of nurserymen and inspectors seemed to prophesy at an early date the adoption of the hoped for uniform state inspection laws.

A committee, consisting of J. W. Schuette, E. F. Bernardin and H. B. Chase, was appointed to consider a paper on trade terms, to be reported at the next annual meeting for adoption. The legislative committee was instructed to consider any bill introduced in Congress relating to the mailing of catalogues in bulk, and to work in connection with the seedsmen's committee, which meets in Philadelphia this month. W. P. Stark was delegated to attend the meeting.

Notice was given that at the next annual meeting an amendment would be offered to the constitution, providing honorary membership for those who have distinguished themselves as nurserymen, and for those whose friendship and assistance have promoted the interests of the association. A. L. Brooks was elected an honorary member of the association by special act.

Papers Presented.

A number of extremely fine papers were presented for the consideration of the members present and the discussion which followed brought out valuable points. The complete program of addresses follows:

"Review of 1914 Meeting of American Association of Nurserymen at Cleveland," J. W. Hill, Des Moines, Ia.

"Effect on the Nursery Interests of Pound Rate for Printed Matter Mailed in Bulk Without Stamps," John Dayton, Painesville, O.; discussion by Carl Sonderegger.

"Trade Outlook for Spring: Probable Supply and Demand of Standard Varieties," F. H. Stannard, Ottawa, Kan.; discussion by E. P. Bernardin and James Fraser.

"Effect of European War on the Retail Nursery Trade," Carl Sonderegger, Beatrice, Neb.; discussion by R. J. Bagby.

"Cooperative Effort to Prevent Radical State Legislation," Thos. B. Meehan, Dresher, Pa.; discussion by Peter Youngers.

"The Desirability of Nurserymen Urging Universal Spraying Among Small Orchardists," P. C. Stark, Louisiana, Mo.; discussion by Prof. Haseman.

"Radical State Legislation," general review of legislation passed, attempted and pending, Peter Youngers, Geneva, Neb.

"Probable Effect of the European War on the Seedling Situation This Year and Future Years," D. S. Lake, Shenandoah, Ia.; discussion by H. M. Simpson and J. H. Skinner.

"The Practical Working of the Missouri Inspection Law," Prof. Leonard Haseman.

"Better Roots—Do Most Nurserymen Dig Too Shallow?" Herbert S. Chase, Delta, Colo.; discussion by Homer L. Reed and John Dayton.

AVIATOR The High-flier Among Scarlets

SOONER OR LATER you will grow Aviator as your principal scarlet Carnation—why not get in on the ground floor?

DESCRIPTION Parents, red sport of Maceo and red seedling. Color, intense scarlet, very bright. Stem, thin, wiry and stiff. Flowers, fine, full and nicely fringed. Habit, clean; upright growth; every break makes a rapid advance, producing a profusion of fine flowers in a very short time. The most prolific carnation ever offered to the trade, barring none. No disease, no grass, easy to propagate.

This Ought to Be OF INTEREST to YOU that local growers have placed the largest individual orders for my new Carnation "ALICE," offered to the trade this season. Some have doubled and trebled their orders on successive visits.

The color is an exquisite shade of clear, soft pink, midway between Enchantress and Gloriosa. Habit of plant, ideal, strong, very early and a continuous and without doubt the most productive commercial variety I have offered to date.

Prices—Per 100, $12.00; per 1000, $100.00; per 2500, $237.50; per 5000, $450.00; per 10,000, $800.00.

KNOXVILLE, TENN.

The Market.

The weather continues dark and cloudy, with a great deal of rain. In fact, we have had little sunshine for about three weeks. This is becoming a rather serious matter with the florists, as stock is blooming only sparingly, and, with fairly good trade, it has been necessary to buy from other markets. It is feared that stock that was timed for Christmas will not come in until afterward.

Club Meeting.

The Knoxville Florists' Society, upon invitation, met December 7 at the Board of Commerce building, with a special committee from the Board of Trade. As this was the last meeting of the year, officers were elected for the coming year, as follows: President, C. L. Baum; vice-president, Mrs. Edith Crouch; secretary and treasurer, A. J. McNutt.

Among a number of matters discussed, the most important was that of closing the stores on Sunday. A committee was appointed to confer with the ministers, undertakers and cemetery superintendents and ascertain whether they would be willing to coöperate with the society in this movement.

The time for the meetings of the society was changed from the first Tuesday of each month to the second Monday, on account of the former date being so close to the first of the month.

John Van Zonneveld, of Sassenheim, Holland, was present at the meeting.

Various Notes.

C. L. Baum is showing the public something classy in a florists' telegraph delivery window. He collected shipping tags from all the members of the F. T. D. and has them arranged upon a green background of cloth, each tag representing the town whence it came. The tags are all connected to a telegraph instrument placed on a table at one end of the window. The instrument is apparently being operated by a lady figure. The floor of the window is covered with telegrams and decorated with holly and Christmas wreaths. This is not only an attractive window, but has created a great deal of comment, accompanied by questions in regard to the F. T. D. and its system.

Mrs. Rosa Hall Ryno will have some fine poinsettias for Christmas.

A. H. Dailey is making extensive preparations for Christmas and has already taken many orders.

Addison J. McNutt practically lost his Christmas sweet pea crop on account of the cloudy weather.

C. W. Crouch is exceedingly busy getting ready for the Christmas trade, which promises to be good. On account of the recent cloudy weather, stock is scarce. R. E. M.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.

The Market.

The market is in about as unstable a condition as it has ever been and many of the florists are looking into the future with considerable anxiety as to what they may expect. Whereas there should be a promising outlook at this time of the year, the immediate prospects are far from encouraging. Stock is good in quality and the supply is normal. In fact, under ordinary conditions it would be considered short, but the demand continues at a lower standard than the supply and consequently there is no apparent stringency. The early part of last week brought a warm rain that lasted for more than forty-eight hours and was followed by a decided drop in temperature.

Various Notes.

Alessandro Litteris has been granted permission to erect a greenhouse at 68 Hassan street.

William McAllister, gardener for Mrs. John C. Whitin, at Whitinsville, was elected one of the vice-presidents of the Worcester County Horticultural Society at the annual meeting last week.

Cornelius Sullivan, who has been in charge of Joseph Koppelman's greenhouses, in East Providence, has resigned to return to the position he held for more than twenty years with T. O'Connor, in this city.

Charles Evans, for several years with Albert Holscher, on Hartford avenue, is now with T. J. Johnston & Co.

E. A. Chipman announces a rummage sale of surplus plants of all kinds at his greenhouses at Chipman's corner, East Woonsocket.

Peter S. Byrnes, of Wickford, was one of the large prize-winners at the recent annual exhibition of the Rhode Island Poultry Society.

The recent ruling of the city council of this city against the use of Crawford street bridge as a market place has prevented the Christmas green-men from occupying the place utilized for generations for the sale of trees, wreaths and roping.

Mr. Green, representing H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, was a caller on the trade in this vicinity last week.

O. H. Williams has returned from Chicago, where he purchased a No. 11 Kroeschell boiler for his range of houses at 950 Hartford avenue.

DECORATIVE and FLOWERING PLANTS

NEW "MUMS"

The fall shows are now past, and you have no doubt jotted down the names of some varieties you will add to your stock next season. That is the way to keep abreast of the times. If you have not already done so, be sure you include our "Yellow Sport from Mrs. Chas. Rager." It will eventually be as widely grown as the white variety from which it sported. You run absolutely no risk in buying it.

Send for our price list, which also includes Carnation cuttings and Geranium plants. We have both in large quantity and top quality.

The Riverside Floral Co. reports business beginning to improve since the cold weather has set in. The outlook for Christmas is satisfactory.

At Miller's Greenhouses a heavy Christmas business is expected, with a good lot of plants and a fine crop of carnations and other cut flowers.

The Williams & Clark Floral Co. is well stocked with azaleas, poinsettias and Cincinnati begonias for the Christmas trade. The carnations give promise of a good Christmas cut, especially Victory, which is in full crop. This company has been cutting some fine Dolly Dimple chrysanthemums. A big wholesale plant business is expected.

Simon Humfeld is contemplating an extended trip in the south and southwestern states. His many friends hope he will have a pleasant journey.

Clinton Stradling, of the Williams & Clark Floral Co., who has been ill for several days, has reported for business again.

Among the visitors last week were Peter Weiland, of Newcastle, and J. Rau, representing C. J. Speelman & Sons, Sassenheim, Holland. R. W.

NEWPORT, R. I.

The annual meeting of the Newport Horticultural Society was one of the best attended and most enthusiastic held in several years. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, William MacKay; vice-president, John B. Urquhart; second vice-president, James Bond; recording and financial secretary, William Gray; treasurer, Andrew K. McMahon; sergeant-at-arms, James Watts; executive committee, all the officers, with the addition of Andrew J. Durward, Frederick Carter, Bruce Butterton, Alexander MacLellan, Richard Gardner, Alexander Fraser, James Robertson and Andrew S. Meikle.

It is reported that John B. Sullivan, for several years gardener for Charles F. Hoffman, is to receive the appointment as postmaster of this city.

William F. Smith, who served as sergeant-at-arms of the Newport Horticultural Society, declined reelection at the annual meeting. W. H. M.

Greenhouse Heating.

THE FUEL MARKET.

The arrival of winter over that part of the country that has the most greenhouse glass has brought the necessity for steady hard firing, but it has not brought the usual attention to the question of fuel supply. The coal trade has been in such a situation for months that practically every grower has been loaded up with all the fuel his bins will hold. The market continues easy in spite of the increased consumption, but prices are well maintained, the mines having consistently followed the policy of curtailing production so as not to overload the market. There still are bargains for the man who is so located that the jobbers can get to him easily when they have a car or two up to demurrage, but this is a condition that always maintains except in times of car shortage.

LARGER PIPE IS PREFERABLE.

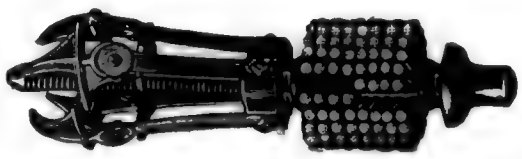
I have just completed the erection of a greenhouse and am at a loss to know how to pipe it. The house runs north and south and is 14x30. It is eight feet high to the ridge and has glass walls five feet high. Please tell me how many lineal feet of 1¼-inch pipe will be required to heat this house to a night temperature of 50 degrees in zero weather, using hot water heat. What size of boiler will be needed? What size of main and return should be used between the boiler and the greenhouse and should these pipes be laid underground? I am located in southwestern Kansas. M. H. N.

From the sketch that accompanies the inquiry, it appears that the boiler is located twenty or more feet away from the greenhouse and eight feet below the greenhouse level. The greenhouse has a door in the south end, the end connected with the boiler, and there is another door in the west wall, about five feet from the north end.

To heat the house, I would suggest that you run a 3-inch flow pipe a foot or so underground to the southwest corner. Just inside the house, carry the 3-inch pipe up to the level of the plate and extend it to the door in the side wall, where a 2-inch pipe should be dropped down to feed a coil of seven 1¼-inch pipes, which should run along the wall back to the southwest corner. Extend the main, after reducing it to 2½-inch, over the door and then drop it down and feed a coil of seven 1¼-inch pipes, which should be carried along the north end of the house and down the east side to the door in the south end. From there a 2½-inch pipe should run to the southwest corner and there connect with the other coil by means of a 2-inch pipe, after which it should run to the heater as a 3-inch return. This will require about 500 lineal feet of 1¼-inch pipe. Instead of the 1¼-inch pipe, it would be preferable to use five lines of 2-inch pipe, or 370 feet.

If for any reason it is not possible to sink the boiler so that the 3-inch flow can be carried all of the way to the greenhouse underground, it may be above ground for a part or all of the way. The heater should be rated for 400 square feet of radiating surface.

LETTUCE HOUSE AND RESIDENCE.



I have two or three questions to ask you about heating. I have an upright boiler, thirty inches by five feet, in a pit three feet deep. My residence is forty feet from the boiler room and the ground is level. Hot water heat is used. Can I heat the residence from the greenhouse boiler? The expansion tank is just over the boiler end of the flows. Would it be practicable to locate the expansion tank outside the boiler room, in this part of Kansas, where the outside temperature has been known to drop to 20 or 25 degrees below zero? I would thus get about four feet more elevation for the tank, or about two pounds of pressure on the heating pipes, giving better circulation, as I understand.

The greenhouse, which is 20x50, contains two 2-inch flows, one on each plate, and three 2-inch returns on each wall. Is that sufficient for a lettuce temperature? The house is four years old, of semi-iron construction, and six feet high to the eaves. W. W. H.

So far as can be determined from the data given, there will be no difficulty in heating the residence from the greenhouse boiler, provided the top of the boiler is two to three feet below the surface of the ground. Especially if radiators are to be placed on the second floor of the residence, it will be advisable to place the expansion tank in the dwelling, above the level of the highest radiator. If in the attic, or in an exposed place, care should be taken that the water in the tank and the pipe leading to it are not allowed to freeze, as otherwise serious results might follow. The pipes leading to the dwelling should be wrapped with asbestos or other good pipe covering, and enclosed either in a wooden or concrete conduit. Unless more than two feet below the surface, a thick covering of straw or similar material should be placed over the pipes.

I would not think of heating the greenhouse for lettuce, under the conditions mentioned, with less than ten 2-inch pipes, and would prefer to use a 2½-inch flow on each plate and four or five 2-inch returns under each side bench or on each wall. The present number of pipes would barely be sufficient for 40 degrees in zero weather, except with heavy and wasteful firing.

BOWLING

The Review will be pleased to record in this department the scores of any trade teams. Secretaries will please see that the scores are mailed to reach The Review office, 508 South Dearborn street, Chicago, not later than the following Tuesday.

CHICAGO CITY CHAMPIONSHIP.

The Chicago Bowling Association closed its city championship tournament December 10. The leader scored 2,906 for five men in three games. The Florists rolled the last night, and fell only twelve pins short of getting into the money in a field of 304 teams, with the following score:

Player.	1st	2d	3d	T'l.
Huebner	165	177	151	493
Lorman	222	213	168	603
Zech	148	204	180	532
Price	169	158	165	492
Olsem	171	161	199	531
Totals	875	913	863	2651

The team fathered by J. A. Mendel won fourth place, and the one carrying the Reinberg banner came in tenth.

Several florists bowled in the individual contest, participated in by several hundred players, but Joseph Foerster was the only one to win a prize, his score of 639 in three games landing him fourteenth from the top. A. Zech made 559; J. Huebner, 542; John Zech, 519; W. Lorman, 515; Fred Price, 508.

NEW YORK.

Greater interest is taken by the New York Florists' Club's bowlers in the game than for many seasons. The membership of the bowling club is limited to twelve, and the scores indicate the holding of the championship at San Francisco, as several of the best bowlers intend to make the trip to the coast next August. The scores, Thursday evening, December 10, were:

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

Conditions are becoming better, and everybody is noticing the change with satisfaction. During the week there have been enormous shipments of Christmas greens into the city. The quality is fine and prices are reasonable.

Several fair-sized weddings and a large quantity of funeral work have made an extra call on the daily consignments, which have been quite large. There are a number of mums still here. Carnations have shortened up considerably, but good, large stock is seen. Violets are selling well and are especially fine. Roses of all kinds are pretty good and are selling at better figures. There is a good demand for sweet peas, but they are quite scarce. Orchids are fine and in fair demand. The supply of valley is much larger than the demand. Few callas are seen, but the supply of Easter lilies is quite good. Smilax, bronze and green leucothoe leaves, dagger ferns and galax are quite plentiful.

Various Notes.

Arthur Zirkman, of the M. Rice Co., Philadelphia, was in town last week, showing an extensive line of florists' supplies.

We are sorry to report that the condition of A. Dennison, a former florist of Brockport, N. Y., is quite serious. He has been in the general hospital here for several weeks and was obliged to undergo another operation for bladder trouble last week. Little hope is given of his recovery.

Among recent visitors were: J. W. Kellogg, of Clifton Springs; John Ward, of Mumford; S. W. Morgan, of Le Roy; W. T. Cass, Geneva; Wm. Ehmann, Corfu; Troutman Bros., of Geneva, and J. C. Van Heiningen, of Heiningen Bros. & Co., Boskoop, Holland.

The monthly meeting of the Lady Florists' Association was held Tuesday, December 8, at the home of Mrs. Wm. J. Keller, of Selye Terrace.

More than fifty members of the horticultural class of Cornell University were tendered a banquet Friday evening, December 11, at the Osburn House, by the Rochester Florists' Association. The banquet followed an all-day inspection of the park system and the truck gardening sections of Irondequoit. The importance of the flower industry in New York state was dwelt on by Professor Edward A. White, head of the department of floriculture at Cornell. Professor Alvin C. Beal also spoke. H. J. H.

The Market.

Trade keeps up fairly well, with plenty of stock of all kinds in the market. Roses and carnations are extra fine, and most of the growers are looking for a big Christmas cut. Sweet peas, violets, narcissi and valley have been moving nicely and there has been no surplus to speak of at any time. Potted plants are moving well, with cyclamens, Lorraine begonias and azaleas in the lead.

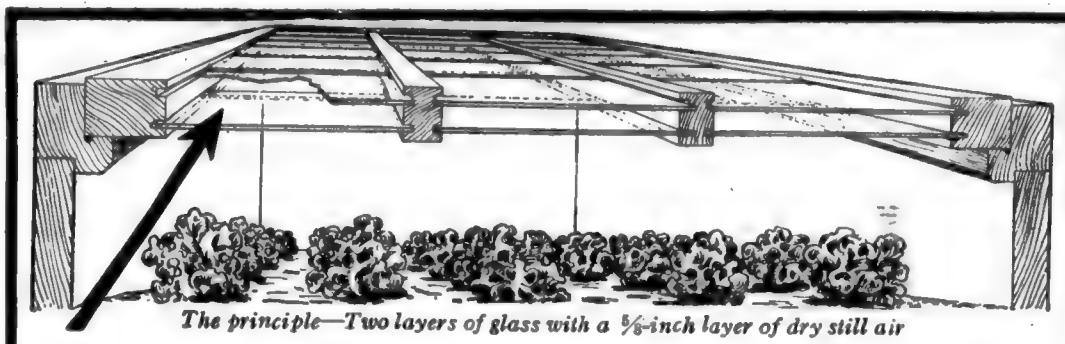
Various Notes.

H. Hans, of Woburn, Mass., representing M. Van Waveren & Sons, Leeuwenstein Bulb Farms, Hillegom, Holland, called on the trade last week.

Waldo Kerl, for several years with the Park Floral Co., has gone to Los Angeles, Cal., on account of his bad health.

Herman Schultz, a well known florist, died of heart trouble recently. The funeral was conducted by the Elks' lodge, of which he was a prominent member.

Among the visitors last week were Mrs. F. A. Haenselman, Boulder, Colo.; J. E. Johnson, of the Pikes Peak Floral Co., Colorado Springs, Colo.; K. Knudsen, Boulder, Colo., and Mr. Reid, of the Morgan Greenhouses, Fort Morgan, Colo. R. S.



READING, PA.

Club Meeting.

The Reading Florists' Association held a meeting Thursday evening, December 3, at its headquarters in the Moore building, at Fifth and Penn streets. Members reported an improvement in business and expressed the expectation of a big holiday trade. Thomas Nolan, of the King Construction Co., gave an interesting talk on greenhouse construction.

The following officers were nominated for the coming year: President, J. Stanley Giles; vice-president, Harry J. Huesman, and secretary-treasurer, Fulmer Lauck.

Reports showed that the association's first annual show, held recently in Rajah Temple, was a financial success, and bigger things are planned for next year. The entertainment committee promises a treat for the January meeting.

The principle—Two layers of glass with a ⅝-inch layer of dry still air

Get ready for your winter garden

Glass must be used whether you garden for profit or simply to enjoy having vegetables and flowers when they are a luxury and sell high.

And you must have Sunlight Double Glass Sash if you want to get the best results at the least cost of money and labor. They have become the standard throughout the best and largest gardens in the country for very good reasons:—

Three reasons why

1 The air space enclosed between the two layers of glass makes a transparent cover that affords better protection than the mats and shutters on the old single sash. And, it never has to be put on and off. It is always there though invisible.

2 This air space saves more than one half the labor.

3 It makes far earlier and stronger plants.

Our inexpensive greenhouse

A handy man can set it up in a few hours. It is framed of cypress and covered top and sides with Sunlight Double Glass Sash which can be removed at will for use elsewhere or for repairs.

The Market.

Last week's business in cut flowers, while good, was not much above the ordinary. The demand was steady, but somewhat limited, and the small supply easily took care of all needs. Considerable of the stock is showing the effects of the fortnight of cloudy weather we had up to the first of this week, with the exception of two hours on Friday.

The rose supply continues large enough to meet all present requirements and meets with an active demand. The American Beauty supply is good. Carnations are plentiful and good stock sells readily. Lily cuts are sufficient for present needs. Valley, orchids and violets are meeting with an active call for the Christmas and New Year's business. Other offerings include narcissi, both the Paper Whites and yellows, Roman hyacinths, callas, stevias, sweet peas, wallflowers, forget-me-nots and primroses. The supply of both decorative and Christmas greens is large.

Various Notes.

C. E. Critchell reports that if the present strong demand for supplies is any indication at all of what Christmas business will be, the business for that day is bound to be good.

E. G. Gillett has been getting in some of the fine single violets from George Hopp, Grand Rapids, Mich. They sell readily.

P. J. Olinger went to New Castle, Ind., Monday, December 14, to estimate the Christmas cut from his plant there.

Both C. J. Jones and Otto Walke, who have been ill for the last fortnight, are again at their desks.

Visitors include F. W. Romer, representing the Briarcliff Greenhouses, Scarboro, N. Y.; F. R. and P. M. Pierson, Scarboro, N. Y., and Mrs. J. R. Johnston, Middletown, O. C. H. H.

More Ridge Facts in Our Reconstructed Construction

ALL our continuous ridge ventilating sash are joined securely together by a heavy sheet of galvanized steel, held in place by galvanized round headed screws of extra length.

You can easily see from this illustration how far the purlin Lug Brace extends along the under faces of the Angle Purlin, uniting it securely to the rafter and stiffening it against the additional strain of the long spacing of 12 feet 4 inches between rafters.

The round rods of iron extending just below the ridge on both sides, are the ridge truss rods, which stiffen the long span of the ridge between rafters.

For several weeks we have been showing detail after detail of our Reconstructed Construction. Now wouldn't you like to see all the details together and have a full description of the entire construction?

We have just printed a special insert for our catalogue which covers the entire construction.

Send for it.

Iron or Steel Posts--Which?

FROM several of the letters that have recently come to us, it is evident that there still exists with some a rather hazy idea of the difference between steel side posts and iron. The disadvantage of one, and the advantages of the other. Some one has evidently told them that "the only difference is the difference in cost."

It has been stated that we use guaranteed wrought iron posts "because they were cheaper than steel."

This is not so.

Regular commercial iron, which is really steel, costs less than guaranteed wrought iron.

Steel used to be the most expensive, but the improved process of smelting has made building steel the cheapest.

We use guaranteed wrought iron for our posts because, after a 35 years' test, we find it will stand in the ground with only a slight surface rusting.

Ungalvanized steel under similar conditions rusts rapidly through and through. It "eats off at the ground line," just as do steel pipe columns.

You can see when looked at under a powerful microscope that both steel and wrought iron are of a stringy texture, somewhat like a shredded wheat biscuit. The shreds of the steel lie closely together with nothing between them to prevent the moisture penetrating and starting the eating in of the rust.

But wrought iron is different, due to its different process in making. Each one of the shreds is surrounded by a film of chemical cinder that keeps out the rust just like galvanizing protects anything. To say it another way; it's just like a wire rope, every strand of which has been painted before being made into rope.

All of which is not mere advertising talk, but simple facts well known by all iron and steel manufacturers.

We know that the guaranteed wrought iron we buy is exactly what we specify; because it is tested by our testing department. If not up to specifications, back it goes.

One thing is certain; about every certain thing about our construction—there is absolutely no guess work.

We do not use a thing because some one else does. We use it because we have proven it to be the best thing to use. Tomorrow, for example, after the results of a series of tests and experiments, we may prove to ourselves that some other thing, which we are not using, is better; and it will promptly be adopted.

This edgewise view of our side post shows you the double gusset plate which bolts the rafter and post together.

It may seem, sometimes, as if we changed our minds over night, when, as a matter of fact, we may have been making tests and slowly changing our minds for months and months.

Our salesmen know exactly why we use the things we use, the way we use them. If you but give them half a chance, they can prove up to you, step by step, why our materials and construction are beyond a question of doubt the very best in the market today. When you are ready for such a talk—say when and where and one of us will be there.

CARNATIONS.

500,000 CARNATION CUTTINGS.

We are devoting our entire plant to the growing of carnation cuttings. Our stock plants are grown cool and not allowed to flower, so all the strength goes to the cuttings. Experience had proved beyond question that these are far superior to cuttings taken from flowering plants. We have an abundance of stock and our propagators are instructed to use only perfect cuttings. These are now rooting nearly 100%.

We invite you to come and see our stock.

GOOD STOCK for you for another season means SUCCESS; POOR STOCK means FAILURE.

Our guarantee goes with every cutting and, if not satisfactory, may be returned and money back.
